Theme: SOCIOLOGY FOR WHOM?

Events ever more clearly politicize our professional, national, and international affairs. This tendency exacerbates the strained relationships between the idealistic ethics of sociology as a science and the practical mores of sociology as a profession. It makes difficult questions more obvious and more pressing. The most complex and perplexing of these questions is: Sociology for whom? It is therefore taken to be an appropriate theme for this year's convention. It echoes the question implicit in the struggle of two centuries ago: Government for whom?

Scientists as such presumably serve only their own curiosity, and they contend that in doing so they will best serve the interests of humanity. Society supports them in the hope that their findings will prove useful. On the other hand, professionals as such have obligations to students, to political and business establishments that operate educational and research organizations, to book publishers, and to those who provide subsidies for special projects of research and writing. We are all also creatures of our time, place, sex, social class, and ethnic group.

Scientists as such try to avoid being influenced by liaisons with special interests, but professionals as such openly organize to maximize their channels of support and acceptance, all of which are tinged with politico-economic influences.

Can sociologists—as so many claim—have it both ways? Can we be dependable sources of unbiased social data and theories at the same time that we are professionals organizing to raise our statuses and incomes within society as it exists?

The basic issue is not unique to sociologists. It pervades all intellectual and professional life, and it immediately raises a host of related questions such as: How freely can dissident and critical sociologists, as well as those working outside the mainstream of current sociology, gain access to the principal media of communications controlled by formal and visible as well as by informal and invisible networks of professional influence and persuasion? What biases are prevalent among the profession's gatekeepers to academic degrees, to employment, to promotion, to distribution of acclaim, grants, and prizes, to honorific lectureships, and to other kinds of professional preferment? What do these and other transmitters of influence do to sociologists as scientists and even more important to sociologists as human beings? To what extent and by what standards do they select the imaginative, the excellent, or the mediocre, the predictable? To what extent do they blunt or sharpen, muffle or free, distort or extend the development of sociology as a field of inquiry, the social utility of sociology as a human instrument, and the human values of the sociologist as a person?

In view of all this, how are sociologists keeping the science alive? How well are we maintaining our morale, integrity, and intellectual breadth? How are we crossing new frontiers? Women, blacks, and other minorities, fresh-minded graduate students—as long as they remain fresh—and critics and actionists inside and outside of the profession are leading us into new perceptions, orientations, and procedures. They are doing what dissenters from orthodoxy have so often done in many a discipline. They include many of those who are likely to add new understandings, to create novel and stimulating ideas, to enlarge and to make more accurate our conceptions of social realities.

Our dissenters from orthodoxy represent many "whoms." They are answering "Sociology for whom?" in ways pointing to broader human service through fundamental changes not only in our knowledge but also in our social structures as well. They remind us vividly that there is much we have not yet learned about human society. There is much we do not yet suspect that we do not know.

In 1976 then, let us try to grasp this a little more clearly: Sociology needs to broaden its concerns, to find new questions, to sweep aside haltering assumptions about legitimacy, elitism, and scientism, to stop ignoring historical considerations, and to examine and then to re-examine many times and quite critically our technologies, our fanciful rhetorics, and our intellectual paradigms. It is hoped that this year's program makes contributions to that painfully creative process.

GENERAL INFORMATION

All activities of the Annual Meeting will be held in the New York Hilton Hotel. Most sessions will take place on the second and third floors of the hotel, easily accessible from the lobby by escalators and from all floors by direct elevators. Most committee meetings, board meetings and ancillary group activities, as well as the child care center, will be located on the fifth floor of the hotel, which can only be reached by certain elevators.

Many of the meeting rooms are located on the second floor of the Hilton, where ASA registration is being held.

Beekman	Gramercy Suite	Nassau Suite
Bryant Suite	Madison Suite	Regent Room
Clinton Suite	Murray Hill Suite	Rhineland Gallery
Gibson Suite	Morgan Suite	Sutton Ballroom

The balance of the session rooms are located on the third floor:

East Ballroom	Le Petit Trianon	Trianon Ballroom
West Ballroom	West Promenade	Rotunda
Mercury Ballroom	Rendezvous

In addition, a series of small meeting rooms are located on the fifth floor, all designated by three-digit numbers in the program. The Green Room is on the fourth floor.

Location of Activities

The following services are located on the second floor (the wide corridor between the escalators is known as the Promenade):

ASA Executive Office—Madison Suite
 ASA Information—Promenade
 Book Exhibits—Rhineland Gallery
 Didactic Seminar Information—Promenade
 Discussion Session Information—Madison Suite
 Message Center—Promenade
 Paper Sales—Clinton Suite
 Placement (Employment) Center—Sutton Ballroom
 Press Room—Gibson Suite
 Registration—Promenade
 Roster of Pre-registrants—Promenade

ASA Executive Office—Madison Suite

The Headquarters will be staffed from 8:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Sunday through Friday, by Executive Office personnel. They are in attendance for the purpose of keeping the convention operating and solving problems as they arise. However, the demands on staff time and equipment must be limited to official ASA functions. Individuals or groups needing office equipment must rent these machines themselves. Commercial xeroxing facilities are available on the second floor of the hotel directly opposite the Morgan Suite.

ASA Information Desk—Promenade

This desk will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel who will have information relating to membership, subscriptions, the program, etc. In addition, some ASA publications will be available for purchase at this desk.

Book Exhibits—Rhineland Gallery

You are urged to visit the Book Exhibits in the Rhineland Gallery at the end of the Promenade on the second floor. The Exhibits will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on Friday.

Child Care—Room 507-510

Professional Child Care will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The charge will be $1.50 per child per hour. In the case of a third child in a family, the hourly charge will be only 25 cents for that child. In addition, each family will be charged $1.00 per day transportation for the sitters.

Daily Bulletin

Each morning, copies of the Daily Bulletin will be available at various locations throughout the hotel. Be sure to read your free copy for the latest information on program changes and additional news and activities.

Within the limits of space and at the discretion of the ASA Editor, last minute changes in activities of other groups can be announced in the Daily Bulletin. Copy must be in the Madison Suite before 2:30 p.m. each day for next-day publication. No announcement will be published more than once.

Persons registering on Sunday will receive their Monday Daily Bulletin at that time.

Message Desk—Promenade

A center for the distribution of written messages will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. each day. Only written messages will be accepted (no telephone calls) and they must be prepared on cards available at the center. Names of those for whom messages are left will be posted on a bulletin board.

