103rd Annual Meeting

August 1–4, 2008

Sheraton Boston, Boston Marriott Copley Place, Hilton Boston Back Bay, and Hynes Convention Center Boston, Massachusetts

WORLDS OF WORK

The 2008 ASA program will focus on the interconnections between work—broadly conceived—and society. Work is one of the most basic of social activities and institutions and has far-reaching correlates and consequences. The title—Worlds of Work—points to two main sub-themes. First, it underscores the increasing diversity by which work is organized and experienced in societies. Work activities can: take place formally in organizations or informally between individuals; be labeled as illegal or legal; be unpaid, well-paid, or poorly paid; and involve considerable security for some or be unstable for others. People may also regard their work activities as more or less important to them at various stages of their lives. Second, the program title emphasizes the cross-national and historical diversity in work activities, work-related institutions, and the experience of work. Outsourcing of production, global human rights, immigration, and cultural differences all provide fertile ground for a comparative understanding of the many varieties of work.

The 2008 program will emphasize social change and the dynamic connections between changing patterns of work and social life. We will highlight how social, economic, and political forces are transforming the nature of work in society as well as the consequences—both intended and unintended—for social institutions and individuals. For example, we hope to learn how changing worlds of work affect and are affected by: social stratification and racial, ethnic, age, and gender inequality; immigration; migration; geographic mobility; crime; and the cultural meanings of work. We will assess the ramifications of these changes in work for diverse institutions such as families, schools, state policy, and communities. We will also consider how changes in work influence outcomes for individuals (e.g., mental health, identity, problems of caring, experience in low-wage and often “dead end” jobs, and coping with job insecurity and unemployment).

This wide-ranging focus on work and society is grounded in both classical and contemporary sociological concerns and draws upon many of our discipline’s theories and research traditions. Accordingly, the 2008 program theme embraces diverse sociological approaches, including political economy perspectives, organizational and occupational sociology, social psychology, and cultural and ethnographic studies. It also draws upon relevant insights from disciplines such as economics, psychology, history, and geography. The 2008 program especially seeks to demonstrate the relevance of social science research for public policy and for efforts to address social inequities and inequalities through activism around work-related issues—such as transnational labor movements, union-based movements, and community organizing. The program thereby attempts to contribute to the debates that are likely to surface in the 2008 U.S. presidential election and to promote the continuing emphasis on public sociology.

Annual Meeting Schedule

The official days of the 2008 ASA Annual Meeting are Friday to Monday, August 1–4, 2008. Program sessions are scheduled on all four days of the meeting at the Sheraton Boston, Boston Marriott Copley Place, the Hilton Boston Back Bay, and the Hynes Convention Center. There are also pre-meeting activities scheduled on Thursday, July 31, and the meeting will officially open with the Welcoming Plenary Session and Welcoming Reception that evening.

Most daytime program sessions are 1 hour and 40 minutes in length, followed by a 20-minute break. Exceptions are clearly noted in the detailed program schedule. The turnover schedule is as follows:

8:30 am–10:10 am
10:30 am–12:10 pm
12:30 pm–2:10 pm
2:30 pm–4:10 pm
4:30 pm–6:10 pm

The 6:30 pm evening time slot is normally allocated for Section receptions, member-sponsored activities, and meetings of other groups. All sessions end by 4:10 pm on the fourth day.

Please refer to the Program Schedule for a daily listing of all sessions, meetings, and social events. Session presiders and committee chairs are requested to see that sessions and meetings end on time to avoid conflicts with subsequent activities scheduled into the same room and to allow participants time to transit between facilities.

Program Highlights

Greetings from the 2008 Program Committee

Vast and rapid changes in work and the workplace are producing profound and pervasive impacts on social institutions and peoples' lives. The theme for the 2008 ASA program, "Worlds of Work," is thus especially timely. The program will emphasize the dynamic connections between changing patterns of work and social life, as well as how social, economic and political forces are transforming the nature of work and the consequences for society and individuals. The location of the meetings in the historic and vibrant city of Boston (the first time the ASA has met there since 1979) is an especially apt place to showcase this theme. The idea of "Worlds of Work" underscores both the diversity by which work is organized and experienced in industrial societies as well as the cross-national and historical diversity in work activities, institutions, and experiences. Addressing these topics will be a host of scholars from sociology and other social science disciplines, accompanied by social commentators, practitioners, and policy makers.

The program will highlight four plenary sessions that address directly the program theme and demonstrate the importance of social science research for public policy: (1) the Future of the American Labor Movement (featuring Marshall Ganz, New York Times labor reporter Steven Greenhouse, and union leaders Sara Horowitz and Bruce Raynor; July 31 at 7:00 PM); (2) Reinventing the American Dream (with Christopher Jencks, American Prospect co-founder Robert Kuttner, and Donna Shalala, the former U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services and current president of the University of Miami; August 1 at 12:30 pm); (3) Globalization and Work: Challenges and Responsibilities (with Rosabeth Moss Kanter, Michael Piore, and Erik Olin Wright; August 3 at 12:30 PM); and (4) Barriers and Bridges: A Dialogue on U.S.-Mexico immigration (with Jorge Castaneda—a former foreign minister of Mexico, Douglas Massey, and New York Times reporter Julia Preston; August 3 at 8:00 pm). Scores of thematic sessions featuring distinguished scholars and practitioners from the United States and around the world who will further illuminate issues of work, workers, institutions, and their global context. Prominent examples include sessions on the Meaning of Work (with Ronald Dore, Arlie Hochschild, and Richard Sennett); Decent Work and Job Quality (with representatives from the International Labour Organization); and What's Happening to the American Dream? (with Dan Cornfield, Tom Kochan, Rubén Rumbaut, and Teresa Sullivan). Other thematic sessions will address topics such as: outsourcing; the future of professions; gender, race, class and work; volunteering; crime as work; work in China, India, Latin America, Europe, and the Middle East; and many others.

Supplementing these thematic sessions will be special sessions (on topics such as race, terrorism, and global climate change), regional spotlight sessions (focusing on topics such as Boston's disadvantaged, the Massachusetts' health insurance plan, and casino and online gambling in Massachusetts), as well as hundreds of open sessions, roundtables, poster sessions, etc. There will be something for everyone! And all this will take place in the beautiful Back Bay area of historic Boston. As the largest city in New England, Boston is of course the site of many key events in American history, and ASA members will have many opportunities to explore these historic sites. At the same time, Boston is on the forefront of developments in higher education, technology, and health care in the 21st century. The local arrangements committee (ably chaired by Thomas Koenig of Northeastern University) has organized a number of fascinating events that promise to connect ASA members to this vital and vibrant city. There are also a wide variety of cultural venues as well as lively local bars and restaurants that provide great places to reunite with old friends and make new connections! The 2008 ASA meetings promise to be intellectually stimulating as well as a lot of fun. Welcome!

Arne L. Kalleberg

Major Plenary Sessions

The Annual Meeting theme of “Worlds of Work” is being addressed from the Opening Plenary Session on July 31 to the final evening Plenary on August 3.

Future of the American Labor Movement

Session 2, Thursday, July 31, 7:00–9:00pm

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon E, Fourth Floor

Presider: Marshall Ganz, Harvard University

Panel: Steven Greenhouse, The New York Times

Sara Horowitz, Freelancers Union

Bruce Raynor, Unite Here

Discussant: Marshall Ganz, Harvard University

The 103rd Annual Meeting opens on the evening of July 31 with a panel presentation featuring Steve Greenhouse of the New York Times; Sara Horowitz of the Freelancers Union (NYC) and Bruce Raynor of Unite Here. The panel will discuss the future of the American labor movement. Organized labor has been on the decline for decades and the working class as a whole has suffered consequently. As we close another decade and experience the end of the current presidential administration, our chronic problems have become an acute crisis. Can ways be found to turn this around, to rebuild a labor movement that can defend and advance the interests of American working people? One hopeful sign is that a serious discussion is emerging in both leadership circles and among the ranks about the future direction of labor. Join us as the panelists engage in a frank, wide ranging exchange of ideas.

Reinventing the American Dream

Session 65, Friday, August 1, 12:30–2:15pm

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon E-F, Fourth Floor

Session Organizer and Presider: Arne L. Kalleberg, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill

Panel: Christopher Jencks, Harvard University

Donna Shalala, University of Miami

Globalization, the spread of neo-liberal political ideology, and growing population diversity are three of the major drivers producing change in work and society in the 21st century. Increasing inequality and insecurity have made the attainment of a good job, a comfortable retirement, home ownership, affordable health care, and a better future for one's children problematic for millions of Americans. The percentage of people living in poverty remains high despite the economic boom of the 1990's, and the middle class has become increasingly vulnerable. A distinguished panel—featuring Christopher Jencks (Harvard University), Robert Kuttner (from the American Prospect), and Donna Shalala (President of the University of Miami)—will engage in a discussion on reinventing the “American Dream.”

Globalization and Work: Challenges and Responsibilities

Session 383, Sunday, August 3, 12:30–2:15pm

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon E-F, Fourth Floor

Presider: Michael J. Piore, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Panel: Rosabeth Moss Kanter, Harvard University

Erik Olin Wright, University of Wisconsin

Globalization has produced important challenges for organizations, societies, communities and individuals. These challenges create opportunities and responsibilities for managers, political leaders, and citizens.

Three eminent social scientists—Rosabeth Moss Kanter, Erik Olin Wright, and Michael Piore—will discuss some of the major challenges related to work that are produced by an increasingly global marketplace for large corporations, local communities, and the state.

Barriers and Bridges: A Dialogue on U.S.-Mexico Immigration

Session 461, Sunday, August 3, 8:00–9:45pm

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon E-F, Fourth Floor

Presider: Julia Preston, The New York Times

Jorge G. Castañeda, Government of Mexico

The flow of people across national borders produced by changes in work has created challenges for social, economic, and political policies seeking to cope with immigration. Two eminent scholars—Douglas Massey and Jorge G. Castañeda—will examine the complex issue of immigration from both U.S. and Mexican perspectives. In doing so, they will address broader aspects of the debate over immigration currently being raged in political circles in the United States and Mexico. The dialogue, rich with statistics, expert opinions and personal observations, are a great reason to attend this evening plenary session.

Address by President Kalleberg ASA Awards Ceremony

The Presidential Plenary featuring the formal address of ASA President Arne L. Kalleberg will be held on Saturday, August 2, at 4:30 pm. The ASA Awards Ceremony, conferring the 2008 major ASA awards, will open this session. All registrants are invited to attend this plenary session and the Honorary Reception afterwards to honor President Kalleberg and the award recipients.

ASA Business Meeting

The ASA Business Meeting is an opportunity for members of the Association to discuss important issues facing the discipline and profession. Members are encouraged to attend this meeting convened by the ASA President Arne L. Kalleberg.

Summary reports on the Association and its key activities this year will be given by President Kalleberg, Secretary Donald Tomaskovic-Devey, and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman. The meeting concludes with the traditional transfer of the gavel, marking the transition of duties from President Kalleberg to incoming President Patricia Hill Collins.

This open forum is an opportunity for members to share their insights, reactions, and suggestions. Please consult the flyer in your convention tote bag for details on the Business Meeting agenda.

As noted in the May/June issue of Footnotes and the posting of meeting information on the ASA website, members seeking to present formal resolutions should be prepared to provide background materials on the issue to be discussed. Members who missed the July 1 submission deadline may bring their resolutions and supporting background documentation to the ASA Office in the Jefferson Room at Sheraton Boston by 3:00 pm on Sunday, August 3.

All meeting attendees are invited to join ASA officers, Council members, and staff for continental breakfast and discussion at the ASA Business Meeting in the Gloucester Room on Monday, August 4, 7:00 - 8:15 am, at the Boston Marriott Copley Place.

Presidential Panels

This year the Program Committee created a new category of sessions to highlight session topics of special interest to the ASA President. Six sessions dealing with crucial social and political issues were created under this umbrella.

What's Happening to the American Dream?

Session 28 Friday, August 1, 10:30 am–12:10 pm Sheraton Boston, Constitution A

Organizer and Presider: Daniel B. Cornfield, Vanderbilt University
On Working Families, Employment Relations, and the American Dream. Thomas A. Kochan, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
On Immigrant Incorporation, Assimilation, and the American Dream. Ruben G. Rumbaut, University of California-Irvine
On Consumers, Indebtedness, and the American Dream. *Teresa A.
Sullivan*, University of Michigan

The American Dream continues to be pursued by U.S. residents and individuals from all world regions, but persistent disparities shape life chances and public policy. Whether they consider themselves to be consumers, immigrants, or workers, individuals in pursuit of a material life style, identity, or social status encounter obstacles and opportunities along the paths they take toward achieving their Dreams. This panel discussion of the American Dream assesses the social and public policy implications of the disparities in attainment of the American Dream.

Decent Work, Decent Jobs: Globalization and Employment Conditions around the World

Session 66, Friday, August 1, 2:30 pm–4:10 pm Sheraton Boston, Constitution A

Organizer and Presider: Naomi Cassirer, International Labour Organization
Working Conditions in European Union Countries. Daniel Vaughan-Whitehead, International Labour Organization
Heidi I. Hartmann, Institute for Women's Policy Research
Harvey L. Molotch, New York University

Charles B. Perrow, Yale University
Kathleen J. Tierney, University of Colorado-Boulder

The Meaning of Work: What Is Work?

Session 181, Saturday, August 2, 10:30 am–12:10 pm
Sheraton Boston, Constitution A, Second Floor

Session Organizer: Magali Sarfatti-Larson, Temple University
 Presider: Arne L. Kalleberg, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
 Panel: Arlie Russell Hochschild, University of California-Berkeley
Richard Sennett, London School of Economics

Understanding the changing meaning of work is central to appreciating the transformations occurring in work, workers, and the workplace. In this Presidential panel session, two world-renowned scholars will present and discuss their ideas on the meaning of work and its prospects.

Outsourcing Labor: The Social Construction of Individual, Organizational, and Field-Level Effects

Session 269, Saturday, August 2, 2:30 pm–4:10 pm

Session Organizer and Presider: Alison Davis-Blake, University of Minnesota
 Panel: Joseph P. Broschak, University of Arizona
Susan Houseman, W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research
Vicki Smith, University of California-Davis

Discussant: Rosemary Batt, Cornell University

This session is organized around three broad themes of the effects of outsourcing for individuals, organizations, and organizational fields. Our panelists, all well-respected scholars in the area of nonstandard work or outsourcing, will make a general set of comments about one or more of these levels of analysis. A theme that ties all of the panelists' work together is that the consequences of outsourcing at the individual, organizational, and field level are all socially mediated and socially constructed. All of the panelists will provide some insights into how processes of cognition and social construction shape the consequences of the outsourcing of work.

The Post-Professional Era?

Session 341, Sunday, August 3, 10:30 am–12:10 pm
Sheraton Boston, Constitution A, Second Floor

Session Organizer: Steven G. Brint, University of California-Riverside
 Presider: Magali Sarfatti-Larson, Temple University
 Panel: Paul S. Adler, University of Southern California
Mary L. Fennell, Brown University
William M. Sullivan, Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching

Discussant: Magali Sarfatti-Larson, Temple University

The classical professional model created labor market shelters through restrictive entry, rigorous training, and occupational licensing requirements. Sheltered markets allowed for higher income and workplace autonomy in return (at least in theory) for occupational regulation with client interests in mind. The problem of asymmetric expertise is solved now in other ways: through a combination of graduate academic training, improved client access to knowledge, increased market competition and especially state regulation of professional practice. Are the discipline and specialization regimes typical of classical professionalism giving way to collaborative regimes directed by organizations and influenced by communities? Have we now entered a post-professional era? Our panelists will look at the problem from different directions and pose important questions for research and policy.

From “Industrial Sociology” to “Sociology of Work”?

Session 384, Sunday, August 3, 2:30 pm–4:10 pm

Session Organizer: Jennifer Platt, University of Sussex
 Presider: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley
 Neglected Classics in the Sociology of Work. Michael Rose, University of Bath

Feminist Questions and the Sociology of Work. Jennifer L. Pierce, University of Minnesota

Ethnography of Work and the Work of Ethnography: Hodson's Sample and the Discipline. Jennifer Platt, University of Sussex; Charles Crothers, Auckland University of Technology; Mervyn Patrick Horgan, York University

The session will focus on the history of the sociology of work, mainly in the USA. In reviewing different aspects of that history, the papers will raise issues such as the field's relation to general sociology, how far its changes over time have responded to changes in the wider society or to changes internal to sociology, which areas have been favored and which neglected, and the reasons for these outcomes.

Thematic Sessions

The 2008 Program Committee developed a strong set of invited sessions to explore aspects of this year's meeting theme. Sixty-seven sessions delve into important social and political issues, explore international and comparative viewpoints, and discuss the importance of sociological contributions.

A summary of Thematic Session topics, organizers, and locations is outlined below (alphabetically by session title); please refer to the body of the Program Schedule for complete details.

Regional Spotlight

Many things in Boston have changed since ASA last met here in 1979, but the hustle and bustle of this world-renowned destination continue to attract visitors from all parts of the world. The site of this year's Annual Meeting affords meeting attendees wonderful opportunities to see famous sights, explore culture and arts from high to low, and debate the varied political and social issues bubbling in this premier New England city.

President Arne L. Kalleberg appointed a local support committee chaired by Thomas Koenig (Northeastern University) to propose special panels, develop a program of local tours, prepare a restaurant guide, and write special articles for ASA Footnotes.

Take a look at the Regional Spotlight session topics outlined below and be sure to attend one or more during your journey through this year's program. Complete session details are shown in the body of the Program Schedule.

Check the "Boston Tours" section on page 25 for information about the guided tours and sightseeing opportunities being offered to meeting attendees.

And, don't overlook the Boston restaurant guide prepared by Thomas Koenig (Northeastern University). Each registrant receives a copy of that guide in the Final Program packet distributed on-site in Boston. We encourage you to take advantage of the online version of that dining guide in order to secure dinner reservations and explore various cuisines offered in this vibrant city.

You have already enjoyed the special feature articles about Boston that have appeared in ASA's newsletter Footnotes. To reread those articles, visit the 2008 Annual Meeting homepage and click on the "Footnotes" link.

Whether browsing through an interesting bookstore, engaging in an intensive debate during a session, jogging along the St. Charles River, or wandering through the various neighborhoods, your meeting experience in Beantown this year is sure to be memorable!

Research Support Forum

Now entering its 17th year, the annual ASA Research Support Forum features discussion of science policy issues, research funding information and guidance, and updates on data resources throughout the Annual Meeting. The forum is designed to provide invaluable help, access, and consideration of important substantive and policy issues for new researchers and more experienced scholars. From the opening professional workshop on Friday to the closing academic workshop on Monday, attendees can count on plentiful access to funding experts and data sources.

The cornerstone of this year's forum is a special session focusing on the grant process for drug abuse research, followed by the informal poster exhibits on data resources and research funding opportunities.

Highlights of all the sessions included in this year's Forum are given below in chronological order. For complete information on all these sessions, please refer to the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule.

Research Funding Opportunities and Data Resources Informational Poster Session 268, Saturday, August 2, 1:00–4:00 pm

Hynes Convention Center, Exhibit Hall D

Organizers: Karina J. Havrilla and Nicole Van Vooren, American Sociological Association

This poster/exhibit session provides a unique occasion to meet representatives of major research funding institutions and principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale datasets that are publicly available for use. Each display by a funding institution provides a visual overview of research funding and the application process, materials for distribution, and time for direct individual discussion. Data resource representatives are available to talk about the featured datasets, their analytic potential, and issues relating to access and use, including state-of-the-art Internet services to access datasets. This is an opportunity for meeting attendees to learn about these datasets and their potential for research and teaching. All meeting participants, including students, are encouraged to attend.

Participating institutions and their poster numbers are shown in the full session listing in the body of the Program Schedule. For additional information, please refer to the poster abstracts at the end of the daily schedule.

Special Sessions

The category of “Special Sessions” encompasses many of the suggestions submitted by ASA members for invited panels. These sessions may be on topics that further investigate the meeting theme, contribute to the review of the discipline, or focus attention on other timely and important issues. More than thirty sessions were constituted, including a set of sessions co-sponsored with sister sociological associations/organizations.

A summary of Special Session topics, organizers, and locations is compiled below (alphabetically by session title/topic); please refer to the body of the Program Schedule for complete details.

Open Forums

All meeting attendees are invited to attend two Open Forums to voice their opinions, experiences and concerns.

A “Greening the ASA” forum will provide an opportunity for interested ASA members to discuss the ecological footprint of the ASA and to brainstorm about solutions that would shrink that footprint. As a large professional organization, the ASA has a significant impact on the environment. Over the last year, some members of the Environment and Technology Section and the ASA Executive Office have been participating in a working group to “green” the ASA organization and its meetings. Following a brief report about what the ASA is already doing and what has been proposed for the future, participants will brainstorm and collect ideas about minimizing ASA’s ecological impact. This will be a working session with the goal of developing creative green solutions for the ASA. Attendees will also be able to take ideas home with them to their respective institutions. The working group encourages participation from all sections and also from those involved in organizing regional meetings.

A forum on the status of gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) persons in sociology is being held by the ASA Committee on the Status of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and Transgendered Persons in Sociology. As part of its data gathering efforts for its next report to Council, the committee would like to give meeting attendees an opportunity to discuss their experiences and the climate in which they work.

Dates and locations of these two open forums are listed below.

Open Community Forum: Greening the ASA

Special Session 115, Friday, August 1, 4:30–6:10 pm
Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon B, Fourth Floor

Organizer and Presider: Lauren Heberle, University of Louisville

Open Forum: The Status of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and Transgender Persons in Sociology

Special Session 274, Saturday, August 2, 2:30–4:10 pm
 Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon I, Fourth Floor
 Organizer: Betsy Lucal, Indiana University-South Bend

Regular Sessions

Regular Sessions are comprised of research papers submitted in response to the 2008 Call for Papers. The 2008 Program Committee appointed organizers for 129 general Regular Session topics and announced that topics were open to submissions from ASA members. Paper submissions were due in mid-January 2008.

Regular Session organizers received anywhere from 0 to 52 submissions for review. A total of 174 formal paper sessions were organized from over 2000 papers submitted to Regular Session topics. Please refer to the Program Schedule for details on each Regular Session.

Be sure to check the ASA website this fall for information on making your paper submission for next year's Annual Meeting. The paper submission deadline will be January 14, 2009.

Open Refereed Roundtables

The 2008 Program Committee continued this open general roundtable component, which was added to the general program eleven years ago to augment the specialized roundtables sponsored by many sections. Greg Walker (University of Pennsylvania) was invited to review submissions and organize roundtables using a "mini-session" format: a general topic identified for each table, two to five paper presentations, and a table presider to coordinate presentations and discussion.

Three large roundtable sessions comprised of 21 tables each were created for this year's program. Please note that all roundtables presentations listed on a session are held simultaneously at tables located inside one large meeting room; neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.

Open Refereed Roundtable Session I

Session 42, Friday, August 1, 10:30 am–12:10 pm
 Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon G, Fourth Floor

Open Refereed Roundtable Session II

Session 194, Saturday, August 2, 10:30 am–12:10 pm
 Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon G, Fourth Floor

Open Refereed Roundtable Session III

Session 357, Sunday, August 3, 10:30 am–12:10 pm
 Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon G, Fourth Floor

Informal Discussion Roundtables

This popular program component is designed to bring together small groups of people interested in discussing specific topics. Informal roundtables offer opportunities for those who share conceptual, methodological, professional, or policy concerns to meet one another and to initiate and expand networks. These discussion tables also are particularly valuable for those who are developing new ideas or formulating issues in new ways and who would like to explore these ideas or issues with colleagues who have similar interests.

An Informal Discussion Roundtable Session is comprised of 15–20 tables, with a different discussion topic assigned to each table. Discussion proceeds simultaneously at all tables listed on each session. At each table the discussion leader will introduce the topic and facilitate discussion among all the participants at the table. No formal papers are to be presented, and neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.

Kim Scipes (Purdue University) was invited to review the discussion topics organize sessions. Two informal roundtable sessions were created from the 38 proposals submitted in January by ASA members. Times and locations of the discussion roundtables are noted below; please see the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule for complete details.

Informal Discussion Roundtable Session I

Session 80, Friday, August 1, 2:30–4:10 pm
 Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon G, Fourth Floor

Informal Discussion Roundtable Session II

Session 238, Saturday, August 2, 12:30–2:10 pm Sheraton Boston, Grand Ballroom, Second Floor

Poster Sessions

This program component features a series of display presentations that allow face-to-face conversation between authors and viewers. By facilitating informal discussions between presenters and "browsers," Poster Sessions provide a more direct forum for information exchange than do formal paper presentations.

This year attendees are welcome to browse through the Research Poster area throughout the Annual Meeting. This year the poster sessions are conveniently located along with the book exhibits in Exhibit Hall D of the Hynes Convention Center, which permits more exposure for poster displays. Authors will be present to answer questions about the research displayed on their posters only during the formally designated Research Poster session times.

Informational poster presentations provide information on resources, materials, and opportunities. The annual Research Support Forum includes a major poster session also located in Exhibit Hall D to highlight research funding opportunities and data resources. As part of the Graduate Education focus, a resource poster area will be open for browsing in the Exhibit Hall D, and there is one designated time when attendees can expect to meet representatives from participating graduate departments of sociology. Both informational poster areas will be accessible throughout the Annual Meeting.

The varied roster of display presentations includes something of interest for every meeting attendee. Be sure to include some time in your schedule to visit this year's poster displays.

Courses

This educational component provides opportunities for attendees to get in-depth training in special subject areas. Intensive four- to six-hour courses are held pre-convention and led by expert faculty who have prepared a comprehensive curriculum to engage participants on all levels. Registrants will receive certificates documenting their participation and completion of these courses.

This year's course focuses on three nationally representative early childhood studies conducted by the Institute of Education Sciences' National Center for Education Statistics. Attendance at the course is limited to 40 registrants. Prepaid registration is required; fees are $50. Reservations for the course were accepted in order of receipt in the ASA Executive Office.

Attendees who preregistered should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program packets as ASA Preregistration. Course fees were non-refundable after July 1.

Early Childhood Studies at the National Center for Education Statistics: The Early Childhood Longitudinal Studies and the National Household Education Surveys Program

Course 1, Thursday, July 31, 10:00 am–5:30 pm

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Provincetown, Fourth Floor

Ticket required for admission

Organizer: Christopher David Chapman, US Department of Education

Co-Leaders: Gail M. Mulligan, National Center for Education Statistics

Amy Rathbun, American Institutes for Research

Jil Walston, American Institutes for Research

This course introduces researchers to three nationally representative early childhood studies conducted by the Institute of Education Sciences' National Center for Education Statistics: the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study, Kindergarten Class of 1998–99 (ECLS-K), the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study, Birth Cohort (ECLS-B), and the National Household Education Surveys Program (NHES). The session provides overviews of the studies' content and design, highlights about data pertaining to children from birth through 8th grade, and information about how the three surveys compliment each other. The leaders also highlight technical issues researchers must recognize to correctly analyze these data, such as the use of weights and correct standard error estimation. This course is for graduate students, faculty, and researchers who seek knowledge about the structure and potential uses of the surveys and have little experience with these data.

Seminars

Didactic Seminars are designed to keep sociologists abreast of recent scholarly trends and developments. Experts considered to be at the forefront of a given field are invited by the Program Committee to conduct these intensive sessions.

Seminar speakers will present materials to explain specialized developments within their topic areas. Seminars are usually scheduled for an hour and forty minutes unless the leader has requested a longer time period. Please see the detailed listings below for session details and brief descriptions provided by the leaders.

Attendance at each seminar is limited to 50 registrants. Prepaid registration is required; fees are $30. Seminar pre-registrants should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program packets.

Seminar fees were non-refundable after July 1. However, if the required enrollment was not reached by the time preregistration closed and a seminar was cancelled, all fees will be fully refunded.

Reservations for seminars were accepted in order of receipt in the ASA Executive Office. Those who did not make advance reservations may check for possible openings at ASA On-Site Registration in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center.

Designing and Implementing Large Scale, Comparative, Qualitative/Ethnographic Research

Seminar 38, Friday, August 1, 10:30 am–12:10 pm
Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: Kathryn J. Edin, Harvard University
Co-Leader: Susan E. Clampet-Lundquist, Saint Joseph's University

This course will prepare attendees to think about design and implementation issues with large scale multi site qualitative research. A special focus will be on mixed method research projects. Case studies will be drawn from the workshop leaders' past research, including the Qualitative Addition to the Fragile Families and Child Wellbeing Study, a multi city study of nonmarital childbearing, and the Qualitative Addition to the Moving to Opportunity Experiment, a large multi site housing mobility study.

Emergent Technologies for Qualitative Research

Seminar 74, Friday, August 1, 2:30–4:10 pm
Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: Sharlene J. Hesse-Biber, Boston College

Emergent technologies have pushed against the boundaries of qualitative research practice. This didactic seminar will explore issues regarding how qualitative researchers can effectively apply new technological innovations, including the use of the internet, mobile phone technologies, geospatial technologies, and the incorporation of computer-assisted software programs, to collect and analyze both qualitative and mixed-methods data. This seminar will:

(1) Provide an overview of some of the newest mobile technologies (using GPS) in the service of gathering qualitative data. The mobile phone allows the researcher to capture personal experience in real time and space. The collection of user experience data has enormous implications for the study of human interaction. The researcher is able to study experience in context over an extended period of time using fewer resources and in a less obtrusive manner. We provide in-depth examples how this technology might be applied to a qualitative research project. We will also discuss some of the ethical issues emergent technologies raise for social researchers.

(2) Computer Assisted Software for Multi-media Analysis. We demonstrate the latest data gathering and analysis software for analyzing multimediated data qualitative data—web-based data, audio, video and images using the computer-assisted data analysis package, HyperResearch (www.researchware.com)

(3) Transcription Software for Qualitative Data Analysis. We will also demonstrate cutting edge transcription software and discuss how the importance of transcription and its role in analyzing your qualitative data. We will demonstrate the transcription software, HyperTranscribe (www.researchware.com).

Creating Segmentations (part of the Research Support Forum)

Seminar 116, Friday, August 1, 4:30–6:10 pm
Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: Leora Lawton, TechSociety Research

Creating segmentations is statistical technique to group respondents together by similarity of attitudes and/or characteristics. These segmentations—sometimes known as typologies—have long been used in marketing but are also very useful in understanding how different people relate or behave with respect to social services, political behavior, or any kind of relationship. This workshop will first discuss the logic and structure behind segmentations. Then, we'll go through examples of creating segmentations, first by using a combination of factor analysis and cluster analysis, and then a technique known as a Classification Tree. (CHAID or CRT). We'll end with a discussion on how to interpret and apply the results. Attendees are expected to have a working knowledge of SPSS and multivariate analysis. It will be useful to attend with laptops with SPSS (and a full 1-month demo copy can be downloaded for free from www.spss.com) but powerpoints and handouts will detail the entire process. Handouts will be provided, including SPSS syntax.

Introduction to Atlas.ti

Seminar 189, Saturday, August 2, 10:30 am–12:10 pm
Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: Yuki Kato, Towson University

Co-Leader: Danielle S. Rudes, George Mason University

This workshop is designed to introduce participants to the software and answer some common questions beginning users confront. It is recommended for those who have never used Atlas.ti before or have only limited experience with the software. Researchers who have some familiarity of Atlas.ti are also welcome to attend to refresh, to participate in the open-discussion and/or to share tips and advice. Participants are not required to bring Atlas.ti software with them or to have ever worked with the software.

Studying Social Integration

Seminar 233, Saturday, August 2, 12:30–2:10 pm
Sheraton Boston, Republic A, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: Thomas J. Scheff, University of California-Santa Barbara

This class will focus on defining single-meaning concepts of alienation and solidarity, and, as it happens, points between. By reviewing various ideas and theories about the two terms, we will relate them to each other, and to other important ideas, such as consensus, social facts, and intergroup cooperation/ hostility. The workshop will show how the two concepts lead to provisional operational definitions, and preliminary methods for using them in process studies and survey research.

Use of NVivo7 in Qualitative Social Research

Seminar 278, Saturday, August 2, 2:30–4:10 pm

Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: A. L. Sinikka Dixon, Canadian University College

The didactic seminar focuses on several research topics as illustrations of the usefulness of NVivo7. (I will be using NVivo7 QSR International Pty Ltd 1999–2007) One study has marital satisfaction as a focus. It will illustrate how NVivo7 can be used to enrich secondary analysis of quantitative data by open coding open ended questions embedded in the survey initially analyzed by SPSS. Another topic has, as its focus, theoretically grounded unobtrusive measures of spatial neighborhood relations, using my impingement typology. The final topic is based on semi-structured interviews of husbands and wives and their involvement in what I theoretically call life cycles: age-life cycle, family-life cycle, education-life cycle, work-life cycle and leisure-life cycle. Over the life course, we engage in and disengage from these various life cycles, which then become the backbone of our life histories, as well as the fabric of our involvements with those to whom we are emotionally and functionally linked. Prior to the didactic seminar, time permitting, the participants will receive a pre-test by e-mail, which will give me an indication of the level of their involvement with qualitative research. Participants will receive a short reading list of materials relevant to the seminar presentation, also how to get started with NVivo7. At the end of the didactic seminar there will be a chance to network and make research connections.

Affect Control Theory

Seminar 315, Sunday, August 3, 8:30–11:30 am

Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: Lynn Smith-Lovin, Duke University

Co-Leader: Dawn T. Robinson, University of Georgia

Affect Control Theory is a mathematical theory that links cultural meanings and the control processes underlying social behavior. It assumes that people learn meanings about identities and actions from their culture, and then attempt to maintain those symbolic meanings in social interaction. It differs from other theories in that it measures meaning in a three-dimensional metric, estimates changes in meaning from interaction empirically, and represents the control process of meaning maintenance with a mathematical model. The seminar will cover the intellectual history, current structure and substantive applications of the theory, concentrating on teaching interested participants the more formal (mathematical) structure of the theory. A large part of the seminar will focus on how to use the simulation program, INTERACT, that represents the formal theoretical model. Since INTERACT is useful in both teaching (undergraduate and graduate) as well as research applications, the objectives of the seminar will include both an introduction to the formal structure of the theory for potential researchers and the development of tools for those interested in teaching the theory.

Introduction to GIS and Thematic Mapping in Sociology: Research, Teaching, and Outreach

Seminar 349, Sunday, August 3, 10:30 am–12:10 pm

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Fairfield, Third Floor

Organizer and Leader: Robert Nash Parker, University of California-Riverside

GIS (Geographic Information Systems) is a powerful set of database and computer mapping techniques that can transform Sociological research, teaching, and our discipline's ability to effectively communicate with outside audiences. This course will give a basic introduction to the art and science of GIS using ESRI's ArcGIS system of software. Topics to be addressed include basic map construction, geocoding of address based data, merging of traditional data with map databases and geospatial information, sources of geospatial data, univariate and multivariate thematic mapping, 3D mapping, and techniques for imbedding maps in documents and presentations. Material for the course will be drawn from GIS and Spatial Analysis in the Social Sciences, by Robert Nash Parker and Emily K. Asencio, from Routledge (2008); attendees will have the opportunity to purchase this new book at a convention discount at the conclusion of the course.

Conducting Professional Focus Groups (part of the Research Support Forum)

Seminar 393, Sunday August 3, 2:30–4:10 pm

Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: Janet Mancini Billson, Group Dimensions International

This interactive, practical workshop helps participants to identify the uses of focus groups in program evaluation and basic research. The goal is to foster successful focus group research in a wide variety of cultural settings, with an eye to producing reliable scientific data, rather than "interesting information." The workshop includes two demonstration focus groups with volunteer participants, as well as an overview of research design, the moderator's guide, and recruitment and screening. The emphasis is on linking group dynamics and methodological theory to qualitative research endeavors.

