Asian Mode

From the Section Chair

I have great news to report about our Section!

We now have five new officers in the Section Council. Our Chair-Elect is Dr. Lisa Sun-Hee Park of the University of Minnesota. Widely recognized for her contributions to the study of race, ethnicity, and immigration, Lisa is the author of Consuming Citizenship: Children of Asian Immigrant Entrepreneurs (Stanford University Press, 2005) and a coauthor (with David Pellow) of Silicon Valley of Dreams: Immigrant Labor, Environmental Injustice, and the High Tech Global Economy (NYU Press, 2002). One of her current projects is "The Politics of Immigrant Motherhood: Race, Prenatal Care, and the Welfare State," investigating the impact of federal welfare and immigration policies on Asian and Latina immigrant women's health care access. As the new Chair-Elect, Lisa will be organizing the Section's sessions in the 2011 ASA convention. Contact her (lspark@umn.edu) if you have an idea for the themes of a future session in the ASA.

The Section Council also welcomes four new members. Dr. Leland Saito of the University of Southern California has published a new book, The Politics of Exclusion: The Failure of Race-Neutral Policies in Urban America (Stanford University Press, 2009). Dr. C.N. Le of the U-Mass at Amherst is the author of, among numerous articles and book chapters in the area of Asian American studies, Asian American Assimilation: Ethnicity, Immigration, and Socioeconomic Attainment (LFB Scholarly Publishing, 2007). He is currently the director of U-Mass's Asian and Asian American Studies Certificate Program. Dr. Bandana Purkayastha of the University of Connecticut is the author of Negotiating Ethnicity: Second-generation South Asian Americans Traverse a Transnational World (Rutgers University Press, 2005), in addition to a few co-authored books and sole-authored research articles. She is a deputy editor of Gender and Society. Our student representative to the Section Council is Ms. Phi Hong Su, who has just completed her superb B.A. education in sociology from California Polytechnic University and will be starting her sociology graduate program at UCLA in September. I'm looking forward to working with all of them on the Council.

In the upcoming ASA in Atlanta, our Section will be, for the first time in her history, having three regular paper sessions, organized by C.N. Le (Emerging Connections between Asia and Asian America), Yong Cai (Race, Class, and Gender in Asia and Asian America), and Yanjie Bian (Social Relations and Social life in East Asia).

About Asian Mode

Asian Mode is the newsletter of the Section on Asia and Asian America of the American Sociological Association and is edited by Jiannbin Lee Shiao, Section Secretary/Treasurer, Department of Sociology, 1291 University of Oregon, Eugene, OR 97403-1291; JShiao@UOregon.edu; Phone: 541-346-5366; Fax: 541-346-5026. Contributions to the newsletter are very welcome. Previous issues can be found online at: <http://www2.asanet.org/sectionasia/news-archive.html>.

In addition, Mia Tuan has organized a Roundtable Session for 13 tables. What's more, separately Leland Saito has organized a regular session on "Ethnic Conflict." All these sessions, plus our Section's Reception, are scheduled for Monday, August 16. This means that our Section's activities will be from the early morning to the early evening of that day! Check out the ASA program and find out where you want to fit in! We will certainly enjoy this year's ASA in Atlanta!

In the Section Reception, we will honor and give awards to a score of impressive young sociologists. Receiving the Early Career Award is Dr. Anjana Narayan, Assistant Professor, California State Polytechnic University at Pomona. There are co-winners for the Best Research Paper Award, and these are Jiannbin Lee Shiao and Mia H. Tuan, University of Oregon, for the joint AJS article "Korean Adoptees and the Social Context of Ethnic Exploration" and Nadia Y. Kim, Loyola Marymount University, for her Social Forces article, "Critical Thoughts on Asian American Assimilation in the Whitening Literature." The winners for the Best Graduate Student Paper Award are Bin Xu, Ph.D. Candidate, Department of Sociology, Northwestern University, and Xiaoyu Pu, Ph.D. Candidate, Department of Political Science, The Ohio State University, for their co-authored China Quarterly article, "Dynamic Statism and Memory Politics: A Case Analysis of the Chinese War Reparations Movement." The Best Book Award this year goes to Grace M. Cho, Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work, College of Staten Island, City University of New York, for her book Haunting the Korean Diaspora: Shame, Secrecy, and the Forgotten War (University of Minnesota Press, 2008).