Although this center is an attempt to aid communication, it is not very effective, simply because the majority of addressees do not check for messages. The most effective means of communicating with one's colleagues is through the mail desks of the hotels.

No Smoking

Council has adopted a resolution presented to the membership at the 1975 Business Meeting stating that during all sessions, smokers may sit only in that section of the room to the speaker's right.

Paper Sales—Clinton Suite

Papers will go on sale at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday at the price of $1.00 per copy. All session papers which were submitted to the Executive Office for duplication appear on the order form and may be purchased in the Paper Sales Room as long as the supply lasts. Orders cannot be accepted for future delivery. Following the Annual Meeting, requests should be sent directly to the authors. In order to facilitate this procedure, a list of authors' addresses may be purchased for $1.00. The Presidential Address will not be available, but will be published in the October issue of the American Sociological Review.

Placement (Employment) Center—Sutton Ballroom

This Center will be open Sunday, 12:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.; Monday through Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.; and Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Facilities will be available for reviewing listings, exchanging messages, and interviewing. If you have pre-registered for the Placement Center, report in to the Sutton Ballroom as soon as possible to activate your file. If you have not registered, you should do so as early as possible.

All persons using the Center must register for the Annual Meeting as well as for the use of the Center. Once registered, you will be issued a badge permitting your entrance to the Center any time it is open. Fees for the uses of the Placement Center are: ASA Member Applicants—$5.00; Non-ASA Member Applicants—$20.00; Employers—$25.00.

Press Room—Gibson Suite

Accredited representatives of the news media should contact Dr. Larry Rhoades in the Press Room to arrange interviews and press conferences.

Roster of Pre-Registrants

A Roster containing the convention addresses of pre-registrants is posted on a bulletin board on the Promenade near the ASA Information Desk.

PROGRAM NOTES

Plenary Sessions

President Alfred McClung Lee's address will be on Monday evening at 8:30. Pamela Roby will preside at this session and will introduce Sheila Allen, President of the British Sociological Association, Franco Ferrarotti, President of the Italian Social Science Association, and the Chairs of the Selection Committees for the presentation of the 1976 ASA Awards. Kenneth T. Skelton will introduce President Lee.

Three additional Plenary Sessions are scheduled as follows:

Tuesday, August 31, 8:30 p.m., Carleton W. Smith will preside with papers by Franco Ferrarotti and Belle Zeller.

Wednesday, September 1, 9:00 p.m., "Social Science and Public Policy: The Controversy Over School Busing". S.M. Miller will preside with papers by James S. Coleman, Reynolds Farley, Joyce Ladner, Ray C. Rist, and David Armor.

Thursday, September 2, 8:30 p.m., Ruth Hill Useem will preside with papers by Charles V. Willie and the Honorable Bella S. Abzug; the discussant will be Dorothy K. Newman.

Thematic Sessions

Twelve special sessions have been organized around the theme "Sociology for Whom?" For details on the topics and participants, refer to the following sessions:

Monday, session number 1; Tuesday, 48, 69, 81; Wednesday, 94, 107, 119; Thursday, 132, 145, 158; Friday, 179, 201.

Didactic Seminars

Attendance at the Didactic Seminars is by paid reservation only and attendance at each is limited to 35. Those already enrolled should have received their tickets with their badges, but should check at the Seminar desk in the Promenade for any materials the presenters might have provided for distribution. Those who did not reserve in advance but wish to attend should check at the Seminar Desk for possible openings.

No one will be admitted without a paid reservation.

Didactic Seminars are listed here by session number as well as within the body of this Program:

12. Monday, 10:30 a.m. Participant Observation and Related Field Methods, William Foote Whyte
25. Monday, 2:30 p.m. Introduction to Times Series Analysis, Richard A. Berk
70. Tuesday, 2:30 p.m. Transnational Collaborative Research, Gordon J. DiRenzo
108. Wednesday, 2:30 p.m. Conflict Resolution and Arranged Confrontations, Irving Goldaber
133. Thursday, 10:30 a.m. Problems with Using Sociology for Social Policy, Robert A. Scott and Arnold Shore
146. Thursday, 2:30 p.m. Life History as a Research Tool, Alice S. Rossi
180. Friday, 10:30 a.m. Sources of Socio-Economic Data, Cynthia Taeuber
190. Friday, 2:30 p.m. Applications of Micro-Economics for Sociologists, Duncan MacRae, Jr.

Session 12 will be repeated on Monday at 4:30 p.m. in Room 540 in order to try to fill the demand for tickets for this seminar.

Discussion Sessions

The Program Committee is introducing a new series for this year's program, designed to give small groups an opportunity to meet and discuss topics of mutual interest. Some of these will be panel discussions, some will be paper overviews, and some will be without formal structure. Each topic has been assigned to a numbered table seating ten persons. Where the number of participants listed under these topics is less than ten, seats will be available on a first-come, first-served basis. No reservation or registration is necessary.

A list of additional discussion session topics is posted on the bulletin board in the registration area. A few more tables are available for assignment to others wishing to hold such discussions and these requests will be honored at the Headquarters Office as long as time and space are available. These, too, will be added to the posted list.

The discussion sessions arranged prior to the meetings are listed under the following session numbers: Tuesday, session numbers 68, 92; Wednesday, 103, 130; Thursday, 142, 167; Friday, 178, 189, 211.

Roundtable Discussions

Due to the increased costs of Luncheon Roundtable Discussions and because members had already been invited to preside over these luncheon meetings, the decision was made to change the designation to Roundtable Discussions without food service. This listing differs from the above-mentioned Discussion Sessions in that these members had been invited to preside over a specific topic and no papers or panels have been pre-arranged. The presider will lead an open discussion on the topics listed. No reservations are required, and no fees will be charged; attendance at each table is limited to ten.

The Roundtable Discussions are listed in the program under session numbers 34, 80, 118, 156, and 200.

Professional Workshops

The eleven workshops included in this program have been designed to impart information to the membership which will be helpful to them in their professional lives rather than concentrating on substantive concerns of the discipline. Details may be found under these session numbers: Monday, session numbers 2, 36; Tuesday, 49, 57, 82; Wednesday, 95, 120; Thursday, 159; Friday, 169, 197, 202.