Seeing Through Our Subject's Eyes: Using Photography in the Research Process

Session 431, Sunday, August 3, 4:30–6:10 pm

Sheraton Boston, Republic A, Second Floor

Organizer and Leader: Elaine Bell Kaplan, University of Southern California

Co-Leader: Karen Sternheimer, University of Southern California

This seminar will explore the promises, possibilities and pitfalls of using photography while conducting sociological research. The photo essay medium can provide a unique opportunity for the participants to document and to express their experiences through personally meaningful imagery. We will examine how photograph allow us to explore the complexity of the interior and exterior lives of those whose experiences often remains silent and hidden from the world. We will discuss and demonstrate how photography can add to our understanding of our study participants' lived experiences. We will also examine how photographs can facilitate the interview process.

This session will also consider how photography introduces new possibilities for activism and social change, on part of both researchers and informants. The organizers will focus in particular on using photography with adolescent subjects and provide visual examples from their research. Seminar participants are also encouraged to share their experiences using photography and other visual aides in research. We will also discuss the potential of this method as a teaching tool in helping college students create visual paper projects.

Workshops

One of the strengths of the educational component of the Annual Meeting is the breadth and variety of workshops offered. These sessions provide opportunities for attendees to update their knowledge and skills in a variety of professional areas. For 2008, workshop topics focus on careers and professional growth, academic department strategies, research skills and major datasets, teaching challenges, funding opportunities and grant writing skills, enhanced teaching of courses, publishing advice, and more.

All workshops emphasize interaction between leaders and audience, and attendees are encouraged to bring questions or problems for discussion. Every workshop is open to all meeting registrants.

An overview of workshop topics is listed below. Please see the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule for details.

Hone a skill, push your career to the next level, strengthen your repertoire of teaching strategies, increase your knowledge: It's all part of the learning curve at the Annual Meeting!

Looking for a way to find colleagues with similar research interests? Section activities offer one convenient avenue for connecting with like-minded scholars. These specialized sessions range in format from formal paper presentations to panels and discussion roundtables. Section-sponsored sessions are open to all meeting registrants.

Sections promote ongoing communication among their members by publishing newsletters, supporting cooperative research ventures, recognizing outstanding work by professionals and students in their specialties, and sponsoring program activities at each Annual Meeting. ASA members with interests in specialized areas of sociological inquiry may join any Section of the Association. Stop by the ASA Membership table in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center to browse through recent section newsletters and pick up section membership information. Of course, if you join a section before September 30, your membership will help support that section's program allocation for next year's Annual Meeting.

The number of sessions allocated to each Section is based on the size of the Section membership. For the 44 sections, including two sections-in-information (Disability and Society, Human Rights) there are a total of 204 sessions/meetings scheduled. Section activities are summarized on the next page for quick reference.

Meeting days are Friday, August 1; Saturday, August 2; Sunday, August 3; and Monday, August 4.
 Hotel designations: H = Hilton Boston Back Bay, S = Sheraton Boston, M = Boston Marriott Copley Place.
 Check the daily schedule for reception locations.

Section Council Meetings

The total formal allocation of space for each section is comprised of two parts: (a) one “business” slot for holding a one-hour Council meeting followed by a 40-minute Business meeting; and (b) the earned program session allocation. ASA Council does permit Sections to use their Council meeting time (one hour) for other purposes. However, a Section that chooses to use this option forfeits the services of the ASA Office in the arrangement of an alternate Council meeting time and location. The Council meetings listed below are the extent of the information available at press time. Check at the ASA Information Desk in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center for any updates provided by section chairs during the course of the convention.

14th Annual ASA Chair Conference

Assessing Our Work in Terms of Student Learning and Department Effectiveness

Designed for new and current department chairs at all types of academic institutions, the 13th annual ASA Chair Conference will focus on assessment issues. The keynote speaker will be Barbara Hetrick, Senior Vice-President, Council of Independent Colleges, who has been involved in issues of assessment in higher education for more than 20 years. In addition to working with departments on their own assessment plans (either establishing one, or fine-tuning and streamlining an existing one), there will be sessions on using assessment results to negotiate with administrators, discussing the issue of assessment in light of accreditation pressures, plus a two-hour conflict resolution workshop for department chairs that will teach general conflict resolution techniques and then apply those techniques to specific conflicts that can arise in the context of assessment.

The entire conference will take place July 31, from 9:00 am–5:30 pm. The Chair Conference begins in the Commonwealth Room, located on the third floor of the Sheraton Boston.

The major briefing sessions will focus on:

Assessment—Definitions, History, and Why It’s Hard to Do Assessment—The Story of One Campus’ Journey

Student Learning—Assessment within the Department
(Breakout discussions for BA, MA, and PhD Departments)

Department Effectiveness—Report on new data from the ASA Department Survey

Department Effectiveness—Assessment and Accreditation Pressures

Department Effectiveness—Using Assessment Results to Negotiate with Administrators

Department Effectiveness—Talking about Assessment can Create a Lot of Conflict: Paths to Resolution (Part I)

(Breakout discussions for BA, MA, and PhD Departments)

Preregistration and fee payments are required. Chair Conference attendees must preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. Fees for the Chair Conference are $120 for chairs from Department Affiliate departments; $150 for chairs from non-affiliate departments. The Chair Conference fee includes all chair conference materials, continental breakfast (lunch is not included), morning and afternoon snacks.

Attendees who preregistered should have received an advance mailing from APAP staff indicating where to go to sign in for the Chair Conference. Those who did not make advance reservations may check for openings at ASA On-Site Registration in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center.

Directors of Graduate Study

Directors of Graduate Study (DGS) are important leaders in shaping department policies and opportunities for effective graduate programs. To assist sociologists in the DGS role, the ASA Academic and Professional Affairs Program has planned a series of events on Thursday afternoon, July 31, which will dovetail with Chair Conference activities and permit interaction between attendees of both conferences. DGS sessions will focus on such issues as data trends in graduate education, effective mentoring and professional development, the MA degree in sociology, and more.

Fees are $30 for chairs from Department Affiliate departments, and $50 for Chairs from non-affiliate departments. DGS attendees had to preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. The DGS registration fee includes an afternoon beverage break and DGS meeting materials. Only departments that are renewed for the 2008–2009 Academic Year are eligible for the Affiliate price.

The DGS events begin at 1:30 pm in Berkeley A-B at the Sheraton Boston on Thursday, July 31. The DGS agenda includes:

Presentation on Academic Street Smarts: What Graduate Students Need that They May Not Be Learning

Presentation on Professional Socialization in MA Programs

Panel Presentation on “Making the Implicit Explicit: Curriculum for Academic Street Smarts”

Breakout Sessions for PhD and MA departments

Undergraduate Advisers & Students

Visit the Graduate Programs Poster Area

This dedicated display area features exhibits on graduate training from over 40 graduate programs. Participating institutions will display information and provide handouts describing their programs, special emphases, financial aid and admissions criteria, and opportunities to work with faculty researchers and instructors. Information and displays will be available in the Exhibit Hall D at the Hynes Convention Center throughout the Annual Meeting.

Department representatives will be available to answer questions at 2:30–4:10 pm on Friday, August 1. This is an excellent opportunity for undergraduate advisors, undergraduate students, and MA-level students to see displays on graduate programs and meet directly with representatives.

Graduate departments that responded to the invitations issued by the ASA Academic and Affairs Program are listed in the program schedule under Informational Poster Session 79.

Student Forum

The ASA welcomes undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. All students who join ASA as student members automatically become members of the Student Forum. Special arrangements for students include discounted registration fees, workshops oriented to issues of interest to students, student paper and roundtable sessions, a reception for students, and admission to the book give-away at the end of the meeting.

Student Forum. Anyone who joins ASA as a student member automatically becomes a member of the Student Forum. Students are encouraged to attend the Annual Meeting, meet with the Forum leadership, and participate in the formal and social events that will be held. The business meeting of the Student Forum will be held on Saturday, August 2, at 8:30–10:10 am in Beacon B on the third floor of the Sheraton Boston.

Orient Yourself to the Meeting. Plan to attend the Welcoming Party on Thursday night and the Orientation for First Time Attendees on Friday morning to kick off your Annual Meeting experience. Browse thoroughly through the exhibits, posters, and the ASA Bookstore. Don't be shy about asking staff at the ASA Information Desk for assistance in finding various activities.

Student Reception. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to an open student reception on Friday, August 1, at 6:30–7:30 pm in the Gloucester Room on the third floor of the Boston Marriott Copley Place.

Graduate Programs in Sociology Displays. At 2:30–4:10 pm on Friday, August 1, representatives from graduate departments will be available in the Graduate Programs in Sociology Resource area in the Exhibit Hall D at the Hynes Convention Center to talk with students and undergraduate advisers. See the listing for Session 79 to find out which schools are participating. The resource area will be available for browsing throughout the meeting.

Data Resources and Funding Sessions. Be sure to attend poster session 268 and familiarize yourself with the various funding opportunities and data resources which can advance your work in sociology.

Student Book Give-Away. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting will receive a ticket to the special book give-away sponsored by ASA exhibitors on Monday, August 4, after the exhibit hall has closed.

Student Sessions. The Program Committee allocates five session slots each year for student sessions. From an open call for student papers, three paper sessions, one workshop, and one roundtable session were organized under Student Forum auspices. For details on these student sessions, locate the listings for sessions 81, 239, 318, 398, and 436 in the Program Schedule.

Whether you are planning to attend graduate school, or are further along and look to employment in sociological practice or the academy, please take a look at the career, professional, and teaching workshops.

Don't let the huge program overwhelm you. Start by looking at the Student Forum sessions noted above and then check the Session Topic Index to identify other sessions in your particular areas of interest.

Boston Tours

One of the best ways to see Boston through sociological lenses is to take advantage of one or more of this year's local tours. The schedule of tours is provided below, with descriptions and capacity limits. Reservations were mandatory. Those who are already enrolled in tours should have received their tickets in their badge envelopes.

Tours that have already sold out are shown below. If you wish to buy tickets for one of the remaining tours or check on the status of a tour, please stop by ASA On-Site Registration in Exhibit Hall C of the Hynes Convention Center.

Every effort has made to ensure the tours are accessible to those with disabilities. Participants on "walking tours" who might require assistance may opt to use a motorized scooter provided by the ASA. If assistance is needed, contact the on-site ASA Office in the Jefferson at the Sheraton Boston at least 24 hours in advance of the scheduled tour departure.

Fees are noted with the descriptions below and include all entrance fees. All fees go toward tour handling, entrance fees, handouts (if any), and group transportation costs. Tour fees are non-refundable.

The type of transportation involved is noted with each tour description. Attendees who opt to use an alternate mode of transportation, e.g., taking a cab instead of using the subway, will be completely responsible for the cost of that transportation.

All bus tours will depart from the Boylston Street entrance of the street level of Hynes Convention Center. Attendees are advised to arrive promptly in the departure areas; there are no refunds for missing the group departures coordinated by the tour leaders.

Keep in mind that the arrival times back to the Hynes Convention Center are estimates only and may vary somewhat due to traffic conditions.

Regional Spotlight Tour 1. The West End: Fifty Years after Herbert Gans' Urban Villagers

Hynes Convention Center, Boylston Street Entrance

Tour Organizer: James Camano, West End Museum Leader: Thomas Koenig, Northeastern University

Regional Spotlight Tour 2. Black Boston Hynes Convention Center, Boylston Street Entrance

Tour Organizer and Leader: Robert B. Hall, Northeastern University

This tour will take attendees to various sites that are important in the historical and cultural life of Boston's Black community.

Regional Spotlight Tour 3. Environmental Justice: A Tour of Boston's Alternatives for Community and Environment

Hynes Convention Center, Boylston Street Entrance

Tour Organizer and Leader: Daniel R. Faber, Northeastern University

Co-Leader: Eric J. Krieg, Buffalo State College

A growing body of research by environmental sociologists in recent years demonstrates that hazardous industrial facilities and waste sites are disproportionately located in communities of color and lower-income neighborhoods. As a result, citizens do not share the same access to a healthy environment. In Massachusetts, community-based environmental justice (EJ) organizations are working for the establishment of local, state and federal government programs and policies which insure environmental equity; and that promote greater citizen participation in state decision-making processes. Please join the staff of Alternatives for Community and Environment (ACE) and Professors Daniel Faber and Eric Krieg for a walking tour of Roxbury that allows you to see how environmental injustices impact this community and how taking action can lead to real change. Much of this portion of the tour will focus on land use/development, transportation and air quality work ACE has conducted over the past 10 years. A bus will transport tour members round trip from the ASA host hotel to ACE headquarters in Roxbury. Please note: $5.00 of the sale of each ticket will be donated to ACE in support of their environmental mission.

Regional Spotlight Tour 4. The Filling of Boston's Back Bay: A Walking Tour

Tour Organizer and Leader: Will Holton, Northeastern University

A recent book has explored the social class motivations behind the planning of the massive urban development project that transformed a horribly polluted former tidal marsh into the wealthiest neighborhood in America. The tour covers the social motivations, powerful personalities, and technological innovations that made the project possible. Learn about the unique neighborhood where the conference is located. The tour guide, Will Holton, is an Associate Professor at Northeastern University and co-author of Boston's Back Bay: The Story of America's Greatest 19th Century Landfill Project (University Press of New England, 2006).

Regional Spotlight Tour 5. The Massachusetts Government

Tour Organizer and Leader: Tim Howard, Northeastern University/Boston University

The magnificent setting of our state government for over two centuries has become an outstanding museum reflecting the history of Massachusetts since colonial times. Its spacious marble-floored corridors are lined with the portraits of Massachusetts governors and murals depicting our state's unique heritage. Adamses, Hancocks, Reverses, and Winthrops live on in statues and paintings recreating the glory of their times. Of course, the State House is also a vital place of work for the leadership that guides our state today. You are welcome to observe the Senate and House of Representatives as they convene in their handsomely appointed chambers.

Regional Spotlight Tour 6. The Boston Founders Trail: A Walking Tour

Tour Organizer and Leader: Will Holton, Northeastern University

Not to be confused with the "Freedom Trail," the Boston Founders Trail was created in 2003 by The Partnership of the Historic Boston (PHB). This tour in Downtown Boston covers sites in the Puritan town of Boston from the 17th century, bringing to life the sociological, cultural, religious, political, and economic elements in the early Colonial period. The tour focuses on early residents from the area around Boston, England in Lincolnshire, including several early political and religious leaders, and the two best known women from the early English colonies—Anne Hutchinson and Anne Bradstreet. The tour guide, Will Holton, is an Associate Professor at Northeastern University and the President of the nonprofit PHB.

Regional Spotlight Tour 7. "Immoral Boston"

Hynes Convention Center, Boylston Street Entrance

Tour Organizers and Leaders: James A. Fox, Northeastern University; Jack Levin, Northeastern University

Two criminologists lead a bus tour of locations in Boston, where infamous crimes and criminals have occurred through history. Included in the tour are the Boston Strangler, Charles Stuart, Whitey Bulger, the Combat Zone, the Brinks Robbery, and the Boston Massacre of 1770.

Regional Spotlight Tour 8. Field Trip to the Dudley Street Neighborhood Initiative Area

Tour Organizer and Leader: Will Holton, Northeastern University

Dudley Street Neighborhood Initiative (DSNI) is well known for its successful development of housing and social services in one of Boston's poorest neighborhoods where many multifamily buildings had been burned down in the 1970s by their owners for the insurance money. Many participants will know the book about DSNI, Streets of Hope, and the video, "Holding Ground." Professor Will Holton of Northeastern University will drive a van from the conference site and lead a walking tour in the DSNI development area in Roxbury and Dorchester. A DSNI staff member will host the group, presenting on its successes and answering questions.

Regional Spotlight Tour 9. City Year: An Innovative Non-Profit 20 Years Strong

Hynes Convention Center, Boylston Street Entrance

Organizer: Thomas Koenig, Northeastern University

Co-Leaders: Lisa Worsh, Northeastern University

Elaine Mak, City Year

City Year was founded in 1988 on the belief that young people can change the world. The organization unites young people of all backgrounds for a year of full-time service, giving them the skills and opportunities to change the world. City Year has trained and hired over 10,400 young adults (as corps members); partnering with more than 1050 corporations and 3,100 service organizations and engaging more than 1,015,000 citizens in service. This tour will visit City Year's headquarters, which is only a few blocks from the hotel, for a discussion with Michael Brown, City Year's Co-founder and CEO, about the complexities of "doing good" in an age of budget cutbacks.

Regional Spotlight Tour 10. Take Me Out to the Ball Game: Boston Red Sox vs. Oakland Athletics

The Boston Red Sox take on the Oakland Athletics on Saturday, August 2, 2008, at Fenway Park. The ASA block of tickets has SOLD OUT. No formal transportation to and from the event will be provided by the ASA. Game Time: 7:02pm.

Film/Video Screenings

Eighteen films have been selected for inclusion in the 2008 film/video screening series, organized by Kyle Murphy, ASA Academic and Professional Affairs Program. Dalton A–B on the 3rd floor at the Sheraton Boston has been set aside for use as a Film/Video Screening room for showing these recent video and film releases throughout the Annual Meeting.

Films and Videos to be shown include in the daily screening schedule are:

Silences explores what happens when an interracial person's identity is completely ignored by his white family and friends? Set in Maumee, Ohio, an idyllic Midwestern suburb with manicured lawns and historic homes, 'Silences' follows the filmmaker's journey to understand his mother, Harriet Warnock, and her refusal to discuss the circumstances of his birth. The camera captures one family's inner demons—one mention of Warnock-Graham's half-black parentage nearly gives his white grandmother a heart attack. Warnock-Graham's family embodies the denial found in multicultural families across the country, and reminds us that the ideal of racial purity persists in America. 22 minutes. 2006. A film by Octavio Warnock-Graham. New Day Films: www.newday.com.

Made Over in America combines the style of reality television with experimental film to weave together the voices of producers and consumers, surgeons and their patients, clinical psychologists, media theorists, and youth who are coming of age in a culture where bodies seem to be customizable. Together they form a picture of how the desire for a better self operates within consumer culture and how this desire is fed by media, the makeover industry and culture at large. The film includes archival material on child development, actual plastic surgery procedures, art video and collage montages showing popular imagery, combined with powerful stories of how far Americans will go to fit in, showing the power of media in shaping ideas of beauty. 65 minutes. CC. 2007. A film by Bernadette Wegenstein and Geoffrey Alan Rhodes. First Run Icarus Films: www.frif.com.

American Ruling Class is at bottom a morality tale, the story of two Yale students (played by Harvard men) who seek their opportunities upon graduation. As the renowned essayist, author and longtime Harper's magazine editor Lewis Lapham conducts them through the corridors of power: Pentagon press briefings, the World Economic Forum, philanthropic foundations, Washington law firms, corporations, banks, the Council on Foreign Relations, and New York society dinners—our two representative graduates “one rich and the other not so rich” must struggle with their responsibilities in “a world collaterally damaged by the magic of money and the miracles of science.” The real-life luminaries they meet on their journey become characters in a story about power, its responsibilities and abuses. 89 minutes. CC. 2007. A film by John Kirby. Bullfrog Films: www.bullfrogfilms.com.

Motherhood Manifesto includes moving personal stories combined with humorous animation, expert commentary and hilarious old film clips that tell the tale of what happens to working mothers and their families in America. See how enlightened employers and public policy can make paid family leave, flexible working hours, part-time parity, universal health-care, excellent childcare, after-school programs and realistic living wages a reality for American families. 57 minutes. CC. 2006. A film by Laura Pacheco and John de Graaf. Bullfrog Films: www.bullfrogfilms.com.

Everything's Cool examines the media strategies, on both sides, that have resulted in the US government's failure to take decisive action on global warming. It is a “toxic comedy” about the most dangerous chasm ever to emerge between scientific understanding and political action—Global Warming. The good news: America finally gets global warming; the chasm is closing and the debate is over. The bad news: the United States, the country that will determine the fate of the globe, must transform its fossil fuel based economy fast, (like in a minute). 89 minutes. CC. 2007. A film by Daniel B. Gold and Judith Helfand. Bullfrog Films: www.bullfrogfilms.com.

Art Beyond Borders examines how the relationship between art and society changes when social life no longer stays within national boundaries. Three artists—Giles Li, a Chinese-American spoken word artist, Samina Ali, an Indian Muslim writer, and Miguel Luciano, a Puerto Rican visual artist—were invited to present and speak about how their work explores the intersection between art, identity, and homeland. Interviews with the artists, as well as the public conversations were filmed and made into this documentary film which speaks not only to the relationship between art and identity, but also to the role of art and artists in bringing about social change. 25 minutes. 2008. A film by Jessica Hejtmanek, Peggy Levitt, and Jenny Alexander. Harvard University Weatherhead Center for International Affairs: wcfa.harvard.edu.

Unnatural Causes: In Sickness and In Wealth sounds the alarm about the extent of our alarming socio-economic and racial inequities in health—and searches for their root causes. But those causes are not what we might expect. While we pour more and more money into drugs, dietary supplements and new medical technologies, this film crisscrosses the country investigating the findings that are shaking up conventional understanding of what really makes us healthy—or sick. 60 minutes. CC. 2008. A film by Larry Adelman. California Newsreel: www.newsreel.org.

Banished vividly recovers the too-quickly forgotten history of racial cleansing in America when thousands of African Americans were driven from their homes and communities by violent, racist mobs. The film places these events in the context of present day race relations by following three concrete cases where black and white citizens warily explore if there is common ground for reconciliation over these expulsions. Banished raises this larger question: will the United States ever make meaningful reparations for the human rights abuses suffered, then and now, against its African American citizens? Can reconciliation between the races be possible without them? 84 minutes. CC. 2007. A film by Marco Williams. California Newsreel: www.newsreel.org.

All of Us tells the story of a young doctor in the South Bronx who embarks on a research project to find out why black women are being infected with the HIV virus at an alarming rate. Dr. Mehret Mandefro takes us into the lives and relationships of two of her female patients, Chevelle and Tara, as they identify and struggle with the social factors that put them at risk. All of Us is about AIDS but it is not a tragedy. It is a story of resilience, sisterhood and courage. 82 minutes. 2008. A film by Emily Abt. Pureland Pictures: www.purelandpictures.com.

Immigrant Reflections is a documentary film in which three immigrants tell their stories of coming to America, finding employment at Boston College, and establishing new lives. A novice filmmaker, Susan Legere received training in film production and “moral support” from the Film Studies Program faculty under the University's Jacques Salmanowitz Program for Moral Courage in Film. Soon after the film was completed last spring, it was accepted for screening on October 20 at the Boston International Latino Film Festival. Legere, who is working toward a Ph.D. in sociology, says her dissertation will build on the film's themes, which “put a ‘face’ on immigration.” 58 minutes. 2007. A film by Susan Legere. <http://at.bc.edu/reborn-in-the-usa/>.

Health for Sale asks: are the world's largest drug companies, paradoxically, major obstacles to making a healthier world? The film focuses on Big Pharma, the ten largest pharmaceutical makers, who account for 500 billion dollars of world health spending a year and whose 205 billion dollars in pre-tax profits were more than the combined profits of the 490 other Fortune 500 companies. Officials from all sides debate the impact of drug companies' patenting, “intellectual property,” pricing and new product development strategies on global public health. These policies, according to Nobel Prize winning economist and former World Bank Chief Economist, Joseph Stiglitz "are condemning billions of the world's poorest citizens to death." 53 minutes. 2007. A film by Michelle Mellara and Alessandro Rossi. California Newsreel: www.newsreel.org.

Cheat You Fair is about a small area in Chicago that was a microcosm of America, a melting-pot of cultures. In its heyday, one could walk down Maxwell Street and hear several different languages being spoken and ethnic foods being sold though Yiddish was the language of barterers. With its rich, ethnic heritage and the unique spirit of cooperation among disparate ethnic groups, Maxwell Street possessed a magic, which captivated all who visited there. This history deserves to be celebrated, for it is representative of an America we have forgotten and the common struggles for all immigrants who came to this country and still arrive today. 89 minutes. 2008. A film by Phil Ranstrom. www.maxwellstreetdocumentary.com.

Voices Beneath the Peak explores the ways in which poverty exists in towns and cities where the easily noticeable elements of concentrated poverty are absent. With a focus on Colorado Springs and the lives of several families there who are trying to get by, the film interrogates whether or not Colorado Springs is in fact the best city in America for all of its residents. 24 minutes. 2008. A film by Michael Shum.

Revolution '67 focuses on the explosive urban rebellion in Newark, New Jersey, in July 1967, to reveal the long-standing racial, economic, and political forces which generated inner city poverty and perpetuate it today. Newark residents, police, officials, and urban commentators, including writer/activist Amiri Baraka, journalist Bob Herbert, prominent historians, and '60s activist Tom Hayden, recount the vivid, day-to-day details of the uprising. But they also trace those traumatic days back to decades of industrial decline, unemployment, job and housing discrimination, federal programs favoring suburbs over cities, police impunity, political corruption, and a costly, divisive overseas war. Americans should not have been surprised when race wars exploded; turning cities into combat zones, bringing Vietnam back home. 90 minutes. CC. 2007. A film by Marylou Tibaldo-Bongiorno. California Newsreel: www.newsreel.org.

King Corn tells the story of two friends who uncover the devastating impact that corn is having on the environment, public health and family farms by growing their own acre of corn in Iowa. With the help of friendly neighbors, genetically modified seeds, and powerful herbicides, they plant and grow a bumper crop of America's most-productive, most-subsidized grain on one acre of Iowa soil. But when they try to follow their pile of corn into the food system, what they find raises troubling questions about how we eat - and how we farm. 90 minutes. CC. 2007. A film by Aaron Woolf, Ian Cheney, and Curt Ellis. Bullfrog Films: www.bullfrogfilms.com.

Can't Do It in Europe portrays a new phenomenon of 'reality tourism,' whereby bored American or European travelers seek out real-life experiences as exciting tourist "adventures." The film follows a group of such international tourists as they visit the mines in Potosi—the poorest city in the poorest nation in Latin America—where Bolivian miners work by hand, just as they did centuries ago, to extract silver from the earth. 46 minutes. 2005. A film by Charlotta Copcutt, Anna Weitz, and Anna Klara Ahren. First Run Icarus Films: www.frif.com.

American Idealist tells of the creation of the Peace Corps, VISTA, Community Action, Head Start, Legal Services for the Poor, Youth Corps, Job Corps, and more. Sargent Shriver invented a string of social initiatives that shaped an era and dared millions of young Americans to live out their ideals. Those who knew him—Bill Moyers, Andrew Young, political commentator Mark Shields, and so many others—have spoken of Shriver in the same breath as Martin Luther King, Jr., calling him a visionary of deep humanity who helped create a more just society. American Idealist brings Shriver's story to life. With its depiction of practical activism, it offers a hopeful vision of what this nation could be and could do, based on the experience of what it once did when pushed by the civil rights movement and guided by the War on Poverty. 90 minutes. 2008. A film by Bruce Orenstein. Chicago Video Project: www.americanidealistmovie.org.

Argentina: Turning Around provides an intimate view of new models of work, politics and community development in Argentina. In the 90s Argentina embraced globalization, but instead of making everyone rich the economy collapsed. The eyes of the world were on Argentina as a desperate people turned to each other for mutual support in a remarkable outpouring of grassroots organizing. Now, several years later, have there been fundamental changes, or is it business as usual? This film provides an intimate view of the new models of work, politics and community development that are now underway, as people re-invent their society to offer a better life for all. 37 minutes. CC. 2008. A film by Mark Dworkin and Melissa Young. Bullfrog Films: www.bullfrogfilms.com.

Special Events

Welcoming Party

All meeting registrants are invited to the Welcoming Party on Thursday, July 31, 9:00–10:30 pm, in the Grand Salon F on the 4th floor of the Boston Marriott Copley Place, to celebrate the opening of the 103rd Annual Meeting. This social hour kicks off at the conclusion of the Opening Plenary and provides opportunities to renew past acquaintances, chat with old friends, and find a newcomer to befriend while enjoying a snack and a drink. New members and first-time meeting attendees are particularly encouraged to come and have fun!

Orientation for First-Time Attendees

If this is the first time you have attended an ASA Annual Meeting, please plan to attend an orientation session at 10:30 am–12:10 pm on Friday, August 1, prior to the mid-day Plenary on the first full day of program sessions. This special orientation hour provides the opportunity to meet Association officers and staff and begin networking with professional colleagues. Advice from ASA Officers and experienced attendees will help you chart a course through the myriad activities and substantive attractions.

ASA Secretary Donald Tomaskovic-Devey and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman host this orientation in the Gloucester Room on the 3rd floor of the Boston Marriott Copley Place. Pointers on navigating the Annual Meeting will be shared in informal roundtable discussion. First-time attendees who pre-registered should look for a reminder ticket in their badge envelopes as soon as they pick up their program packets and come prepared to ask “What makes it work?”

Student Reception

ASA welcomes the attendance of undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to the open Student Reception on Friday, August 1, at 6:30–7:30 pm, in the Gloucester Room on the 3rd floor, of the Boston Marriott Copley Place.

Reception for International Scholars

All scholars from other countries are invited to meet U.S. sociologists interested in international collaboration at a reception for international scholars on Friday, August 1, at 6:30–7:30 pm in the Atrium at the Boston Marriott Copley Place.

Departmental Alumni Night (DAN)

The Departmental Alumni Night (DAN), now in its 35th year, is a social event held after the first full day of sessions, where attendees can connect with friends, colleagues, and foes to reminisce about graduate school days, create new coalitions, and catch up on the latest news.

This traditional gathering will begin at 9:30 pm on Friday, August 1, in the Grand Ballroom at the Sheraton Boston. All meeting attendees are invited to an evening full of conversation without musical competition.

Each graduate department of sociology in the United States and Canada was given the opportunity to sponsor a table to attract alumni and friends. Participating schools are listed below. Tables will also be provided for sociologists in business and industry as well as for international scholars and guests.

Participating departments are:

Community College Faculty Breakfast

Colleagues teaching in community colleges are invited to a special continental breakfast at 7:00 am on Sunday, August 3, in the Fenway Ballroom on the lower level of the Hilton Boston Back Bay. Join colleagues in a series of ice breaker activities and a conversation with community college faculty facilitated by Carol A. Jenkins of Glendale Community College. Mark your calendar for this early bird event where you can meet other colleagues teaching at community colleges.

In Remembrance

At the beginning of the Presidential Plenary (Saturday, August 2, 4:30–6:30 pm), there will be a Moment of Remembrance to honor those members of the profession, and those close to them, who died during the past year. Names submitted to Footnotes since last year's Annual Meeting are listed below. If you know of others who should be on this list but whose names do not appear below, please contact ASA Meeting Services staff in the Jefferson Room at the Sheraton Boston by 5:00 pm on Friday, August 1.

Just Desserts!

A Teaching Enhancement Fundraiser

Looking to escape the pressures of presenting papers, searching book displays, and participating in committee meetings? Come and relax with friends at this benefit event for the Teaching Enhancement Fund (TEF), "Just Desserts." Bring your sweet tooth along to enjoy special desserts, good coffee, stimulating conversation, and then smile that all this pleasure goes to a good cause.

Saturday, August 2

9:30–11:00 pm

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Atrium

$25 donor, $50 sponsor, $100 benefactor

Admission is by ticket only. Proceeds from each ticket will go toward supporting the Teaching Enhancement Fund, a small grants program designed to support teaching-related projects that have long lasting and transferable impact.

Those who enrolled in advance should have received their tickets with their name badges. Others may purchase tickets at ASA On-Site Registration in the Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center until 1:00 pm on Saturday, August 2.

Section Receptions

In addition to sponsoring substantive program sessions, ASA Sections often host receptions for their section members during the Annual Meeting. These informal social events are primarily held in the evenings on the first and third days of the meeting, and all members of the sponsoring section are welcome to attend. Sometimes several sections will co-host a joint reception, which doubles or triples the fun!

Registration Services

Registration confirmations were mailed for all meeting preregistrations received by the announced deadline. Attendees who sent materials after the deadline will find their paperwork held for registration processing at the ASA Situations counters in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center.

Preregistration Pickup. Attendees who preregistered may pick up badges, program packets, and special tickets at the Preregistration counters in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center. See registration service hours below.

On-Site Registration. Those who missed the July 1 preregistration deadline should go to the On-Site Registration counters in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center to register for the meeting.

Registration Services Hours:

Thursday, July 31	1:30–7:00 pm
Friday, August 1	8:00 am–5:30 pm
Saturday, August 2	8:00 am–5:30 pm
Sunday, August 3	8:00 am–5:30 pm
Monday, August 4	8:00 am–1:00 pm

On-Site Fees. Rates for Members and Non-members are shown below. Forms are available in the ASA Registration area. Registration for the Annual Meeting is on a flat fee basis; no “day rates” are available.

Rates for Members:

Regular/Associate	$195
Student	$115
Retired sociologist	$115
Unemployed sociologist	$115
Secondary school teacher	$115

Rates for Non-Members:

General	$405
Outside the U.S.	$195
Non-sociologist	$195
Secondary school teacher	$115

Name Badges. Your name badge is required for admission to all convention functions including entry to the ASA Exhibits, Employment Service, and Child Care Service areas. Attendance at events which require fee payment (e.g., Courses, Seminars, Chair Conference, Director of Graduate Studies Conference, TEF Just Desserts, MFP Benefit, Tours) is restricted to meeting registrants.

A general registrant may sign up for one guest pass ($20) to provide a courtesy badge for a spouse, partner, family member, or other guest. This guest pass provides only a name badge; the Final Program packet is not supplied. Information printed on a guest badge is restricted to the name of the guest; affiliation will not be printed. Individuals attending the meeting in a professional capacity are expected to register in one of the full registration categories listed above.

Refunds/Cancellations. All registration-related fees are non-refundable as of July 1, 2008. Unfortunately, under no circumstances can ASA issue refunds for no-shows. Program participant registration fees are non-refundable; cancellations will not be accepted nor refunds issued.

Tickets for Events and Services

Registrants already signed up for seminars, courses, tours, employment or child care services, and special events should have received tickets with their meeting packets. Those who did not make advance reservations may check at the ASA On-Site registration counters in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center for ticket availability.

Event tickets are non-refundable and cancellations cannot be accepted. You may, however, sell your ticket to someone else if you are unable to attend.

Membership Desk

Information on ASA membership and subscriptions will be provided at the Membership tables in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center. The Membership desk will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and will be open during the same hours as ASA Registration. Attendees may learn about current membership benefits and join the Association, sign up for Section memberships, and subscribe to ASA journals. Display copies of current journals will be available for reference.

Section Information

Looking for information about the ASA Sections and sections-in-formation, or copies of 2008 section newsletters? Check the Section Display Tables near the ASA Membership desk in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center.

Every Section was invited to designate representatives to staff the display table during each meeting day and provide information on special section activities. Staff from the ASA Executive Office will be nearby at the Membership Desk to answer questions about joining any and all sections.

ASA Message Center

The electronic message center is located in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center and in the 3rd floor foyer at the Boston Marriott Copley Place. These stations offer access to your web and internet services as well as to the ASA Message Service. The ASA Message Service enables the on-site exchange of messages as well as offers access to those not at the meeting site.

The message station at the Boston Marriott Copley Place is available on a 24-hour basis. The message state at the Hynes available during registration hours.

ASA Bookstore

The ASA Bookstore features works published by the Association. Located in Exhibit Hall D, near the ASA Poster Areas at the Hynes Convention Center, the Bookstore will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and open throughout the four days of the Annual Meeting during the same hours as ASA Exhibits (see below).

