Real Utopias: Emancipatory Projects, Institutional Designs, Possible Futures

“Real Utopias” seems like an oxymoron: Utopia means “nowhere”—a fantasy world of perfect harmony and social justice. To describe a proposal for social transformation as “utopian” is to dismiss it as an impractical dream outside the limits of possibility. Realists reject such fantasies as a distraction from the serious business of making practical improvements in existing institutions. The idea of real utopias embraces this tension between dreams and practice: “utopia” implies developing clear-headed visions of alternatives to existing institutions that embody our deepest aspirations for a world in which all people have access to the conditions to live flourishing lives; “real” means taking seriously the problem of the viability of the institutions that could move us in the direction of that world. The goal is to elaborate utopian ideals that are grounded in the real potentials of humanity, utopian destinations that have accessible way stations, utopian designs of viable institutions that can inform our practical tasks of navigating a world of imperfect conditions for social change.

Exploring real utopias implies developing a sociology of the possible, not just of the actual. This is a tricky research problem, for while we can directly observe variation in what exists in the world, discussions of possibilities and limits of possibility always involve more speculative and contentious claims about what could be, not just what is. The task of a sociology of real utopias, then, is to develop strategies that enable us to make empirically and theoretically sound arguments about emancipatory possibilities. This opens a wide and challenging agenda for sociology:

- Empirical studies of innovative contemporary institutions and practices around the world that in one way or another prefigure emancipatory alternatives to dominant social structures and institutions. The task here is both to seek out the best and most interesting examples of innovation and to understand the limits, contradictions, and dilemmas which they confront.
- Historical studies of attempts at building real utopias, both for specific institutions and for broader projects of social transformation.
- Analysis of reform proposals for specific institutions—for example, universities, criminal justice, the media, city government, the financial system, food systems, environmental regulation, the Internet, intellectual property, the military, corporations—that focus both on the way a given proposal might help solve pressing current problems and point in the direction of broader real utopian transformations.
- Systematic theoretical models of alternative institutions at both the micro-level and the macro-level, with particular attention to the normative ideals and trade-offs of different institutional designs.
- Studies of the role of utopian thinking in sociological theory, philosophy, and other forms of social thought.
- Research on discourses about social alternatives in the popular imagination and social movements.
- Research on various political processes and social struggles involved in advancing and opposing real utopian transformations.
- Methodological discussions of the problem of studying limits of possibility and the transformations of such limits.
- Explorations of the dilemmas of linking strong normative commitments to empirical research.
- The 2012 meeting of the ASA will explore this agenda in the context of the many subfields of sociology. We also welcome proposals for innovative formats for panels and sessions at the annual meeting

Annual Meeting Schedule

The official days of the 2012 ASA Annual Meeting are Friday to Monday, August 17-20, 2012. Program sessions are scheduled on all four days of the meeting at the Colorado Convention Center and Hyatt Regency Denver. There are also pre-meeting activities scheduled on Thursday, August 16, and the meeting will officially begin with the Opening Plenary Session and Welcoming Reception that evening.

Most daytime program sessions are 1 hour and 40 minutes in length, followed by a 20-minute break. Exceptions are clearly noted in the detailed program schedule. The turnover schedule is as follows:

8:30 am-10:10 am
10:30 am-12:10 pm
12:30 pm-2:10 pm
2:30 pm-4:10 pm
4:30 pm-6:10 pm

The 6:30 pm evening time slot is normally allocated for Section receptions, member-sponsored activities, and meetings of other groups. All sessions end by 4:10 pm on the fourth day.

Please refer to the Program Schedule for a daily listing of all sessions, meetings, and social events. Session presiders and committee chairs are requested to see that sessions and meetings end on time to avoid conflicts with subsequent activities scheduled into the same room and to allow participants time to transit between facilities.

Ethical Conduct during the Annual Meeting:

It is unethical in any professional setting, including the Annual Meeting of the American Sociological Association, for sociologists to use the inequalities of power which characterize many professional relationships to obtain personal, sexual, economic or professional advantages.

Sexual, sexual identity, or racial/ethnic harassment is also unethical behavior under the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics.

Attendees are encouraged to immediately report instances of harassment during the Annual Meeting to the ASA Executive Officer at Hillsman@asanet.org or through the ASA Annual Meeting Office.