Section Meetings

Check the Program Summary and the body of the Program for Section Activities. The Section Council and Business Meetings and the Section-sponsored Program Sessions are scheduled as follows:

World Conflict	Friday	8:30 a.m.	9:30 a.m.	213

Two new Sections (Sociological Practice and Population) have been approved by Council, and one other group (Political Economy of the World System) is trying to organize. Persons interested in the establishment of these groups should note the organizational meetings listed below:

Political Economy of the World System, Friday, 10:30 a.m.

Population, Friday, 8:30 a.m.

Sociological Practice, Friday, 2:30 p.m.

Business Meetings

Two ASA Business Meetings, open to all members, are scheduled for Wednesday morning from 10:30 to 12:30 and Thursday morning from 8:30 to 10:30. Members wishing to present resolutions should submit them to a member of the Executive Office staff in the Madison Suite no later than 3:00 p.m. on Tuesday for presentation at the Wednesday morning meeting. These resolutions will be turned over to the ASA Secretary and will be given priority on the agenda. Resolutions not submitted beforehand will be placed at the end of the agenda, time permitting.

The major part of the second Business Meeting, on Thursday morning, will be devoted to an open forum giving ASA Council an opportunity to report on its current activities and future plans, and giving the members an opportunity to raise issues with Council.

Committee Meetings

Council has instructed specific Standing Committees to hold open sessions during the Annual Meeting at which time these Committees will report current deliberations and future objectives.

Several Committees are taking this opportunity to address themselves to specific problems within their prerogatives, as follows:

The Committee on the Status of Women in Sociology has invited a panel consisting of Martin Gerry, Director OCR, HEW; Lora Liss, Affirmative Action Officer, Lehigh University; Raymond W. Mack, Provost, Northwestern University; and Sylvia Roberts, Civil Rights Lawyer, to comment on the problems and opportunities for affirmative action on the university/college level from their varied experience and expertise. An open discussion will follow these remarks. (Tuesday, 8:30-10:30 a.m., Bryant Suite)

The Committee on Government Statistics will devote part of its open session to "On Representing the Interests and Responsibilities of Social Scientists in Federal Statistical Programs"—A discussion of the Report of the Interdisciplinary Joint Ad Hoc Committee on Government Statistics. This committee's concerns were: Improvement in the quality and scope of Federal Statistics; greater involvement of social scientists in the development of such statistics; facilitating access by researchers to published and unpublished statistics; and more adequate analyses of the data. Panelists will include Robert Parke, Albert D. Biderman, Conrad F. Taeuber, and John F. Kantner. (Tuesday, 2:30-4:30 p.m., Bryant Suite)

The Committee on World Sociology invites all ASA members and foreign visitors interested in learning about present foreign area liaison groups and/or forming new ones; e.g., Caribbean area. (Wednesday, 4:30 p.m., Room 517)

The Committee on Expanding Employment Opportunities for Sociologists will devote their open meeting to a discussion of "Employment of Sociologists: Problems and Prospects."

The Committee on Regional Affairs invites all interested parties as well as the officially designated representatives of Regional Societies to attend this meeting for a discussion on how to enhance cooperative efforts for the mutual benefit of all groups. (Tuesday, 8:30-10:30 a.m., Room 517)

Other open meetings are scheduled as follows:

- Committee on Freedom of Research and Teaching—Monday, 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Bryant Suite
- Committee on Information Technology and Privacy—Tuesday, 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Bryant Suite
- Committee on Minority Fellowship Program—Tuesday, 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Room 517
- Committee on Professional Ethics—Friday, 2:30-4:30 p.m., Bryant Suite
- Committee on the Status of Racial and Ethnic Minorities—Wednesday, 8:30-10:30 a.m., Bryant Suite
- Committee on Training and Professional Standards—Friday, 2:30-4:30 p.m., Room 529

Social Events

The only ASA-sponsored social activity of this Annual Meeting is the DAN party (the fourth annual Departmental Alumni Night). Everyone is invited to participate and visit with friends and renew old acquaintances.

Activities of Other Groups

Meetings, times, and locations of unofficial ASA activities are listed elsewhere in this Program. Except in a few cases, these meetings are open to the membership. Several groups holding programs throughout the ASA meeting will have details available at their designated headquarters room. All groups have been urged to have announcements available in the registration area in the Promenade for members' information.

Spencer & Inkeles

FOUNDATIONS OF MODERN SOCIOLOGY

Metta Spencer, University of Toronto
(under the editorship of Alex Inkeles)

We're very readable. Metta Spencer, University of Toronto, under the editorship of Alex Inkeles, draws upon the resources of the Prentice-Hall Foundations of Modern Sociology Series to produce this consistent and easy-to-read volume. FOUNDATIONS OF MODERN SOCIOLOGY has been written and rewritten in response to what students want — and what instructors know they need — in an introductory sociology text.

We're dynamic in content. Besides preparing students with all the sociological basics — the theories, empirical research, the different approaches in use in sociological studies — Spencer examines the controversy and intellectual development behind important ideas, and starts students participating in sociology, and not just memorizing a body of details and static concepts.

We're very organized. Our format insures that students get the point and remember it. Each chapter is divided into three sections: a basic core section, and a section on social research and social policy that show students how concepts work in everyday life. Plus, over 100 photographs tie in and illustrate the text material, and a well-coordinated selection of graphs, tables and charts show students how to use tabular data in empirical work. Spencer also highlights key terms in bold type and color, making student review easier and more complete. The text also includes chapter-end glossaries, a combined glossary at the end of the text, and concise chapter summaries.

Write to Robert Jordan, Dept. J-493, Prentice-Hall, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey 07632.

TEAMWORK

Working Together in the Human Services

Naomi I. Brill, Graduate School of Social Work, University of Nebraska

Suitable for any course where teamwork is studied or analyzed, this is the first book to apply the theoretical findings of individual and group dynamics to the analysis and use of the team model of practices in the human services. Emphasizing practical considerations, the author attempts to answer several basic questions: What is a team? What kinds of persons are best fitted to be members of a team? What is the appropriate relationship between them? How does a team learn to work effectively? Why do teams fail? Brief case studies are included, and useful appendices list practical questions by which to gauge suitability of individuals for team membership and to measure team effectiveness.