All attendees are welcome to browse through this area filled with recent journal issues, teaching resources and syllabi sets, career publications, sociological practice materials, directories, and reference volumes. The online ASA Bookstore will be available at a kiosk located in the Bookstore to complete online orders for those who'd rather not purchase and carry materials home. Items purchased through the online ASA Bookstore will be shipped after the Annual Meeting.

Exhibits

The ASA Exhibits are located in Exhibit Hall D at the Hynes Convention Center. Exhibits will be open to meeting registrants on all four days of the meeting.

ASA Exhibit Hours:

Friday, August 1	2:00 –6:00 pm
Saturday, August 2	9:00 am–4:00 pm
Sunday, August 3	9:00 am–5:00 pm
Monday, August 4	9:00 am–1:00 pm

The location of the Exhibits offers excellent accessibility to meeting attendees, due to its close proximity to Poster Sessions, the ASA Bookstore and the concession stand. Always one of the most popular activities at the Annual Meeting, Exhibits offer variety, convenience, and an opportunity to discover current trends in sociological publishing, information processing, and services.

Meeting attendees are encouraged to schedule several visits to the Exhibit area so that ample time can be given to exploring the many offerings. Browse through the latest sociological publications, explore current computer software, chat with representatives of statistical resources and informational literature, and meet the editor of your next publication!

See the Directory of Exhibitors elsewhere in this Program for the names and booth numbers of all exhibitors. Don't forget to look through the Program for special ads too.

All persons wishing access to ASA Exhibits must be paid registrants for the Annual Meeting; badges are required for entrance into this area.

Employment Service

The annual ASA Employment Service assists sociologists and prospective employers by providing convenient opportunities for employers and job seekers to meet in a neutral, monitored environment for initial short interviews during the Annual Meeting. Last year in New York City, 92 employers listed 126 positions, including 9 openings outside academia. 436 candidates registered with the service and 1,835 screening interviews were scheduled.

Employers and preregistered job seekers are able to enter their information in an online module and use an interactive scheduling calendar to set up interview appointments during the Annual Meeting.

All service users were urged to preregister by July 1 in order to take full advantage of the pre-convention communication opportunities that the new online Employment Service (ES) offers. Interviewers and candidates were also encouraged to bring their own laptops (equipped with wireless cards) with them so that they can more easily maintain communications during the Annual Meeting. The on-site service desk in the Employment Service areas will provide a few computer terminals for use by registered ES users, and the ASA Message Center, which permits web access, will also be accessible in the ASA Registration area.

Location and Hours. The Employment Service will be open in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center during the hours listed below.

Thursday, July 31, 1:30–6:30 pm

Friday, August 1, 8:00 am–5:30 pm

Saturday, August 2, 8:00 am–5:30 pm

Sunday, August 3, 8:00 am–5:30 pm

Monday, August 4, 8:00am–1:00 pm

Preregistrants should first pick up their ASA badges in Exhibit Hall C at the Hynes Convention Center and have their ES ticket in hand before proceeding to the Employment Service.

Employers. The move to an electronically-based service initiated one change in Employment Service (ES) registration. Employers pay the ES fee online when they enter the information about the position(s) they wish to post in the ES. As part of the ES registration process, employers are asked to identify who will be interviewing on-site at the Annual Meeting, and they are able to search the roster of preregistrants to select their interviewers. Interviewers must be registered for the Annual Meeting in order to use the online service and set up appointments.

Candidates. Those who are looking for positions should have preregistered for the Annual Meeting and for the Employment Service before the July 1 preregistration deadline. Those who preregistered may log into the online

ES module and fill out the Candidate Profile Form, upload a full resume (if desired), view jobs posted by Employers, mark their ES calendars to show their availability for interviews, and respond to interview requests.

Interview Scheduling. All initial interview appointments are to be scheduled through the online Employment Service.

Interviewers and candidates are encouraged to bring their own laptops (equipped with wireless cards) with them so that they can more easily maintain communications about interview appointments during the Annual Meeting. The Interview Room provides one table per employer where designated interviewers may meet with candidates at the agreed-upon appointment times. On-site staff will assist with reminders of the 20-minute appointment intervals so that appointment schedules stay on-time throughout the day.

On-Site Registration. Individuals who did not preregister and now want to use the Employment Service, whether as Candidate or Interviewer, must register first for the Annual Meeting. Please see "Registration Services" for on-site registration rates. Fees for candidates to use the Employment Service, which may be paid during your meeting registration process at the On-Site Registration desks, are $25 for ASA members, $60 for non-members. There is no additional service fee for Interviewers since the listing fee is paid when the employer posts the job. Employers with job listings may go directly online to enter and pay for the listing ($275) and then designate the on-site interviewers. All job listings must be paid for before access to online service areas can be granted.

When fully registered, your next step is to visit the Employment Service help desks in Exhibit Hall C, where you will be given a brief orientation to the new service procedures and issued a pass permitting your entrance to the Interview Room any time it is open. No one will be admitted without a pass; "browsing" by non-registered attendees is not permitted.

After the Meeting. The online Employment Service site will remain open after the Annual Meeting is over to permit registered candidates and interviewers to reference information posted there. Users may create pdf files of job listings or candidate profiles for future reference, if they wish. The online 2008 Employment Service will close to registered users at the end of October 2008.

Child Care

ASA is continuing the tradition of providing an innovative program of activities for children of Annual Meeting registrants. Arrangements have again been made with KiddieCorp to offer a full childcare program during daytime session hours for preregistered children between the ages of 6 months to 12 years.

KiddieCorp is dedicated to providing quality childcare services across the nation for meeting attendees. Staffing is based on a 1:2 ratio for children 6 months to 1 year, 1:3 ratios for children 1–2 years of age and a 1:5 ratio for children 3–12 years of age. The program includes a customized hourly schedule of creative and educational activities, age-appropriate toys and games, popular arts and crafts projects, and child-pleasing movies and cartoon videos.

The Child Care Service is located in Fairfax A–B at the Sheraton Boston. This service is available to preregistrants only. The non-refundable preregistration deposit of $50 per child will be applied to the daily usage fees on-site. Daily use fees per preregistered child are $50 per full day, $30 per half day. For children using the service for shorter periods, the half-day fee will apply to encourage stable populations. Fees include on-site activities and snacks; lunch is not included but meal arrangements can be made through the hotel.

Service hours are 8:00 am–6:30 pm on Friday–Sunday, August 1–3, and 8:00 am–4:30 pm on Monday, August 4. Parents/guardians using these services must be registrants for the Annual Meeting.

There is no guarantee that non-preregistered families can be accommodated on-site. Child care providers reserve the right to refuse admittance to non-preregistrants. IF there are any openings, fees for children who were not preregistered will be $75 per day per child. No half-day rates are available for non-preregistered children; no exceptions.

Accessibility Resources and Services

The ASA offers several services and oversight arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. The ASA Office will coordinate resources during the meeting week for registrants with physical disabilities who are attending the Annual Meeting. Special services, which were arranged in advance, may be verified with ASA staff to ensure that you receive the assistance you need. Should you encounter any problems during the meeting or need any additional information while at the Annual Meeting, please contact Meeting Services staff in the on-site ASA Office.

Comfort Zone. Attendees coping with illness, meeting fatigue, or stress may use the small room set aside by ASA as a “safe haven” to escape briefly from the noise and bustle of meeting activities. The designated Comfort Zone at the Sheraton Boston is Clarendon A–B on the 3rd floor. At the Boston Marriott Copley Place, the Nantucket room is the designated Comfort Zone. Families with breast-feeding needs should stop by the ASA Office in the Jefferson Room at the Sheraton Boston for assistance in finding a private location.

Sessions. ASA has made arrangements for sign language interpreters, sighted guides, and other communication avenues for meeting registrants who provided information in advance of the meeting.

Travel. For travel tips and access information, visit the Society for Accessible Travel and Hospitality (SATH) website, www.sath.org. Attendees with mobility impairments who are flying in and out of Boston are advised to notify their airline 24 hours before departure if they need assistance in getting from their arrival gate to the baggage claim area.

Airline and airport personnel will gladly assist any meeting attendee needing assistance. Free, Accessible 24 hour shuttle bus service is available to and from the Economy Lot and Boston Logan’s terminals every 20 minutes. Disabled parking is also available nearest the bus shelter. While in the terminals, Massport also provides Accessible Van Service to terminals, the Airport MBTA Station (which is not currently wheelchair accessible) and to Wood Island MBTA Station (which is wheelchair accessible). To request service, use the free “Van Phone” in terminal baggage claim areas or call (617) 561–1770.

Other Services. Registrants who did not make advance arrangements for services or equipment are requested to contact staff at the ASA Office in the Jefferson Room at the Sheraton Boston. Every reasonable effort will be made to assist registrants on-site. However, if you have a physical disability and need special services, equipment, or accommodations, and did not notify ASA in advance of your arrival at the meeting site, ASA may not be able to provide appropriate services due to the limited availability of some equipment and services.

For more than twenty years, ASA has provided special services and oversight arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. For an overview, please read the article on “Committee and Executive Office Collaborate to Make Annual Meeting Accessible,” published in the April 2007 issue of ASA’s newsletter Footnotes.

Press Office

Press and media representatives are invited to check in at the on-site ASA Press Office for program information and interview assistance. The Press Office is located in Exeter A–B at the Sheraton Boston Office hours are 5:00–

7:00 pm on July 31, 8:00 am–5:00 pm on August 1–3, and 8:00 am–1:00 pm on August 4.

Meeting attendees are also encouraged to drop by the on-site Press Office and provide information on their availability to discuss their work with the media while in Boston.

Course

- 1. Pre-Convention Course. Early Childhood Studies at the National Center for Education Statistics: The Early Childhood Longitudinal Studies and the National Household Education Surveys Program (10:00 am–5:30 pm)

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Provincetown, Fourth Floor

This course introduces researchers to three nationally representative early childhood studies conducted by the Institute of Education Sciences' National Center for Education Statistics: the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study, Kindergarten Class of 1998–99 (ECLS-K), the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study, Birth Cohort (ECLS-B), and the National Household Education Surveys Program (NHES). The session provides overviews of the studies' content and design, highlights about data pertaining to children from birth through 8th grade, and information about how the three surveys compliment each other. The leaders also highlight technical issues researchers must recognize to correctly analyze these data, such as the use of weights and correct standard error estimation. This course is for graduate students, faculty, and researchers who seek knowledge about the structure and potential uses of the surveys and have little experience with these data.

Opening of the 103rd Annual Meeting

Plenary

2. Opening Plenary Session. Future of the American Labor Movement

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon E, Fourth Floor

Organizer: Arne L. Kalleberg, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill

President: Marshall Ganz, Harvard University

The 103rd Annual Meeting opens on the evening of July 31 with a panel presentation featuring Steve Greenhouse of the New York Times; Sara Horowitz of the Freelancers Union (NYC) and Bruce Raynor of Unite Here. The panel will discuss the future of the American labor movement. Organized labor has been on the decline for decades and the working class as a whole has suffered consequently. As we close another decade and experience the end of the current presidential administration, our chronic problems have become an acute crisis. Can ways be found to turn this around, to rebuild a labor movement that can defend and advance the interests of American working people? One hopeful sign is that a serious discussion is emerging in both leadership circles and among the ranks about the future direction of labor. Join us as the panelists engage in a frank, wide ranging exchange of ideas.

9:00 pm Reception
Welcoming Party (to 10:00 pm)—
Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon F, Fourth Floor

All meeting registrants are invited to the Welcoming Party which follows the Opening Plenary Session on Thursday evening, July 31, and celebrates the opening of the 103rd Annual Meeting. This social hour kicks off at 9:00 pm and provides opportunities to renew past acquaintances, chat with old friends, and find a new-comer to befriend. New members and first-time meeting attendees are particularly encouraged to come and have fun!

Friday, August 1

The length of each daytime session/meeting activity is one hour and forty minutes, unless noted otherwise. The usual turnover schedule is as follows:

8:30 am–10:10 am

10:30 am–12:10 pm

12:30 pm–2:10 pm

2:30 pm–4:10 pm

4:30 pm–6:10 pm

Session presiders and committee chairs are requested to see that sessions and meetings end on time to avoid conflicts with subsequent activities scheduled into the same room.

7:00 am Meetings

Section on Aging and the Life Course Council Meeting (to 8:15 am)—Hilton Boston Back Bay, Copley, Second Floor

8:30 am Sessions
3. Thematic Session. Gender and Work: Global, Local, and Transnational Perspectives

Sheraton Boston, Independence West, Second Floor

Organizer and Presider: Esther Ngan-ling Chow, American University

The Gender Ideological Clash of Globalization: Women and Work in the Case of the Philippines. Rhacel Salazar Parrenas, University of California-Davis

Organizing Domestic Work at the Local, National, and Transnational Levels. Evangelia Tastsoglou, Saint Mary's University, Canada; Laura Alpranti-Maratou, National Centre for Social Research (EKKE)

Women's Unpaid and Domestic Labor in Brazil: A Study in Inequality Between and Among Gender. Solange de Deus Simoes, Eastern Michigan University; Neuma Aguiar, Universidad Federal de Minas Gerais

The Global Meets the Local: An Analysis of the Impact of Global Economic Reform on Ghanaian Women's Work. Akosua K. Darkwah, University of Ghana-Legon

We interrogate how macro forces have impacted on women's and men's world of work in the ways that work is organized, experienced, and transformed and how the results, in turn, shape and even change identity, ideology, gender relations and social institutions at the global, transnational and local levels. We also examine how gendered work is bound up with class, race/ethnicity, and nationality in influencing the nature of various types of women's work (paid or unpaid; formal or informal) and how social organizations, labor processes, and job consequences inevitably intersect these macro-micro linkages. The papers represent a variety of global issues concerning gendered work, inequality and social injustice from Africa, Asia, Europe, and Latin America.

4. Thematic Session. Racial Ideologies, Reflexivity, and Care Work
Research

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay C, Second Floor

Organizer and Presider: Mary Claire Tuominen, Denison University Panel: Dorothy Roberts, Northwestern University

Evelyn Nakano Glenn, University of California-Berkeley

Mignon C. Duffy, University of Massachusetts-Lowell

Care work scholars seek to make visible and challenge the racial, ethnic, and gender ideologies that devalue both care work and care workers. Nonetheless, care work scholars may reproduce these ideological binaries in our work and, therefore, may contribute to the very devaluation of care work that we seek to challenge. Panelists reflect on both explicit and implicit racial and ethnic ideologies in care work scholarship and the importance of self-reflexivity in our care work research and theorizing.

5. Thematic Session. Social Inequality and Social Policy

Organizer: Barbara F. Reskin, University of Washington

6. Thematic Session. Transforming the Employment Institutions Required to Sustain the American Dream: The Challenge to Our Nation's Schools of Industrial Relations and Human Resources

Sheraton Boston, Constitution B, Second Floor

Organizers: Joel Cutcher-Gershenfeld, University of Illinois; David Finegold, Rutgers University

Presider: Joel Cutcher-Gershenfeld, University of Illinois

Panel: Harry Katz, Cornell University

Connie Wanberg, University of Minnesota

Adrienne Eaton, Rutgers University

Emilio J. Castilla, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Approximately sixty years ago, many states established schools, institutes and centers focused on labor and industrial relations—all with a three-fold mission involving teaching, research and extension. Today, these programs have all evolved to serve a need for human resource professionals, but they retain their core commitments to advancing theory, practice and policy in our field. This panel will feature leaders from some of the top programs in the field, reflecting on the role of these academic programs to anticipate and address the challenges of an emerging global, knowledge-driven economy. Thus, the focus on two forms of institutional transformation—transformation in employment relations' practices and policies, and transformation of the educational institutions centered in this domain. Included in the dialogue will be:

- Fostering cooperative norms among IR/HR schools (in contrast with competitive norms among business schools)
- Establishing a virtual classroom for shared doctoral education among these programs
- Coordinating efforts at state and national levels to help revitalize the American Dream
- Aligning faculty teaching and research with a changing social and economic context
- Utilizing leadership tools and methods matched to an expanded mission

7. Special Session. Religious Practices in a Secular World (co-sponsored by the Association for the Sociology of Religion)

Boston Park Plaza & Towers, Berkeley/Clarendon, Mezzanine Level

Organizer and Presider: Nancy Ammerman, Boston University

Arrangements of Hospital Chaplains. Wendy Cadge, Brandeis University

Space for God: Exploring the Boundaries of Sacred Space in Everyday Life. Roman R. Williams, Boston University
Discussant: Nancy Ammerman, Boston University

8. Special Session. Sociology of Religion and Science

Sheraton Boston, Commonwealth, Third Floor

Organizer: Joan H. Fujimura, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Panel: Ron Numbers, University of Wisconsin-Madison

John H. Evans, University of California-San Diego

9. Academic Workshop. Integrating Critical Thinking Through Writing-Intensive Classes

Organizer and Leader: Anne Frances Eisenberg, State University of New York-Geneseo

Co-Leader: Lisa Meyer, State University of New York-Geneseo

The purpose of the workshop is to first identify key elements of critical thinking, discuss key aspects of integrating such elements into class activities and assignments (including providing examples), provide the guidelines to assist faculty in developing their own assignments which we will then illustrate with workshop participants as part of the session.

10. Asian Americans: Labor Market and Political Participation

Hilton Boston Back Bay, Washington, Third Floor

Organizer: Grace Kao, University of Pennsylvania

 Discussant: Viviana A. Zelizer, Princeton University
 Networks and institutions mutually shape one another. Over time, this co-evolutionary process creates, sustains, and transforms social worlds. The cognitive categories, conventions, rules, expectations, and logics that give institutions their force also condition the formation and dissolution of relationships and thus the network structures that act as the skeletons of fields. But networks are more than just the scaffolds and circulatory systems of organizational fields. They are also the source of "horizontal" distinctions among categories of individuals, organizations, and actions, as well as "vertical" status differentials. While institutions shape structures and condition their effects, networks generate the categories and hierarchies that help define institutions and contribute to their efficacy.

28. Presidential Panel. What's Happening to the American Dream? Sheraton Boston, Constitution A, Second Floor

On Working Families, Employment Relations, and the American Dream. Thomas A. Kochan, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

On Immigrant Incorporation, Assimilation, and the American Dream. Rubén G. Rumbaut, University of California-Irvine

On Consumers, Indebtedness, and the American Dream. Teresa A. Sullivan, University of Michigan

The American Dream continues to be pursued by U.S. residents and individuals from all world regions, but persistent disparities shape life chances and public policy. Whether they consider themselves to be consumers, immigrants, or workers, individuals in pursuit of a material life style, identity, or social status encounter obstacles and opportunities along the paths they take toward achieving their Dreams. This panel discussion of the American Dream assesses the social and public policy implications of the disparities in attainment of the American Dream.

29. Thematic Session. Displaced Workers: Coping with Job Loss

Sheraton Boston, Independence West, Second

Floor

Organizer: Kenneth Root, Ken Root & Associates

Presider: Amy Blackstone, University of Maine

Panel: Yolanda Kodrzycki, Federal Reserve Bank-Boston

Thomas S. Moore, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Carolyn C. Perrucci, Purdue University

Kenneth Root, Ken Root & Associates

Panelists will review our knowledge of selected concepts, themes, and methods related to job loss, and suggest needed research or new approaches to understand displaced worker adjustment.

30. Thematic Session. Scientists in Bureaucracies

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Arlington, Third

Organizer: Diane Vaughan, Columbia University

Presider: Jason Owen-Smith, University of Michigan

Outsourcing Corporate R&D to "Independent" Laboratories. Fred Block, University of California-Davis

Governing Green Laboratories: Trust and Surveillance in the Cultures of Science. Susan S. Silbey, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The Politics of Scientists in Bureaucracies: A Report from the Field. Michael Halpern, Union of Concerned Scientists

Discussant: Andrew Abbott, University of Chicago

The panel examines constraints on the production of scientific knowledge that originate in the joining of professional autonomy with bureaucratic regulation. Fred Block will set up the structural circumstances in work changes, examining the shift of significant portions of corporate R&D to universities, government laboratories, and industry consortia. He examines the advantages to firms and the trade-offs for scientists who work in these settings. Susan Silbey's research gives the micro-level picture, using the ethnographic study of scientists working in laboratories at MIT to show how different specialties within science respond differently to government regulation. Francesca Grifo reports on the political actions of both government and scientists collectively responding to government constraints. Andrew Abbott will discuss the papers from the perspective of professional systems.

31. Thematic Session. The World of Household Work

Organizer: Judith Treas, University of California-Irvine

Changing Contours of Inside Work in Post-Socialist China. Susan E. Short, Brown University

Despite widespread acceptance of married women's employment, women confront a "second shift" of housework and childcare at the end of the working day. Even when employed full-time, wives spend more hours doing housework than do husbands, performing the more tedious tasks. Time spent in housework depresses married women's wages in the workplace. At home, the unequal division of labor is linked to marital conflict, divorce, and sub-replacement fertility. Searching Sociological Abstracts reveals 853 articles on housework in peer-reviewed journals published since 1978, but this research focuses largely on the micro-level characteristics of the partners and their household to the neglect of macro-level influences. Only lately have sociologists leveraged on cross-national comparisons to embed domestic practices in state policy, occupational structure, cultural ideology, kinship organization, and other macro-level contexts. In keeping with the program theme, the session's insights emerge from a global perspective on household work. This session brings to the attention of the broader discipline findings from a new direction of scholarship—findings with implications not merely for the study of the family, but also for gender, inequality, and the state.

32. Thematic Session. Volunteer Work/Work in Civil Society

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay C, Second Floor

Organizer: Thomas Rotolo, Washington State University

Presider: John Wilson, Duke University

Education and Voluntary Association Participation: An Event
History Analysis. Rene Bekkers and Stijn Ruiter, Radboud University Nijmegen

Is Volunteering "Work" in Retirement? Susan M. Chambre, City University of New York-Baruch College; Christopher Justin Einolf, University of Virginia

Discussant: John Wilson, Duke University

Volunteering is an often overlooked, but very important, form of work. Estimates suggest that 61.2 million adults in the United States volunteered last year (Corporation for National and Community Service 2007). In this session on Volunteering, a diverse group of prominent scholars from around the world will present their latest research on volunteer work. Before the meetings, presenters will circulate papers to one another and raise questions they would like to consider in the discussion. In the session, authors will summarize papers in short presentations. A discussant will lead the session and encourage audience members to interact with authors.

33. Thematic Session. Worlds without Work: African Americans and the Crisis of Joblessness

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay B, Second Floor

Organizer: Sandra S. Smith, University of California-Berkeley Joblessness, Discrimination, and Inner-city Education: Historical Perspectives on a Contemporary Crisis. Kathryn M. Neckerman, Columbia University

Declining Employment among Young Black Men: Economic Determinants and Implications? Harry Holzer, Georgetown University

Racial Inequality, Mass Imprisonment, and the U.S. Labor Market.
Bruce Western, Harvard University

The Cultural Logic of Low-Income African Americans on Work and Occupations in the Urban Sphere. Alford A. Young, Jr., University of Michigan

Chronic black joblessness is most often explained in terms of human capital deficiencies and pervasive employer discrimination, the changing structure of urban economies, skyrocketing rates of incarceration, and cultural logics. In this session, each of the four panelists will examine the causes and consequences of joblessness among lesser-skilled black men and women living in major urban areas from one of these perspectives, adopting a comprehensive approach to the crisis of joblessness experienced by the black poor.

34. Special Session. Manufacturing Gender in the Media (co-sponsored by the ASA Committee on the Status of Women in Sociology)

Organizer: Rae Lesser Blumberg, University of Virginia

35. Special Session. Partnering for Change: How Researchers Are Helping Shelter Workers and Religious Leaders Create a Shared Discourse about Domestic Violence (co-sponsored by Association for the Sociology of Religion)

Boston Park Plaza & Towers, Berkeley/Clarendon, Mezzanine Level

Organizer: Nancy Nason-Clark, University of New Brunswick

Presenter: Mary Jo Neitz, University of Missouri

Panel: Nancy Nason-Clark, University of New Brunswick

Catherine Clark Kroeger, Gordon Conwell Theological Seminary

Steve McMullin, University of New Brunswick

Julie Owens, North Carolina Council for Women and Domestic Violence Coalition

RAVE Presentation: Lanette D. Ruff, Barbara Fisher-Townsend and Cathy Holtmann, University of New Brunswick

This panel presentation on partnering for change looks at how researchers are helping shelter workers and religious leaders create a shared discourse about domestic violence. We are highlighting the RAVE (Religion and Violence e-Learning) Project which employs knowledge from different discourse communities to create web-based modules that pastors and religious leaders can access in the privacy of their offices to learn how to help abused women who come to them for counsel. The panel will focus on how the team worked together, using data collected in a variety of contexts, employing various strategies, in order to build coalitions with groups of people in different places who share a common goal for social change.

36. Author Meets Critics Session. Passing the Torch: Does Higher Education for the Disadvantaged Pay Off Across the Generations? (Russell Sage, 2007) by Paul Attewell and David Lavin Political leaders and social scientists discuss the impact of Boston's political history on the current issues facing Massachusetts.

38. Didactic Seminar. Designing and Implementing Large Scale, Comparative, Qualitative/Ethnographic Research

Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

This course will prepare attendees to think about design and implementation issues with large scale multi site qualitative research. A special focus will be on mixed method research projects. Case studies will be drawn from the workshop leaders' past research, including the Qualitative Addition to the Fragile Families and Child Wellbeing Study, a multi city study of nonmarital childbearing, and the Qualitative Addition to the Moving to Opportunity Experiment, a large multi site housing mobility study.

39. Professional Workshop. Grant Writing for Sexualities Research and Other Controversial Topics in the Current Political Climate (part of the Research Support Forum)

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon A, Fourth Floor

Organizer and Leader: Tina Fetner, McMaster University

Panel: Joane Nagel, University of Kansas

Lee Herring, American Sociological Association

Rene Almeling, Yale University

It is informally acknowledged by all that, when it comes to sex-related research, there is a new norm of using coded language to mask the purpose of research from public view. This is in response to the practice of conservative politicians' practice of singling out sex-related research as particularly unworthy of funding. This informal practice of encoding grant proposals and hiding the real purpose of research has a number of negative consequences, several of which might be addressed in the proposed special session. This workshop will address the current political scrutiny of grant proposals for research on controversial topics, especially certain kinds of sexual behavior, such as men having sex with men, prostitution, and anonymous sexual encounters. The presenters of the workshop will be those who have had an insider's view of the granting process in recent years, such as current or former program officers at the NSF, NIH and NIMH, and scholars who have won grants on controversial topics in recent years. The intended audience is scholars who research controversial topics, both faculty and graduate students. The workshop will provide information on how to write a successful grant on controversial topics and explore opportunities for resistance.

40. Data Resources Workshop. Studying Child Care and Education in the United States: Using Data from the National Household Education Surveys Program (NHES)

Sheraton Boston, Beacon G, Third Floor

Organizer and Leader: Gail M. Mulligan, National Center for Education Statistics

This workshop will provide participants with tools for utilizing data from the National Household Education Surveys Program (NHES), which addresses educational issues in all stages of life. Primary topics covered by the NHES surveys are young children's participation in non-parental care and early education, school readiness, family involvement in education, after-school care and activities, and adult participation in educational activities. Extensive socio-demographic information, for example, education level, receipt of public assistance, and country of origin, is also collected. The NHES is a nationally representative, large-scale, cross-sectional telephone survey that has been conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics approximately every 2 years since 1991. With an emphasis on consistent measurement across time, the NHES is an invaluable resource for examining population trends. This workshop will detail the NHES study design, the topics covered across multiple surveys, and the technical issues relevant to use of the data, including producing a datafile using Electronic Codebook software, weighting the data to produce population estimates, and adjusting standard errors to conduct accurate hypothesis testing. Workshop participants will receive CD-Roms containing data from all administrations of the NHES (from 1991 to 2007), binders with workshop presentations, and copies of recent NHES reports.

62. Section on Social Psychology Invited Session. Theoretical Research Programs in Social Psychology: Past and Prospects

Hilton Boston Back Bay, Belvidere A, Second Floor

Organizer and Presider: David G. Wagner, State University of New York-Albany

Expectation States Theory. Joseph Berger, Stanford University

Network Exchange Theory. David Willer, University of South Carolina

Affect Control Theory. Lynn Smith-Lovin, Duke University

Social Exchange Theory. Karen S. Cook, Stanford University; Coye V. Cheshire, University of California-Berkeley

Panelists will present and discuss some important aspects of the programs they have been key in developing. In particular, they will consider:

- What they believe have been the important achievements, the signal accomplishments of their programs;
- What blind alleys followed or opportunities missed they can identify in the development of their programs; and
- What they think is likely to be (or should be) the focus of their programs in the future?

63. Section on Sociology of Culture Invited Session. Global Differences in Conceptualizing Culture (co-sponsored by the ASA Theory Section)

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay D, Second Floor

Organizers: Mark D. Jacobs, George Mason University; Paul R. Lichterman, University of Southern California; and Ann Mische, Rutgers University

Presider: Paul R. Lichterman, University of Southern California

Panel: Thomas S. Eberle, University of St. Gallen

Daniel Cefai, University of Paris X-Nanterre

Evelina Dagnino, University of Campinas

Eiko Ikegami, New School for Social Research

Discussant: Michele Lamont, Harvard University

This panel explores how academic conceptions of culture differ, intersect, and travel across diverse national and regional contexts. "Culture" has arguably become one of the central conceptual terms in U.S. sociology over the past two decades. Yet, the concept remains ambiguous, and it doesn't always "translate" well into other national and regional sociological traditions. We aim to begin a conversation with these questions in mind: What accounts for these difficulties in translation? How can U.S. sociologists communicate our culture concepts to counterparts from other parts of the world? How can concepts that originate outside of American sociological conversations inform and deepen cultural sociology in the US? Which concepts work well, for which kinds of questions, across national boundaries? How do the different intellectual traditions and national histories behind different sociologies inform their embrace or avoidance of culture concepts today? What do the sociologies of different countries see, or highlight, or not see so well, as a result of their relations to culture concepts?

Bob Kuttner, The American Prospect

Globalization, the spread of neo-liberal political ideology, and growing population diversity are three of the major drivers producing change in work and society in the 21st century. Increasing inequality and insecurity have made the attainment of a good job, a comfortable retirement, home ownership, affordable health care, and a better future for one's children problematic for millions of Americans. The percentage of people living in poverty remains high despite the economic boom of the 1990's, and the middle class has become increasingly vulnerable. A distinguished panel—featuring Christopher Jencks (Harvard University), Robert Kuttner (from the American Prospect), and Donna Shalala (President of the University of Miami)—will engage in a discussion on reinventing the “American Dream.”

From Welfare and Work to Work Not Welfare: How Poor Families Get By in the Post-Welfare DecadeSheraton Boston, Back Bay C, Second FloorOrganizer and Presider: Sandra K. Danziger, University of MichiganPanel: Kristin Seefeldt, University of Michigan
Kathryn J. Edin, Harvard University
Celeste M. Watkins-Hayes, Northwestern UniversityDiscussant: Sandra S. Smith, University of California-Berkeley
Since the 1996 welfare reform, receipt of public cash assistance has become conditional on a parent's cooperation with work requirements. Over the decade, welfare receipt has plummeted and employment has increased among single mothers. Yet many who work continue to have below-poverty income for their families. Scholars discuss the changing patterns in how poor families juggle work demands, manage income packaging strategies, use public benefits, and cope with financial hardship. New qualitative research on navigating the low-wage labor market, on the role of the Earned Income Tax Credit in economic coping strategies, and on how families manage the changing safety net will be highlighted.69. Thematic Session. The Worlds of Work in Africa: Pathway to Modernity or Global Shadow?Boston Marriott Copley Place, Arlington, Third Floor

Organizer and Presider: Edward Charles Webster, University of the Witwatersrand

Is a Sociology of African Transitions Possible? Karl von Holdt, Andries Bezuidenhout, and Khayaat Fakier, University of the Witwatersrand

Chalo Africa: Assessing India's Growing Investment in Africa. Sanush Naidu, Stellenbosch University

The New Scramble and the World of Work in Africa. Roger Southall, University of the Witwatersrand

Discussant: Ching Kwan Lee, University of Michigan

The aim of this panel will be to explore postcolonial modernity and the global inequalities that it is founded on and the forms that it takes. We will identify the variety of -shadow' activities in Africa and examine more systematically what the concepts of "modernity" and "-shadow'" might mean. Is modernity the norm and -shadow' deviancy? What are the different meanings these -shadows' may have? Does it mean that Africa has embarked on a parallel and opposite path to modernity or is it a dumb and empty shadow? Does -shadow' mean something that haunts Africa to which it aspires but can never achieve? Or is the -shadow' our pathway to modernity?

70. Thematic Session. Work-Family Relations in State-Socialist Societies: Past and Present

The Politics of Welfare in Transition in European Post-Stat-Socialist Societies: Back to Gender, Back to Class. Christy M. Glass and Sandra T. Marquart-Pyatt, Utah State University

State-Family Integration and Gender Construction of Family Roles in the State-Socialist Era. Yongping Jiang, Women's Studies Institute of China

Discussant: Martin K. Whyte, Harvard University

This session examines changing work-family relations in state-socialist countries (e.g. China, Poland, Tanzania, Vietnam, among others) as these countries are undergoing market transition in the wake of globalization. Although eroded in the course of market transition, the legacies of socialist work-family arrangements continue to shape expectations of and experiences with work-family relations in these countries. The papers in this session will highlight how these unique historical experiences mediated choices made by women and men between work and family in the post-socialist era. We hope to contribute to a more nuanced understanding of the sociological implications of market transition.

71. Special Session. Racism Today: Perspectives from France, Brazil, South Africa and United States

Organizer and Presider: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley

The Renewed Significance of Race: Ideology and Reality in Contemporary France. Michel Wieviorka, Ecoles Des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales

Retrieving Parsons from the Harvard Archives. Uta Gerhardt, Heidelberg University

Boston Brahmins and the New Men: Harvard University and the Professionalization Project in American Business Education. Rakesh Khurana, Harvard University

Each speaker has done important work drawing on archives available in the Boston area—on a rich Chicago lady who played an important role in interwar sociology, on Talcott Parsons and the misconceptions current about him, and on work in industrial sociology at Harvard Business School. They will present their work, showing how archival materials have been used in it, and drawing attention to the further possibilities those offer.

74. Didactic Seminar. Emergent Technologies for Qualitative Research

Emergent technologies have pushed against the boundaries of qualitative research practice. This didactic seminar will explore issues regarding how qualitative researchers can effectively apply new technological innovations, including the use of the internet, mobile phone technologies, geospatial technologies, and the incorporation of computer-assisted software programs, to collect and analyze both qualitative and mixed-methods data. This seminar will:

(1) Provide an overview of some of the newest mobile technologies (using GPS) in the service of gathering qualitative data. The mobile phone allows the researcher to capture personal experience in real time and space. The collection of user experience data has enormous implications for the study of human interaction. The researcher is able to study experience in context over an extended period of time using fewer resources and in a less obtrusive manner. We provide in-depth examples how this technology might be applied to a qualitative research project. We will also discuss some of the ethical, issues emergent technologies raise for social researchers.

(2) Computer Assisted Software for Multi-media Analysis. We demonstrate the latest data gathering and analysis software for analyzing multi-mediated data qualitative data—web-based data, audio, video and images using the computer-assisted data analysis package, HyperResearch (www.researchware.com)

(3) Transcription Software for Qualitative Data Analysis. We will also demonstrate cutting edge transcription software and discuss how the importance of transcription and its role in analyzing your qualitative data. We will demonstrate the transcription software, HyperTranscribe (www.researchware.com).