To read the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics in its entirety, visit www.ASanet.org and follow the link to "Ethics."

Program Highlights

Greetings from the ASA President

Dear Colleagues:

The 2012 ASA Annual Meeting promises to be an exciting occasion. The 2012 ASA annual meeting will explore a wide range of empirical, theoretical and normative issues connected to the idea of real utopia. A number of different kinds of sessions were planned around the theme:

The plenary sessions will revolve around three values that are central to criticisms of contemporary institutions: Equality, Democracy, and Sustainability. The first of these plenary sessions will take place on the evening of August 16, the official opening of the meeting. At the core of much utopian thought is the problem of realizing ideals of social justice, and in one way or another, these ideals are bound with questions about equality. This first plenary examines various issues connecting equality and real utopias. The second plenary, on August 17, concerns Democracy. Many real utopian institutional designs and experiments are built around the problem of deepening democracy: how to organize decision-making in organizations, the state, and society in such a way that ordinary people are in a position to genuinely exercise real power. The final plenary (August 19) is on Sustainability. Few problems pose a bigger challenge to contemporary capitalist societies than environmental sustainability. Global warming looms as potentially catastrophic, and there are good arguments that capitalism as a political-economic system is not only incapable of effectively dealing with this impending crisis, but is itself one of the core causal processes generating the problem.

The meeting will also feature a distinctive new kind of session connected to the agenda of real utopias: 22 sessions that revolve around proposals for real utopian institutional designs to resolve different domains of problems. For each of these sessions a person has been recruited to write an essay laying out the rationale for and core elements of an institutional proposal. These essays are posted on www.realutopias.com/.

In addition to the real utopia proposal sessions, there will be 50 thematic panels organized around general topics linked to the agenda of real utopias. These sessions are an opportunity to explore the normative dimensions of various topics, critiques of existing social arrangements and institutions, the directions for social change implied by those critiques, and social struggles for the creation of alternatives. These sessions include many of the thematic panels proposed by ASA members and cover topics from all corners of the discipline. There will be a special Presidential Panel on the question, "What does it mean to be a progressive in the 21st century?" Three speakers will respond to this question: Francis Fox Piven and Claus Offe. This discussion will explore the broad political and philosophical issues involved in the idea of progress and progressive social change.

This year's program also features an exciting roster of local arrangements representing the work of members from the Denver-area regional spotlight committee. The local arrangements subcommittee component, chaired by Liam Downey (University of Colorado-Boulder), have developed a timely, stimulating, and vibrant roster of regional spotlight sessions and articles featured in ASA Footnotes for the Annual Meeting. Beyond this menu of scholarly events, there will be a party on August 19, called Utopia Reel, beginning with an all-genre jam session. All of this is taking place in beautiful Denver, a city rich in ethnic history and diverse cultural heritage. With a population that is 40 percent Hispanic and 10 percent African American, Denver is a dynamic city of diverse cultures, rewarding those who visit with a montage of sights, sounds, smells and flavors.

My hope is that the Annual Meeting will provide an opportunity for an open and energetic exploration of real utopias as a focus of sociological theory and research. Whether you are attending to see your friends, renew your networks or see the city, welcome!

Registration Services

Continuing our commitment to a more environmentally sustainable meeting, we no longer print and mail confirmations to those who registered online. Please save the e-mailed confirmation as your record. Those who registered via fax and mail should have received a printed confirmation by mail. Attendees who sent materials after the deadline will find their paperwork held for registration processing at the ASA Situations counters in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center.

Preregistration Pickup. Attendees who preregistered may pick up badges, program packets, and special tickets at the Preregistration counters in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center. See registration service hours below.

On-Site Registration. Those who missed the July 11 preregistration deadline should go to the On-Site

Registration counters in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center to register for the meeting.

Registration Services Hours:

Thursday, August 16	1:30-7:00 pm
Friday, August 17	8:00 am-5:30 pm
Saturday, August 18	8:00 am-5:30 pm
Sunday, August 19	8:00 am-5:30 pm
Monday, August 20	8:00 am-1:00 pm

On-Site Fees. Rates for Members and Non-members are shown below. Forms are available in the ASA Registration area. Registration for the Annual Meeting is on a flat fee basis; no "day rates" are available.