SOCIAL INEQUALITY

Class and Caste in America
Lucile Duberman, Rutgers University, Newark

Instructors seeking a brief work on social stratification in the United States will welcome this new book. Beginning with a brief review of three classical theorists—Marx, Weber and Pareto, the author takes a fresh approach to discussions of the various aspects of social inequality, avoiding unnecessary jargon. Social mobility and differences in life style are treated in some depth, and a major chapter discusses various minority groups in terms of caste status. Social class and social institutions such as the criminal justice system, the health delivery system and education are viewed in terms of differential treatment and opportunities.

JUSTICE BY CONSENT

Plea Bargains in the American Courthouse
Arthur Rosett, University of California at Los Angeles, and Donald Cressey,
University of California, Santa Barbara. Foreword by Henry S. Ruth

Employing a fictional felony case to illustrate court procedures and the roles of participants, the authors present a factual explanation of plea bargaining within the context of the exercise of discretion in the administration of criminal justice. The roles of the judge, attorneys and defendant, and the often time-consuming procedures within the courtroom are analyzed and explained in a style geared to readers with no legal training or experience. A final chapter examines proposals for procedural reform.

CRIME AND JUSTICE ADMINISTRATION

Alvin W. Cohn, Administration of Justice Services

Designed for students who require a brief, non-technical overview of crime causation and the criminal justice system, this new introductory text offers a clear, concise presentation of the concepts, practices, problems, and programs associated with criminology and criminal justice administration in contemporary America. Free of sociological or legal jargon, the book consistently focuses on meaning or significance of theories, practices and issues, and includes brief reviews of their historical development. Instructor's Manual.

SOCIOLOGY

An Introduction

Ronald Smith and Frederick Preston, University of Nevada

Smith and Preston's Sociology: An Introduction is a sound, comprehensive, highly readable textbook for students in the introductory course. The authors' unusually clear exposition of sociological concepts is illustrated and amplified by numerous brief selections from literature, ranging from Dickens and Balzac to Salinger and Vonnegut. These materials, carefully chosen for both appropriateness and readability and skillfully integrated into the discussions, enhance the sociological content; they reflect the authors' view of sociology as, at its best, a humanistic discipline that is both a science and an art.

Some other features:

- A chapter on sports and leisure
- A chapter on alienation
- Chapter outlines and questions designed to whet the reader's interest before each chapter; chapter summaries; bibliographies of both sociological and literary materials
- Lists of important terms to remember at the ends of chapters, with page references to the pertinent discussions in the text
- An inviting single-column format, with functional rather than merely ornamental use of color; marginal subheadings to facilitate student reference and review; and an unusually rich, varied, and meaningful illustration program
- An Instructor's Manual including behavioral objectives for each chapter and an extensive bank of test items.

Crisis in American Institutions

Third Edition.
Jerome Skolnick
Elliott Currie

Both at University of California, Berkeley

The new Third Edition of this widely-used reader reflects our changing awareness of the nature of American social problems. CRISIS IN AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS stresses the institutional basis of social problems, arguing for change in the structure of society, not the individuals in it. Systemic problems, like inequality and racism, are distinguished from those plaguing specific institutions (schools, the police, the welfare system). 50% of the readings in the Third Edition are new. There are a number of significant new chapters on imperialism, corporate power, environmental destruction, work, and social services. Skolnick and Currie have revised and expanded the introductory essays that accompany each chapter, and they have strengthened their treatment of topics like sexism and inequality.

Criminal Justice

Enforcement and Administration
Alan S. Kalmanoff, Lawyer
University of California, Berkeley
(School of Criminology)

This comprehensive text discusses every aspect of the administration of justice — from police through prosecution, trial and defense, sentencing and corrections. The organization of the book parallels that of the criminal justice system: chapters cover the various stages of the system in the same order that a criminal would encounter them. Professor Kalmanoff focuses on the inter-related activities of each segment of the criminal justice system, stressing the dependence of each on the roles and values of the others. He also examines the responsiveness of the system to the norms and values of American society. The text is extraordinarily up-to-date, utilizing the latest FBI statistics (UCR), research findings, and LEAA reports. New approaches to problems of police administration, diversion and pretrial alternatives, bail reform and community corrections are given extensive coverage. Plea-bargaining — a process accounting for 90% of the criminal justice system's cases — is discussed in considerable detail, and current court decisions that will have an impact on the administration of justice for years to come are integrated into the text.

Scenes from Life

Views of Family, Marriage, and Intimacy
Judy Blankenship

Genesee Community College

Selections from the popular press, fiction, non-fiction, poetry, and sociological writings are skillfully combined in this new text reader on Marriage and the Family. It is organized around nine sections which roughly parallel the life cycle: The Single Life, Sexual Variations, Marriage, Population/Birth Control, The Family, Childhood/Parenthood, Challenging Sex Roles, Alone, and Aging/Death. Each unit includes from five to nine readings, plus substantial editorial material that helps students understand the significance of each element in the life cycle. The selections were chosen to complement one another in terms of level and focus. Many have never before appeared in a Marriage and Family collection, and six are original with this volume. Attractive photographic spreads illustrate the themes of the nine chapters.

Face to Face

The Individual and Social Problems
John and Erna Perry

Both at Cuyahoga Community College

This new text poses an entirely new perspective from which to study social problems. The authors' central premises are: (1) social problems are rooted in the fundamental structure of American society; and (2) social problems cannot and should not always be dealt with objectively in that analyses are often morally and politically value-laden and ought to be recognized as such. The Perrys argue that it is no longer satisfactory to be scientific diagnosing social problems like sexism, racism and discrimination, crime, drug abuse, and mental illness. The authors are part of the new wave of sociologists who believe that society's institutions and social system — not solely individuals — are responsible for creating social problems.

ETHNIC FAMILIES IN AMERICA

Edited by Charles H. Mindel and Robert W. Habenstein, both at the University of Missouri-Columbia. This textbook examines a wide variety of ethnic groups: Polish, Amish, Japanese, Italian, Jewish, American Indian, Irish-Catholic, Chinese, Mexican, Mormon, Middle Eastern, Greek, Black, Puerto Rican, and Franco-American. Each of the 15 essays focuses on the structure and functioning of family life to determine how and why minority groups have been able or unable to maintain ethnic identification and speculates as to what lies ahead. (Intended for courses on minority and ethnic groups, cross-cultural studies, and the family.) 456 pp., $7.95 paper.