75. Academic Workshop. Writing about Multivariate Analysis (part of the Research Support Forum)

Organizer and Leader: Jane E. Miller, Rutgers University

Panel: Donald J. Treiman, University of California-Los Angeles

Lawrence L. Wu, New York University

Paula England, Stanford University

Writing about multivariate analysis is a fundamental skill for quantitative sociologists, helping them to write research papers, conference presentations, seminars, and grant proposals. However, the concepts and skills that underlie writing about multivariate analysis often fall through the cracks between courses that teach writing and those that teach statistics or research methods. This panel workshop will begin with an overview of what is encompassed under the umbrella “writing about multivariate analysis” and then investigate how different graduate sociology programs have approached teaching this material in research methods, writing, and professional development courses. There will be time at the end for questions and discussion between panelists and the audience.

76. Career Workshop. Networking with Sociologists in Applied and Research Settings: Sociologists in Research Careers

Sheraton Boston, Beacon F, Third Floor

Organizer and Leader: Rita J. Kirshstein, American Institutes for Research

Panel: Berkeley Miller, San Jose State University

Sara Beck Fein, Food and Drug Administration

Elham-Eid Alldredge, REDA International, Inc.

Sarah E. Jones, American Institutes for Research

This workshop will focus on the research and career experiences of sociologists working outside the academy. The panelists in this workshop represent a number of different research settings, both currently and over the course of their careers. These settings include colleges and universities, both as faculty and researchers; government; private, not-for-profit and for-profit research firms; and foundations, to name a few. Panelists will describe the range of jobs in which they have worked, discuss similarities and differences in doing research in academic and non-academic settings, and address the advantages and disadvantages of different types of employment for sociologists. Attendees will be encouraged to raise questions and share their experiences doing research in different sectors and settings.

77. Professional Workshop. ASA Workshop on Public Policy and Sociology

Organizer and Leader: Rebecca Sager, University of Arizona

Co-Leaders: Ann E. Person, Mathematica Policy Research, Inc.;

Tomas Jimenez, University of California-San Diego

As a discipline, sociology can offer a considerable amount to debates regarding how public policy is created and implemented. Sociologists offer a particularly relevant point of view because they approach social issues with an eye to the interactions between individuals, institutions, and broader social structures. Research in sociology is often highly relevant to policy makers and practitioners, however, there is often disconnect between sociologists and the world of public policy. At this workshop we will focus on how to bridge this gap. The workshop will consist of three short presentations by three sociologists whose work has woven social science research into the public policy arena. During these presentations, the researchers will discuss how sociologists can best frame their work so that it is accessible to policy makers. These presentations will be followed by a question and answer period during which time workshop participants will be free to ask how their ideas and work may best be suited for the public sector.

Ann Person (PhD, Northwestern University) is a researcher at Mathematica Policy Research, Inc., focusing on education policy and the school-to-work transition. Dr. Person will discuss how the work of sociologists is especially well-suited to address complex education policy questions which involve students and their families, as well as schools and communities. Tomas Jimenez, a sociology professor at University of California, San Diego, will discuss his research on immigration and social policy. Dr. Jimenez is a non-resident Fellow at the New America Foundation. Rebecca Sager, professor at Loyola Marymount University in Los Angeles, will discuss her work on the intersection of religion, public policy, and the non-profit sector. Dr. Sager just completed her post-doctoral fellowship as the American Sociological Association's Congressional Fellow. This should be an exciting and highly relevant workshop.

78. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Social Problems: A Discussion of Creative Classroom Techniques

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Orleans, Fourth Floor

Organizer and Leader: Angela Simon, University of Western Michigan

79. Informational Poster Session. Graduate Programs in Sociology

Organizer: Kyle Anthony Murphy, American Sociological Association

At this poster session, sociology graduate programs from around the country will display information about their program and its application and admissions processes. This session is intended to serve highly motivated undergraduate and Master's level students who wish to continue their education in sociology and are interested in learning about a broad range of programs while also having the opportunity to speak with program representatives in an inviting atmosphere.

The session provides both students and graduate programs with a low-cost means for developing an initial relationship between a prospective applicant and a school. Each year, students from the honors program and general student attendees attend the poster session. New for this year, the poster session will feature more schools and representatives than ever, and it will be combined with a special social event for student attendees.

On Friday, August 1, at 2:30–4:10 pm, department representatives will be on hand to answer questions from interested attendees. Poster displays will remain viewable during the entire Annual Meeting. Participating departments are listed below by poster number.

These papers engage with the effects of state policies and institutional contexts in a variety of markets and organizational settings, and open a more general discussion of the role of state power in organizing, regulating and transforming economic activities. When do state policies lead to intended outcomes? When do they seem irrelevant to the workings of markets? When are they not successful and why? What kinds of distributional outcomes do they have? The presenters will consider policy-making as part of the state's pursuit of its own interests, and also examine other actors engaged in formulating policies that regulate and direct economic behavior, among them financial organizations or non-profits.

Theodor Adorno died in 1969. This represents the passing of the Frankfurt School's first generation of scholars. Subsequent generations have developed the idea of critical theory beyond though consistent with the vision represented by Adorno, and an enormous body of research has confirmed its value as a frame of reference. We have invited a distinguished panel of American scholars to comment on the legacy of the Frankfurt School. They have written, variously, about a number of figures either directly associated with it, sympathetic, or at variance with its point of view, including, beside Adorno and Horkheimer, Benjamin, Lukacs, Marcuse, Habermas, Debord, Bakhtin, Baudrillard, and Bourdieu. In addition, each has tried to come to terms with other variants of critical theory, including structuralism, post-modernism, cultural studies, French social theory, and political sociology. This session will examine the legacy of the Frankfurt School for today.

Organizer and Presider: Russell K. Schutt, University of Massachusetts-Boston

Panel: William E. Kiernan, University of Massachusetts-Boston

E. Sally Rogers, Boston University

Russell K. Schutt, University of Massachusetts-Boston

Discussant: Barbara M. Altman, Disability Statistics Consultant

This panel will present an overview of laws and policies concerning the inclusion of disabled persons in the workplace and contemporary programs and research about vocational rehabilitation (VR). The goal is to improve sociologists' awareness and understanding of disabled persons' role and acceptance in the workplace and the impact of vocational rehabilitation on work organizations, work processes, and workers.

William Kiernan, Ph.D., Director of the Institute for Community Inclusion, will present an overview of applicable federal laws and policies and will outline current controversies about employability, consumer directed services and choice, employer perspectives, and employment outcomes. Sally Rogers, Sc.D., Research Director at the Center for Psychiatric Rehabilitation, will discuss the role of employment preferences and research about the Center's "Choose-Get-Keep" approach and she will present findings from research on predictors of vocational potential and outcomes. Russell Schutt, Ph.D., Professor of Sociology at UMass Boston, will review his research with Norm Hursh, Ed.D., Boston University, on the impact of social support and intrinsic rewards on VR outcomes, and he will discuss the implications of VR research for organizational theory. As the session discussant, Barbara Altman, Ph.D., will review the presentations in light of sociological research and theories on attitudes toward persons with disabilities and their labor market experience. These diverse foci will stimulate discussion about the value of workplace structure and social support, the importance of extrinsic and intrinsic rewards, the merits of training or direct job placement, and the meaning of consumer work preferences.

The panel will conclude with comments by each presenter about the implications of research on disabled persons at work for sociological theories about organizations and for public policies about disabilities, health care, and work management.

110. Thematic Session. Gendered Bodies at Work

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay C, Second Floor

Organizer and Presider: Pierrette Hondagneu-Sotelo, University of Southern California

Panel: Christine L. Williams, University of Texas-Austin

Carol Wolkowitz, University of Warwick

Rachel Sherman, New School for Social Research

Gul Ozyegin, College of William and Mary

This Thematic Session will bring together four prominent sociologists who have conducted innovative empirical research on gender and work. While new perspectives on how we think about bodies and embodiment have received much attention from cultural studies, women's studies, and gay/queer studies in recent years, much of this scholarship has not been based on empirical foundations and has not focused very much on employment. The session will provide a forum for the four established scholars to use their past and current research to reflect on questions such as: How are women's and men's bodies deployed in particular work sites and occupations? How do body and work come together in paid employment, and do these intersections transcend or reify intersectionalities of race, class and gender? With the demise of Fordist industrial regimes replaced increasingly by service regimes, how are gendered bodies reconfigured into paid employment?

111. Thematic Session. The World of Care Work

Organizer: Rhacel Salazar Parrenas, University of California-Davis

Presider: Hung Cam Thai, Pomona College

Indirect Paths, Alternate Routes: Rethinking Contemporary

Filipino Nurse Migration to the United States. Anna Guevarra, University of Illinois-Chicago

Embodying Care, Caring for Bodies: Beauty Services as Care Work.

Miliann Kang, University of Massachusetts-Amherst

The Home as Hospital: Families and High-Tech Healthcare

Offloading. Cameron Macdonald, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Discussant: Hung Cam Thai, Pomona College

112. Thematic Session. Work and Political Economy of Native Nations

Organizer and Presider: James V. Fenelon, California State University

Panel: Gary D. Sandefur, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Wendy Shelly Greyeyes, University of Chicago
C. Matthew Snipp, Stanford University

Discussant: Thomas D. Hall, DePauw University

Work and the political economy of Native Nations include complex legacies of hundreds of years of interaction and marginalization in the United States, including issues related to: community / economic development (employment), governance, land tenure (tribal). Scholars will present on these and related areas in a focus establishing a world of work most broadly defined, that is based on a historical past, on contemporary relationships, and on a future for generations to come. These topics include changing employment patterns, justice issues such as the infamous BIA IIM accounts and the Cobell case, (perhaps the largest financial corruption case ever against the United States) and recent development issues (such as Indian Gaming). Sovereignty and economies of scale are addressed through discussion of specific Indigenous Peoples within the United States, connected to specific projects for economic and community development.

113. Alpha Kappa Delta Distinguished Lecture

Organizer and Presider: Sharon K. Araji, University of Alaska-Anchorage

Panel: Ronald L. Akers, University of Florida

114. Special Session. Kerner Commission Report on Race in Cities

Organizer and Presider: Paul A. Jargowsky, University of Texas-Dallas

Glenn Loury, Brown University
Reynolds Farley, University of Michigan
Theda Skocpol, Harvard University

The National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, headed by Illinois Governor Otto Kerner and commonly known as the "Kerner Commission," issued its Final Report on March 1, 1968. The Commission, appointed by President Lyndon Johnson in the wake of the urban riots of 1960s, documented and indicted the racial economic polarization of American society. The Commission's report may have been the single most serious attempt to incorporate social science and sociology into the public policy process. If it succeeded, we should try to understand how the Commission and its staff succeeded in advancing the national understanding of poverty and inequality. If the attempt to bring sociology to bear in the public sphere failed, we should try to understand why.

The distinguished members of this panel are well qualified to reflect on the report with the benefit of 40 years of hindsight. Christopher Jencks is the one of world's leading scholars of poverty and inequality, and was an active participant in many of the debates that followed the release of the Kerner Report. Reynolds Farley is widely known for his work on housing, racial segregation, and urban structure, issues that were central to the Commission's analysis. Economist Glenn Loury is an astute observer of the changing nature of race relations in the United States. Theda Skocpol has addressed the nature of public and political support for the kinds of progressive public policies proposed by the Kerner Commission.

115. Special Session. Open Community Forum: Greening the ASA

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon B, Fourth Floor

Organizer and Presider: Lauren Heberle, University of Louisville

Panel: Alison Hope Alkon, University of California-Davis

Robert Brulle, Drexel University

Stella M. Capek, Hendrix College

Lauren Heberle, University of Louisville

J. Timmons Roberts, College of William & Mary

Stephen M. Zavestoski, University of San Francisco

Sally T. Hillsman, American Sociological Association

Janet L. Astner, American Sociological Association

Kareem D. Jenkins, American Sociological Association

This forum will provide an opportunity for interested ASA members to discuss the ecological footprint of the ASA and to brainstorm about solutions that would shrink our footprint. As a large professional organization, the ASA has a significant impact on the environment. Over the last year, some members of the Environment and Technology Section and the ASA Executive Office have been participating in a working group to "green" the ASA organization and our meetings. We have shared ideas through phone conferences and want to open up the discussion to the entire ASA membership. Following a brief report about what the ASA is already doing and what has been proposed for the future, we will brainstorm and collect ideas about minimizing our ecological impact. This will be a working session with the goal of developing creative green solutions for the ASA. We will also be able to take ideas home with us to our respective institutions. We encourage participation from all sections and also from those involved in organizing regional meetings.

116. Didactic Seminar. Creating Segmentations (part of the Research Support Forum)

Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Creating segmentations is statistical technique to group respondents together by similarity of attitudes and/or characteristics. These segmentations—sometimes known as typologies—have long been used in marketing but are also very useful in understanding how different people relate or behave with respect to social services, political behavior, or any kind of relationship. This workshop will first discuss the logic and structure behind segmentations. Then, we'll go through examples of creating segmentations, first by using a combination of factor analysis and cluster analysis, and then a technique known as a Classification Tree. (CHAID or CRT). We'll end with a discussion on how to interpret and apply the results.

Attendees are expected to have a working knowledge of SPSS and multivariate analysis. It will be useful to attend with laptops with SPSS (and a full 1-month demo copy can be downloaded for free from www.spss.com) but powerpoints and handouts will detail the entire process. Handouts will be provided, including SPSS syntax.

117. Academic Workshop. Practice Programs in Sociology: Why Pursue Accreditation the Pros and Cons.

Organizer: Melody Gaye Lehnerer, Community College of Southern Nevada

In a period of increasing program assessment from outside sources many academics have become leery of anything that implies "standardization." Accreditation guidelines do set standards. But, are these standards meant to curtail program innovation or to simply create an institutional environment that will allow faculty in sociological practice programs to innovate while being accountable? This workshop is intended to stimulate lively conversation in regard to the accreditation of sociological practice programs as outlined by the Commission on Applied and Clinical Sociology. The pros and cons of accreditation will be covered and "personalized" for those attending the workshop. Workshop participants will receive Commission materials including such items as guidelines for assessing student outcomes, practical assessment tools, and readings on successful practice programs.

118. Professional Workshop. Editors Talk: How to be a Good Reviewer

Organizer and Leader: Gary Alan Fine, Northwestern University Panel: Michael Kimmel, State University of New York-Stony Brook
Randy Hodson, Ohio State University
Vincent J. Roscigno, Ohio State University
Naomi Schneider, University of California Press

Good articles depend upon good reviewers. Great articles depend upon great reviewers. Although conference sessions provide advice to authors that suggest how articles can be crafted to increase their chances for publication success, it is rare that attention is given to the process of reviewing. Yet, most faculty and some graduate students are called upon to help journals and publishers by providing advice to editors. Given the diversity of topics in sociology, editors are forced to rely on specialists to judge papers. In this workshop/symposium, a group of editors discuss what they look for in assessments from reviewers. To what extent should reviewers evaluate a manuscript based on their own intellectual concerns or preferred theories? Should reviewers be optimistic about changes prior to publication or should they judge a submission as a finished product? When should reviewers recommend revisions? How much time should a reviewer spend on an evaluation and how soon should reviews be returned? In what circumstances should a reviewer decline to do a review or negotiate for additional time? Should reviewers in a double-blind process review manuscripts whose authors they know as friends, colleagues, teachers, or students? More broadly what are the ethical standards of reviewing? Although being a reviewer for a journal or publisher rarely is considered in promotion, tenure, or salary decisions, the discipline could not survive without such work.

119. Professional Workshop. Making the Most of Post-Doc Positions

Organizer and Leader: Gail Wallace, Johns Hopkins University

This workshop is designed to help students and faculty understand the process of selecting the right postdoctoral position for their career goals and the career goals of their students. A second aim of this workshop involves effective use of time and resources while in the postdoctoral position. Specific emphasis will be placed on time management and organization, successful networking strategies with faculty, grant funding agencies, and resource centers in the candidate's area of interest. A third aim of this workshop is to discuss the transition from doctoral to postdoctoral studies. Finally, a step by step illustration of how to go about choosing the right postdoctoral position for the candidate's career objectives and making the most of it will be discussed in a comprehensive fashion. There will be a 20 minute collaborative group discussion session focusing on two of the most commonly held frustrations during the postdoctoral experience. The Workshop Leader will present these questions for group discussion during the latter part of the workshop.

120. Policy and Research Workshop. Sociological Research and Military Policy

Organizer and Leader: David R. Segal, University of Maryland
Panel: Bradford Booth, University of Baltimore
Rachel Noble Lipari, University of Maryland
Mady Wechsler Segal, University of Maryland
Jacqueline Randolph, Army Research Institute

This panel, representing the academic, industrial, and in-house research communities, will address the impact of sociological research on military policy and subsequent research traditions, starting with the American Soldier studies in World War II and Project CLEAR (the racial integration of the Army during the Korean War), through sociological contributions to the end of military conscription in 1973, and ongoing work on topics such as gender integration, sexual orientation integration, sexual harassment, military families, and the demography of the force. Panelists will discuss exemplars of this research, and their own experiences with how research has been used (or not used) in the research and policy process in a variety of roles.

121. Teaching Workshop. Using Commercially Produced Simulations and Creating Your Own for the Classroom

Sheraton Boston, Beacon H, Third Floor

Organizer and Leader: Lisa New Freeland, Eastern Illinois University

This workshop will cover types of simulations available commercially (including role playing designs, frame games, task simulations, and broad social simulations) and their applicability in sociology courses. Several will be on hand so that you can see some of what is available. A format for creating your own simulation will also be provided with a template for working on your own. Details on how to plan for the use of simulations, how to seek funding, and technical specifics on implementing the games will be covered. Small group exercises and brainstorming sessions should help you leave with several ideas on how to incorporate simulations into your curriculum that would best suit your specific needs.

122. Regular Session. Conversation Analysis: Questioning in Interaction

Hilton Boston Back Bay, Adams B, Third Floor

Organizer: John Heritage, University of California-Los Angeles Constructing Epistemic Landscapes: Variations in the Design and Deploying of Yes/No Type Initiating Actions. Geoffrey Raymond, University of California-Santa Barbara; John Heritage, University of California-Los Angeles

This session explores how the classroom can act as a site of resistance with regard to how identity declarations by teachers can influence how our students interpret our identities. We explore colonized bodies, transgendered bodies, (dis)abled bodies and sexualized bodies as presenters discuss their own empirical experiences in the classroom. This session will problematize how and if we want our students to question and complicate the "truth" socially constructed identities. Furthermore, how can teachers act as "disruptors" or "transgressors" through the use of their bodies in the classroom.

French Ghetto, U.S. Cité: The Patrón and the Broker in the Underground Urban Market. Sudhir A. Venkatesh, Columbia University; Francois Bonnet, Sciences-Po, Paris

This session examines the centrality of criminal processes to the reproduction of material structures. Is crime inextricably linked to work and, conversely, do all forms of work necessarily entail illegal, illicit, unregulated, etc., behavior? If so, perhaps it is necessary to re-think crime as a skilled endeavor with lasting consequences for labor markets, organizations, communities, and individuals. These three papers consider the craft of crime, and the consequences therein, by examining diverse empirical cases, ranging from the emergence of corporate capitalism in China, to labor markets in French and U.S. ghettos, to the views and perspectives of low-income African-American men.

The key institutional mechanism for the reproduction of racial inequality across generations is to be found in a system of occupational apartheid that continues to severely limit access of African Americans to coveted jobs and excludes others from even less desirable job sectors. Although there has been significant progress during the post civil-rights era, this does not reflect the deracialization of labor markets so much as it does the implementation of affirmative action over several decades. However, affirmative action never penetrated whole sectors of the economy and work force, and in recent years has been severely eviscerated by actions of all three branches of government. Today we face the specter and scandal of yet another generation of African American youth being relegated to the fringes of the job market, or excluded altogether from the world of work.

149. Thematic Session. The World of Fashion Modeling: Work, Bodies, and Images

Sheraton Boston, Republic B, Second Floor

Organizers: Joanne Entwistle, London College of Fashion; Elizabeth A. Wissinger, City University of New York

Panel: Elsbeth Brown, University of Toronto

Becky E. Conekin, University of London

Joanne Entwistle, London College of Fashion

Ashley E. Mears, New York University

Elizabeth A. Wissinger, City University of New York

Discussant: Diana Crane, University of Pennsylvania

Our panel will examine the high profile industry of fashion modeling. Our goal is to shed light on debates about two important themes in sociology: commodification and work. Since models themselves are commodities who sell their bodies in a highly uncertain market, we will discuss how modeling work reveals ways that idealized forms of beauty are manufactured through image-making, and how bodies are gendered, raced and sexualized in the process. We will also consider how analyzing modeling as a form of work delves into the demands of performance or display work and the forms of emotional, aesthetic, cultural, and affective labor it requires. Additionally, we will consider how modeling arguably represents a glamorization of flexible, temporary, and contract work, making it seem desirable, especially to young people, while hiding its numerous drawbacks. Our analysis of the labor of modeling will touch on important sociological themes, such as the sociology of the body, consumer culture, images in society, gender, race, and sexuality.

150. Thematic Session. Worlds of Work and Family: How Far Have We Come?

Organizer and Presider: Naomi Gerstel, University of Massachusetts
New Twists in the Stalled Revolution. Arlie Russell Hochschild, University of California-Berkeley

151. Special Session. If Rome Is Burning...Sociological Perspectives on Global Climate Change

Organizers: Joane Nagel, University of Kansas; Jeffrey Broadbent, University of Minnesota

Presider: Jeffrey Broadbent, University of Minnesota

Panel: Jeffrey Broadbent, University of Minnesota

Penelope Canan, University of Central Florida

Riley Dunlap, Oklahoma State University

David Pellow, University of California-San Diego

Richard F. York, University of Oregon

This special session is intended to increase sociology's participation in the grand challenge of the 21st century—understanding the human dimensions of global warming and global climate change. The challenge could not be more pressing, and this session is designed to present the perspectives of sociologists who are currently engaging this challenge and to invite the involvement of our colleagues. We believe that sociologists have an array of theoretical and methodological tools for analyzing and addressing this quickly growing problem of global concern. We do not believe that sociologists are well-represented in many interdisciplinary and international research undertakings associated with climate change, and we hope this session will suggest avenues for increased sociological participation. We have invited participants who have well-established track records in environmental sociology as well as those who are relatively early in their careers; our session slate represents diverse approaches and perspectives.

152. Academic Workshop. Alpha Kappa Delta (AKD), Sociology's International Honor Society: Starting, Reactivating, and the Benefits of an AKD Chapter

Organizer and Leader: Marc D. Matre, University of South Alabama

Co-Leaders: Sharon K. Araji, University of Alaska-Anchorage

Steve Kroll-Smith, University of North Carolina-Greensboro

This session provides an opportunity to learn about the United Chapters of Alpha Kappa Delta, the International Sociology Honor Society. The presenters will cover the following topics: 1) Purposes and goals of AKD; 2) Structure and operations; 3) Chartering chapters; 4) Eligibility for membership; 5) Costs and benefits of membership; 6) The role of the Chapter Representative; 7) Chapter activities; 8) Support for chapter activities; 9) Relations with other groups and organizations; 10) Practical and ethical considerations. AKD documents will be available and questions will be welcome.

153. Professional Workshop. What IRB Tutorials Don't Tell You: How to Negotiate with Your IRB

Organizer and Leader: Harry Perlstadt, Michigan State University

Stymied by your IRB? We will go over a few key points in the art of negotiating from a position of weakness, and the need to understand how IRBs operate. We will do a brief IRB decision making exercise and explore IRB views of Obedience to Authority, Tearoom Trade and Stanford Prison Experiment. We will then learn about exempt and expedited review categories and conditions for waiving consent, parental consent and documentation of consent in 45 CFR 46 that are often not included in tutorials. We will explore ways to prevent problems, what to concede, how to appeal an IRB decision, and how to dissipate emotions when your degree, tenure or promotion depends on doing the study. Participants will be invited to do a SWOT analysis—Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats—of their own IRB situation and share it with others.

154. Teaching Workshop. Teaching the Sociology of Asian Americans

Organizer and Leader: Leslie T.C. Wang, Saint Mary's College

Co-Leaders: Miliann Kang, University of Massachusetts-Amherst

Min Zhou, University of California-Los Angeles

C. N. Le, University of Massachusetts

This workshop will expose both faculty and students who possess an interest in the Sociology of Asian Americans to learn about the successes and challenges experienced in the institutional, departmental, and classroom settings. Topics of discussion will include the following: departmentalization of Asian American Studies, development of an Asian American Studies curriculum, availability and use of resources on Asian Americans, teaching intersectionalities (race, ethnicity, gender, class, nation, immigration, and sexuality) through "Asian American Women," and classroom dynamics and classroom cultures (including exercises, assignments, and discussions). A major objective of this workshop is for all of us as sociologists and educators to engage in the sharing of ideas and resources so that teaching and learning about Asian Americans can become a more visible and integral component within sociology as well as within our various academic institutions.

155. Regular Session. Comparative Sociology

Economic sociology thrives in Boston. The Economic Sociology Seminar has served as a creative locus for this intellectual community since its founding at MIT in 1997, and today it is collaboratively organized by scholars at Harvard and MIT since 2003. While the community's "idea space" reaches well beyond the Boston-Cambridge area (see the roster of past presenters at http://web.mit.edu/ewzucker/www/econsoc/past_speakers.htm), we celebrate ASA's return to Boston this year with a panel presentation that reflects the range of exciting economic sociology that seminar participants enjoy.

173. Section on History of Sociology Invited Session. Theorizing the History of Sociology

Hilton Boston Back Bay, Maverick B, Second Floor

Organizer and Presider: Jennifer Platt, University of Sussex Imperial and Anti-Imperial Sociology in the US, France and Germany. George Steinmetz, University of Michigan Network Processes of Sociological Production. James Moody, Duke University

Modes of Narration in the History of Sociology. Neil L. Gross, Harvard University

Discussant: Jonathan D. Van Antwerpen, University of California-Berkeley

This session raises the question of how the history of sociology is, might or should be theorized, in any of the senses of "theory," through the presentation and analysis of different approaches to it and styles of work in it.

174. Section on Political Sociology Paper Session. Ethno-Racial Diversity, Civic Engagement, and the Politics of Redistribution

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay A, Second Floor

Organizer: Irene H.I. Bloemraad, University of California-Berkeley

Citizenship in the Netherlands: Locally Produced, Nationally Contested. Jan Willem Duyvendak, University of Amsterdam; Menno E.A. Hurenkamp, Amsterdam School for Social Science Research; Evelien H. Tonkens, Amsterdam School for Social Science Research

Social scientists from economics to political science increasingly raise the question of whether ethno-racial diversity helps or hurts liberal democratic welfare states. Some argue that greater diversity is linked to less generous welfare states or that increases in immigration might undermine support for redistribution. Others suggest that increasing diversity threatens civic engagement and other foundations of democratic participation. This session invites sociologists to examine the effects of ethnic, racial and religious diversity for civic engagement and the politics of redistribution, as well as the institutional, structural or policy arrangements that might shape how diversity and politics intersect.

181. Presidential Panel. The Meaning of Work: What Is Work?

Organizer: Magali Sarfatti-Larson, Temple University
Presenter: Arne L. Kalleberg, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill

Understanding the changing meaning of work is central to appreciating the transformations occurring in work, workers, and the workplace. In this Presidential panel session, two world-renowned scholars will present and discuss their ideas on the meaning of work and its prospects.

182. Thematic Session. Comparative Perspectives on Work and Retirement

Sheraton Boston, Independence West, Second

Floor

Organizer and Presider: Angela M. O'Rand, Duke University Late Careers and Career Exits Under Globalization: Becoming Retired in Times of Accelerating Social Change. Hans-Peter Blossfeld, Dirk Hofacker and Sandra Buchholz, University of 183. Thematic Session. Immigrants, Their Relationships, and Work

Organizer: Silvia Dominguez, Northeastern University
Presider: Cecilia Menjivar, Arizona State University Panel: Roberto M. Fernandez, Massachusetts Institute of
Xavier de Souza Briggs, Massachusetts Institute of
Silvia Dominguez, Northeastern University

Discussant: Mary C. Waters, Harvard University

Presentations will discuss questions related to the social networks of immigrants and work through presentations along the following themes: what it means for immigrants to be cut off from networks or plainly be in the "wrong networks" in terms of work; the networks of immigrants in particular sectors of the low-wage labor market; and an integrative approach to disparate literatures on networks and status attainment; immigrant ethnic enclaves, and immigrants and work. This will be an alternative session format combining the "Brookings" model and the "Digest" model that gives a substantial role to the discussant.

184. Thematic Session. Incarceration and the Labor Market

Floor

Organizer and Presider: Bruce Western, Harvard University Collateral Costs: The Effects of Incarceration on Employment and Earnings among Young Men. Harry Holzer, Georgetown
Sequencing Disadvantage: Race, Criminal Background, and the Diminishing of Opportunity. Devah Pager, Princeton University Incarceration Length, Employment, and Earnings. Jeffrey Kling, Brookings Institution
Discussant: Christopher Uggen, University of Minnesota

Does going to prison diminish the economic prospects of the young low-skill men at greatest risk of incarceration? This is a hard but vital scientific question. Hard, because those most likely to go to prison have poor prospects even if never incarcerated. Vital, because incarceration is now pervasive among poor, young African American men. In this context, the penal system may now be a large-scale influence on the life chances of young men with little schooling, and the social costs of the penal system may greatly outweigh its benefits.

185. Thematic Session. Outsourcing in India and China

Organizer: Martin Kenney, University of California-Davis
Presider: Arie Lewin, Duke University
Panel: Rosemary Batt, Cornell University
Rafiq Dossani, Stanford University
Ronil Hira, Rochester Institute of Technology

In capitalist economies the geography of work has always been a dialectic between stasis and motion. Until the last decade, intellectual work was presumed to be rooted in the developing world. Put a bit hyperbolically, the recent opening of global markets combined with the digitization of much work has increased the ability to further disaggregate the work process for these digitized work objects and to seamlessly transfer some indeterminate number of them to where ever there are capable workers. This fluidization of the work objects permits a redistribution of their delivery from high-wage developed nations to, at least, partial delivery from low-wage nations. Due to the rapid pace of these changes, beliefs valid only five years ago that offshoring would be confined to relatively mundane work such as call answering or data entry are dated. The panelists provide different perspectives on the changing geography and organizational morphology of offshore service production and its meaning for the global division of labor. Each panelist has been an important contributor to understanding the state of play in offshoring and its implications for differing nations.

186. Special Session. Navigating the Drug Abuse Research Grant Process (part of the Research Support Forum)

Organizers: Lee Herring and Sally T. Hillsman, American Sociological Association

Presider: Deborah Olster, National Institutes of Health

Panel: Yonette F. Thomas, National Institute on Drug Abuse

Teresa Levitin, National Institute on Drug Abuse

Applying for research funding from the National Institutes of Health (NIH) may be both daunting to contemplate and frustrating to actually undertake. This Special Session, which is part of ASA's annual Research Support Forum, will help potential grant applicants learn the ins and outs of developing successful proposals for the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) and other NIH Institutes. Panelists will discuss not only NIDA research opportunities but the NIH behavioral and social science research context overall. NIH funds basic sociological research on health, illness, and medicine to the tune of tens of millions of dollars each year, and researchers of all levels of experience—from the first-time applicant to the seasoned principal investigator—will gain valuable insights about how to contribute to the nation's premiere health research enterprise.

The panel's presentations on the following topics will help sociologists better understand the NIH grant proposal submission and review process: the role of the NIH Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences Research (OBSSR); the organization and mission of NIDA and the various funding mechanisms that are available; the characteristics of a strong grant application and ways to make sure reviewers understand your research purpose; how to master the components of the new electronic application package (SF 424 R&R) and comply with NIH administrative requirements; the roles and responsibilities of NIDA staff and how to get technical assistance and information from them; how to learn which areas of research are currently emphasized by NIDA and other NIH institutes; the review process and what happens during review committee meetings; how to make the best use of the summary statement of your application's review and what to do if your proposal doesn't get funded.

187. Author Meets Critics Session. The Age of Independence: Interracial Unions, Same-Sex Unions, and the Changing American Family (Harvard University Press, 2007) by Michael J. Rosenfeld

Organizer: Brian Powell, Indiana University

Critics: Andrew J. Cherlin, Johns Hopkins University

David John Frank, University of California-Irvine

Jerry A. Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania

Judith Stacey, New York University

Author: Michael J. Rosenfeld, Stanford University

188. Regional Spotlight Session. The Prospect of Casino and Online Gambling in Massachusetts

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon B, Fourth Floor

Organizer: Siamak Movahedi, University of Massachusetts-Boston Governor Deval Patrick's Proposal for Resort Casinos in Massachusetts. Clyde W. Barrow, University of Massachusetts-Dartmouth

Vice Capades: Sociologies of Problem Gambling. Bo Bernhard, University of Nevada-Las Vegas

Criminalizing Online Poker: How Crazy Is That? Charles Rothwell Nesson, Harvard University

Addiction by Design? A Technological Audit of Video Gambling.

Natasha D. Schull, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Suffolk Downs' Plans for Urban Resort Casino. Chip Tuttle, Suffolk Downs

The session deals with Governor Deval Patrick's proposal for Casino Gambling in Massachusetts. The social, political, economic, and psychological issues involving casino, video, and online gambling will be discussed.

189. Didactic Seminar. Introduction to Atlas.ti Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

This workshop is designed to introduce participants to the software and answer some common questions beginning users confront. It is recommended for those who have never used Atlas.ti before or have only limited experience with the software. Researchers who have some familiarity of Atlas.ti are also welcome to attend to refresh, to participate in the open-discussion and/or to share tips and advice. Participants are not required to bring Atlas.ti software with them or to have ever worked with the software.

190. Academic Workshop. Teaching the Non-Traditional Student

Organizer and Leader: Patricia Fay Case, University of Toledo

Panel: Chad Malone, Ohio State University

Joleen Rennee Loucks, Kutztown University

Beverly Ann Hair, Muskegon Community College

This workshop will focus on developing an understanding of special issues, both positive and negative, to the non-traditional student. Non-traditional is loosely defined to include students from working class and poor class backgrounds who are the first in their families to attend college and older students returning to the classroom for career of personal growth. We will discuss a "best practice" approach for recruitment and retention of these students. The later part of this workshop will be dedicated to an open exchange of information and ideas between the panel and those in attendance.

191. Career Workshop. Career Advice for Sociologists Committed to Public Sociology

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon K, Fourth Floor

Organizer and Leader: Leslie H. Hossfeld, University North Carolina-Wilmington

Co-Leaders: Philip Nyden, Loyola University-Chicago

Susan H. Ambler, Maryville College

Roberta M. Spalter-Roth, American Sociological Association

This workshop maps the resources available to public sociologists and the politics of becoming and thriving as a public sociologist both inside and outside the academy. In addition to providing models of successful public sociologists, the workshop will provide a detailed overview of how to manage a public sociology career and where to find resources to support this career. Public Sociologists from varying institutional and career vantage points will share their experiences and ample time will be provided for questions/answers and exchange and sharing of ideas on navigating a career as a public sociologist.

192. Professional Workshop. Writing a Successful Grant Proposal

Organizer and Leader: Kevin Fox Gotham, National Science Foundation

Co-Leader: Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation

Panel: Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation

Jennifer Earl, University of California-Santa Barbara

Sara R. Curran, University of Washington

Jan E. Stets, University of California-Riverside

Regina E. Werum, Emory University

Kevin Fox Gotham, National Science Foundation

This workshop targets graduate students, faculty, and researchers who are new at proposal writing and submission. Representatives from the National Science Foundation (NSF), its research review committees, and grantees will discuss the proposal development process, elements of a competitive proposal, proposal submission and review, and funding opportunities for researchers. The format will be interactive, allowing for audience questions and participation.