Name Badges. Your name badge is required for admission to all convention functions including entry to the ASA Exhibits, Employment Service, and Child Care Service areas. Attendance at events which require fee payment (e.g., Courses, Seminars, Chair Conference, Director of Graduate Studies Conference, TEF Just Desserts, MFP Benefit, Tours) is restricted to meeting registrants.

A general registrant may sign up for one guest pass ($30 onsite) to provide a courtesy badge for a spouse, partner, family member, or other guest. This guest pass provides only a name badge; the Final Program packet is not supplied. Information printed on a guest badge is restricted to the name of the guest; affiliations will not be printed. Individuals attending the meeting in a professional capacity are expected to register in one of the full registration categories listed above.

Refunds/Cancellations. All registration-related fees are non-refundable as of July 11, 2012. Unfortunately, under no circumstances can ASA issue refunds for no-shows. Program participant registration fees are non-refundable; cancellations will not be accepted nor refunds issued.

Tickets for Events and Services

Registrants already signed up for seminars, courses, tours, employment, child care services, and/or special events should have received tickets with their meeting packets. Those who did not make advance reservations may check at the ASA On-Site registration counters in the Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center for ticket availability.

Event tickets are non-refundable and cancellations cannot be accepted. You may, however, sell your ticket to someone else if you are unable to attend.

Membership Desk

Information on ASA membership and subscriptions will be provided at the Membership tables in the Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center. The Membership desk will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and will be open during the same hours as ASA Registration. Attendees may learn about current membership benefits and join the Association, sign up for Section memberships, and subscribe to ASA journals. Display copies of current journals will be available for reference.

Section Information

Looking for information about the ASA Sections and sections-in-information, or copies of 2012 section newsletters? Check the Section Display Tables near the ASA Membership desk in the Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center.

Every Section was invited to designate representatives to staff the display table during each meeting day and provide information on special section activities. Staff from the ASA Executive Office will be nearby at the Membership Desk to answer questions about joining any and all sections.

Staying Connected during the Annual Meeting!

With the 2012 meeting, we are using advances in technology to improve your meeting experience, increase the efficiency and effectiveness of information sharing, and facilitate networking in both physical and virtual spaces.

Annual Meeting Mobile App

The ASA Annual Meeting mobile app includes:

- Information on ASA service hours and locations
- Access to the live webcasts (and real-time transcriptions) of Plenary Sessions
- Access to the online program schedule
- Interactive exhibit hall floorplan
- Real-time convention alerts via the Convention Bulletin

The app is available for iOS (iPhone/iPad), Android and Blackberry platforms. For those who don't have one of these platforms, a mobile website/Annual Meeting "splash-page" is available with the same content. Use one of the following methods to download the mobile app:

Use this URL on your mobile device's web browser:
<http://www.asanet.org/asadenver>

WiFi Access at the Meeting

ASA has provided free basic bandwidth WiFi access in all meeting rooms and public spaces at the Colorado Convention Center and the Hyatt Regency Denver, being used by ASA. Keep in mind that the basic bandwidth is sufficient to allow web browsing and e-mail, but will not support rapid transfer of large amounts of data. Visit ASA Registration in Exhibit Hall A on the upper level of the Colorado Convention Center or download the Annual Meeting app.

The “Hub” and Social Media

Be sure to visit “The Hub,” ASA’s new social media booth during the Annual Meeting. But what’s The Hub? It is where the mini-training modules will be located—a new ASA social networking space in the ASA Exhibit Hall. It will include the ASA bookstore, cyber café, and dedicated tech-training stations.

While technological innovations may be real utopias for some members, for those not born with a mobile device in our hands, they may be a bit daunting, ASA staff will conduct informal, 20-minute technology training modules offered to those who stop by The Hub. These mini-training opportunities will cover an array of popular topics, such as using social networking tools (e.g., Twitter and Facebook), seeing how educators and non-profits are using Google maps, and making your personal website 508 compliant in order to increase its accessibility.

ASA Bookstore

The ASA Bookstore features works published by the Association. Located in the Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center, the Bookstore will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and open throughout the four days of the Annual Meeting during the same hours as ASA Exhibits.

All attendees are welcome to browse through this area filled with recent journal issues, teaching resources and syllabi sets, career publications, sociological practice materials, directories, and reference volumes. The online ASA Bookstore will be available at a kiosk located in the Bookstore to complete online orders for those who’d rather not purchase and carry materials home. Items purchased through the online ASA Bookstore will be shipped after the Annual Meeting.