INTERETHNIC RELATIONS

An Essay in Sociological Theory

By E. K. Francis, University of Munich. A monumental book. It shows overwhelmingly, by virtue of scope, that ethnicity is a basic constituting factor in social organization, in the past as well as in the present—in Africa and Europe, as well as the New World. Francis does what nobody yet has tried: he synthesizes four major areas of related investigation—anthropology, historical work on civilizations, political evidence of nationalism, and sociological findings of ethnic groups. Indispensable to students and scholars. 455 pp., $22.50.

EDUCATION, CLASS AND NATION

By Kalman H. Silvert, New York University and Leonard Reissman, formerly at Cornell University. Using data acquired in Chile and Venezuela, the authors show how attitudes on family, religion, education, economics and politics vary with the respondent's level of education. They relate education to political integration, national development and individual autonomy. Here is careful, rigorous social science, difficult to achieve; it should generate a valuable effect on survey research. 276 pp., $13.50.

DOCTORING TOGETHER

A Study of Professional Social Control

By Eliot Freidson, New York University. How do physicians make sense of their problems and how to handle them? This is the doctors' own story, a study of professional social control. Howard S. Becker commented, "Freidson has the data, and he is probably the leading theorist on patterns of professional social control. This book will be cited and used for years to come." 312 pp., $13.50.

SOCIAL CONTROL OF THE WELFARE STATE

POWER, POLITICS AND PROGRESS

Social Change in Rural Peru

By William Foote Whyte, Cornell University and Giorgio Alberti, University of Bologna. Based on extensive surveys, the authors draw general conclusions on peasant movements and revolutionary theory; conflict, cooperation and power in peasant communities; planned change and political processes; the integration of research methods; and science and styles of social research. The book combines research material with human interest.

SEXUAL RACISM

The Emotional Barrier to an Integrated Society

By Charles Herbert Stember, Rutgers University. A totally new theory about an old subject: the sexual factor in racial hostility. The author (Jews in the Mind of America) starts with the proposition that the emotional response of whites to the prospect of integration must have as its origin some keenly-felt deprivation. He concludes that some sense of sexual loss must lie at the root of that emotion. A major social problem in the society has now been subjected to a new insight.

COMPARATIVE DEVIANCE

Perception and Law in Six Cultures

By Graeme R. Newman, SUNY-Albany. The first systematic attempt to survey public perceptions of deviant behavior cross-culturally—in India, Indonesia, Iran, Italy, the U. S., and Yugoslavia. Within countries, it is the strength of religious belief and urban/rural background that accounts for major differences in perception of deviance (abortion, homosexuality, drug use, etc.). The author challenges many assumptions of conflict theory, cultural relativism and ethical relativism.

SLAVERY AND THE PENAL SYSTEM

By Thorsten Sellin, Professor Emeritus, University of Pennsylvania. The well-known author presents a frightful story that reveals the darkest and most brutal aspects of penal history and the forces that nullified efforts by reformers to bring about humanization of punishment. The scope of the book includes slavery in ancient Greece and Rome, galley slavery, penal slavery on public works, the rise of houses of correction, the naval arsenal prisons, penal slavery in Russia, and slavery and punishment in the antebellum South.

The Quality of American Life

Perceptions, Evaluations, and Satisfaction

By Angus Campbell, Philip E. Converse, and Willard L. Rodgers. This book, based on research conducted by the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan, is concerned with how Americans define the quality of their life experiences, as expressed in their perceptions, valuations, and satisfactions. It is based on the conviction that the relationship between objective conditions and psychological states is imperfect.

Using data which are representative of the national population 18 years of age and older, the authors employ the major social characteristics of class, age, education, and income in their effort to explain variance in satisfactions. They cover such topics as the residential environment, the experience of work, marriage and family life, and personal resources and competence. They also investigate the situation of women and the quality of the life experience of blacks.

Black Elected Officials

A Study of Black Americans Holding Governmental Office

By James E. Conyers and Walter L. Wallace. For the first time since the end of the last century, a significant number of Black Americans (over 3,500) now hold elective governmental office. This book presents the first nationwide profile of these elected governmental officials.

Black Elected Officials is based upon a questionnaire survey of Black elected officials together with a comparison survey of White men and women elected to similar types of offices in the same geographical region. The inclusion of extensive quotations from interviews with 34 Black elected officials adds realism, depth, and insight to the quantitative analysis. The authors interrelate fresh and meaningful information on the political ideologies and motivations of Black officials, their perceived political impacts, and expectations for the future.

Readings in Evaluation Research

Second Edition

Edited by Francis G. Caro. Interest in the role and methods of evaluation research has greatly increased since the first edition of this highly useful book was published in 1971. Searching questions have been raised regarding the adequacy of organized programs in such institutional sectors as health, justice, education, employment, and welfare. In this revised and expanded collection of readings, which includes more case materials and more illustrations of completed evaluations, Francis G. Caro presents a comprehensive overview of the field that unifies widely scattered material on evaluation research.

Controversies and Decisions

The Social Sciences and Public Policy

Edited by Charles Frankel. Controversies and Decisions explores the various aspects of recent debates over the independence of the social sciences. The contributors to Controversies and Decisions are Kenneth E. Boulding, Harvey Brooks, Jonathan R. Cole and Stephen Cole, Lee J. Cronbach, Paul Doty, Yaron Ezrahi, Charles Frankel, H. Field Haviland, Hugh Hawkins, Harry G. Johnson, Robert Nisbet, Nicholas Rescher, Edward Shils, and Adam Yarmolinsky. Their essays deal with such topics as: the relation of "values" to "facts" in social science inquiry; the interplay of theoretical and practical considerations; the moral obligations of social science investigators in political contexts; and the ways and means of protecting and advancing the autonomy of the social sciences.

Reforming Public Welfare

A Critique of the Negative Income Tax Experiment

By Peter M. Rossi and Katharine C. Lyall. What happens when a specific social policy, whose success or failure could have important effects on America's political and economic life, is tried out on an experimental basis prior to being enacted into law? The New Jersey-Pennsylvania Income Maintenance Experiment was just such an experiment. It provided a trial of a variety of negative income tax plans carried out over a three-year period in four communities, and was designed to observe whether income maintenance would lead to reduced work effort on the part of those who received subsidies.

By evaluating reports on the experiment issued by Mathematica, Inc. and the Institute for Research on Poverty at the University of Wisconsin, this book shows that the experiment itself is a considerable social science achievement and that social scientists can learn much from a careful analysis of the results.