193. Teaching Workshop. From the Trenches: Teaching Large Lecture Classes Effectively

Organizer and Leader: Susan Linn Wortmann, University Nebraska-Lincoln

Panel: Jamee Kristen, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Rachel E. Hagedorn, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Trina Rose, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Philip Schwadel, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Large lecture-based classrooms are increasingly an avenue for educating college students. These settings pose a number of challenges including lack of student attendance and engagement. Sociology instructors who explore sensitive topics in such settings may also meet resistance and hostility. This interactive panelist/audience workshop focuses on actively engaging undergraduate students in large lecture settings around sensitive topics using technologically-assisted and activity-based lectures. Four panelists, representing a range of teaching in the trenches of undergraduate sociology courses, (Introduction to Sociology, Marriage and Family, Women in Contemporary Society, and Social Problems) will briefly demonstrate strategic methods of student engagement including use of personal response systems, blogging, music, and activity. Break-out sessions will allow participants to work together to brainstorm potential activities for their own classes.

214. Section on Crime, Law and Deviance Invited Session. Organizational Crime: Corporations and the State

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Berkeley, Third Floor

- Organizer: Joachim J. Savelsberg, University of Minnesota
- President: Ryan D. King, State University of New York-Albany
- The Concept of "Criminal Organization" in International Law: A Reconstruction. Jens Meierhenrich, Harvard University
- State Responsibility for Organized Collective Violence in Darfur. John Hagan, Northwestern University
- The Lieutenant, the Company or the Army? Attributing Liability in Criminal Trials and Other Narratives. Joachim J. Savelsberg and Rajiv Evan Rajan, University of Minnesota
- Can Corporations Be Jailed? Amitai Etzioni, George Washington University

Organizational crime, especially state crime, is seriously understudied in research on crime and crime control, especially in criminology. Grave offenses against human rights law and humanitarian law, including war crimes and genocide are especially neglected. In crime control, organizational liability is often reduced to individual liability of low-level actors. This panel addresses these neglected themes. Papers address the genocide in Darfur, the legal processing of the My Lai massacre and consequences for collective memory, the concept of "criminal organization" in international law, and the criminal liability and punishment of corporations.

215. Section on Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis Invited Session. Tales from the Field: Ethnomethodological and Conversation Analytic Research

- Organizer and President: Jason B. Jimerson, Franklin College
- Panel: Jack Whalen, Palo Alto Research Center
- Karin D. Knorr Cetina*, University of Chicago
- John Van Maanen*, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
- Tanya Stivers*, Max Planck Institute for Psycholinguistics
- Panelists will share stories about problems (and solutions) they encountered while doing ethnomethodological, conversation analytic, and other forms of fieldwork. This panel will be an instructive session designed to show how to overcome problems in the field and do phenomenological/ethnomethodological/conversation analytical research (in contrast to more standard ethnographic or symbolic interactionist qualitative forms of fieldwork). Recruitment, data collecting (including filming/recording), and data processing will be covered. Mishaps can occur at every stage of a research project, and it will be fun to learn from each other's problems and solutions. This panel aims to inspire others to do more methodologically advanced fieldwork.

216. Section on Latino/a Sociology Author Meets Critics Session. Neither Enemies Nor Friends: Latinos, Blacks and Afro-Latinos (Palgrave Macmillan, 2005) by Anani Dzidzienyo, Suzanne Oboler and Silvio Torres-Saillant

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Suffolk, Third Floor

Organizer: Marta Maria Maldonado, Iowa State University

Presenter: Rogelio Saenz, Texas A&M University

Critics: Tyrone A. Forman, University of Illinois-Chicago

Tatcho Mindiola, University of Houston

Todd E. Robinson, University of Nevada-Las Vegas

Authors: Suzanne Oboler, University of Illinois-Chicago

Anani Dzidzienyo, Brown University

Silvio Torres-Saillant, Syracuse University

In Neither Enemies Nor Friends: Latinos, Blacks, Afro-Latinos, the authors explore questions of racial identity and the multiple dimensions of the relationships between Blacks, Latinos and Afro-Latinos, including the dynamics of conflict and collaboration. Authors point out both the striking similarities and the differences in the racial politics of the Americas—North, Central, and South—and the Caribbean.

227. Thematic Session. Comparative Labor Movements

Organizer and Presider: Gay W. Seidman, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Panel: Rina Agarwala, Johns Hopkins University

Mark Anner, Cornell University

Hagen Koo, University of Hawaii

Discussant: Gay W. Seidman, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Globalization presents new challenges to labor movements everywhere, perhaps especially in the developing world, where economic restructuring has complicated labor's choices. How have labor movements responded? What kinds of new strategies are movements pursuing? To what extent and how are labor movements able to help shape development strategies as the Washington consensus seems to be fraying around the edges?

228. Thematic Session. Diversity in the Workplace

Organizer and Presider: Sharon Maureen Collins, University of Illinois-Chicago

The Business Case for Diversity. Cedric Herring, University of

Diversity and Class Inequality. Walter Benn Michaels, University of

Diversity and Reverse Discrimination. Fred L. Pincus, University of Maryland-Baltimore County

Diversity and Racial Inequality. Kevin Stainback, Virginia
Polytechnic Institute and State University

Against the backdrop of black urbanization, Asian and Hispanic immigration and federal legislation against employment discrimination the urban workplace emerges as a fundamental terrain for race, gender, and ethnic group competition. The increasingly diverse composition of the labor force in urban areas abetted by public policy means that non-whites, women and immigrant labor are confronting traditionally white male work groups to make claims on employment resources. Of particular interest is that changing workforce demographics means people need to know how to work effectively in diverse environments. The problem is that they don't.

A related but larger problem is documented by research showing racial and gender inequality persists in corporations despite an array of corrective interventions—from antidiscrimination training to major federal legislation—spanning the last 40 years. As a result, fundamental questions about the nature and impact of diversity workplace initiatives have risen to the forefront of debate in academic and political arenas. One view point for example is that diversity produces efforts among employers to reduce racial and gender inequality in allocation processes. A contrasting viewpoint is that diversity is a rubric for a set of activities that obscure underlying bias in employment policies. Diversity ironically may increase inter-group competition. The problem of diversity provides the context for the focus of this Thematic Session.

Ascending Women, Endangered Men: Negotiating Contemporary Black Marriage. Katrina Bell McDonald, Johns Hopkins University

Discussant: Kimberly McClain DaCosta, Harvard University

"The Black Family" has often been at the center of political debates about social policy, including welfare reform and crime. In such debates, some commentators locate the source of—and solutions to—social ills within Black families. Their opponents counter such arguments by detailing the particular historical, social and economic circumstances that have shaped African American family life. In these debates, many of the same concerns posed in the Moynihan Report over forty years ago still dominate the conversation, particularly the impact of high rates of divorce, nonmarital childbearing, and poor single-parent families on black social and economic opportunities. Central to Moynihan's thesis was the premise that because blacks were in a subordinate position to whites, they could not afford to have a family structure and kinship practices that diverged so sharply from the dominant group if they were to succeed economically and politically. In light of significant demographic and cultural shifts in the US population generally (e.g. changing norms of sexuality, more diverse marriage patterns) and among African Americans in particular (e.g., greater class differentiation, changing gendered work patterns, immigration from Africa and the Caribbean) the time is ripe for a re-evaluation of how best to understand the particularities of black families, the processes and outcomes within them, and the ways in which race, outside of and in addition to socioeconomic status, influences individual and collective well-being. This panel presents exciting new research on aspects of black family life that have not been well-researched in the black family literature and directly addresses the issues raised by Moynihan's thesis.

232. Author Meets Critics Session. L.A. Story: Immigrant Workers and the Future of the US Labor Movement (Russell Sage, 2006) by Ruth Milkman

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon B, Fourth Floor

Steven H. Lopez, Ohio State University

Beverly Silver, Johns Hopkins University

Author: Ruth Milkman, University of California-Los Angeles

233. Didactic Seminar. Studying Social Integration

Sheraton Boston, Republic A, Second Floor

This class will focus on defining single-meaning concepts of alienation and solidarity, and, as it happens, points between. By reviewing various ideas and theories about the two terms, we will relate them to each other, and to other important ideas, such as consensus, social facts, and intergroup cooperation/ hostility. The workshop will show how the two concepts lead to provisional operational definitions, and preliminary methods for using them in process studies and survey research.

234. Career Workshop. Careers in Medical Sociology (co-sponsored by the ASA Section on Medical Sociology)

Organizer and Leader: Carol A. Caronna, Towson University

Co-Leader: Deborah Glik, University of California-Los Angeles

Panel discussion of non-university careers for medical sociologists, including careers at nonprofit organizations, think tanks, research centers, and government agencies. Topics will include what kinds of job and career opportunities are available in these settings for medical sociologists; strategies for searching for these opportunities; the similarities and differences between medical sociology careers inside and outside universities; and tips for transitioning from one sector to another. Medical sociologists and other interested sociologists at all career stages are welcome.

235. Professional Workshop. The Art of the CV

Organizer and Leader: Marybeth C. Stalp, University of Northern Iowa

Co-Leader: Denise A. Copelton, State University of New York-Brockport

Panel: Marybeth C. Stalp, University of Northern Iowa

Denise A. Copelton, State University of New York-Brockport

Toni Calasanti, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University

Julia McQuillan, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Developing an effective CV is the focus of this workshop. Here, four scholars from different stages of the academic career and housed in a range of institutions will discuss briefly the academic CV and how it is used professionally, and share different examples of CVs. We will conclude the workshop with a Question and Answer period. Discussion topics will include: the development of multiple CVs throughout the academic career; the effectiveness of different types of CVs on the job market (e.g., Research, Balanced, Teaching jobs call for differing emphases in the CV); and how the CV will change as one progresses through academic rank.

236. Teaching Workshop. Alternative Approaches to Teaching Sociological Theory to Undergraduates

Organizer and Leader: Joel H. Thayer, Francis Marion University

Co-Leader: Lisa A. Eargle, Francis Marion University

Panel: Alan Sears, University of Windsor

Idee Winfield, College of Charleston

Rebecca S.K. Li, The College of New Jersey

Anne Frances Eisenberg, State University of New York-Geneseo

This workshop offers four alternative designs for teaching theory to undergraduate students, with emphasis upon lower-level classes. Presenters will discuss developing theoretical thinking capacities, applying theoretical arguments to social action, identifying and applying theoretical principles, and making the theoretical dialogue real through real dialogue. Presenters will describe how they teach their classes and share activities and assignments.

237. Teaching Workshop. Teaching the Sociology of Peace, War, Military Institutions, and Social Conflict

Organizers and Leaders: Morten G. Ender, United States Military Academy; Louis Hicks, St. Mary's College of Maryland

Co-Leaders: Lester R. Kurtz, University of Texas

Gordon Fellman, Brandeis University

James J. Dowd, University of Georgia

Maria Luisa Maniscalco, University of Studies Roma

War, social conflict, and violence remain at the forefront of the American and global experience. Students and sociologists alike are seeking structured opportunities to teach and learn about war, peace, terrorism, conflict, the military, and social conflict in meaningful, structured, and perhaps most significantly, a sociological way. This workshop features four domains: Peace, War, Military Institutions, and Social Conflict from a sociological perspective and with relevant courses and pedagogical tools. Leaders will 1) discuss the content of what they teach; 2) the context in which they teach; and 3) matters associated with the process and structure of teaching and learning to include texts and other instructional tools, resources, etc.

Discussant: Nitsan Chorev, Brown University

This session will take a macro-level perspective on a wide range of phenomena: from childhood obesity in developing nations to the variations in regional trade agreements and labor market regimes. While some of the papers look for explanations in the interplay of local and global factors (focusing, among other things, on how the interests of nation-states and supra-national organizations are reconciled), others suggest that global factors may in fact be less relevant than it is usually assumed and suggest instead to look at historical trajectories of political and economic reforms at the national level.

The Rise, Fall, and Return of Sociological Research on Political Behavior. Jeff Manza, New York University; Samuel J. Abrams, Harvard University

Overlaps and Disconnects: Race and Social Movements in Political Sociology and Political Science. Kim M. Williams, Harvard University

Despite apparently overlapping subject matter, political sociologists and political scientists do not always collaborate. Why is this the case? Is the subject matter of the two fields very different? Or do scholars from each discipline use very different theoretical approaches or have conflicting agendas? And are there some areas where both fields work together on a common projects? This panel will explore these and other questions with leading practitioners representing both disciplines and a variety of approaches and subject matter.

263. Section on Science, Knowledge, and Technology Author Meets Critics Session. Inclusion: The Politics of Difference in Medical Research (Chicago, 2007) by Steven Epstein

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Simmons, Third Floor

Organizer and President: Daniel Lee Kleinman, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Critics: Phil Brown, Brown University

Alondra Nelson, Yale University

Fiona E. Murray, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Author: Steven G. Epstein, University of California-San Diego

This session is devoted to a critical discussion of 2007 Robert K. Merton Award winner Steven Epstein's Inclusion: The Politics of Difference in Medical Research (Chicago, 2007). Epstein's work is a study of the politics of inclusion and the management of difference in biomedical research in the U.S.

264. Section on Sex and Gender Invited Session. Managed Hearts and Second Shifts: Hochschild's Theorizing of the Many Worlds of Work

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay C, Second Floor

Organizers and Presidents: Linda M. Blum, University of New Hampshire; Jennifer L. Pierce, University of Minnesota

Future Directions in Studies of Work in the UK and Western Europe. Patricia Lewis, University of Kent; Ruth E. Simpson, Brunel University

Transnational Implications. Joya Misra, University of Massachusetts Response. Arlie Russell Hochschild, University of California-Berkeley

Over the past three decades, Professor Arlie Hochschild's scholarship has reframed our understanding of the relations between work, emotions, and family life. In The Managed Heart, Hochschild deftly revealed how jobs become quite different when we take seriously the reproduction of gendered "feeling rules" and "emotion work" in the labor process. In The Second Shift, she uncovered the emotional consequences of the gendered division of household labor for two-paycheck families, and in The Time Bind, examined the "crunch" more and more Americans experience between the demands of work and family life. Most recently, in her anthology with Barbara Ehrenreich, Global Woman, she highlights the transnational and asymmetrical geography of emotions in the work of immigrant women and their employers. Not only are the concepts Hochschild has advanced now central to our sociological imagination, but they have gained wider recognition among public audiences in articles in the New York Times, The American Prospect, and many other venues. To this end, she received the American Sociological Association's Public Understanding of Sociology Award in 2003. Our panel at once honors the contributions of Professor Hochschild's scholarship and encourages a lively and critically engaged discussion about the future directions of her theoretical and conceptual work.

265. Section on Sociology of Culture Paper Session. Issues of Evidence and Warrant in Analyzing Culture

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay D, Second Floor

Organizer: Marion Fourcade-Gourinchas, University of California-Berkeley

President: Mark D. Jacobs, George Mason University

Making Cultural Distinctions. Alexander Vander Stichele and Rudi Laermans, Catholic University of Leuven

Discussant: Brian S. Steensland, Indiana University

The influence of an argument depends not only on the quality of its evidence, but also—what often remains only tacit—on the quality of the warrant which makes that evidence relevant to a set of claims and reasons. What principles of evidence and warrant are most salient—and most in need of articulation—in your analysis of culture?

266. Section on Sociology of Law Paper Session: The Legal Profession and Legal Change

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon C, Fourth Floor

Organizer: Ryan D. King, State University of New York-Albany

268. Informational Poster Session. Research Funding Opportunities and Data Resources (part of the Research Support Forum) (to 4:00 pm)

Hynes Convention Center, Exhibit Hall D

This poster/exhibit session provides a unique occasion to meet representatives of major research funding institutions and principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale datasets that are publicly available for use. Each display by a funding institution provides a visual overview of research funding and the application process, materials for distribution, and time for direct individual discussion. Data resource representatives are available to talk about the featured datasets, their analytic potential, and issues relating to access and use, including state-of-the-art Internet services to access datasets. This is an opportunity for meeting attendees to learn about these datasets and their potential for research and teaching. All meeting participants, including students, are encouraged to attend.

1. Division of Social and Economic Sciences, National Science Foundation. Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation

269. Presidential Panel. Outsourcing Labor: The Social Construction of Individual, Organizational, and Field-Level Effects

Organizer and Presider: Alison Davis-Blake, University of Minnesota
Susan Houseman, W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research
Vicki Smith, University of California-Davis

This session is organized around three broad themes of the effects of outsourcing for individuals, organizations, and organizational fields. Our panelists, all well-respected scholars in the area of nonstandard work or outsourcing, will make a general set of comments about one or more of these levels of analysis. A theme that ties all of the panelists' work together is that the consequences of outsourcing at the individual, organizational, and field level are all socially mediated and socially constructed. All of the panelists will provide some insights into how processes of cognition and social construction shape the consequences of the outsourcing of work.

270. Thematic Session. Diversifying STEM Fields: Challenges and Advances (co-sponsored by the ASA Section on Sociological Practice)

Organizer and Presider: Mary E. Virnoche, Humboldt State University
 Gendered Perceptions of Self and STEM Career Pathways. Shelley J. Correll, Cornell University Structuring Undergraduate IT Programs That Build Diversity. Lecia Barker, University of Texas-Austin
 African-American Girls and Women in Science. Sandra L. Hanson, Catholic University of America
 Gender and Structures of Advancement in Academic Science and Engineering. Mary Frank Fox, Georgia Institute of Technology
 NSF and other science organizations have raised concerns regarding U.S. ability to remain competitive in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM). While there have been some gains in diversifying STEM fields, cultural practices and structural factors remain impediments to the full participation of U.S. ethnic minorities and women in these fields. Panelists will discuss some of these barriers, as well as the best practices for diversifying and building STEM professions.

271. Thematic Session. Labor Environment Coalitions

Organizers: Phil Brown, Brown University; Brian Mayer, University of Florida; and Laura Senier, Brown University
 Presider: Phil Brown, Brown University

Health, Labor, and the Environment. Brian Mayer, University of Florida

Warming Climate?: Labor-Environmental Relations and the Global Climate Crisis. J. Timmons Roberts, College of William & Mary; Kenneth Alan Gould, City University of New York-Brooklyn College; Tammy Lewis, Muhlenberg College

State Channeling and Labor-Environmental Coalitions. Brian K. Obach, State University of New York-New Paltz

The Unnatural Alliance between Labor and Environment. Charles Levenstein, University of Massachusetts-Lowell

272. Thematic Session. Policy Regimes and Gendered Labor Markets

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay C, Second Floor

Organizer and Presider: Joya Misra, University of Massachusetts

Configurations of Inequality: Understanding Cross-national Differences in Gender Economic Inequality. Hadas Mandel, Tel Aviv University

Reproducing Occupational Inequality: Marriage, Parenthood and the Gender Divide in Occupations. Jennifer L. Hook, Pennsylvania State University; Becky Pettit, University of Washington

Policy Regime Structuring of Class v. Gender Equality in Australia, Great Britain and the US. Lynn Prince Cooke, University of Kent; Liana C. Sayer, Ohio State University

Leave Policy in the Nordic Countries: A "Recipe" for High Employment/High Fertility? Anne Lise Ellingsaeter, University of Oslo

Discussant: Joya Misra, University of Massachusetts

This session will explore debates about the role of welfare/family policy on the gendering of labor markets. While some scholars are fairly pessimistic about these effects—arguing that such policies have led to greater occupational gender segregation and lower wages—others are more optimistic about their potential for creating greater success for women in the labor market. Still other scholars examine how these processes relate to the gender division of labor in the home. This session brings scholars from around the globe together to consider the effects of policy on gendered labor markets.

273. Thematic Session. Religion and Labor (co-sponsored by the Association for the Sociology of Religion)

Sheraton Boston, Back Bay B, Second Floor

Organizers: Mary Jo Neitz, University of Missouri; Michael O. Emerson, Rice University

Presider: Christian Smith, University of Notre Dame

Panel: Rhys H. Williams, University of Cincinnati
David A. Smilde, University of Georgia
William A. Mirola, Marian College

This session explores social movements in which religious groups form coalitions with labor activists. The researchers are all concerned with how religious leaders and church members make links between faith and activism and join with activists in specific contexts. The panel includes research on connections between religious leaders and organized labor in the United States and research on the Latin American context where the relationship between religion and labor is configured differently, reflecting the ties between the Catholic Hierarchy and the formal sector and the Evangelical movement and informal sector of the labor market.

274. Special Session. Open Forum: The Status of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and Transgender Persons in Sociology

Organizer: Betsy Lucal, Indiana University-South Bend

The forum on the status of gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) persons in sociology is being held by the ASA

Committee on the Status of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and Transgendered Persons in Sociology. As part of its data gathering efforts for its next report to Council, the committee would like to give meeting attendees an opportunity to discuss their experiences and the climate in which they work.

275. Special Session. Public Sociology through Film: Honoring the Contributions of Filmmaker Michael Apted

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Arlington, Third Floor

Panel: Michael Apted, Directors Guild of America

Troy Duster, New York University

Barrie Thorne, University of California-Berkeley

Paul Willis, Keele University

Mitchell Duneier, Princeton University and City University of New York

The winner of the 2008 ASA Award for Excellence in the Reporting of Social Issues is the prolific and versatile filmmaker Michael Apted, director of such box office hits as Coal Miner's Daughter, Gorky Park, the Bond film, The World is Not Enough, and most recently Amazing Grace on William Wilberforce and the abolitionist movement in England. Within sociology he is best known for his riveting Up! films, which vividly chronicle the life histories of 14 English children, originally selected in 1963 and re-interviewed at seven-year intervals ever since. 49-Up, the most recent film in the series, appeared in 2006. The Up films comprise a unique longitudinal study of class and social mobility in England. Michael Apted will discuss the Up films with the panelists and the audience.

276. Author Meets Critics Session. The Devil's Handwriting: Precoloniality and the German Colonial State in Qingdao, Samoa, and Southwest Africa (University of Chicago Press, 2007) by Leela Ghandi

Organizer: Magali Sarfatti-Larson, Temple University

Presider: Jeffery M. Paige, University of Michigan

Critics: Jeffrey C. Alexander, Yale University

Uta Gerhardt, Heidelberg University
 Author: George Steinmetz, University of Michigan Discussant: Leela Ghandi, University of Chicago

277. Regional Spotlight Session. The Struggles of Boston's Disadvantaged
Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon B, Fourth Floor

Organizer and Presider: Thomas Koenig, Northeastern University
 The Differential Enforcement of Boston's Prostitution Laws.
Maureen A. Norton-Hawk, Suffolk University
 Historical and Contemporary Struggles of Boston Blacks. Robert B. Hall, Northeastern University
 Sociology in the Pursuit of Justice: Winning Billions for the Disabled from Massachusetts Transit System. Ross Koppel, University of Pennsylvania and Social Research Corporation
 Discussant: Thomas Koenig, Northeastern University
 This panel focuses on the contemporary and historical struggles of Boston's minorities, impoverished, and its disabled population.

278. Didactic Seminar. Use of NVivo7 in Qualitative Social Research

Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

The didactic seminar focuses on several research topics as illustrations of the usefulness of NVivo7. (I will be using NVivo7 QSR International Pty Ltd 1999–2007) One study has marital satisfaction as a focus. It will illustrate how NVivo7 can be used to enrich secondary analysis of quantitative data by open coding open ended questions embedded in the survey initially analyzed by SPSS. Another topic has, as its focus, theoretically grounded unobtrusive measures of spatial neighborhood relations, using my impingement typology. The final topic is based on semi-structured interviews of husbands and wives and their involvement in what I theoretically call life cycles: age-life cycle, family-life cycle, education-life cycle, work-life cycle and leisure-life cycle. Over the life course, we engage in and disengage from these various life cycles, which then become the backbone of our life histories, as well as the fabric of our involvements with those to whom we are emotionally and functionally linked. Prior to the didactic seminar, time permitting, the participants will receive a pre-test by e-mail, which will give me an indication of the level of their involvement with qualitative research. Participants will receive a short reading list of materials relevant to the seminar presentation, also how to get started with NVivo7. At the end of the didactic seminar there will be a chance to network and make research connections.

279. Academic Workshop. Opportunities and Obstacles to Faculty Professional Development at Community Colleges

 Organizer and Leader: Philip C. Dolce, Bergen Community College
 Panel: Carol A. Jenkins, Glendale Community College
Susan J. St. John-Jarvis, Corning Community College
David L. Levinson, Norwalk Community College
Stephen F. Steele, Anne Arundel Community College

Wava G. Haney, University of Wisconsin Colleges

This interactive workshop is for community college faculty and professional interested the field. Given the wide-ranging mission and interdisciplinary structure of many community college departments, it is essential that faculty be afforded opportunities for professional development. In addition to focusing on opportunities and obstacles to professional development, the workshop will explore criteria used to define faculty development; its role in promotion and tenure considerations; strategies for including it in faculty evaluation plans; and the responsibilities faculty association, administration and professional organizations have in fostering professional development. Attendees are welcomed to bring copies of their colleges' professional development plans which will become part of the workshop.

280. Academic Workshop. Providing Undergraduate Majors with Career Advice

Organizer: Mary Scheuer Senter, Central Michigan University
 Leader: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association

ASA's BA and Beyond Project, organized by Bobbie Spalter-Roth, suggests that students are "hungry" for more information on careers in sociology. The experiences of many of us on campuses confirms this finding. This workshop is organized to (1) provide current information on careers for sociologists and/or on ways of securing that information for local markets, using data from ASA and other sources; (2) disseminate student-friendly materials that have been prepared by ASA and departments or career units on campuses; and (3) share information from campuses on ways of organizing career advising for sociology majors and of encouraging them to think about careers. We want this workshop to be interactive and to draw on the successful experiences and activities that some of you may already have in place. We would appreciate hearing in advance of the Boston meetings from those of you who have developed career materials for undergraduate students and/or have developed structures, offices, staff, assignments and techniques to assist students in planning their careers as sociologists. You can contact us at Mary.Senter@cmich.edu or at vitullo@asanet.org. Materials will be reproduced and made available to workshop participants.

281. Professional Workshop. ASA Initiatives: Training Students and Faculty on Ethical Practice

Sheraton Boston, Beacon A, Third Floor
 Organizer and Leader: Earl Babbie, Chapman University

282. Policy and Research Workshop. Disability Policies/Programs and Research Opportunities

 Organizer and Leader: Sharon N. Barnartt, Gallaudet University Panel: Barbara M. Altman, Disability Statistics Consultant
Susan Foster, Rochester Institute of Technology
Mitchell Loeb, National Center for Health Statistics

This workshop discusses a wide variety of disability policies and programs, including those that specifically focus on disability and those that do not but which have a latent impact on people with disabilities. We will review selected policies/programs briefly but use most of the time to dis-

Discuss research opportunities that they suggest or imply. Policies/programs whose explicit focus is disability are rather well known; examples include the ADA, IDEA, Social Security, Medicare and Vocational Rehabilitation. Examples of those that do not focus explicitly on disability include the Human Genome Project, equal housing laws, transportation policies, and abortion laws. Additionally, there are a number of federal level surveys whose data might be considered for use in disability evaluating policies/programs. We will discuss issues of the definition and measurement of disability and the advantages and limitations of using those data.

283. Teaching Workshop. Teaching about Work and Family Life

Organizer and Leader: Stephen A. Sweet, Ithaca College

Panel: Stephen A. Sweet, Ithaca College

Judith Casey, Boston College

Chris Morett, Fordham University

Margaret L. Usdansky, Syracuse University

Susan Lambert, University of Chicago

This workshop focuses on teaching the interlocking relationships between jobs, careers, and family lives. Presenters will share strategies developed in accordance with their work on the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation's Work-Family Teaching Task Force. The session will focus on the Sloan Work and Family Research Network as a resource for teachers to use in developing courses and class activities, as well as a resource for students to use in learning about work-family concerns. A series of teaching modules will be discussed that introduce students methods of analyzing data relevant to work-family concerns, policy, institutional lags, and the prevailing strategies workers use to manage jobs and family roles. Presenters will demonstrate how these concerns can be integrated into courses at all levels of the curriculum. Teaching materials will be distributed.

309. CANCELLED

310. Thematic Session. Gender and the Organization of Professional Careers (co-sponsored by the ASA Committee on the Status of Women in Sociology)

Sheraton Boston, Independence West, Second Floor

 Presider: Margaret K. Nelson, Middlebury College
 Sociology Ph.D. Women at One and Ten Years Post-Degree: On, Up, or Out? Roberta M. Spalter-Roth, American Sociological Association

The Intersection of History and Biography in a Woman's Sociological Career: Moving to the Next Stage. Cynthia Fuchs Epstein, City University of New York Graduate Center
 Durable Inequities: Promoting Gender Equity in Academia. Patricia A. Roos, Rutgers University

Discussant: Margaret K. Nelson, Middlebury College

This session examines how women fare at different stages of the professional life course in the academy in general and in sociology in particular. Three presentations use a variety of methodologies, including administrative records, longitudinal surveys, in-depth interviews, and personal narrative to understand the intersection of structure and biography in these career trajectories. The papers include findings of overt discrimination, subtle inequalities such as resource advantages, personal events that affect careers, salary differences, obstacles to leadership positions, and effectiveness of policy in increasing academic equity. Then testimony will be taken from the audience on their own life course-related experiences, as well as their policy suggestions for better accommodating some of the structural/life course issues that differentially affect professional women in sociology and other fields.

311. Thematic Session. Law in the Workplace

Organizer: Susan S. Silbey, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
 Producing the Legality of Work: The Local State and the Control of Labor in Mid-Victorian England. Marc W. Steinberg, Smith College

When the Going Gets Tough: Legal Compliance in Economic Downturns. Alexandra Kalev, University of Arizona
 The Role of Social Science in Legal Regulation of the Workplace. Robin Stryker, University of Minnesota

Discussant: Susan S. Silbey, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

This panel focuses on the ways law structures workplace relations from the construction of legality of labor relations and labor control in mid-Victorian England to diversity training for managers in contemporary American firms. Because social scientists continue to debate the impact of legal regulations on the world of work, the panel also explores the role of social science knowledge and expertise as an independent force shaping the law that shapes the workplace.

312. Thematic Session. Societal and Institutional Mechanisms Underlying the School-Work Transition

Organizer and Presider: James Rosenbaum, Northwestern University

Student Debt and the School-to-work Transition. Steven G. Brint and Matthew Baron Rotondi, University of California-Riverside Education, Literacy and Occupational Attainment in Cross-national Perspective. Aaron M. Pallas, Columbia University Post-Industrial Pathways: Redefining Secondary and Postsecondary Career Preparation and Transition to Work. Regina Deil-Amen, University of Arizona; Stefanie Ann DeLuca, Johns Hopkins University

Discussant: George W. Bohrnstedt, American Institutes for Research

Three decades ago, the school-work transition was seen as a status-attainment process, largely determined by individual attributes. In recent years, research has begun to examine the institutional and social mechanisms that drive the process, including some susceptible to policy impact. This session has three papers dealing with new ways of examining mechanisms underlying the school-to-work transition: 1) in cross-national comparisons of the occupational requirements for education, 2) US analyses of the consequences of college debt on student careers, and 3) institutional analyses of occupational programs and linkages in high schools and college.

313. Thematic Session. The Changing Nature of Work in Higher Education

Organizer and Presider: Irene Padavic, Florida State University

Panel: Teresa A. Sullivan, University of Michigan

Dan Clawson, University of Massachusetts-Amherst

Carol Colbeck, University of Massachusetts-Boston

Working conditions in academia have shifted dramatically in the past 20 years, and the pace of change is accelerating. Some of the changes panelists will address include the shift from tenure-track to non-tenure-track positions (and tensions between the two groups), increased market pressures leading to administrative demands for on-line courses and grant funding, and shifts in the demographic characteristics of the student body and the professoriate. This session is organized as a panel, with each presenter speaking for 15 to 20 minutes, allowing maximal time for audience participation.

314. Thematic Session. Work as Crime

Organizer: Peter Cleary Yeager, Boston University

Crime as Work: Organizational Grey Zones, Regulation, and Control. Michel Anteby, Harvard University

Corporate Characteristics and Financial Malfeasance in the Largest 500 U.S. Corporations. Harland Prechel, Texas A&M University; Theresa Morris, Trinity College

White-collar Crime and Criminology: From Mainstream to Margins and (Hopefully) Back Again. Sally S. Simpson and David L. Weisburd, University of Maryland

Discussant: Peter Cleary Yeager, Boston University

315. Didactic Seminar. Affect Control Theory

Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

Affect Control Theory is a mathematical theory that links cultural meanings and the control processes underlying social behavior. It assumes that people learn meanings about identities and actions from their culture, and then attempt to maintain those symbolic meanings in social interaction. It differs from other theories in that it measures meaning in a three-dimensional metric, estimates changes in meaning from interaction empirically, and represents the control process of meaning maintenance with a mathematical model. The seminar will cover the intellectual history, current structure and substantive applications of the theory, concentrating on teaching interested participants the more formal (mathematical) structure of the theory. A large part of the seminar will focus on how to use the simulation program, INTERACT, that represents the formal theoretical model. Since INTERACT is useful in both teaching (undergraduate and graduate) as well as research applications, the objectives of the seminar will include both an introduction to the formal structure of the theory for potential researchers and the development of tools for those interested in teaching the theory.

316. Professional Workshop. Public Sociology from the Bottom-up: Teaching for Social Justice and Social Change

Organizer and Leader: Walda Katz-Fishman, Howard University

Co-Leader: Rose Brewer, University of Minnesota

The context of this interactive workshop is today's historic moment of deepening social, economic, political, and ecological crises, renewed activism and social movements, and the emergence of public sociology as a framework for discussion about the world and social transformation. Public sociology from the bottom-up involves the unity of theory and practice (praxis), i.e., liberatory scholarship and pedagogy, putting teaching, learning and participation in movement building at the center. This workshop critically examines the assumptions of public sociology (in relation to professional, critical, and policy sociology) as an analytical and action framework connected to critical pedagogy that links analysis and vision with bottom-up struggles in the early 21st century, e.g., growing grassroots struggles and the U.S. Social Forum process for global social justice. We will offer teaching strategies and teaching and learning tools for classroom and community that re-center around these assumptions. These include: popular education as a pedagogical strategy for creating a community of learners with a vision of social justice and social transformation; and two teaching and learning tools we have developed as activists and educators in Project South—the social history timeline, and the CVS (consciousness, vision and strategy) model of the movement building process—focusing on social history, social movements and lessons learned for building today's bottom-up social justice movement.

- Markets from Personas: Selling Financial Products by Matching Profile with Person. Zsuzsanna Vargha, Columbia University
- Discussant: Ezra W. Zuckerman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
- The process of categorization help market participants construct their beliefs about their own market position vis-à-vis other actors and overall economic market activity. Establishing and justifying categories enables market exchange by making information and action intelligible for everyone involved. These papers combine theoretical and empirical accounts of how existing categories are filled and what the categories that market actors occupy signal to other actors and how these categories secure their occupants' market positions; how new categories are developed and become accepted into the existing categorization system; and finally, how nominal categories turn into real market forces.

341. Presidential Panel. The Post-Professional Era?

Organizer: Steven G. Brint, University of California-Riverside
 President: Magali Sarfatti-Larson, Temple University

The classical professional model created labor market shelters through restrictive entry, rigorous training, and occupational licensing requirements. Sheltered markets allowed for higher income and workplace autonomy in return (at least in theory) for occupational regulation with client interests in mind. The problem of asymmetric expertise is solved now in other ways: through a combination of graduate academic training, improved client access to knowledge, increased market competition and especially state regulation of professional practice. Are the discipline and specialization regimes typical of classical professionalism giving way to collaborative regimes directed by organizations and influenced by communities? Have we now entered a post-professional era? Our panelists will look at the problem from different directions and pose important questions for research and policy.