While we will be celebrating these achievements and honoring our award winners in Atlanta, I want to take this opportunity here to extend my sincere gratitude to the award committees for their hard work, dedication, and quality service to the Section.

I'm looking forward to seeing you in Atlanta!

Notes on Section Members

Margaret Abraham (Hofstra University) led the team effort that published a co-edited volume: Contours of Citizenship: Women, Diversity and Practices of Citizenship (Gender in a Global/Local World) Edited by Margaret Abraham, Hofstra University, USA, Esther Ngan-ling Chow, American University, USA Laura Maratou-Alipranti, National Centre for Social Research, Greece and Evangelia Tastsoglou, Saint Mary's University, Canada (Ashgate 2010). This book examines the complexity of citizenship in historical and contemporary contexts. It draws on empirical research from a range of countries, contexts and approaches in addressing women and citizenship in a global/local world and covers a selection of diverse issues.

Kyong Hee Chee was recently promoted to Associate Professor with tenure at Texas State University – San Marcos.

Rosalind Chou (Department of Sociology at Texas A&M University) was awarded the 2010-2011 Samuel DuBois Cook Postdoctoral Fellowship at the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender in the Social Sciences (REGSS) at Duke University's Social Science Research Institute (SSRI).

Pawan Dhingra (Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, Oberlin College) published "Hospitable to Others: Asian Indian Motel Owners Create Boundaries and Belonging in the Heartland," in Ethnic and Racial Studies, (2010) v. 33, 6: 1088-1107. He also is starting his service on the ASA Committee on the Status of Racial and Ethnic Minorities in Sociology.

Tom Gold (Professor of Sociology at UC Berkeley) taught at Yonsei University, Seoul, for the third time, as part of a Berkeley-Yonsei program. He visited North Korea last August. In April he gave a keynote address to the Annual Meeting of the European Association of Taiwan Studies held in Tuebingen, Germany. In 2009 he co-edited Laid-Off Workers in Worker's State: Unemployment With Chinese Characteristics (Palgrave MacMillan) with William Hurst, Jaeyoun Won and Li Qiang. He also received the Chancellor's Award for Civic Engagement for his work with East Bay non-profits involved in improving access to higher education for underprivileged Oakland public high school grads, and their transition to college.

Chien-Juh Gu (Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology at Western Michigan University) recently received the Emerging Scholar Award from the Women's Caucus at Western Michigan University. She also gave a keynote speech, "Family Relations and Psychological Well-being among Taiwanese Immigrant Women," at the annual conference of Illinois Council on Family Relations in March, 2010.

Miliann Kang (University of Massachusetts, Amherst) published The Managed Hand: Race, Gender and the Body in Beauty Service Work, with University of California Press, Spring 2010. It won the Sara Whaley book prize from the National Women's Studies Association.

Rebecca Chiyoko King-O'Riain (Senior Lecturer, Department of Sociology at National University of Ireland) published "Broadcasting - In the New Ireland: Mapping and Envisioning Cultural Diversity" a report about Chinese, Polish and Nigerian Mediascapes in Ireland with Gavan Titley and Aphra Kerr and "Post-Culture Wars Visions of Multiculturality" in Sociology of Culture: A Handbook, with Laura Grindstaff, Ming-Cheng Lo and John Hall (eds) (New York: Routledge).