Public Decision Making in the Computer Era

By Martin Greenberger, Matthew A. Crenson, and Brian L. It contrasts the variety of methodological approaches used, identifies key problem areas in the policy application of models, discusses current deficiencies, and makes concrete recommendations for the future. The history and status of nine modeling methodologies of current or potential usefulness in government decision making are included. Fall 1976. 376 pages. $15.00

Sociology for every student's interest.

The American Class System: An Introduction to Social Stratification

Daniel W. Rossides, Bowdoin College

1976 / 512 pages / $11.95

The first text to combine a comprehensive introduction to the field of social stratification with a thorough analysis of stratification in a modern industrialized nation, using the American class system as a case study.

Population: The Dynamics of Demographic Change

Charles B. Nam, Florida State University

Susan O. Gustavus, University of Cincinnati

1976 / 320 pages / $10.95

A thorough but concise introduction to populations that explores the determinants and consequences of demographic change, treating population trends as an integral part of broader societal trends.

American Education: A Sociological View

Edited by David W. Swift, University of Hawaii

1976 / 560 pages / $11.95

Contributed chapters, written especially for this text, examine American education — elementary to adult and vocational — from a sociological perspective. In-depth discussions focus on minority students, as well as women and activists.

Family Structure and Effective Health Behavior:

The Energized Family

Lois Pratt, Jersey City State College

1976 / 272 pages / paper / $6.95

This unique text analyzes systematically the relationship between the family and health behavior, exploring the type of structure the family needs to acquire proper health care in contemporary society.

Sociology: Understanding Social Behavior

Alan P. Bates and Joseph Julian, both of

University of Nebraska — Lincoln

1975 / 600 pages / $12.95 / Instructor's Guide and Resource Manual

With this introductory text, students explore the sociological perspective as it relates to their everyday experiences. Each chapter contains sections on social change, practical uses of sociological knowledge, and activities for "doing" sociology.

CONTEMPORARY TOPICS IN URBAN SOCIOLOGY

edited by Kent P. Schwirian (The Ohio State University)

Nine chapters—each an original statement by a specialist in a particular field—are grouped under the headings "The Emerging Metropolis," "Organization of the City," and "Problems, Politics, and Planning." An introductory chapter by the editor gives an overview of urban sociology. Allowing flexibility in the sequencing of topics, this book is suitable for use as a basal text or for supplementary reading in a variety of courses—especially urban sociology, the city and urbanization, and urban planning and development.
1976. 650 pages. Cloth, $12.95.

DEVIANTS: VOLUNTARY ACTORS IN A HOSTILE WORLD

edited by Edward Sagarin (City College of New York)
and Fred Montanino (City College of New York)

Here are authoritative views of ten major areas of deviant behavior—crime and delinquency, violence, organized crime, white collar and upperworld crime, drugs, alcoholism, prostitution, sexual deviance, pornography, and suicide. Each article was written especially for this book, and each contributor is a recognized scholar in his or her particular area. The book can be used as the basis for a course or as a supplement to a theoretical text.
1977. 600 pages. Paper, $9.95 (tentative).

THE STUDENT SOCIOLOGIST'S
HANDBOOK, Second Edition

by Pauline Bart (University of Illinois)
and Linda Frankel (Harvard University)

The new edition of this widely used "survival kit for sociology students" is both a guide to source material and a survey of sociology as a working discipline. The authors explain the sociological method and the technique for writing an effective research or field work paper. Many examples deal with contemporary concerns—including sex roles and the socialization of women in the United States.
1976. 256 pages. Paper, $4.50.

CLASSICAL THEORIES OF SOCIAL CHANGE

Emphasizing technological, economic, and cultural changes, this text offers a selective survey of theories from the middle of the eighteenth century to the end of World War II. Schneider limits his selection to those theories reflecting concern with large-scale social systems, schemes, and changes. His theme is the evolution of societies, and emphasis is placed on the aspect of human choice in social change.

SOCIOLOGY

TEXTS FROM HOLT,

LODY

RINEHART AND WINSTON

Humanity and Modern Social Thought, Second Edition

R. P. Cuzzort University of Colorado

E. W. King University of Denver

Durkheim, Weber, Sorokin, Marx — and others like them — have shaped and moved modern society and sociology. So, by studying the provocative, sometimes revolutionary thoughts of these and eleven other social scientists, your students can gain a very special understanding of the relevance and variety of contemporary social thought — ranging from the origin of modern capitalism to the loneliness of modern man. Not a reader, but rather a collection of individual essays written especially for instruction of introductory students.

ISBN: 0-03-089443-6

Introduction to Statistical Measures

Perry E. Jacobson, Jr. California State University

Needing no extensive mathematics prerequisites, this comprehensive introduction to statistical measures is geared to the needs of the social and behavioral research process. The interrelationship of theory, method, and statistics is emphasized while also including more data on the theoretical aspect than in other texts. Contains many textual aids — chapter summaries, questions, exercises, a review of basic math and definition of terms. Instructor's Manual is included.

ISBN: 0-03-012966-4

The Dilemma of Prison Reform

Thomas Murton University of Minnesota

Drawing on a wealth of personal experience, Murton pierces the disguises of pseudoreform methods, exposing their fraudulent nature and explaining how these methods may hurt the cause of real reform. Covering the evolution of the penal system during the past 150 years, this text also features recommendations for constructive, realistic prison reforms, and typologies of roles for officers.

ISBN: 0-03-010426-2

The Ambivalent Force, Second Edition

Arthur Niederhoffer John Jay College of Criminal Justice

Abraham Blumberg University of Missouri, Kansas City

Extensive revisions bring this most referred-to volume of law enforcement readings and original essays right up to date. Its broad-ranging selections include such current issues as the role of the FBI in American law enforcement. Twenty-seven new contributions, many written expressly for this second edition, span a vast spectrum of expertise and opinion. Original contributions include articles from Clarence M. Kelly, A.C. Germann, Ruth Weintraub and Harriet Pollack.

ISBN: 0-03-013076-X

Family Systems in America, Second Edition

Ira L. Reiss University of Minnesota

Thoroughly revised and updated to keep pace with the dramatic changes in family life, this essential text places new emphasis on changing male/female societal roles. Additional sections cover dyadic commitment in marriage; marital conflict and communication; and premarital, marital and extramarital sexuality. Numerous student aids within chapters. Instructor's Manual.