342. Thematic Session. Citizenship, Immigration, and Work

Sheraton Boston, Independence West, Second

Floor

Organizer and President: Irene H.I. Bloemraad, University of California-Berkeley

Panel: Ruth Milkman, University of California-Los Angeles
Jeffrey G. Reitz, University of Toronto
Yasemin Soysal, University of Essex

Discussant: Irene H.I. Bloemraad, University of California-Berkeley

This panel interrogates the inter-relations between citizenship, immigration and work. How does the intersection of citizenship, immigration and work vary across societies? Is work and being a worker preconditions for being a "good" citizen in the United States and other Western industrialized countries? If so, does work provide non-citizens, including the undocumented, with a wedge to make citizenship claims on the state and fellow residents? We often see this discourse used by immigration advocates who point out that immigrants fill job shortages or do the work that citizens will not do. However, if work is central to "good" citizenship, how is citizenship conceived for immigrants who do not work? For those who do not work, do perceptions of citizenship (by themselves or others) change depending on whether immigrants want to work but cannot find employment, whether they cannot work at all (due to disability or other impediments), or because they choose not to work (to raise a family, etc.)? Do universal welfare states place a higher premium on work, given the greater costs of not working, or is there a greater tolerance and understanding of not working?

343. Thematic Session. Informal Economy and Political Action

Organizer and Presider: Patricia Fernandez-Kelly, Princeton University

Political Effects of Immigrant Smuggling in Sending and Receiving Areas. David Kyle, University of California

344. Thematic Session. Labor Process Theory: Contemporary Debates and Issues

Organizers: Christopher Dudley Smith, Royal Holloway; Paul Thompson, University of Strathclyde

President: Peter Meiksins, Cleveland State University
 The State of the Labor Process Debate after 25 Years. Paul Edwards, University of Warwick

Core Theory and Contemporary Practice Re-evaluated. Paul Thompson, University of Strathclyde; Christopher Dudley Smith, Royal Holloway

Service Work in the Global Economy. Phil Taylor, University of Strathclyde

Extension of the Commodity Form: New Sources of Labor Power. Sharon Bolton, Strathclyde University

This session will present papers on new developments in the workplace and society informed by insights from labor process theory and research. Labor process theory remains the dominant perspective in the sociology of work in the UK and much of Europe. It links issues of skill formation, managerial control and worker resistance to broader trends in political economy. The International Labor Process Conference, now in its 25th year (see www.hrm.strath.ac.uk/ILPC/), is a key forum for critical research. The panel organizers have been active in this conference and publications that have appeared from it, and they are currently editing a volume on Contemporary Theory and Research. The focus of the session is to reflect aspects of these debates by including scholars that have written and researched new development in the labor. It will also connect with the BSA journal Work, Employment and Society, which will be edited from 2008 by individuals that have been connected with the International Labor Process Conference.

345. Thematic Session. Work and the Life Course

Organizer and Presider: Jeylan T. Mortimer, University of Minnesota Adolescent Work Stability and Early Adult Offending. Raymond Paternoster, University of Maryland

Market Attainments over the Early Adult Life Course: Evidence from the Youth Development Study. Scott R. Eliason, Michael Vuolo, Eric Tranby and Jeylan T. Mortimer, University of Minnesota

Transitions into and out of Employment in a Conservative Welfare State: The Case of Germany. Walter R. Heinz, University of Bremen

The Retiring Project, Multi-Plex Time, and Life Course Fit. Phyllis Moen, University of Minnesota

With the escalating pace of technological and occupational change, the growing prevalence of non-standard employment relations, and organizational downsizing and restructuring, individual work careers have become increasingly destandardized and individualized. The traditional "tri-partite division of the life course (as preparation for work, employment and retirement) has given way to the simultaneous or intermittent occupancy of educational and occupational roles through much of adolescence and adulthood. The combination of high school and part-time work during high school is near universal in the United States; many adult workers acquire further education and training to enhance their qualifications while combining or alternating school and work roles. The changing patterns of work through the life course have generated increasing insecurity and risk for many workers, but, for the more fortunate, growing options and opportunities. The papers in this session examine the effects of adolescent employment stability on early adult offending; the consequences of educational, training, employment, and wage histories for income attainment in early adulthood; the prolonged character of transitions from education to employment and from employment to retirement in the context of the German welfare state; and the increasingly complex dynamics of retirement.

346. Special Session. Exploitation at Work and in Society

Organizer: Arthur Sakamoto, University of Texas-Austin

Presider: Hiroshi Ishida, University of Tokyo

Panel: David B. Grusky, Stanford University

Francois Nielsen, University of North Carolina

Arthur Sakamoto, University of Texas-Austin

Discussant: Trond Petersen, University of California-Berkeley

Sociologists have been studying both the sources and consequences of rising income inequalities in the U.S. and elsewhere. What has not been adequately considered in these studies, however, is whether rising income inequalities are associated with increased exploitation. Despite being a central theme in Marxist sociology, exploitation has not been systematically considered in contemporary research especially in terms of empirical analysis. This Special Session seeks to assess the relevance of the concept of exploitation for current studies of inequality.

347. Author Meets Critics Session. Working-Class White: The Making and Unmaking of Race Relations (University of California Press, 2006) by Monica McDermott

Organizer: Kathryn J. Edin, Harvard University

Critics: Kathryn J. Edin, Harvard University

Mario Luis Small, University of Chicago

Katherine Shelley Newman, Princeton University

Author: Monica McDermott, Stanford University

348. Regional Spotlight Session. Sociologists and the Health of Bostonians

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon B, Fourth Floor

Organizer and Presider: Alisa K. Lincoln, Northeastern University

Forensic Mental Health Services: From Institution to the Community in Massachusetts. Stephanie W. Hartwell, University of Massachusetts-Boston

Coming In/Staying In: Lessons Learned about Supporting People Who Are Chronically Homeless and Dually-Diagnosed in

"Coming in" in Boston. Alisa K. Lincoln, Northeastern University

Families and Children with Autism. Paul R. Benson, University of Massachusetts-Boston

Studying the Effects of a Patient Navigation Program for Woman with Suspicious Cervical or Breast Cancer Screening Results in Boston. Jack Allen Clark,

Discussant: Patricia P. Rieker, Boston University

The session will explore the increasingly diverse role of sociologists in the health and health care of Bostonians. We will examine a number of innovative projects and discuss the importance of a sociological perspective in urban health and health care. Sociologists engaged in health related work will present on several urban health issues, including autism, forensic mental health, patient navigation programs and homelessness.

349. Didactic Seminar. Introduction to GIS and Thematic Mapping in Sociology: Research, Teaching, and Outreach

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Fairfield, Third Floor

GIS (Geographic Information Systems) is a powerful set of database and computer mapping techniques that can transform Sociological research, teaching, and our discipline's ability to effectively communicate with outside audiences. This course will give a basic introduction to the art and science of GIS using ESRI's ArcGIS system of software. Topics to be addressed include basic map construction, geocoding of address based data, merging of traditional data with map databases and geospatial information, sources of geospatial data, univariate and multivariate thematic mapping, 3D mapping, and techniques for imbedding maps in documents and presentations. Material for the course will be drawn from

GIS and Spatial Analysis in the Social Sciences, by Robert Nash Parker and Emily K. Ascencio, from Routledge (2008); attendees will have the opportunity to purchase this new book at a convention discount at the conclusion of the course.

350. Academic Workshop. ASA Initiatives: Sociology and Criminology Programs

Sheraton Boston, Beacon B, Third Floor

Organizer: Steven E. Barkan, University of Maine

Leader: Dennis W. MacDonald, Saint Anselm College

Panel: Michael A. Lewis, Christopher Newport University

Kimberly J. Cook, University North Carolina-Wilmington

Jodie Michelle Lawston, California State University-San

Marcos

Marc Riedel, Southeastern Louisiana University

Mary Romero, Arizona State University

Convened in early 2007, the ASA Task Force on Sociology and Criminology Programs is charged with developing model curricula and sample course content for courses in criminology taught in sociology departments; with providing principles, recommendations, and illustrations for how departments of various types may offer strong criminology programs within sociology departments; and with providing information and recommendations on the optimal relationships between sociology and criminology programs that are separate departments. The panel for this workshop will include several members of the Task Force. The workshop's purpose will be to summarize the procedures and deliberations of the Task Force and to present its preliminary findings and recommendations. Audience members are encouraged to provide feedback to inform the Task Force's final report.

351. Academic Workshop. Cultivating Literacy: Integrating Quantitative Data Analysis into the Undergraduate Sociology Major (part of the Research Support Forum)

Sheraton Boston, Beacon H, Third Floor

Organizer and Leader: Dana M. Greene, University of North Carolina

Co-Leader: Ana-Maria Wahl, Wake Forest University

Panel: Dana M. Greene, University of North Carolina

R. Saylor Breckenridge, Wake Forest University

Timothy D. Pippert, Augsburg College

Stephen A. Sweet, Ithaca College

Ana-Maria Wahl, Wake Forest University

While the undergraduate sociology major typically includes one or more courses in research methods, this segment of the curriculum poses distinct challenges for faculty and students. Even when a methods component is required, students tend to take these courses as advanced undergraduates. In some programs, formal methods courses are disconnected from other course experiences throughout the major. Over recent years, the American Sociological Association has encouraged data analysis skills and research training "early and often," preferably with several developmentally sequenced courses and projects. Lower division courses provide an excellent opportunity to convey the excitement of scientific discovery to students who will major in sociology or in other fields. Additionally, early exposure and understanding of research methods will enhance comprehension of scholarly materials presented throughout the curricula, regardless of major.

This workshop will acquaint sociology faculty with resources and approaches to closing the quantitative literacy gap for their majors. Drawing on the materials developed through an initiative to integrate quantitative data analysis ("Integrating Data Analysis Experiences into the Undergraduate Major; ASA Funded Grant), participants in the workshop will explore methods and existing modules geared toward quantitative literacy. The emphasis is on lower division courses and courses outside the research methods-statistics sequence.

352. Career Workshop. Academic Job Search

Organizer and Leader: Rebecca S.K. Li, The College of New Jersey

Co-Leaders: Melinda Jo Messineo, Ball State University

Ronda Priest, University of Southern Indiana

This workshop discusses the process of academic job search and provides pointers for each part of the process. Topics discussed include: (1) Self reflection—issues to consider when reflecting on what one wants out of an academic career; (2) C.V. and application letter—important things to attend to when composing these documents for the job search; (3) Phone interview and campus interview—introduction on how these interviews are usually structured and tips on what to do before, during and after these interviews; (4) Handling job offers and preparing to go to work—introduction on what happens during this part of the process and how to make the first year as an assistant professor a success. Panelists will share their personal experiences and participants are welcome to bring questions.

353. Professional Workshop. Succeeding at a Liberal Arts College

Organizer and Leader: Robyn Ryle, Hanover College

Panel: Sandi Kawecka Nenga, Southwestern University

Matthew Oware, DePauw University

Carla D. Shirley, Rhodes College

Jennifer C. Irons, Hamilton College

This workshop will share the perspectives of professors from a range of liberal arts colleges on the keys to succeeding in that professional environment. Panelists will focus on how to balance teaching, research and service in the small, liberal arts college environment, providing some perspective on how those demands differ across the spectrum of liberal arts colleges. They will also discuss some of the key lessons they have learned about how to do well at a liberal arts college and focus on issues more specific to the liberal arts college experience, such as negotiating in a small department, how involved to be in campus and community life, how to think about teaching evaluations, etc. A question and answer portion will be included in this workshop.

354. Data Resources Workshop. Panel Study of Income Dynamics: 40 Years of American Family Lives

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Harvard, Third Floor

Organizer: Wei-Jun Jean Yeung, New York University

Co-Leader: Frank Stafford, University of Michigan

Panel: Kyle Crowder, Western Washington University

Scott J. South, State University of New York-Albany

Erick E. Chavez, State University of New York-Albany
Kim Shuey, University of Western Ontario
Glen H. Elder, University of North Carolina
Andrea E. Willson, University of Western Ontario
Thomas A. DiPrete, Columbia University
Lynn Prince Cooke, University of Kent

2008 marks the 40th anniversary of the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID). This workshop is for both new and returning PSID users. Participants will hear a brief introduction to new development in the PSID and four PSID-based papers that have recently been published in prestigious Sociology journals. These presentations will be followed by a Q&A period. Come learn from scholars and study staff about opportunities in the PSID and the art of publishing in top academic journals with the PSID. Presentations will be:

Wealth, Race, and Inter-Neighborhood Migration. Kyle Crowder, Western Washington University; Scott J. South and Erick Chavez, State University of New York at Albany, Cumulative Advantage Processes as Mechanisms of Inequality in Life Course Health. Andrea E. Wilson and Kim M. Shuey, University of Western Ontario; Glen Elder, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
 Is This a Great Country? Upward Mobility and the Chance for Riches in Contemporary America. Tom DiPrete, Columbia University
 Doing Gender in Context: Household Bargaining and Risk of Divorce in Germany and the United States. Lynn Prince Cooke, University of Kent-Canterbury

355. Teaching Workshop. Teaching about Human Rights

Organizer and Leader: April Linton, University of California-San Diego

Panel: Joyce Apsel, New York University

Katherine O'Donnell, Hartwick College
Ivan Evans, University of California-San Diego
John L. Hammond, Hunter College and City University of New York Graduate Center

This workshop will offer suggestions for incorporating a human rights framework into existing courses as well as developing new courses that further a sociological analysis of the diverse, interdisciplinary literature on human rights.

Social Networks and Economic Outcomes: Revisiting the Industrial Districts Thesis. Michelle Fei-yu Hsieh, Academia Sinica

Discussant: Josh Whitford, Columbia University

This session revisits the embeddedness thesis and explores the role of social ties and geographic proximity in supporting the formation of markets and industrial districts. While existing literature already persuasively documented numerous benefits of social networks in economic contexts, these papers question durability of social ties in uncertain or changing environments and examine how power relations between network members impact the shape and the effectiveness of networks in facilitating economic exchange.

366. Regular Session. Sociology of Education: Race, Family Influence, and Educational Inequalities

Emotional Safeguarding: Black and White Middle-Class Parents' Concerns and Interventions in Children's Schooling. Catharine H. Warner, University of Maryland

Discussant: Jenny M. Stuber, University of North Florida

The papers in this area examine issues of racial inequality and the test score gap by looking at the role of the family. These papers examine processes within a variety of racial and ethnic groups. Together, they continue a long-standing tradition in the sociology of education—especially to the extent that they focus on educational aspirations and expectations.

383. Plenary Session. Globalization and Work: Challenges and Responsibilities

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon E-F, Fourth Floor

Organizer and President: Arne L. Kalleberg, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill

Discussant: Michael J. Piore, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Globalization has produced important challenges for organizations, societies, communities and individuals. These challenges create opportunities and responsibilities for managers, political leaders, and citizens. Three eminent social scientists—Rosabeth Moss Kanter, Erik Olin Wright, and Michael Piore—will discuss some of the major challenges related to work that are produced by an increasingly global marketplace for large corporations, local communities, and the state.

384. Presidential Panel. From "Industrial Sociology" to "Sociology of Work"?

Organizer: Jennifer Platt, University of Sussex
President: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley

Ethnography of Work and the Work of Ethnography: Hodson's Sample and the Discipline. Jennifer Platt, University of Sussex; Charles Crothers, Auckland University of Technology; Mervyn Patrick Horgan, York University

The session will focus on the history of the sociology of work, mainly in the USA. In reviewing different aspects of that history, the papers will raise issues such as the field's relation to general sociology, how far its changes over time have responded to changes in the wider society or to changes internal to sociology, which areas have been favored and which neglected, and the reasons for these outcomes.

385. Thematic Session. Getting to Work: Cross-national Perspectives on Commuting and Relocation

Organizer and President: Roberto M. Fernandez, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Travel to Work in China: Policies, Trends, and Models. Sumeeta Srinivasan, Harvard University; Joan L. Walker, Boston University

Reconceptualizing the Spatial Mismatch Hypothesis. Donald Houston, University of Dundee

How Important Is Access to Jobs? Old Question, Improved Answer. Yves Zenou, Research Institute of Industrial Economics

Discussant: Roberto M. Fernandez, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The modern era in economic history has sometimes been defined by the separation of the workplace from the home. This session will focus on the social consequences of the ways in which this separation between home and work is traversed. In particular, the session will illuminate on the race and gender implications of home-work separation in cross-national perspective. Presentations will be organized as brief 5–10 minute presentations followed by a moderated open discussion among the presenters and the audience. This session will offer an unusually broad perspective. First, it will be truly cross-national. The papers report studies from China (Srinivasan and Walker), United Kingdom (Houston), and Sweden (Zenou). In addition, the session will bring Boston two international scholars—Professor Houston who is based at the University of Dundee in the UK, and Professor Zenou from the Research Institute of Industrial Economics in Stockholm, Sweden. Finally, the session is purposely broad in terms of disciplinary approaches, involving an economist (Zenou), a sociologist (Fernandez), a geographer (Houston), and two urban studies scholars (Srinivasan and Walker). This wide ranging approach will make for an unusual and lively session.

386. Thematic Session. The Future of Work in Latin America

Organizer and Presider: Alejandro Portes, Princeton University

Panel: Gary Gereffi, Duke University

Jose Itzigsohn, Brown University

Cesar Rodriguez-Garavito, University of Wisconsin

Jose Luis Velasco, National Autonomous University of Mexico

387. Thematic Session. The “Wal-mart” Effect

Floor

Organizer and Presider: Jennifer L. Bair, Yale University

Panel: Ellen I. Rosen, Brandeis University

Chris Tilly, University of Massachusetts-Lowell

José Luis Álvarez Galván, London School of Economics

Virginia Parks, University of Chicago

Dorian T. Warren, Columbia University

Discussant: Jennifer L. Bair, Yale University

Wal-Mart’s economic scale and global scope have made it a lightning rod for concerns ranging from the magnitude of the U.S. trade deficit with China to the future of organized labor in America. This thematic panel will reflect on the extent to which we can speak sociologically of a “Wal-Mart” effect that is, the impact that the world’s largest retailer and largest private employer (with more than 1.6 million workers globally) is having on the organization of social life in various fields. Three speakers will offer their perspectives on different dimensions of the Wal-Mart effect, while the discussant will offer comments on the unifying themes that run through these presentations.

388. Thematic Session. Worlds of Work in the Middle East

Hilton Boston Back Bay, Belvidere, Second Floor

Organizer: Valentine M. Moghadam, Purdue University

Islam and the Sub-Proletarian Work Ethic. Cihan Ziya Tugal, University of California-Berkeley

Conceptualizing the Palestinian-Israeli Conflict: Key Paradigm Shifts. Sara Roy, Harvard University

Toward Rights-Based Development in the Middle East. Gilbert Achcar, University of London

Women, Work, and Economic Citizenship in the Maghreb.

Valentine M. Moghadam, Purdue University

The Middle East has not figured prominently in academic treatments of “worlds of work,” including economic participation, development, globalization, and social policy. This session challenges stereotypes by considering the ways in which class, gender, and capital matter to the region’s political economy.

389. Special Session. Rethinking Uncertainty, Risk, and Order

Organizers: Charles L. Bosk, University of Pennsylvania; Vida Bajc, University of Pennsylvania

Presider: Vida Bajc, University of Pennsylvania

Uncertainty, Order and Control in an Emerging Credit Card Market: The Case of Russia. Alya Guseva, Boston University

Institutions and the Postbellum South. Martin Ruef, Princeton University

Of Risk and Pork: Urban Security and the Politics of Rationality. Eric Klinenberg, New York University

Discussant: Harrison C. White, Columbia University

How does social order emerge as a response to uncertainty in different socio-cultural contexts? We define uncertainty as a complex set of interrelated forces fluctuating in ways such that any specific outcome from the interaction of these forces is not predictable. We define order as configurations of relationships and meanings that generate social practices which constitute responses to uncertainty. The panelists address the following questions: How are conditions of uncertainty made explicit in specific situations? What are the different institutional and individual understandings of uncertainty? From what systems of knowledge do they draw in their response to uncertainty? How does this vary according to different socio-cultural contexts?

390. Author Meets Critics Session. Categorically Unequal (Russell Sage, 2006) by Douglas S. Massey

392. Regional Spotlight Session. The Massachusetts Initiative toward Universal Health Insurance

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon B, Fourth Floor

Organizer and Presider: Peter V. Marsden, Harvard University

Panel: David Mechanic, Rutgers University

Nancy Turnbull, Harvard University

David M. Cutler, Harvard University

This panel will describe the plan to provide universal health insurance coverage recently instituted by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, discuss its implementation to date, and reflect on this model for achieving universal health coverage by comparison to other proposals for extending health insurance coverage to all.

393. Didactic Seminar. Conducting Professional Focus Groups (part of the Research Support Forum)

Sheraton Boston, Independence East, Second Floor

This interactive, practical workshop helps participants to identify the uses of focus groups in program evaluation and basic research. The goal is to foster successful focus group research in a wide variety of cultural settings, with an eye to producing reliable scientific data, rather than "interesting information." The workshop includes two demonstration focus groups with volunteer participants, as well as an overview of research design, the moderator's guide, and recruitment and screening. The emphasis is on linking group dynamics and methodological theory to qualitative research endeavors.

394. Academic Workshop. Problem-Solving Workshop for Students

Organizer: Jammie Price, Appalachian State University

In this Problem-Solving Workshop, students will learn of a social problem as it is experienced by a Boston area client. Afterwards, students will work together in teams to address this problem for the client in the form of a written report. The client then reads the reports and provides feedback to the teams concerning which material they found most useful. In the end, the students gain hands-on consulting experience; the client, sociological consultation.

395. Career Workshop. Officially Retired, Hardly Retiring

Organizer and Leader: Thomas L. Van Valey, Western Michigan University

The title of the workshop suggests that some academics retire but do not cease their professional/intellectual activities. The three panelists have all recently retired from their respective university positions and have emeritus status. However, all three continue to be actively involved in a variety of professional/intellectual pursuits including: research, both funded and unfunded; teaching; writing/publishing; and/or service to professional organizations. Each of the panelists will briefly describe the kinds of academic/professional activities s/he is engaged in, and point out some of the advantages and disadvantages to doing so as a retiree. Then the conversation will be opened to the participants for related topics that are likely to include consulting and other work.

396. Professional Workshop. Sociology in the High-Technology Workplace

Organizer and Presider: Kathy Shepherd Stolley, Virginia Wesleyan College

Panel: Esther Brainin, Ruppin Academic Center Israel

Ross Koppel, University of Pennsylvania and Social Research Corporation

Kathryn Goldman Schuyler, Alliant International University and Coherent Change Consulting

Marc A. Smith, Microsoft Research

Jack Whalen, Palo Alto Research Center

S. T. A. Wilkens, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill

High-technology industries offer unique and potentially high-paying venues for applying sociology. However, the high-tech work world can seem difficult (or even to some extent "mysterious") for sociologists to break into for various reasons. In this interactive workshop, panelists will focus on "practical" issues for those interested in learning more about high-tech opportunities: How can a sociologist prepare for, and obtain, such positions? What can a sociologist expect in a high-tech organization? What can the organization expect of the sociologist? How does the work and experience of "doing" sociology and being a sociologist fit into the high-tech workplace? Does sociological practice change, and itself become changed by, the high-tech workplace?

To address these questions, panelists will draw from their own experiences that include: working with high-tech medical studies; providing consulting services to high-techs; conducting strategic and applied research projects including online communities, artificial intelligence, and system engineering work practice in Japan; working with information and communication technology design and implementation for the Israeli Defense Forces; and applying and teaching product and service design. Participants will also have an opportunity to ask questions of the panelists during this workshop.

397. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sociology from a Marxist Perspective

Organizer and Leader: Rhonda F. Levine, Colgate University

Panel: Rhonda F. Levine, Colgate University

Angela J. Hattery, Wake Forest University

Earl Smith, Wake Forest University

Warren S. Goldstein, University of Central Florida

Craig Reinerman, University of California-Santa Cruz

Rob Rosenthal, Wesleyan University

This teaching workshop will discuss ways to teach a Marxist perspective of a number of sociological topics and areas, from sociology of religion, to social stratification and poverty, to social theory, to name just a few. Panel members and workshop participants will share successful teaching strategies.

398. Student Forum Professional Workshop. Demystifying the Publication Process Part II: Editors of Sociology Journals Speak with Students

Organizers: Danielle Antoinette Hidalgo, University California-Santa Barbara; Camonia Rene Long, Howard University

Panel: James D. Wright, University of Central Florida

Peter Kivisto, Augustana College

John Lynxwiler, University of Central Florida

Rhys H. Williams, University of Cincinnati

David Yamane, Wake Forest University

Marla H. Kohlman, Kenyon College

Current and former editors from Social Science Research, The Sociological Quarterly, Sociological Spectrum, Social Problems, Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion, Sociology of Religion, and the International Journal of Sociology of the Family provide an inside look at the publication process. The editors will discuss what first-time submitters should anticipate when submitting manuscripts and common problems with student submissions. The panel will describe, in general, what students can do to increase their chances for publication and answer questions from attendees.

The Creation of Neoliberal Economic Globalization in Latin America. Alexander Hicks and Diogo Pinheiro, Emory University

A substantial and growing body of economic literature portrays the globalization of trade and investment as a natural and anodyne product of organizational and technological innovation. The papers on this panel call the economic conventional wisdom into question by exploring the social and political origins and consequences of international economic integration. They pay particularly careful attention to the international financial institutions, regional trade agreements, non-governmental organizations, and domestic politics. They deploy sophisticated quantitative methodologies. And they ultimately suggest that globalization is neither natural, inevitable, nor entirely anodyne.

Discussant: Karl Bryant, State University of New York-New Paltz

Great advances in the understanding of how gender "works" have been made by studying people at the margins of gender. For instance, one of the still-dominant theories in the sociology of gender, West and Zimmerman's "doing gender," builds upon Harold Garfinkel's famous case study of Agnes, a young transgender woman. Yet, transgender studies—empirical investigations that transgender lives as their central focus—remain on the margins of the discipline. This marginalization deprives sociology of a wealth of potential knowledge about not just gender but also sexuality as transgender people often take on new sexual identities during their gender transition and are commonly understood by the dominant culture as being sexually "deviant." Showcasing a wide range of perspectives on the relationship of transgender studies to the sociology of gender and sexuality, this panel attempts to push forward current theorizations of these areas by showing how the "unsettled lives" of people undergoing gender transitions help sociologists revisit core questions about the creation and enforcement of gender and sexual binaries.

Organizer: Heidi Gottfried, Wayne State University
 Presider: Judy Wajcman, Australia National University

Comparing Gender Regimes: Globalization, Complexity and Contested Modernities. Sylvia Walby, Lancaster University

Gendered Capitalism, Corporate Non-Responsibility, and Neo-Liberal Restructuring. Joan R. Acker, University of Oregon

Framing Gender Equality: Contextual Constraints and Strategic Choices? Myra Marx Ferree, University of Wisconsin
 Revisiting Agency in Feminist Theory: Global Lessons from Organizing Domestic Workers. Raka Ray, University of California-Berkeley

A proliferation of feminist scholarship has contributed to comparative theories on gender, power, politics and work transformation. Yet, there are few opportunities for dialogue among feminists specializing in different sociological areas of inquiry. The proposed panel seeks to provide a forum for exchange and discussion on a topic of central concern. The list of panelists includes scholars who have written extensively about these themes but have different starting points, ranging from political sociology, historical comparative sociology, social movements, organizational sociology, and work sociology. By bringing together feminists prominent in many ASA sections, the panel has the potential of appealing to a large and a diverse audience as well as advancing sociological theorizing about class and gender inequalities.

427. Thematic Session. International Perspectives on Revitalizing Labor

Organizer and Presider: Kim Voss, University of California

Panel: Peter B. Evans, University of California-Berkeley

Jennifer J. Chun, University of British Columbia

Pun Ngai, Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Kim Voss, University of California

Academics and activists around the globe are debating the prospects for labor movement revitalization. This thematic session will take stock of how much revitalization has actually occurred in different parts of the globe, will excavate the differing meanings of revitalization in different contexts, and will explore the prospects for the future.

428. Thematic Session. Neoliberalism, Labor, and Labor Markets

Organizer: Alfonso Morales, University of Wisconsin

Panel: Edward Orozco Flores, University of Southern California

T. Elizabeth Durden, Bucknell University

Alfonso Morales, University of Wisconsin

Discussant: Silvia Dominguez, Northeastern University

The session, Worlds without Work: Latina/os in Urban America will provide close descriptions of Latina/os living on the economic margins and explain the causes of the marginalization as well as efforts to overcome that situation. Two papers provide close attention to particular populations and situations, recent immigrants and gang members reintegrating themselves into mainstream economic life. The third paper uses aggregate statistical data and ethnographic interviews to elaborate the general problem and detail part of the world of work unmeasured by economic statistics.

430. Special Session. Minority Fellowship Program 35th Anniversary Celebration: Contributions and Challenges

Organizers: Aldon D. Morris, Northwestern University; Florence B.

Bonner, Howard University

Panel: James E. Blackwell, University of Massachusetts-Boston (emeritus)

Charles U. Smith, Florida A&M University

Edgar Epps, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Discussant: Robert Newby, Central Michigan University

This session is focused on providing a history of the very early days of the Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), and the participants will discuss the organizational and individual factors leading up to the founding of MFP in 1974 and the impact of the program on the discipline then and now. This special session and the MFP Benefit Reception that follows later in the evening kick off a set of special activities that celebrate the 35th anniversary of MFP in 2008–2009, and will be followed by a series of articles in Footnotes throughout the year that reflect the history and voices of MFP through the decades. There are also plans in place for a subsequent session at the 2009 Annual Meeting in San Francisco recognizing intellectual achievements and pipeline-related contributions by MFP Fellows and looking ahead to the future.

431. Didactic Seminar. Seeing Through Our Subject's Eyes: Using Photography in the Research Process

This seminar will explore the promises, possibilities and pitfalls of using photography while conducting sociological research. The photo essay medium can provide a unique opportunity for the participants to document and to express their experiences through personally meaningful imagery. We will examine how photograph allow us to explore the complexity of the interior and exterior lives of those whose experiences often remains silent and hidden from the world. We will discuss and demonstrate how photography can add to our understanding of our study participants' lived experiences. We will also examine how photographs can facilitate the interview process.

This session will also consider how photography introduces new possibilities for activism and social change, on part of both researchers and informants. The organizers will focus in particular on using photography with adolescent subjects and provide visual examples from their research. Seminar participants are also encouraged to share their experiences using photography and other visual aides in research. We will also discuss the potential of this method as a teaching tool in helping college students create visual paper projects.

432. Academic Workshop. Academic First Year Programs

Organizer and Leader: Maxine P. Atkinson, North Carolina State University

433. Professional Workshop. Ensuring a Successful, First Solo Teaching Experience as a Graduate Student

Organizer and Leader: Shannon N. Davis, George Mason University

Panel: Michael E. Ezell, Vanderbilt University

Minjeong Kim, State University of New York-Albany

Suzanne Slusser, University of Akron

Entering the classroom for the first time as the instructor rather than the student can be somewhat daunting for even the most confident of people. The panelists will discuss their first teaching experience, including preparation for the first course and lessons learned during the semester. This workshop is designed to explore the variety of ways in which instructors prepare to enter the classroom; all while completing their own graduate education. We will also offer examples of best practices and survival strategies, as well as an opportunity for discussion.

434. Policy and Research Workshop. Immigration Policy and the Implications for Research

Organizer and Leader: Douglas S. Massey, Princeton University

435. Teaching Workshop. Teaching the Sociology of Gender

Organizers and Leaders: Amy Blackstone, University of Maine; Betsy Lucal, Indiana University South Bend

Panel: Sine Anahita, University of Alaska-Fairbanks

Patti A. Giuffre, Texas State University-San Marcos

Jane C. Hood, University of New Mexico

Sharon Preves, Hamline University

Danielle Antoinette Hidalgo, University California-Santa Barbara

This workshop will focus on creative approaches to teaching sociology of gender. There will be two performance-oriented presentations, one on "Gender Theatre" vignettes produced by students and another on the performance of gendered embodiment by an instructor. Two presenters will talk about small-group activities, one on what men and women like least and most about the gender they were raised as and another on teaching students to critique sex-differences research. A discussion of a "Gender Narrative" assignment will round out the workshop. Participants are encouraged to bring along their own creative approaches to teaching about gender.

Discussant: Daniel Beunza, Columbia University

Economic sociologists' conception of markets as consistent of rich and diverse ties between buyers and sellers, producers and suppliers, entrepreneurs, firms, managers and board members stands in stark opposition to neoclassical markets that are devoid of any social interactions between market actors. Yet the recent interest of economic sociologists in electronic and some financial markets necessitates a closer look at how markets actors establish a working interaction order and exchange amidst the problems of anonymity, social and geographic distance, and resulting uncertainty.

Discussant: John L. Martin, University of California-Berkeley

This panel is part of the annual Theory Miniconference, which this year is exploring the relationship between theory and method. In this panel, participants from diverse theoretical perspectives reflect on the simplifying representations that all research involves: reducing, focusing, and illuminating the complex buzz of social life. To what degree are these simplifying models useful, revelatory, and generative? Or to what degree do they obscure, rather than reveal, the dynamics of social life?

461. Plenary Session. Barriers and Bridges: A Dialogue on U.S.-Mexico Immigration

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Grand Salon E-F, Fourth Floor

Presider: Julia Preston, The New York Times

The flow of people across national borders produced by changes in work has created challenges for social, economic, and political policies seeking to cope with immigration. Two eminent scholars—Douglas Massey and Jorge G. Castañeda—will examine the complex issue of immigration from both U.S. and Mexican perspectives. In doing so, they will address broader aspects of the debate over immigration currently being waged in political circles in the United States and Mexico. The dialogue, rich with statistics, expert opinions and personal observations, are a great reason to attend this evening plenary session.

9:30 pm Reception

- Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) Benefit Reception (to 11:30 pm; ticket required for admission)—Hilton Boston Back Bay, Fenway Ballroom, Lower Level

Monday, August 4

The length of each daytime session/meeting activity is one hour and forty minutes, unless noted otherwise.

8:30 am Sessions

462. Thematic Session. Entrepreneurship in Comparative Context

Organizer and Presider: Howard E. Aldrich, University of North Carolina

Panel: AnnaLee Saxenian, University of California-Berkeley
Alejandro Portes, Princeton University
Martin Ruef, Princeton University
David Stark, Columbia University

Over four panelists will look at the phenomenon of entrepreneurship from an international and comparative perspective. Immigrants have historically played an important role as entrepreneurs in their host societies, and several panelists will talk about recent developments on the international migration front and how they affect entrepreneurship. Entrepreneurship has also buried historically, and one of our panelists will examine entrepreneurship in the American South in the 19th century. Finally, economic transformation in post-socialist nations has sparked a resurgence of entrepreneurship in those countries and we will examine that development.

463. Thematic Session. Over-work and Under-work

Organizer and Presider: Jerry A. Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania
The "Over-Paced" American: Recent Trends in the Intensification of Work. David J. Maume, University of Cincinnati
Work-Time Pressures on Families in 30 Countries. Jerry A. Jacobs and Carla Medalia, University of Pennsylvania
Does Increased Schedule Flexibility Reduce Stress among the Overworked: Evidence from a Natural Experiment. Phyllis Moen and Erin Kelly, University of Minnesota
The Dynamics of Working Time Preferences. Jeremy E. Reynolds, University of Georgia

The substantive theme of the session is the issue of patterns of work in the U.S. and other countries. Recent research has found that some people and families are overworked (various definitions have been employed), while others find themselves without sufficient employment to support themselves and their families. This session will explore this topic further with original analyses of both behavioral data on the amount of time people spend in paid employment and attitudinal data with respondents' evaluations of the time they spend working. This session will have four panelists and no discussant. Each panelist will be asked to comment briefly on one of the other papers. Panelists will have 15 minutes for their presentations. Thus the session will be designed to facilitate discussion among the panelists and the audience.