C.N. Le (University of Massachusetts, Amherst) published a chapter titled "Multiracial Asian Americans: Social Class, Demographic, and Cultural Characteristics” in Multiracial Americans and Social Class (edited by Kathleen Korgen, Routledge) and two articles, “Racial Tensions and Living in a Colorblind Society” and “Globalization and Higher Education” in Everyday Sociology Reader (edited by Karen Sternheimer, W.W. Norton & Co.). He also gave an invited talk at Syracuse University on April 16 titled “Bridging Asian, American, and Asian American Identities in the 21st Century” as the commemorative speaker at their annual Asian Pacific American Heritage Month activities.

Jennifer Lee and Frank D. Bean have published, The Diversity Paradox: Immigration and the Color Line in 21st Century America (Russell Sage Foundation, 2010). The book examines how contemporary immigration from Asia and Latin America, rising intermarriage, and the growth in the multiracial population are changing the meaning of race and the placement of America’s color line.

Setsuko Matsuzawa (Assistant Professor of Sociology at The College of Wooster) was invited to speak for the Division of Continued Education and Professional Studies at University of Puerto Rico. Her presentation, given May 5-6, 2010 was titled, “China’s Environmental Challenges: Environmental Frameworks, Institutional Problems, and Civic Activism.”

Pyong Gap Min (Queens College and the Graduate Center at The City University of New York) was appointed as Distinguished Professor by the CUNY in February 2010. He also established the Research Center for Korean Community in Fall 2009 and has served as its director. He has also published a new book, Preserving Ethnicity through Religion in America: Korean Protestants and Indian Hindus across Generations (New York University Press, March 2010). This 10-year book project examines how Korean Protestant and Indian Hindu immigrants transmit ethnicity through religion in radically different ways. Using multiple data sources, it makes intergenerational and intergroup comparisons in religion and ethnicity through religion.

Rhacel Salazar Parrenas (Professor of American Civilization and Sociology at Brown University) will soon be a Professor of Sociology at the University of Southern California. She will also be a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences in 2010-2011. In addition, she has just published the co-edited anthology Intimate Labors: Cultures, Technologies and the Politics of Care (Stanford, 2010).

Michael K. Roemer (Ball State) published “Religious Affiliation in Contemporary Japan: Untangling the Enigma” in Review of Religious Research (2009, 50(3): 298-320) and “Atheism and Secularity in Modern Japan.” Pp. 23-44 in Atheism and Secularity v. 2, Phil Zuckerman, ed. Praeger (2010). He also has articles forthcoming in Social Forces (“Religion and Psychological Distress in Japan”) and Review of Religious Research (“Religion and Subjective Well-being in Japan: Do Religious Devotion and Affiliation Affect Life Satisfaction and Happiness?” 2010, 51(4)). Roemer is currently working with students to develop a Web site with basic information and resources on Japanese religions and a Second Life Shinto shrine and Buddhist temple (expected fall 2010). Both will be designed for undergraduates.

Anthony J. Spires (Associate Director, Centre for Civil Society Studies and Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology at The Chinese University of Hong Kong) was awarded the 2010 Marvin B. Sussman Dissertation Prize, Department of Sociology, Yale University, for his doctoral dissertation, “China’s Un-Official Civil Society: The Development of Grassroots NGOs in an Authoritarian State.”

Hung Cam Thai, Associate Professor of Sociology and Asian American Studies at Pomona College, received a grant to host a conference on “Migration and Masculinity in the Asian Context,” to be held in Singapore, July 15-16, 2010. During his sabbatical in 2009-2010, he gave a series of seven lectures in Vietnam, Singapore, and Japan on his current book project, which focuses on return migration and consumption in contemporary Vietnam.

Leslie K. Wang (Ph.D. candidate, UC Berkeley Dept. of Sociology) published “Importing Western Childhoods Into a Chinese State-Run Orphanage” in Qualitative Sociology (2010, 33, 2: 137-159). In addition, Wang will become a Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Sociology at the University of British Columbia this fall.