ISBN: 0-03-089833-1

Crime and Criminology

Sue Titus Reid University of Washington School of Law

This text provides more extensive coverage of the criminal justice and corrections system in the U.S. than most other books. Using historical material, the most up-to-date sociological research and legal scholarship, Reid thoroughly investigates: definitions of crime and the causes of criminal behavior, the system of criminal justice, and the field of penology and corrections. Other features include a special section on "Constitutional Rights of Prisoners," and an abundance of charts, pictures, and line drawings.

The Modern World-System

CAPITALIST AGRICULTURE AND THE
ORIGINS OF THE EUROPEAN WORLD-ECONOMY
IN THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY

by IMMANUEL WALLERSTEIN

The Modern World-System has achieved high critical acclaim for its fundamental reinterpretation of the development of the modern world. With the new paperback text edition, this major work is now available in a form eminently suited for use as a classroom text. The new edition eliminates the scholarly apparatus while preserving the text intact, and adds a cogent preface summarizing the book's central thesis.

Michael Hechter in Contemporary Sociology:

"The Modern World-System is a visionary work. Vision is its strongest suit, for Wallerstein refuses to look at the problem of development from the same old perspective. As a result, this may be one of the most important theoretical statements about development since the time of Max Weber. . . .

". . . a stunning attempt to synthesize world history at the point of the development of capitalism. . . . It represents a return to the central problems of sociology. . . . Wallerstein challenges many of our received notions about history and development."

Sociology as an Art Form

ROBERT NISBET, Columbia University

Robert Nisbet, with his customary insight and sensitivity, demonstrates that sociology is an art form in addition to being a science. He shows the close relationship between sociology and the literature, painting, romantic history, and philosophy of the 19th century, the age in which sociology achieved its full stature. Nisbet's emphasis is on the degree to which sociology and the arts utilize the same creative impulses, and he presents a brilliantly reasoned assessment of sociology's importance to modern culture. Students as well as experts will find Sociology as an Art Form to be an invaluable addition to the literature in the field.

The End of Imprisonment

ROBERT SOMMER, University of California, Davis. Imprisoning criminals is a humane innovation that failed, argues Sommer. He demonstrates both how that failure is inherent in the system itself and why a radical re-structuring is both necessary and possible today.

1976 192 pp. $8.95

The Drama of Social Reality

STANFORD M. LYMAN, The New School for Social Research; and MARVIN B. SCOTT, Hunter College. The authors of A Sociology of the Absurd propose that all human behavior is a form of theater, and support this argument with analyses of both sociological insights of Shakespeare and the theatrical dimension of modern theories of human interaction.

Introductory Sociology

Order and Change in Society

Second Edition

Gerald R. Leslie, University of Florida; Richard F. Larson, California State University, Hayward; and Benjamin L. Gorman, University of Florida. The Second Edition of this well-known text presents sound sociological principles in a way that students will find both comprehensible and relevant. The chapters on deviance, population, cities, social stratification and minorities are rich in detail and have been brought up to date. There are also full chapters on the basic institutions of family, religion, education, government and the economy.

The Study of Social Problems: Five Perspectives

Second Edition

Edited by Earl Rubington, Northwestern University; and Martin S. Weinberg, Indiana University. In its Second Edition, this introductory text offers a structured survey, examples, and criticism of distinct theories about social problems. Five major perspectives—social pathology, social disorganization, value conflict, deviant behavior, and labeling—are identified and explored. Introductions have been rewritten and readings replaced for this edition.

Social Justice

David Miller. □ Today, few notions are as fiercely contested as social justice—the concept we use to evaluate the distribution of benefits throughout a society. In an investigation that combines analytical, historical and sociological perspectives, David Miller distinguishes and examines three fundamental ideas of justice.

Keywords

A Vocabulary of Culture and Society

Raymond Williams. □ The author investigates words whose different shades of meaning reverberate throughout our culture and society. Drawing upon sociology, social criticism, cultural history, historical semantics, the history of ideas, and literary history, Williams "defines" and refines the meanings of such words as aesthetic, alienation, reactionary, romantic, and culture.

"The best text available on social problems"

is the new Fourth Edition of Contemporary Social Problems

Edited by ROBERT K. MERTON
and ROBERT NISBET, Columbia University

This thorough revision of a classic, best-selling textbook includes four entirely new chapters: Lipset's "Equality and Inequality," Riley and Waring's "Age and Aging," Epstein's "Sex Roles," and Nisbet's "The Future and Social Problems." And all the chapters in the text—shorter, livelier, and less technical than in previous editions—contain new pedagogical aids: chapter outlines, chapter summaries, and brief bibliographies. This Fourth Edition retains the book's renowned scholarship and authority; all essays are the original works of eminent subject specialists.

THE GROWTH OF CRIME

The International Experience

Sir Leon Radzinowicz. The world's foremost criminologist provides the first attempt to take an international, comparative look at every aspect of crime and law enforcement—from police and sentencing through prison, punishment, and rehabilitation—in order to see what has been tried and what works and what does not. His conclusions are certain to command widespread attention. December/$11.95

PUNISHING CRIMINALS

Ernest van den Haag "Punishing Criminals goes far toward returning reason to the realms of social science. All the popular sophistries—that capital punishment is 'legal murder,' that punishment is masked vengeance, that the poor criminal is a 'political prisoner'—take a fearful pummeling. (This book) abounds with arguments and proposals that represent a compelling departure from the orthodoxy which has so muddled the treatment of crime in America . . . Van den Haag and James Q. Wilson (Thinking About Crime) are having a powerful influence over policymakers nowadays. A careful reading of these writers might well be essential."—Harpers. "An excellent antidote."—Robert Bork, U.S. Solicitor General Published/$11.50

THINKING ABOUT CRIME

James Q. Wilson. "The most important book on crime published this year."—Washington Post. "A succinct review of what our major crime problems are and what the potential solutions may be to deterrence, prevention, law enforcement and sentencing."—The New York Times. Published/$10.00

CRIME AND JUSTICE

Second Revised Edition

Sir Leon Radzinowicz and Marvin W. Wolfgang, editors. Acknowledged as "the bible of criminology" (N.Y. Times), this complete revision—more than two-thirds of the material is new—reflects the re-evaluation of prevailing correction policy as well as the empirical evidence on which it is based. Volume I: The Criminal in Society. Volume II: The Criminal in the Arms of the Law. Volume III: The Criminal Under Restraint. Due February in cloth and paper. Prices to be announced.