464. Thematic Session. The Second Bill of Rights Revisited (co-sponsored with Sociologists without Borders)

Organizer: Judith Blau, University of North Carolina
Presider: Keri E. Iyall Smith, Stonehill College

Panel: Brian Gran, Case Western Reserve University
Thomas W. Pogge, Columbia University
Sheila Rothman, Columbia University
Judith Blau, University of North Carolina

Over several years, Franklin Delano Roosevelt developed what he called, "The Second Bill of Rights," and on January 11, 1944 he proposed it to the nation in his State of the Union address. He stressed that the new bill of rights must apply to all citizens, irrespective of race, creed or color, and he spelled out these rights in considerable detail: economic, food, housing, recreational, healthcare, retirement and educational rights. We cannot turn the clock back, but we can consider the implications of this vision for contemporary times, and how social scientists might contribute to this conversation.

465. Thematic Session. Work and Inequality in Contemporary China

467. Academic Workshop. Bridging the Gap Between Cultures of Teaching and Cultures of Research (part of the Research Support Forum)

Organizer: Edward L. Kain, Southwestern University

Panel: Maxine P. Atkinson, North Carolina State University
Elizabeth Grauerholz, University of Central Florida
Bernice A. Pescosolido, Indiana University

Over the past century a number of social forces have led to tensions between teaching and research within academic settings. This workshop focuses on strategies for decreasing the gap between cultures of teaching and cultures of research. Presenters will cover topics such as integrating graduate students into a first-year seminar program, training undergraduates in research skills, the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning with an emphasis upon publishing research on teaching, and developing structures that train graduate students to think of teaching and research as complementary activities. Workshop participants will work on several activities that help them develop strategies for integrating teaching and research in their departments/programs.

Discussant: Steven Vallas, Northeastern University

Since the early 1990s, researchers have described a "sea change" in the professoriate. This transformation has included decreases in the share of tenured positions; growth in adjunct, temporary, and research positions; increased assessment of faculty time by state legislators and administrators; increases in proprietary research; increased use of a business model; and decline in basic research over the last several decades. This transformation has winners and losers. According to some, the result is a realignment of departments with biomedical and other natural science "power-houses" becoming more central in universities while liberal arts and social sciences become marginalized. This session will include three papers, one that examines aspects of the transformation in universities for sociology, and two that examine the satisfaction of sociologists with their autonomy and control over their work, their economic security, their work-family balance, and their position within the university compared to non-academic sociologists and the academics and non-academics in the natural and social science disciplines.

489. Thematic Session. The "American Model" as Social Laboratory

Organizer and President: Rick Fantasia, Smith College

Panel: Paul Osterman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

490. Special Session. Setting Agendas for the Comparative and Historical Sociology of Latin America

Organizer and President: Jonathan Eastwood, Washington and Lee University

Panel: Diane E. Davis, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Fernando Lopez-Alves, University of California-Santa Barbara

Natividad Gutierrez Chong, Universidad Nacional Autonoma de Mexico

Jeffery M. Paige, University of Michigan

Discussant: Susan Eckstein, Boston University

Within comparative and historical sociology, as in sociology more generally, interest in Latin America is growing appreciably. Recent work by a variety of social scientists has laid the ground for collaborative scholarship that has the potential to increase significantly our knowledge about and understanding of the region's past and present. The focus of this special session will be on agenda setting in this expanding and exciting area of research. It is based on the recognition that we need to review carefully the assumption that the central problems of the historical sociology of Europe (e.g., the rise of the state, of parliamentary regimes, of modern, open stratification, social revolutions, and nationalism) are or ought to be the central problems of the historical sociology of Latin America. While this does not mean that we should ignore such problems, we must consider (a) the historical specificity of Latin American cases, and (b) the possibility that the Latin American region has its own core problems of comparative-historical import that should be examined in their own right. This panel brings together some of the most important practitioners of the comparative and historical sociology of Latin America to discuss these issues.

491. Regional Spotlight Session. The City Beat: What Newspapermen Really Think about Boston

Organizer and President: Daniel Joseph Monti, Boston University

Panel: David S. Berstein, Boston Phoenix

Howard Manly, Bay State Banner

Adrian Walker, Boston Globe

Peter Gelzinis, Boston Herald

Newspapermen talk about Boston, its problems, how it's changed, and reporting on "The Hub of the Universe."

492. Career Workshop. Networking with Clinical and Applied Sociologists

Hilton Boston Back Bay, Maverick A, Second Floor

Organizer and President: Jan Marie Fritz, University of Cincinnati

Clinical and applied sociologists, as well as those who are interested in these fields, are invited to attend this workshop. Practitioners will give advice to those interested in the fields about initiating or transitioning in the field. Among the topics to be covered: preparation for careers in clinical and applied sociology, mentoring, the range of career possibilities and relevant national and international professional organizations.

493. Professional Workshop. Publishing Books in the Social Sciences

Organizer and Leader: Ilene Kalish, New York University Press

Panel: Amy L. Best, George Mason University

Learn the basics of getting published. A general overview of the publishing process will be provided, with special emphasis on which topics are best suited for book or journal publications. Ilene Kalish, the sociology editor at NYU Press, James Holstein, Professor of Sociology at Marquette University and former Editor of Social Problems, and Amy L. Best, Associate Professor of Sociology at George Mason University and author of Fast Cars, Cool Rides and other books, will provide insight onto the various aspects of book and journal publishing. Attendees are expected to learn how the world of publishing works, how they might better their chances of getting published, and how they can develop a successful book proposal. A question and answer period will be provided.

494. Policy and Research Workshop. Family Policy and the Implications for Research

Organizer and Leader: Janet Zollinger Giele, Brandeis University

The term "family policy" is relatively new and not well understood. In the American context, family policy is apt to be more implicit than explicit. This workshop will treat major developments in American Family policy since World War II by first conceptualizing the major issues, setting the American case in an international context, and linking the expansion of family policy to major changes in family structure and its productive and reproductive functions. Of interest also is the politics surrounding the family and the differences in perspective of conservatives, liberals, and feminists. These themes will then be illustrated in six major fields of social policy that bear on the American family. 1. Housing and homelessness; 2. Income, wealth, and public welfare; 3. Education and caregiving; 4. Work-family integration; 5. Health Care; and 6. Racial, ethnic, and religious identity, and immigration. Along with lecture and discussion, and an opportunity for questions, the workshop will provide a bibliography of some of the key sources under each of the main topics to be covered.

495. Teaching Workshop. Teaching the Sociology of Sport

Organizer and Leader: Jason B. Jimerson, Franklin College

Co-Leader: Stephen Nathan Butler, Earlham College

Teaching the Sociology of Sport will share with participants the challenges and rewards of introducing people to sociology through the study of sports. Professors Jimerson and Butler have published papers and taught classes on the sociology of sport at Indiana University, Earlham College, and Franklin College for over a decade. Together, they will discuss how sport can entice new students to study sociology as well as make sociology more interesting for current majors. Participants will learn how studying sport helps students better understand socialization, symbols, media, deviance, capitalism, race, gender, sexuality, and other sociological concepts. Leaders and participants will also share specific tactics and texts that enhance learning. To that end, the workshop will present class exercises, printed excerpts, and video clips that increase student comprehension. Finally, participants will receive a list of resources that will help them use sports to teach sociology more clearly and captivantly.

This panel is part of the annual Theory Miniconference, which this year is exploring the relationship between theory and method. In this panel, younger scholars from a variety of theoretical perspectives reflect on the intellectual, institutional, and practical challenges they face as they attempt to become theorists while also engaging in substantive research of different sorts. Younger theorists are especially invited to attend this session and join in the discussion.

513. Thematic Session. Industry Studies and the Ever Changing World of Work

Organizer: Dan Breznitz, Georgia Institute of Technology

Presider: Walter W. Powell, Stanford University

Panel: Dan Breznitz, Georgia Institute of Technology

Andrew Schrank, University of New Mexico

Josh Whitford, Columbia University

In this Koppel-model session, a group of promising young political and economic sociologists will discuss their work in light of recent efforts to develop an interdisciplinary field of industry studies. The discussant will address their work in the context of this emergent interdisciplinary field and consider whether efforts to think about the worlds of work and the economy through the lens of discrete systems defined by industries advance or inhibit the development of economic sociology and its search for a voice in sociology and beyond.

Since the late 1980s the efforts of the Alfred Sloan Foundation have moved industry studies into the forefront of many social sciences. Moreover, throughout the years many of us have been graciously funded by these efforts. We therefore think it essential that economic sociologists take a critical—if not necessarily skeptical—view of industry studies and, in particular, the way this emergent interdisciplinary field has the ability to shape the career patterns of young scholars. By its very definition industry studies is an inquiry into the world of work, past, present, and future, and we therefore view ASA 2008 as a particularly appropriate venue in which to discuss these issues. In order to do so we assemble a panel of young scholars, one viewing himself as a practitioner of industry studies, one with a very similar research agenda who has yet to embrace the term, and one who hopes to bridge the divide, to discuss their work, their careers, and their answers to these questions.

514. Thematic Session. Paths of Resistance: Work Regimes and Global Protest

Organizer: Vicki Smith, University of California-Davis

Panel: Jeff Goodwin, New York University

Ching Kwan Lee, University of Michigan

Gay W. Seidman, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Discussant: Gianpaolo Baiocchi, University of Massachusetts-Amherst

The sociologists on this panel will discuss alternate forms of resistance to economic and labor regimes. Each of these scholars specializes in international research and brings a unique perspective to different forms of protest: what causes them, who participates in them, and the consequences of social and collective protest. As traditional forms of labor militance (such as strikes and the formation of labor unions) increasingly fail to yield substantive democratic outcomes for workers and citizens, it is important to understand the recourses that people around the world have to challenge institutions and relations of power.

515. Thematic Session. Technology and the Transformation of Work

Organizer and Presider: Beth A. Bechky, University of California-Davis

The Rhetorical History of Telecommuting: Why We Continue to Talk about That Which We Don't Do. Stephen R. Barley, Stanford University

Sociomateriality: Exploring Technology at Work. Wanda Orlikowski, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The Deal: Politics, Technology, and Cognition in Air Traffic Control. Diane Vaughan, Columbia University

Discussant: Steven Vallas, George Mason University

How does the adoption and use of technology shape the way work is done and conceived? This session explores diverse ways in which technology and work are materially and socially constructed. The participants will discuss how people and technology interact to shape the work of air traffic control, how people using tools such as web-based and mobile technologies transform their work practices, and how the rhetoric of telecommuting has changed how we conceive of work and the workplace.

516. Thematic Session. Upgrading Low Wage Work

Organizer: Christine L. Williams, University of Texas-Austin

Panel: Pierrette Hondagneu-Sotelo, University of Southern California

Hernan Ramirez, University of Southern California

Alford A. Young, Jr., University of Michigan

Scholars who study low wage work will be asked to explain how low wage work could and should be upgraded. The focus will be on enhancing both external rewards (e.g., pay, benefits), and internal rewards (e.g., autonomy, creativity). Panelists will also be asked to discuss strategies to counter discrimination in the low wage workplace.

517. Special Session. Sociology and the Post-Communist Condition

Organizer and Presider: Johanna K. Bockman, George Mason University

Panel: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley

Jeffrey Goldfarb, New School for Social Research

Margaret R. Somers, University of Michigan

Ivan Szelenyi, Yale University

Discussant: Craig Calhoun, Social Science Research Council

Eastern Europe—as a place of hope for alternatives and a place for innovative research—has greatly influenced American sociology. The post-communist condition has created further interest, as well as some pessimism, among sociologists in the United States. However, the post-communist condition is not only East European. Worldwide, many of those on the left experienced a post-communist condition much earlier, in reaction to Soviet interventions in Hungary in 1956, Czechoslovakia in 1968, and Poland in 1980–81. The end of the Cold War brought a new kind of post-communist condition around the globe. While few today believe “the end of history” thesis, nonetheless, it appears that no real alternative has yet to emerge that has made any lasting inroads against capitalism. Are we now experiencing a post-post-communist condition? If so, is this condition caused by neoliberal capitalism, multiple capitalisms, renewed Marxism, new emerging alternatives, or abject hopelessness? This session will discuss 1) the sociology of post-communist societies, 2) the sociology of other regions in a post-communist age, 3) how sociology is now practiced in post-communist societies, and 4) how sociology has changed in other regions in a post-communist age.

518. Academic Workshop. Teaching about Darfur: Genocide before our Eyes and the Ongoing Challenges of Humanitarianism

Organizer and Leader: Joyce Apse, New York University

Panel: William Miles, Northeastern University

Helen Fein, Institute for Study of Genocide

Richard Lobban, Rhode Island College

Carolyn Fluehr-Lobban, Rhode Island College

This workshop will include a range of approaches to teaching about mass violence, in particular the ongoing genocide in Darfur and the challenges faced by humanitarian agencies. Particular focus will be on using a comparative framework to look at processes of destruction in Darfur, Chechnya and elsewhere. The challenges of humanitarian agencies in trying to do good will also be explored along with complex and sometimes negative repercussions of their actions on the ground. The workshop will include bibliography, assignments and video suggestions and discuss particular classroom challenges from popularizations and stereotypes (ancient tribal hatreds, racism) to how sociology can be linked with multi-disciplinary approach to teaching about the complex processes of human destruction.

519. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sociology of the Middle East

Boston Marriott Copley Place, Dartmouth, Third Floor

Organizer and Leader: Ali Akbar Mahdi, Ohio Wesleyan University

Panel: Ali Akbar Mahdi, Ohio Wesleyan University

Charles Kurzman, University of North Carolina

Mansoor Moaddel, Eastern Michigan University

The Middle East continues to remain a focal point of international relationships. Its strategic location and geopolitical significance have made it a site of global conflict. Difficulties experienced by the American forces in the region, the deadlock in the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, and continued tensions between Iran and the US generate a stream of negative news about the region and its people. Given the high level of negativity about the region in the American media, how does one teach about this region in American classrooms? What special challenges and obstacles exist in analyzing the Middle Eastern countries with the conceptual and theoretical tools of Western social science? Which sociological perspectives and methodologies are more relevant in understanding the role of class, ethnicity, gender, and religion in Middle Eastern societies? This workshop will discuss how one "unteach" the stereotypes, misinformation, and political agendas that American students bring to class these days, and explain theoretical and methodological difficulties in studying the region.

520. Teaching Workshop. Tridimensional Teaching Workshop: Introduction to Sociology Using Classroom, Internet and Community

Organizer and Leader: Leslie R.S. Elrod, University of Cincinnati

This workshop will include a discussion of the benefits and challenges of using tridimensional teaching (a combination of the traditional classroom experience, internet, and community involvement), thought stimula-tors to encourage development of your own teaching tools, and a discussion of exercises successfully used in a variety of classes.

Organizer and Presider: Stephen R. Barley, Stanford University

Panel: Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan

Joel A.C. Baum, University of Toronto

Walter W. Powell, Stanford University

Discussant: Stephen R. Barley, Stanford University

Since the late 1960's organizational sociologists have developed an impressive body of theory and research on how and why environments shape organizations. In contrast, there has been relatively little work on how organizations wittingly or unwittingly shape their socio-cultural and political context. This panel pulls together four accomplished organizational scholars who will discuss the theoretical and empirical implications of considering organizations, in general, and corporations, in particular, to be witting shapers of their environments. Each member of the panel will present a short empirical or theoretical statement, followed by an open discussion among the panelists and the audience moderated by the discussant.

A notable characteristic of contemporary Worlds of Work is that work occurs in a 24/7, global economy. Thus, employment practices have been altered in a variety of ways that have transformed the working day and transformed work-time structures. These changes have enormous impact both on paid and unpaid labor. This session features four papers that address these changes and include consideration of individuals' subjective and objective experiences of these different times. Regardless of the level or method of analysis, all four papers problematize rather than take for granted workplace temporalities.

539. Thematic Session. Worlds of Work and Welfare in Europe

Organizer: Duncan Gallie, University of Oxford

Welfare Regimes, Employment Systems and the Quality of Work.

Duncan Gallie, University of Oxford

Welfare Regimes, Women's Employment and Work-Life Balance.

Sonja Drobic, University of Hamburg

Flexibility and the European Employment Strategy. Per Konshøj

Madsen, University of Aalborg

Discussant: John D. Stephens, University of North Carolina

540. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sociology through Film and Television

Organizer and Leader: Julie Ann Raulli, Wilson College

Co-Leader: Lisa New Freeland, Eastern Illinois University

This workshop will address ways to use film and television to teach sociological concepts and to explore social issues. The co-facilitators will discuss how they have successfully incorporated these media into courses such as Introduction to Sociology, Gender In Society, and Social Theory to illustrate key concepts and stimulate class discussion. Participants will be encouraged to share their own successful pedagogical strategies. A list of resources will be generated in the workshop and ideas for assessment distributed to participants.

541. Regular Session. Gender and Work II: Work Hours and Work Effort

Hilton Boston Back Bay, Maverick A, Second Floor

Organizer: Louise Marie Roth, University of Arizona

Presider: Laura Hunter, University of Arizona

Gender and Self-Reported Discretionary Work Effort. Julie A. Kmec, Washington State University; Elizabeth H. Gorman, University of Virginia

Identities in Disequilibrium: Identity Change and the Careers of Professional Women. Una Kim, Harvard University

Research Funding Opportunities and Data Resources

Saturday, August 2, 2008, 1:00 • 4:00 pm

This poster/exhibit session provides a unique occasion to meet representatives of major research funding institutions and principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale datasets that are publicly available for use. Each display by a funding institution provides a visual overview of research funding and the application process, materials for distribution, and time for direct individual discussion. Data resource representatives are available to talk about the featured datasets, their analytic potential, and issues relating to access and use, including state-of-the-art Internet services to access datasets. This is an opportunity for meeting attendees to learn about these datasets and their potential for research and teaching. All meeting participants, including students, are encouraged to attend.

1. Division of Social and Economic Sciences

National Science Foundation

Presenter(s): Patricia White; 4201 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, VA, 22230; phone 703-292-8762; fax 703-292-9195; email: pwhite@nsf.gov; homepage: <http://www.nsf.gov/sbe/ses/social/>

The Sociology Program at the National Science Foundation (NSF) supports research on human social organization, demography, and processes of individual and institutional change. The Program encourages theoretically focused empirical investigations aimed at improving the explanation of fundamental social processes. Included is research on organizations and organizational behavior, population dynamics, social movements, social groups, labor force participation, stratification and mobility, family, social networks, socialization, gender roles, and the sociology of science and technology. The Sociology Program resides in NSF's Division of Social and Economic Sciences. The Division supports disciplinary and multidisciplinary research, data collection, measurement, and methodological research. Its goal is to develop basic scientific knowledge of social, behavioral, and economic systems, organizations and institutions, and human interaction and decision-making. It also provides support for research conferences, doctoral dissertation research, international group travel, and data resource development.

2. Dissertation Proposal Development Fellowship

Social Science Research Council

Presenter(s): Camille Peretz & Neal Profitt; 810 Seventh Avenue, 31st Floor, New York, NY, 10019; phone 212-377-2700, ext. 478; fax 212-377-2727; email: peretz@ssrc.org, profitt@ssrc.org; homepage: <http://programs.ssrc.org/dpdf>

The Dissertation Proposal Development Fellowship (DPDF) is a strategic fellowship program designed to help graduate students in the humanities and social sciences formulate doctoral dissertation proposals that are intellectually pointed, amenable to completion in a reasonable time frame, and competitive in fellowship competitions.

The program is organized around distinct "research fields," subdisciplinary and interdisciplinary domains with common intellectual questions and styles of research. Each year, an SSRC Field Selection Committee selects five fields proposed by pairs of research directors who are tenured professors at different doctoral degree-granting programs at U.S. universities. Research directors receive a stipend of $7500. Graduate students in the early phase of their research, generally 2nd and 3rd years, apply to one of five research fields led by the two directors; each group is made up of ten to twelve graduate students. Fellows participate in two workshops, one in the late spring that helps prepare them to undertake pre-dissertation research on their topics; and one in the early fall, designed to help them synthesize their summer research and to draft proposals for dissertation funding. Fellows are eligible to apply for up to $5000 from SSRC to support predissertation research during the summer.

The program is administered by the Social Science Research Council and funded by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

3. Minority Fellowship Program

American Sociological Association

Presenter(s): Jean Shin & Karina Havrilla; 1430 K St, NW, Suite 600, Washington, DC, 20005; phone 202-383-9005; fax 202-638-0882; email: minority.affairs@asanet.org; homepage: www.asanet.org

The ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) has existed since 1974 and is funded primarily by a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, with some co-funding from the National Institute on Drug Abuse. MFP is also generously supported by annual contributions from Alpha Kappa Delta, the Midwest Sociological Society, Sociologists for Women in Society, the Association of Black Sociologists, the Southwestern Sociological Association, and numerous individual ASA members. Applicants can be new or continuing graduate students in sociology, who are enrolled in a program that grants the Ph.D. NIMH Fellows must be enrolled in departments with a strong background in mental health research.

There are a number of General Fellowships as well. Applicants must be members of an underrepresented minority group in the United States (e.g. Blacks/African-Americans, Hispanics/Latinos, Asians or Pacific Islanders, or American Indians or Alaska Natives). Applicants must also be U.S. citizens, non-citizen nationals of the U.S., or have been lawfully admitted to the U.S. for permanent residence.

Application deadline is January 31; notifications are made by April 30. Fellowship is awarded for 12 months and typically renewable for up to 3 years in total. Tuition and fees are arranged with the home department. Fellows are selected each year by the MFP Advisory Panel, a rotating, appointed group of scholars in sociology, especially in mental health.

4. Fellowship Support for Sociologists American Sociological Association

Presenter(s): Roberta Spalter-Roth, Nicole Van Vooren & Janene Scelza; 1430 K St, NW, Suite 600, Washington, DC, 20005; phone 202-383-9005; fax 202-638-0882; email: research@asanet.org; homepage: www.asanet.org

The American Sociological Association (ASA) provides funding to its members through several small awards and fellowship programs. These include the Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline small awards program, Teaching Endowment grants, and the Spivack fellowship program for applied and policy research.

The ASA and the National Science Foundation jointly support the Fund for the Advancement for the Discipline (FAD). The goal of FAD is to nurture the development of scientific knowledge by funding ground breaking research initiatives and other scientific research activities. FAD provides support (up to $7,000) for substantive and methodological breakthroughs that can advance knowledge and lead to the acquisition of additional research funds. Awards are limited to individuals with PhD degrees or the equivalent.

ASA provides awards (up to $1,000) through its Teaching Endowment Small Grants Program to support projects that extend the quality of teaching in the United States and Canada. Individuals, departments, and a program or committee of a state or regional association are eligible to apply.

Through its Sydney S. Spivack Program in Applied Social Research and Social Policy, ASA supports a Congressional Fellowship and Community Action Research Fellowships. The ASA Congressional Fellowship provides PhD level sociologists with in-depth experience as a staff member of a Congressional Committee or in a Congressional Office or agency. The Community Action Research Fellowships provide support up to $2,500 for sociological work with community organizations, local public interest groups, or community action projects.

5. Division of Viral Hepatitis, National Center for HIV/AIDS, Viral Hepatitis, STD, and TB Prevention Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Presenter(s): Deborah Holtzman; Mailstop G-37, 1600 Clifton Road, NE, Atlanta, GA, 30333; phone 404-718-8555; fax 404-718-8585; email: dxh4@cdc.gov

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), based in Atlanta, Georgia, is the nation's lead public health agency for the prevention and control of disease, injury, and disability. The agency maintains a full prevention and health promotion research and practice agenda that includes the prevention of infectious diseases, chronic diseases, injuries, workplace hazards, and birth defects and disabilities, in addition to protection from environmental hazards such as lead and other toxic substances. It also promotes healthy behaviors and lifestyle choices. CDC employs scientists from a variety of disciplines including those from the behavioral and social sciences. Each of these disciplines brings a unique perspective to the study and conduct of public health which contributes to CDC's mission overall. Information will be available regarding current job opportunities, postgraduate training, the Epidemic Intelligence Service (EIS), and funding opportunities.

6-8. National Institutes of Health

Presenter(s): Rebecca L. Clark, Yonette Thomas, Sidney Stahl, Robert C. Freeman, Ronald Abeles & Mercedes Rubio; 6100 Executive Boulevard, Room 8B07, Bethesda, MD, 20892-7510; phone 301-496-1175; fax 301-496-0962; email: rclark@mail.nih.gov; homepage: <http://www.nichd.nih.gov/about/org/cpr/dbs/index.cfm>

NIH Institutes:

Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development National Institute on Drug Abuse
National Institute of Mental Health
National Cancer Institute
National Institute on Aging
National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism
National Institute of Nursing Research
Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences Research.

NIH, comprising 27 Institutes and Centers, is a major supporter of the social and behavioral sciences, providing an estimated $3 billion in fiscal year 2007. In addition to funding both large and small research projects, NIH also funds fellowships for graduate students, post-doctoral researchers, and senior fellows, career development grants for recent Ph.D.s and more established researchers, supplements to existing research projects to promote diversity in science, center grants, and special grants to support scientific research at educational institutions that have not been major recipients of NIH funds.

The NIH Institutes listed above are responsible for more than two-thirds of the NIH funding for social and behavioral research. Substantive areas of interest are broad, and include research in the well-being of human beings across the life course; population studies/demography; the role of education, human capital, and socioeconomic status on health and well-being; physical and mental disability; substance abuse etiology, prevention, and treatment; HIV/AIDS; mental health; health disparities; nursing research; and other research on the role that behavioral and social factors play in health, health care, and well-being.

9. Child Development Supplement to the Panel Study of Income Dynamics

Survey Research Center, Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan

Presenter(s): Kate McGonagle; P.O. Box 1248, 426 Thompson St., Room 3252 ISR, Ann Arbor, MI, 48104-1248; phone 734-763-5166; fax 734-936-3809; email: psidhelp@isr.umich.edu; homepage: www.psidonline.org

The Child Development Supplement (CDS) to the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) is a nationally representative, longitudinal study of children and their families in the United States. Children 0–12 years from PSID families were first sampled in 1997 and re-interviewed in 2002. A third wave of CDS was collected 2007–2008 for the children who are now aged 10–18.

The CDS collects comprehensive time diaries, age-graded assessments of cognitive and behavioral development, health status indicators, and extensive data on family processes from the children, primary and secondary caregivers in the home, and teachers. CDS also provides linkages to national data on schools and census-based data on neighborhoods. Furthermore, the combined PSID-CDS archive offers substantial demographic, health, and economic data about the children's parents, grandparents, and other family members. The PSID has collected data for nearly four decades. Given its genealogical sample design, the CDS youth will eventually become future 'active panel' of the PSID when these youth establish a household of their own. Detailed data on their adult lives will be collected at that point. Until then, CDS youth 18 years and older will participate in a separate biennial interview about their transitions into adulthood. The first data collection was conducted in 2005 and a second wave was implemented in 2007–2008.

10. Panel Study of Income Dynamics

Survey Research Center, Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan

Presenter(s): Kate McGonagle; P.O. Box 1248, 426 Thompson St., Room 3252 ISR, Ann Arbor, MI, 48104-1248; phone 734-763-5166; fax 734-936-3809; email: psidhelp@umich.edu; homepage: www.psidonline.org

The Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) is the world's longest running nationally representative household panel survey. With data collected 1968–2007 on the same families and their descendants, the PSID is a cornerstone of the data infrastructure for empirically-based social science research. The long panel, genealogical blood-line, and broad content of the data represent a unique and powerful opportunity to study evolution and change within the same families over a considerable time span. The PSID now contains 40 years of prospective life histories of families with respondents who have become parents, grandparents and now great-grandparents, as well as over 5,500 respondents who have died since the survey began. These data are being used to support increasingly complex models of outcomes for individuals over the life cycle, for relatives within the same generation of a given family (e.g. sibling models), and for individuals across multiple generations of the same family (e.g. parent-adult child models).

Data on employment, income, wealth, health, housing, and food expenditures, transfer income, and marital and fertility behavior have been collected annually since 1968. Recent additions include questions on mental health, an expansion of expenditure questions, and a supplement on philanthropic giving. From 5,000 families in 1968, the study has grown to include over 8,400 families and more than 65,000 individuals as of 2007.

In recent years, the value of the PSID has been further extended through matching PSID respondents to Census geocodes, permitting the addition of valuable neighborhood characteristics to individual files. PSID data can be used to study the full life course. With rich information collected over many waves on health, retirement, and pensions, and nearly 5,000 individuals aged 50 and older, the data support the study of aging. All waves of PSID data and documentation are freely available to Internet users worldwide by accessing the website: <http://psidonline.isr.umich.edu/>. This newly upgraded PSID Data Center is a user-friendly interface that allows the easy creation of customized data files and codebooks in a variety of formats.

11. National Social Life, Health, and Aging Project NORC and the University of Chicago

Presenter(s): Linda Waite, Benjamin Cornwell, Aniruddha Das, Genevieve Pham-Kanter & Erin York; 1155 E. 60th Street, Chicago, IL, 60637; phone 773-256-6315; fax 773-256-6313; email: nshap-data@norc.org; homepage: www.norc.org/NSHAP

The National Social Life, Health, and Aging Project (NSHAP) is a nationally-representative panel study of health and social relationships among community-residing older Americans. NSHAP was designed to explore the links between older adults' health and interpersonal connections, with a focus on 1) health-related effects of marital and intimate partnerships; 2) the importance of gender and cultural and economic context for older adult health and social connectedness; and 3) the biological pathways through which social connectedness affects various aspects of health.

NSHAP conducted face-to-face, in-home interviews with 3,005 older adults between the ages of 57-85 in 2005-2006. In the first wave of the study, data collection elicited demographic characteristics, social networks, social and cultural activities, history of sexual and intimate partnerships, physical and mental health (including cognition), well-being, illness, medication use, and patient-physician communication. NSHAP also collected data on anthropometrics (height, weight, and waist circumference), blood pressure and pulse, and sensory function and mobility. Through finger-stick blood spots, saliva, and vaginal samples NSHAP assessed HIV and HPV infection, as well as hormone levels, immune function, and cardiovascular health. A second wave of data collection, scheduled for 2010, will repeat the collection of most of the social and health-related measures, thus allowing longitudinal analyses of social life, health, and well-being among older adults.

NSHAP is directed by an interdisciplinary team of researchers led by Linda J. Waite, Principal Investigator, and Co-Investigators Edward O. Laumann, Martha McClintock, Colm O'Muircheartaigh, and Phil Schumm. The project is supported by the National Institutes of Health, including the National Institute on Aging, the Office of Women's Health Research, the Office of AIDS Research, and the Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences research (5R01AG021487). The National Opinion Research Center (NORC) is responsible for the data collection.

The majority of the data may be accessed through the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR) after obtaining IRB approval for secondary data analysis and a secure data storage plan. For more information, see www.icpsr.org/NACDA.

12. Health and Retirement Study The University of Michigan

Presenter(s): Gwenith Fisher; 426 Thompson St., 3050 ISR, Ann Arbor, MI, 48104; phone 734-936-0314; fax 734-647-1186; email: heatherh@umich.edu; homepage: <http://hrsonline.isr.umich.edu>

The University of Michigan's Health and Retirement Study (HRS) provides a rich longitudinal dataset for the community of scientific and policy researchers who study the health, economics, and demography of aging. The HRS collects data through biennial interviews of over 21,000 individuals representing the U.S. population aged 51 and older. The study is funded by the National Institute on Aging and the data is distributed free of charge via the HRS website: <http://hrsonline.isr.umich.edu>

13. Medical Expenditure Panel Survey Center for Financing, Access and Cost Trends, Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality

Presenter(s): Terceira Berdahl & James Kirby; 540 Gaither Road, Suite 5353, Rockville, MD, 20850; phone 301-427-1687; email: Terceira.berdahl@ahrq.hhs.gov, jim.kirby@ahrq.hhs.gov; homepage: www.meps.ahrq.gov

Sponsored by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ), the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey (MEPS) is a vital resource designed to continually provide policymakers, researchers, health care professionals, businesses and others with timely, comprehensive information about the United States population's health, health care utilization, and costs. The MEPS is a continuous on-going nationally representative survey initiated in 1996. MEPS collects data on the specific health care services that Americans use, how frequently they use them, the cost of those services and how they are paid, as well as data on the cost, scope, and breadth of private health insurance held by and available to the U. S. civilian non-institutionalized population. MEPS is unparalleled for the degree of detail in its data, as well as its ability to link health status and health care to the demographic, employment, economic, family and other characteristics of survey respondents. In addition, MEPS is the only national survey that provides a foundation for estimating the impact of changes in sources of payment, insurance coverage, and family status on different economic groups or special populations such as the poor, elderly, veterans, the uninsured, and racial and ethnic minorities. These data have been used to examine factors associated with access to health care, estimates of eligibility for federal programs, racial and ethnic disparities in health, and issues related to the quality and satisfaction with health care. The MEPS is useful for monitoring the effects of social policy on population health, healthcare access, utilization, and quality across time and policy relevant subgroups. All MEPS public use data files are available for down-loading free of charge from the MEPS website:

14. Office of Analysis and Epidemiology National Center for Health Statistics, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Presenter(s): Donna Miller, Kimberly A. Lochner & Christine S. Cox; 3311 Toledo Road, Hyattsville, MD, 20782; phone 301-458-4135; fax 301-458-4038; email: DMMiller1@CDC.GOV; homepage: http://cdc.gov/nchs/r&d/nchs_data linkage/ data_linkage_activities.htm

The National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS) has developed a record linkage program designed to maximize the scientific value of the Center's population-based surveys. Linking individual survey records to other data sources provides a scientifically valuable and cost-effective means to enrich existing nationally representative data collections. NCHS has linked the National Health Interview Survey (NHIS), the National Health and Nutrition Examination Surveys (NHANES), and the National Nursing Home Surveys (NNHS) with death certificate records from the National Death Index (NDI), Medicare enrollment and claims data from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), and Retirement, Survivor, and Disability Insurance (RSDI) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefit data from the Social Security Administration (SSA). These linked data files provide the data resources needed to support a wide variety of sociological studies that can advance our understanding of the demographic and societal factors that influence health disparities, the aging process, mortality, access to and utilization of health care services. This poster presentation will describe NCHS linked data sources, the methodological considerations for utilizing the linked files, data access procedures, and examples of sociological research that can be conducted using these NCHS linked data resources.

15. Data Resources Program National Institute of Justice

Presenter(s): Ronald E. Wilson; 810 7th Street, NW, Washington, DC, 20531; phone 202-305-8711; fax 202-616-0275; email: Ronald.Wilson@usdoj.gov; homepage: <http://ojp.usdoj.gov/nij/welcome.html>

The Data Resources Program at the National Institute of Justice (NIJ) was established to ensure the preservation and availability of research and evaluation data collected through NIJ-funded research. Data sets collected through NIJ-funded research are archived and made available to others in order to support new research to replicate original findings or test new hypotheses.

This poster will depict the policies, products and operations with regard to the Data Resources Program's main priorities, which are grant funding, data archiving, establishing policies, and improving data quality. Under each of these priorities are a set of issues that are important to all who work with data. This poster will map out these issues so that readers will have a comprehensive listing to guide them on what to consider when processing and archiving data for research.

The Data Resources Program has been highly successful as a leader in the area of handling and archiving data for criminological and criminal justice data. The program manager will be available with this poster to answer any questions about these items. Also, a miniature version of the poster will be available for those who wish to model our efforts.