AMERICAN FAMILIES
IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

Mary Jo Bane. The alleged decline of the family is refuted in this major new book by a principal co-author of Inequality: A Reassessment of the Effect of Family and Schooling in America. Not only is the family not declining, says Mary Jo Bane, but all indicators studied point to the conclusion that there may be more personal commitment to family today than ever before in America's history. November/$10.95

WORLDS OF PAIN: LIFE IN THE WORKING-CLASS FAMILY

Lillian Breslow Rubin. Based on hundreds of in-depth personal interviews with sixty working-class families, this book offers the most valuable insight into the dynamics of working-class family life available today. It shows how middle class aspirations have placed an intolerable burden on working-class families, thus turning the "affluent and happy worker of whom we have heard so much in recent decades" into a myth. October/$11.95

NEW RULES OF SOCIOLOGICAL METHOD

A Positive Critique of Interpretive Sociologies

Anthony Giddens. A major new rethinking of theoretical problems in the social sciences that departs radically from existing traditions of thought. Giddens critically examines the schools of social analysis that place the interpretation of "meaning" and "action" in the forefront, and then attempts to develop a theory of action distinct from that made familiar in the writings of Parsons. The author concludes with an examination of themes in the recent philosophy of science, as developed by Popper, Kuhn, Lakatos, and others. October/$10.95

THE AMERICAN CATHOLIC:

INTRODUCTORY

SOCIOLOGY, Third Edition

Donald Light, Jr., City College of New York, and Suzanne Keller, Princeton University

This is the introductory sociology text being used by more students than any other — the book that set a new standard for introductory texts! Sociology, by Light and Keller, is the first introductory sociology text not only to draw data from contemporary society, but to examine it within the context of core concepts and traditional theories. Realities of race, education, sex roles, status, social control, and other issues are presented just as they are encountered in today's society, with the same immediacy and emotional impact students actually experience. Resource Manual and Readings available.

SOCIOLOGY: The Study of Human Interaction, Third Edition

Davis Dressler with William M. Willis, Jr.

This highly successful, straight-talking text has been completely rewritten and reorganized in accordance with the suggestions of more than 600 sociology instructors. While fully maintaining the strength and high readability of the previous editions, the content has been revised to remove unnecessary material and sharpen illustrative examples. Emphasis throughout is on the application of concepts to real social situations, and the book's eclectic approach allows the instructor to use it regardless of his or her theoretical orientation. Instructor's Manual available. A Workbook by Diana Harris and William Cole, both of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, will be available in November.

STUDY OF SOCIETY, Fourth Edition

Peter J. Rose, Smith College

NEW!

An up-to-the-minute revision of a highly popular reader, representing every major area of contemporary sociological thought. The perfect supplement to any core text, it will provide your students with direct exposure to the writings of leaders in the field. Sixty-one unabridged articles, one third of which are new to this edition, focus on sociological traditions, important currents of sociological thought, and changing notions of society and its many components. Included among the many contemporary issues and problems dealt with in the text are riots, black nationalism, and the 'liberated generation'.

NEW!

The Marriage Game is a lively, flexible activity that helps students to identify their personal values and marriage goals. It is a simulation of the constraints and consequences of decisions made by single people, cohabiting couples and married couples. Activities comprise many of the major actions encountered in real life, including courtship, whether to marry, job decisions, budgeting, leisure-time and vacation choices, and family planning.

SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY

James W. Vander Zanden, The Ohio State University

NEW!

This basic introductory text provides comprehensive social psychological coverage of key concepts, theories, and research with a primarily symbolic interactionist emphasis. The only text with solid empirical underpinnings based on laboratory and field experiments, it gives students a thorough grounding in basic social psychology and an introduction to the most up-to-date topics in the field today.

RESEARCH METHODS: Perspective, Theory, and Analysis

Kenneth W. Eckhardt and M. David Ermann, both of the University of Delaware

NEW!

This unique new methods text directly engages students in the research process through real and interesting research studies. Emphasizing inductive learning of research methods, each chapter focuses on a research technique and using this technique discusses an issue of current social concern; reconstructs the complete research strategy used by a practicing social scientist investigating this issue; and concludes with a presentation of data consistent with original findings.

SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY: Its Nature and Growth

Fourth Edition

George A. Theodoreson, Pennsylvania State University, the late Nicholas S. Timasheff

NEW!

Both current sociological theory and its historical development are analyzed in a comprehensive and well-integrated introductory text. The authors take a nonpartisan, objective approach to a variety of theoretical orientations, relating classical perspectives to current key figures, perspectives, and issues. New features of the fourth edition include amplified discussion of prominent, current theories, coverage of additional theoretical orientations, and updated, expanded chapters.

POPULATION AND SOCIETY

Fourth Edition

Dennis Wrong, New York University

NEW!

This major revision of a concise, clearly written text provides students of sociology with special insights into the methods of demographic research. Emphasizing the sociological aspects of demography as revealed by the most recent statistical data, it concentrates on the effects of population growth and the current debates and controversies over population policy.

SOCIOLOGICAL AMBIVALENCE AND OTHER ESSAYS

Robert K. Merton

Bringing together often inaccessible papers from a great variety of sources, this collection of Robert K. Merton's essays significantly develops the theoretical perspective of structural analysis in sociology.

PART I, beginning with the seminal essay "Sociological Ambivalence," focuses on the operation of structurally induced contradictions, norms, and counter-norms in various domains of society: science, medicine, the other professions, and complex business organizations.

PART II contains "Structural Analysis in Sociology," which sets forth a definitive statement of Merton's theoretical orientation. This section also includes his landmark paper on unanticipated consequences of social action and an essay on the use, nonuse and abuse of sociological knowledge.

In PART III, the author uses the structural perspective to examine various aspects of ethnic relations in American society. Included here are "Discrimination and the American Creed," "Intermarriage and the Social Structure," and "Fact and Factitiousness in Ethnic Opinionnaires."

SOCIOLOGICAL AMBIVALENCE AND OTHER ESSAYS reintroduces a dozen of Robert K. Merton's outstanding papers, making them widely accessible for the first time.