16. Electronic and Special Media Records Services Division

National Archives and Records Administration

Presenter(s): Lynn Goodsell; National Archives and Records Administration, 8601 Adelphi Road, College Park, MD, 20740-6001; phone 301-837-0470; fax 301-837-3681; email: cer@nara.gov; homepage: <http://archives.gov/research/electronic-records/>

The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) is the federal agency responsible for preservation of, and access to, the permanently valuable records of the federal government. The Electronic and Special Media Records Services Division has custody of the permanently valuable computerized records of federal agencies transferred into the National Archives for long-term preservation. The Division has over 200,000 computerized data files from over 100 federal agencies in all three branches of government. Topics reflected in the electronic records holdings at NARA include agricultural data, attitudinal data, demographic data, economic and financial statistics, education data, environmental data, health and social services data, international data, military data, and scientific and technological data.

17. Data-PASS

The Roper Center, University of Connecticut

Presenter(s): Lois Timms-Ferrara; 369 Fairfield Way, Unit 2164, Storrs, CT, 06269-2164; phone 860-486-4440; fax 860-486-6308; email: Lois.Timmsferrara@uconn.edu; homepage: www.RoperCenter.UConn.edu

This poster will present surveys that have become available as a result of the Data-PASS initiative, partially supported by the Library of Congress. Data-PASS is a partnership comprised of four specialized, social science archives in the US: The ICPSR at the University of Michigan, The Roper Center at the University of Connecticut, The Odum Institute at the University of North Carolina, and the Murray Center and Harvard-MIT Data Center at Harvard University. Also intimately involved in the project were two government archives: The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) and the Library of Congress.

The objective of the partnership was to bring together these archives and establish a set of criteria to identify, appraise, acquire, catalog and preserve datasets important to the social science community that had not been properly archived and were at risk of becoming lost to the scientific community. The result of this endeavor so far is the identification of about 2,000 relevant studies and already some 200 have been processed and are available for secondary analysis. Much of these data has not been thoroughly examined and offers a plethora of opportunity for analytical study.

This display will describe some of the specific rescued collections already processed and available through the archives as a result of the Data-PASS initiative. The focus of the ICPSR acquisition has been survey work supported by federal agencies, in particular by the National Science Foundation and the National Institutes for Health. The Roper Center has acquired private public opinion polls conducted in the US that are not regularly archived and more than 500 studies collected abroad by the United States Information Agency between 1952 and 1989 that are currently undergoing processing. The Odum Institute enhanced their already strong collection of state polls and added some polls gathered by private organizations, as well. The Murray Center significantly broadened their collection of qualitative studies and was able to increase their normal rate of acquisitions more than fourfold.

18. Institute of Quantitative Social Science Harvard University

Presenter(s): Nealia Khan & Micah Altman; 1737 Cambridge St., Cambridge, MA, 02138; phone 617-384-9084; fax 617-496-5149; email: nkhan@hmdc.harvard.edu; homepage: http://www.iq.harvard.edu/people/nealia_khan

The IQSS Dataverse Network (<http://dvn.iq.harvard.edu>) is a gateway to tens of thousands of social science datasets, many of them freely available. This gateway includes an integrated catalog of the data managed by the major U.S. data archives, through cooperation with the Data-PASS Alliance (lead by ICPSR), and with the DataWeb team at the U.S. Census.

The IQSS Dataverse Network provides “virtual archiving” services to individual researchers, organizations, and virtual organizations. Individual dataverses, are self-contained data archives that hosted by IQSS and integrate seamlessly with the existing web sites of authors, teachers, scholarly journals, granting agencies, research centers, academic departments, and others. Dataverses are branded in the style of the web site where they are virtually hosted, and the virtual owners have complete control over content and presentation. The digital library services provided for the owner by the IQSS Dataverse Network include data archiving, preservation formatting, cataloging, data citation, format conversion, subsetting, on-line statistical analysis, and dissemination. Each dataverse presents a hierarchical organization of a collection of data sets, which may include studies produced by the dataverse creator (such as for an author or research project), those associated with published work (such as replication data sets for journal articles), or data sets in any collection of use to a particular community (such as for a journal’s replication archive, or a college class or subfield).

The IQSS Dataverse also provides the technical infrastructure for the Henry A. Murray Research Archive (<http://murray.harvard.edu>). The Murray Archive is Harvard’s endowed, permanent repository for quantitative and qualitative social science research data. It disseminates and preserves in perpetuity all types of data of interest to the research community, including qualitative data, video, audio, interview notes, and others. The Murray Archive accepts data deposits from researchers across the world through its online deposit system, and provides full cataloging, preservation and management of that data, in perpetuity.

19. Commission on Professionals in Science and Technology

Presenter(s): Lisa Frehill; 1200 New York Ave, NW, Suite 113, Washington, DC, 20005; phone 202-326-7080; fax 202-842-1603; email: lfrehill@cpst.org; homepage: <http://www.cpst.org>

The Commission on Professionals in Science and Technology collects, synthesizes, analyzes and publishes reliable information about the U.S. science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) workforce. CPST also serves as a forum for objective discussions of data implications and related policy issues by regularly bringing together representatives from academic, corporate, foundation, government, and professional societies to exchange data and information on topics of mutual interest.

Projects Include:

- STEM Workforce Data Project (funded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation)
- Minorities and Non-Minorities in Academia: A Natural Science and Engineering Career Path Comparison (funded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation)
- Career outcomes of science master’s degree holders (with AAAS and funded by the National Science Foundation)
- Evaluation of New Mexico Alliance for Minority Participation and AMP Bridge to the Doctorate programs.
- Evaluation of ADVANCE: Institutional Transformation Programs at Rice University and Kansas State University
- National Action Council for Minorities in Engineering (NACME)
 - o Graduating Scholars Survey (program evaluation)
 - o “Databook” of information on minorities in U.S. engineering

- o Confronting the “New” American Dilemma: Under-Represented Minorities in Engineering: A Data-Based Look at Diversity
- Society of Women Engineers (SWE)
 - o Retention in engineering
 - o Annual Review of Literature on Women in Engineering

Our website provides access to data archives of labor force and education data produced via the STEM Workforce Data Project as well as an emerging set of resources for use in efforts to increase diversity of STEM fields.

20. ICPSR

The University of Michigan

Presenter(s): Lynette Hoelter & Felicia LeClere; P.O. Box 1248, Ann Arbor, MI, 48106-1248; phone 734 615-5653; fax 734 647-8700; email: lhoelter@umich.edu, fleclere@umich.edu

The focus on quantitative literacy has been increasingly outside of the realm of mathematics. The social sciences are well suited to including quantitative elements throughout the curriculum but doing so can mean challenges in preparation and presentation of material for instructors and increased anxiety for students. This poster describes the new ICPSR Online Learning Center (OLC) meant to assist students and instructors engaging in quantitative literacy. The OLC is a source of empirical activities aimed at undergraduates in lower-division, substantive courses. The goal of the OLC is to make it easier for instructors to use real data in introductory-level classes as a way of increasing quantitative literacy among students, piquing interest in the social sciences, and bridging the gap between substantive and required methodological courses.

21. Minnesota Population Center

University of Minnesota

Presenter(s): Trent Alexander, Catherine Fitch, Donna Leicach & Matt Sobek; 50 Willey Hall, 225 19th Ave South, Minneapolis, MN, 55455; phone 612-626-3927; fax 612-626-8375; email: jta@umn.edu, fitch@umn.edu, leicach@pop.umn.edu; homepage: <http://ipums.org>

The Minnesota Population Center has undertaken several projects to create and disseminate harmonized census data for research and classroom use. These include the Integrated Public Use Microdata Series database (IPUMS-USA, IPUMS-International, and IPUMS-CPS) and the National Historical Geographic Information System (NHGIS). IPUMS-USA and IPUMS-International create uniform codes and documentation across 150 years of US census data and 50 years of census microdata from twenty-five other countries around the world. IPUMS-CPS does the same for 45 years of U.S. Current Population Survey data. All data and documentation are available to researchers free of charge at <http://ipums.org>. The NHGIS provides aggregate census data and GIS-compatible boundary files for the United States between 1790 and 2006, available free of charge at <http://www.nhgis.org>.

22. Social Explorer, Inc.

Department of Sociology, Queens College and Graduate Center CUNY

Presenter(s): Andrew A. Beveridge, Ahmed Lacevic & Jordan Segall; Suite 233 Powdermaker Hall — Sociology, Flushing, NY, 11367-1597; phone 914-337-6237; fax 914-337-8210; email: andy@socialexplorer.com; homepage: www.socialexplorer.com

Social Explorer (www.socialexplorer.com) provides easy access to historical census data for the United States through the use of interactive maps and reports. Interactive thematic maps of historical census data; customized reports for any chosen area or areas (including aggregates); complete coverage of the United States, down to neighborhoods and streets; simple navigation buttons and a find tool make it easy and efficient to study neighborhoods. It now includes:

- Seventy years of census data: 1940 through 2000 at the neighborhood (census tract), county, state and national levels, now easily accessible in the form of interactive data maps and reports; 210 years of census data 1790 through 2000 at the county level; 2006 American Community Survey Data and comparative data from the 2000 Census using the same geographies. County religious data from 1980 through 2000.
- An animated training guide with step by step instructions.
- A Reports section, similar in operation to the Census Bureau's American Fact Finder, allows users to directly generate reports about areas of their choice., as well as a data server to make it possible to download data from any census for any defined geography;
- A Find tool, allowing users to instantly locate cities, zip codes, addresses, counties, towns, townships and other census geographies on the map.
- Full source disclosure for all reports—every variable in a report links directly to information about where the data originated and how it was computed, as well as Detailed information for 1960, 1970 and 1980 censuses about which variables were not disclosed for privacy concerns.

23. The Association of Religion Data Archives

Pennsylvania State University, Department of Sociology

Presenter(s): Christopher Scheitle & Stephen M. Merino; 211 Oswald Tower, University Park, PA, 16802; phone 814-865-6258; fax 814-863-7216; email: arda@pop.psu.edu; homepage: <http://www.TheARDA.com>

The Association of Religion Data Archives (ARDA) provides free access to the highest quality data on religion. The ARDA allows you to interactively explore American and international data using online features for generating national profiles, maps, church membership overviews, GIS mapping, QuickStats, QuickLists, denominational heritage trees, tables, charts, and other summary reports. Over 430 data files are available for online preview (including multiple years of the General Social Survey) and virtually all can be downloaded free of charge. In February 2008, the ARDA completed major upgrades to the site, including a new look and many new features. Two of the most significant features are GIS U.S. Maps and a Learning Center. Partnering with Social Explorer, the ARDA now provides interactive mapping of demographic data by census tracts and religious adherence data by counties. The expanded Learning Center contains many new Learning Modules for classroom use as well as a Dictionary of Religious and Statistical Terms. Housed in the Social Science Research Institute at the Pennsylvania State University, the ARDA is funded by the Lilly Endowment, the John Templeton Foundation, and the Baylor Institute for Studies of Religion.

24. German Life History Study Department of Sociology, Yale University

Presenter(s): Joerg Luedicke, Hannah Brueckner & Karl Ulrich Mayer; 201 Williams Hall, 80 Sachem Street, P.O. Box 208265, New Haven, CT, 06520-8265; phone 203-432-3326; fax ; email: Joerg.luedicke@yale.edu; homepage: <http://www.yale.edu/ciqle/>

We would like to present data from the German Life History Study (GLHS) which consists of a series of retrospective cohort studies which have been conducted at the Max-Planck-Institute for Human Development in Berlin, Germany, between 1980 and 2004 under the direction of Karl Ulrich Mayer. The GLHS comprises data on the life histories of some 8,500 men and women from 20 selected birth cohorts in West Germany (1919–1791) and of more than 2,900 men and women from 13 selected birth cohorts in East Germany (1929–1971). The respondents, who were drawn from representative samples, were surveyed retrospectively about their lives in standardized, face-to-face or telephone interviews. Particular emphasis was placed on gaining a thorough, month-by-month account of their educational, occupational, family, and residential histories and of assessing the situation in the family of origin. The data make it possible to investigate life courses in Germany across the entire 20th century. Indeed, the GLHS is one of the major bases for comparative studies of social conditions before, during, and after the division of Germany. Special attention is paid to change in patterns of education and training, labor market entry, and processes of family formation and—since the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989—how the transformation of the East German society has affected individual life courses.

25. General Social Survey/International Social Survey Program NO214RC

Presenter(s): Tom W. Smith; 1155 East 60th St., Chicago, IL, 60637; phone 773-256-6288; fax 773-753-7886; email: smitht@norc.uchicago.edu; homepage: www.gss.norc.org

The National Data Program for the Social Sciences has been conducted since 1972 by NORC, A Social Science Research Center at the University of Chicago, with the support of the National Science Foundation. This program has had two main goals:

- 1) To conduct basic scientific research on the structure and development of American society.
- 2) To distribute up-to-date, important, high-quality data to social scientists, students, policy makers, and others.

This research is carried out by a data-collection program designed to both monitor social change within the United States and to compare the United States to other nations.

Data on social change in the United States is collected as part of the General Social Survey (GSS). The GSS has been conducted almost annually since 1972. It is the only full-probability, personal-interview survey designed to monitor changes in both social characteristics and attitudes currently being conducted in the United States. Over a thousand trends have been tracked since 1972. In addition, since the GSS adopted questions from earlier surveys, trends can be followed for up to 70 years. For more information on the GSS see www.gss.norc.org.

Cross-national data are collected as part of the International Social Survey Program (ISSP). ISSP was established in 1984 by NORC and other social science institutes in the United States, Australia, Great Britain, and West Germany. The ISSP collaboration has now grown to include 43 nations (the founding four plus Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, China, Croatia, the Czech Republic, Cyprus, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Finland, France, Hungary, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Korea (South), Latvia, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, the Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Russia, Slovakia, Slovenia, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Taiwan, Turkey, Uruguay, and Venezuela). The ISSP is the largest program of cross-national research in the social sciences. For more information on the ISSP, visit its Web site: www.issp.org.

26. New Immigrant Survey (NIS) Office of Population Research, Princeton University

Presenter(s): Monica Higgins & Jennifer A. Martin; 187 Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ, 08544; phone 609-258-0081; fax 609-258-1039; email: espinoza@princeton.edu; homepage: <http://nis.princeton.edu>

Description: The New Immigrant Survey (NIS) is a multi-cohort prospective-retrospective panel survey of new legal immigrants to the United States based on probability samples of administrative records from the U.S. Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services. A survey pilot project (NIS-P) was carried out in 1996 to test sampling procedures, questionnaire design, and tracking procedures to inform the implementation of the full NIS.

The first full cohort (NIS-2003-1) was sampled during May through November of 2003, yielding data on 8,573 Adult Sample respondents, 4,336 spouses, and 1,072 children aged 8-12. The baseline survey was conducted from June 2003 to June 2004. The geographic sampling design takes advantage of the natural clustering of immigrants. It includes all top 85 Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) and all top 38 counties, plus a random sample of MSAs and counties.

The NIS content includes the following information: demographic, health and insurance, migration history, living conditions, transfers, employment history, income, assets, social networks, religion, housing environment, and child assessment tests. At the present, follow-up interviews (NIS-2003-2) are conducted.

Purpose: Immigration has a major impact on American society—it accounts for one-third of U.S. population growth, and the United States takes in more immigrants than all other countries combined. In perhaps no other area of public policy is there such a large gap between information needs and existing data. Immigration processes and immigration policy continue to be the subject of much political and scientific debate. What are the contributions and costs of immigrants to the economy? What is the relationship between legal and illegal immigration? What is known about the origins of legal immigrants, how many return to their home countries, and what factors affect their assimilation?

The main objective is to provide a public use database on new legal immigrants to the United States that can address scientific and policy questions about migration behavior and the impacts of migration.

27. Mexican Migration Project (MMP) Office of Population Research, Princeton University

Presenter(s): Karen Alyde Pren; 237 Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ, 08544; phone 609-258-8155; fax 609-258-1039; email: kapren@princeton.edu, mmp@opr.princeton.edu, lamp@opr.princeton.edu

Founded in 1982, the Mexican Migration Project (MMP) has annually administered ethnosurveys to randomly sampled households in various communities in Mexico since 1987. In 1998, the Latin American Migration Project (LAMP) was born. For both projects, each community yields approximately 200 surveyed households in the home country, as well as 10 to 20 households of community members living in the U.S. Responses are converted to electronic format and compiled to form five unique data sets. PERS file contains socioeconomic information for each household member, including basic measures of domestic and international migration. MIG file contains detailed border-crossing, measures of migratory experience of family of origin, extended family and friends, and the social and economic characteristics of the last U.S. trip for each household head. HOUSE file contains measures of household composition and amenities, as well as data about businesses, land, property, vehicles, and livestock. LIFE and SPOUSE files are labor histories, and each record represents a person-year detailing labor force, family/household formation, and cumulative U.S. experience. In addition, we offer the community file with measures of infrastructure, social resources, public services, labor force participation, and education. Currently, the MMP contains 118 communities, while the LAMP includes multiple communities surveyed in Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Peru, Paraguay, Haiti, and Guatemala.

ASA Minority Fellowship Program Fellows

The following current and former MFP Fellows are participating in this year's Annual Meeting Program. ASA and the 2008 Program Committee are pleased to highlight professional activities of these fellows. The ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), in operation since 1974, has been a significant factor in recruiting minorities into Sociology. Fellows continue to make important contributions to the growth of the discipline. The Association takes great satisfaction in acknowledging this form of professional activity.

ASA Honors Program Students

The following undergraduate sociology students were accepted into the ASA Honors Program for 2008. This program requires nearly a week of participation in professional events held concurrently with the Annual Meeting. Students receive full credit for participation only after completion of the program on August 4.

ASA and the 2008 Program Committee are pleased to highlight these students' introduction to the profession of sociology. The Honors Program has a 34-year history of involving sociology students in the ASA Annual Meeting. This year's students are wearing gold ribbons showing their Honors Program affiliation. Please welcome them to their national meeting!

The PSID - Child Development Supplement Transition into Adulthood Study

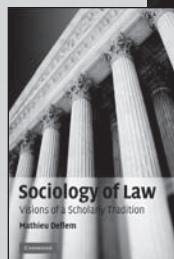

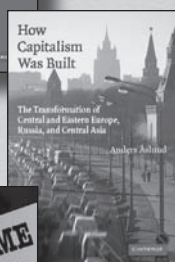

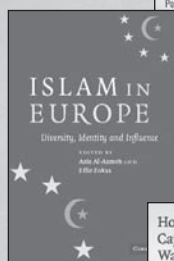

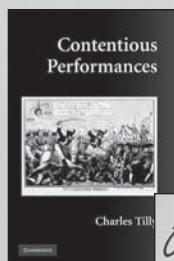

- The Transition into Adulthood 2005 (TA-2005) supplement supports the continued collection of data on families in the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) who participated in the PSID Child Development Supplement (CDS) by adding new content for youth on their transitions from adolescence into young adulthood.
- Data on n=745 young adults from PSID-CDS families aged 18 and older who have finished or left high school as of 2005 is now available at the PSID website: www.psidonline.org
- These young adults participated in the PSID Child Development Supplement and have families active in the PSID as of 2005
- Measurement domains include:
 - Education, Work & Wages, Income & Wealth
 - Expectations, Responsibilities, Skills & Abilities
 - Marriage, Cohabitation & Dating, Child Rearing, Peer Influences, Parental Relationships
 - Discrimination
 - Psychological & Social Well-being, Risky Behaviors
 - Health and Health Behaviors, including BMI, Nutrition, Sleep, Drugs and Alcohol
 - Time Use
- Link to Child Development Supplement data and PSID family and individual data at the PSID website: www.psidonline.org
- Second wave of TA-2007/2008 data has been collected and will be available Spring 2009

New from Duke University Press

Queer Futures

a special issue of Radical History Review
number 100

Kevin P. Murphy, Jason Ruiz, and David Serlin, special issue editors

This special issue assembles the voices of scholars and activists who offer new critiques of “homonormativity,” a lesbian and gay politics that supports rather than challenges heteronormative patterns of consumption, reproduction, and nation building.

Conference price: $11.20

Urban Margins: Envisioning the Contemporary Global South

a special issue of Social Text
number 95

Kamran Asdar Ali and Martina Rieker, special issue editors

This collection seeks to revisit the question of marginality in the production of contemporary urban cartographies. Expanding on urban studies' frequent focus on megacities, the issue also addresses various forms of marginality in small- and medium-sized towns.

Conference price: $9.60

Read the introduction for free at socialtext.dukejournals.org/content/vol26/issue2_95.

Queer/Migration

a special issue of GLQ
volume 14, numbers 2 and 3

Eithne Luibhéid, special issue editor

Drawing on examples from around the world, this special double issue examines how sexuality shapes all migration processes and experiences. The issue insists that sexuality scholarship must rethink the role of migration in constructing heterogeneous sexual identities, communities, politics, and practices.

Conference price: $14.40

Read the introduction for free at glq.dukejournals.org/content/vol14/issue2-3.

Race/Ethnicity

Multidisciplinary Global Contexts

EDITED BY JOHN A. POWELL AND MAC A. STEWART

Race/Ethnicity offers a critical intervention in contemporary thinking on race and ethnicity by recognizing and responding to shared challenges. Through a truly multidisciplinary approach, a concern with race and ethnicity on the global scale, and a willingness simultaneously to engage theory, practice, and other forms of knowledge, the journal offers new ways for scholars, activists, and practitioners to exchange vital information, perspectives, and insights with each other.

The Global South

EDITED BY ADETAYO ALABI

The Global South concentrates on the literatures and cultures of those parts of the world that have experienced the most political, social, and economic upheaval and suffered the brunt of the greatest challenges facing the world under globalization: poverty, displacement and diaspora, environmental degradation, human and civil rights abuses, war, hunger, and disease.

Transition

An International Review

EDITED BY F. ABIOLA IRELE AND TOMMIE SHELBY

Transition is a clearing house for the freshest and most compelling ideas about race—indeed, about what it means to be human—available today, a venue for unusual, and sometimes contentious, writing on ethnicity and identity and a fixture on the intellectual landscape of America. It is written in trenchant, smart, and accessible prose and is lavishly and boldly illustrated with contemporary art and photography. A cosmopolitan journal with an emphasis on Africa and the diaspora, Transition tells complicated stories with elegant prose and beautiful images.

Transition regularly includes fiction, creative nonfiction, narrative journalism, art and culture criticism, political commentary, book reviews, poetry, and interviews.

272 pp., 1 illus., $19 paper

The Story of Cruel and Unusual

Colin Dayan

"[Dayan] builds her argument around one basic principle: that in a society of laws, we frame cruelty in terms of intent. Thus, she writes, we always have a loophole; it's not what we do but what we mean... The argument may be somewhat overstated, but with its implicit sense that cruel and unusual punishment is an ever-shifting standard, it can't help but raise compelling questions, forcing us to reconsider our founding documents and what they say about us." — David Ulin, Los Angeles Times Book Review
A Boston Review Book • 96 pp., $14.95 cloth

Reinventing Los Angeles

Nature and Community in the Global City

The NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF THE NATIONAL ACADEMIES will offer

Ford Foundation Diversity Fellowships

for research-based study in the sciences and the humanities.

Fellowships are offered at the Predoctoral, Dissertation and Postdoctoral levels

These Fellowships are designed to increase the diversity of the nation's college and university faculties by increasing their ethnic and racial diversity, to maximize the educational benefits of diversity, and to increase the number of professors who can and will use diversity as a resource for enriching the education of all students.

Access to online applications and detailed information will be available in early September at: national-academies.org/fellowships.

Questions should be directed to the NRC Fellowship

Office at: Phone: 202-334-2872 or

NEW EDITION FROM WESTVIEW PRESS!

The third edition of this classic ethnography now follows the lives of the men from Clarendon Heights into middle age. Including THIRTEEN NEW INTERVIEWS with the Brothers and Hallway Hangers, as well as new commentary, biographical sketches, and the latest fieldwork, Ain't No Makin' It remains an invaluable testament to how social inequality is reproduced from one generation to the next.

Hijacking America

How the Religious and Secular Right Changed what Americans Think

Susan George

"The forces that have been 'hijacking America,' lucidly exposed in this well-informed and searching study, are doubtless powerful as well as ominous. Their influence is not confined to the United States. Unless they are contained and reversed, prospects are not bright for a decent and civilized world." Noam Chomsky

5.5 x 8.5 inches ~ 288 pages ~ July

Cloth 9780745644608 $49.95

The Comfort of Things

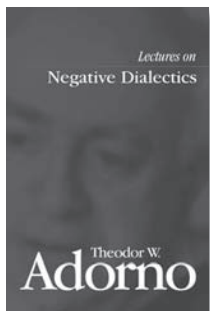

Danny Miller

University College, London

In this brilliant exposé of a street in modern London, Danny Miller provides insight into the diversity of contemporary London. He creates a gallery of portraits, some comic, some tragic, some cubist, some impressionist, some bleak and some exuberant.

6 x 9 inches ~ 316 pages ~ July

Lectures on Negative Dialectics

Theodor W. Adorno

This volume comprises one of the key lecture courses leading up to the publication in 1966 of Adorno's major work, Negative Dialectics. They reveal Adorno as a lively and engaging lecturer who nonetheless makes serious demands on his listeners but leavens his arguments with lively observation.

6 x 9 inches ~ 288 pages ~ August

Reflections on Empire

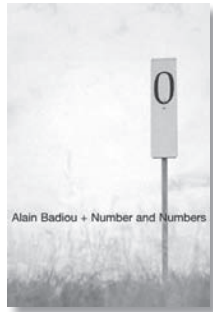

Antonio Negri

formerly University of Padua

Number and Numbers

Alain Badiou

I'Ecole Normale Supérieure, Paris

"Breathtaking ... Badiou announces a new epoch in philosophy."

Slavoj Žižek

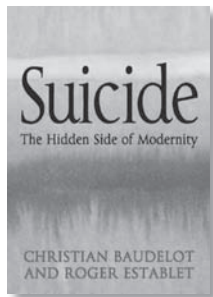

"Badiou's major foray into the philosophy of mathematics displays his trademark blend of intricacy and daring. His purpose is to renew our sense of the dignity, even majesty of numbers - and so bolster our resistance to a world of brute calculation."

Peter Dews, University of Essex

6 x 9 inches ~ 256 pages ~ June

Suicide

The Hidden Side of Modernity

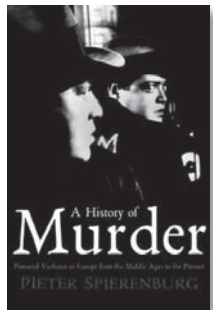

Christian Baudelot and Roger Establet

A History of Murder

Pieter Spierenburg

Erasmus University, Rotterdam

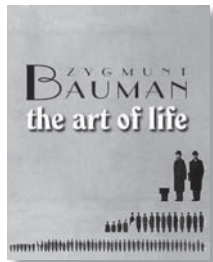

"This book is a triumph. Pieter Spierenburg has used his own research and others' to illumine the history of murder in the western world over many centuries, combining familiar literary sources with unfamiliar criminal statistics in ways that should appeal to scholars and general readers alike."

Roger Lane, Haverford College

6 x 9 inches ~ 280 pages ~ August

Paper 9780745643786 $28.95

The Art of Life

Zygmunt Bauman

Universities of Warsaw and Leeds

The Mixed Method Solution for Qualitative Analysis

WORDSTAT

Computer Assisted Text Analysis Software

SIMSTAT

Statistical Analysis and Simulation Software

Do you need to analyse narratives, interview transcripts, open-ended responses, or large collections of documents?

Provalis Research software suite offers unprecedented flexibility for text analysis by combining an intuitive mixed-model qualitative analysis software with advanced visualization techniques, state-of-the-art content analysis tools and innovative text mining methods. Its seamless integration of textual, numerical and categorical data and the wide range of statistical techniques readily available greatly facilitates the identification of relationships between text analysis results and structured information.

Test drive our software suite today!

"In sum, QDA Miner possesses outstanding mixed-model analytical tools, all of which work well. We are impressed not only by the range of functionality represented in this software, but also by the good design evident in how the program's user interface presents the various components of each tool to the user."

Field Methods, Spring 2007

"One of the first software produced to enable elegant thematic coding devices and content analysis tools"

N. Fielding, R. Lee, A. Lewins, & C. Silver CAQDAS Networking Project, 2006

"The suite of software options allows for a more highly focused examination of what text truly is saying, while at the same time offering a wider variety of ways to display results and a stronger statistical foundation upon which users can conduct analyses than most content analysis software currently available on the market."

Introducing the
COLLECTION

A Routledge/University Readers Custom Library for Teaching

Customizing course material for innovative and excellent teaching in sociology has never been easier or more effective!

Choose from a collection of more than 300 readings from Routledge, Taylor & Francis, and other publishers to make a custom anthology that suits the needs of your social problems, social inequality, and social issues courses.

All readings have been aptly chosen by academic editors and our authors and organized by topic and author.

Online tool makes it easy for busy instructors:

- 1. Simply select your favorite Routledge and Taylor & Francis readings, and add any other required course material, including your own.*
- 2. Choose the order of the readings, pick a binding, and customize a cover.*
- 3. One click will post your materials for students to buy. They can purchase print or digital packs, and we ship direct to their door within two weeks of ordering!*

INVESTIGATOR AWARDS IN Health Policy

SEEKING SOCIOLOGISTS WITH POLICY - RELEVANT PROJECTS

Each year, the RWJF Investigator Awards in Health Policy Research program provides grants of up to $335,000 to investigators from a variety of disciplines and settings for broad, innovative studies of some of the most challenging health policy issues facing America. Past awardees include Linda Aiken, Peter Bearman, Charles Bosk, Phil Brown, Hannah Brückner, Dalton Conley, Rachel Grob, Pamela Jackson, Barbara Katz Rothman, Eric Klinenberg, Shoou-Yih Daniel Lee, Mary Clare Lennon, Bruce Link, David Mechanic, Bernice Pescosolido, Jo Phelan, Alejandro Portes, Jill Quadagno, Robert Sampson, Mark Suchman, and David Williams, among others.

If you have a project idea that holds promise for informing the development of sound health policies, we encourage you to apply. The next deadline for 4-page letter of intent applications will be in March 2009.

For more information, please visit www.investigatorawards.org or contact:

Sociology as a Life or Death Issue

Robert J. Brym, University of Toronto

ISBN-10: 0-495-60075-X | ISBN-13: 978-0-495-60075-6

This beautifully written book examines the social causes of death through analyses of hip hop culture, the motivations of Palestinian suicide bombers, and the plight of victims of hurricanes in the Caribbean region and the coast of the Gulf of Mexico. The five linked essays bring sociology alive by taking you into worlds that figure prominently in today's popular culture and headline news stories. Ending with a synopsis of the promise of the sociological imagination, this thought-provoking book will inspire your hope for a better world for future generations.

We ensure that our research brings about change for the better.

The American Institutes for Research (AIR) is one of the largest behavioral and social science research organizations in the world. Our programs aim to improve the quality of education for all people by evaluating the effectiveness of education initiatives, conducting basic education research, and furnishing technical assistance and training at national, state and local levels. AIR's Education, Human Development and the Workforce (EHDW) Program spans the continuum of education from early childhood development to adult education. Our research and expertise help teachers, administrators and parents, as well as government officials and communities to nurture the dreams of those they serve.

We offer exciting career opportunities in Washington, DC and Palo Alto, CA and we are currently seeking Research Analysts to join our EHDW Program. Qualified candidates will have a Ph.D. or equivalent in Sociology, Psychology, Education or Statistics/Research Methods.

You May Ask Yourself An Introduction to Thinking Like a Sociologist

DALTON CONLEY

“Dalton Conley’s You May Ask Yourself is a refreshingly different non-textbook textbook—a book that I’d strongly encourage others to explore.”—BRIAN POWELL, University of Indiana

With an emphasis on “thinking like a sociologist,” Conley asks students to learn how to evaluate facts about their social world through a sociological lens and apply those lessons to what they see on CNN, hear from politicians, and experience in their own lives.

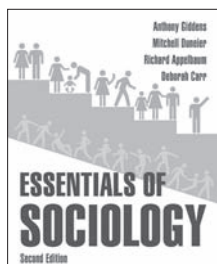

The Real World An Introduction to Sociology

KERRY FERRIS and JILL STEIN

“Unprecedented clarity, wide-ranging stimulation, historical and comparative perspective, and a constant focus on the personal meanings of social life make this an ideal introduction to sociology.”
—JACK KATZ, University of California, Los Angeles

The first “participatory” introduction to sociology textbook, The Real World is the perfect choice for today’s students—with its clever mix of popular culture, everyday life, and extensive student activities.

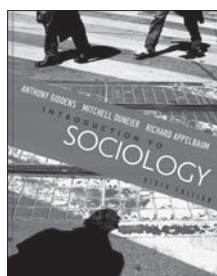

Essentials of Sociology

Second Edition

ANTHONY GIDDENS, MITCHELL DUNEIER,
RICHARD P. APPELBAUM, and DEBORAH CARR

“Essentials of Sociology is engaging, current, and well received by students. Its focus on topics like globalization and public sociology gives the students a solid understanding of the role sociology plays in interpreting (and changing) the world.”—RANDY BLAZAK, Portland State University

Regarded as the most authoritative introduction to contemporary sociology, Essentials of Sociology, Second Edition, includes new material that underscores the relevance of sociology to students’ lives.

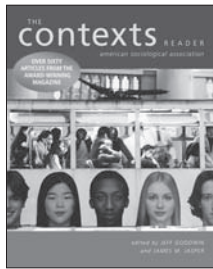

Seventh Edition Available January 2009

Introduction to Sociology

Sixth Edition

RICHARD P. APPELBAUM, and DEBORAH CARR

In the seventh edition, the distinguished authors of this best-selling textbook focus on making micro-macro connections and showing students how global social forces transform their lives.

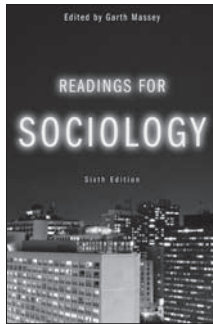

The Contexts Reader

Co-published with the American Sociological Association

JEFF GOODWIN and JAMES M. JASPER

"The Contexts Reader brings 'the sociological imagination' alive whether it be gaining insights into human sexuality or video games, neighborhood segregation or global issues. After reading all the choice selections, any person will look at their social world in a more thoughtful way and gain a special appreciation for how sociology can inform our daily lives."—RICHARD T. SCHAEFER, DePaul University

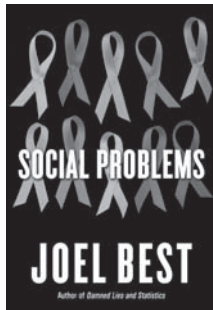

Available October 2008

EDITED BY GARTH MASSEY

With selections from popular and academic journals, as well as lively book excerpts, Readings for Sociology provides students with engaging selections that reveal the complexities of our social world—with an emphasis on social inequality and race, class, and gender.

Social Problems

JOEL BEST

"Joel Best's book is powerful, provocative, and ultimately, empowering."
—DAVID S. MEYER, University of California, Irvine

In his new textbook, Joel Best gives readers a complete set of tools for analyzing any social problem. With colorful examples and case studies, Best helps students connect theory to everyday life.

Available Spring 2009

Inequality and Society

Social Science Perspectives on Social Stratification

JEFF MANZA and MICHAEL SAUDER

The only reader to focus on political inequality and its intersection with social stratification systems, Inequality and Society includes essential selections, from classics of the early days of the discipline to often overlooked contributions by contemporary sociologists.

Index of Session Participants

Numbers refer to Session Numbers (not pages) in the Program Schedule.

For roundtable sessions, table numbers are given after the session number. (For example, a presenter at the sixth table on session 218 will have "218-6" in this index.) Please note that this index also includes session organizers.