Exhibits

The ASA Exhibits are located in the Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center. Exhibits will be open to meeting registrants on all four days of the meeting.

ASA Exhibit Hours:

Friday, August 17	2:00 -6:00 pm
Saturday, August 18	9:00 am-4:00 pm
Sunday, August 19	9:00 am-5:00 pm
Monday, August 20	9:00 am-1:00 pm

The location of the Exhibits offers excellent accessibility to meeting attendees, due to its close proximity to poster sessions, the Hub and the ASA Bookstore. Always one of the most popular activities at the Annual Meeting, Exhibits offer variety, convenience, and an opportunity to discover current trends in sociological publishing, information processing, and services.

Meeting attendees are encouraged to schedule several visits to the Exhibit area so that ample time can be given to exploring the many offerings. Browse through the latest sociological publications, explore current computer software, chat with representatives of statistical resources and informational literature, and meet the editor of your next publication!

See the Directory of Exhibitors in this Program for the names and booth numbers of all exhibitors. Don’t forget to look through the Program for special ads too.

All persons wishing access to ASA Exhibits must be paid registrants for the Annual Meeting; badges are required for entrance into this area.

Employment Service

The annual ASA Employment Service assists sociologists and prospective employers by providing convenient opportunities for employers and job seekers to meet in a neutral, monitored environment for initial short interviews during the Annual Meeting.

Employers and preregistered job seekers are able to enter their information in an online module and use an interactive scheduling calendar to set up interview appointments during the Annual Meeting.

All service users were urged to preregister by July 11 in order to take full advantage of the pre-convention communication opportunities that the online Employment Service (ES) offers. Interviewers and candidates were also encouraged to bring their own laptops (equipped with wireless capability) and tablets with them so that they can more easily maintain communications during the Annual Meeting. The on-site Employment Service areas will provide a few computer terminals for use by registered ES users.

Location and Hours. The Employment Service will be open in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center during the hours listed below.

Thursday, August 16, 1:30 – 6:30 pm
Friday, August 17, 8:00 am – 5:30 pm

Saturday, August 18, 8:00 am – 5:30 pm

Sunday, August 19, 8:00 am – 5:30 pm

Monday, August 20, 8:00am – 1:00 pm

Preregistrants should first pick up their ASA badges in the Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention before proceeding to the Employment Service areas.

Employers. Employers (organizations) enter the online ES to pay the registration fee and post job listings. All individuals conducting interviews on-site must be registered for the Annual Meeting and subsequently designated as interviewers by their employers in order to use the online service to search candidate information and set up interview appointments.

Candidates. Those who are looking for positions should have preregistered for the Annual Meeting and for the Employment Service before the July 11 preregistration deadline. Those who preregistered may log into the online ES module and fill out the Candidate Information Form, upload a full resume, view jobs posted by Employers, mark their ES calendars to show their availability for interviews, and respond to interview invitations.

Interview Scheduling. All initial interview appointments are to be scheduled through the online Employment Service. Interviewers and candidates are encouraged to bring their own laptops (equipped with wireless cards) with them so that they can more easily maintain communications about interview appointments during the Annual Meeting. The Interview Room provides one table per employer where designated interviewers may meet with candidates at the agreed-upon appointment times. On-site staff will assist with reminders of the 20-minute appointment intervals so that appointment schedules stay on-time throughout the day.

On-Site Registration. Individuals who did not preregister and now want to use the Employment Service, whether as Candidate or Interviewer, must first register for the Annual Meeting. Please see "Registration Services" for on-site registration rates. Fees for candidates to use the Employment Service, which may be paid during your meeting registration process at the On-Site Registration desks, are $40 for ASA members, $75 for non-members. There is no additional service fee for Interviewers. Employers may go directly online to pay the registration fee ($285), post their job listings, and designate the on-site interviewers.

When fully registered, your next step is to visit the Employment Service help desks in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center, where you will be given a brief orientation to the service procedures and issued a pass permitting your entrance to the Interview Room. No one will be admitted without a pass; "browsing" by non-registered attendees is not permitted.

After the Meeting. The online Employment Service site will remain open after the Annual Meeting is over to permit registered candidates and interviewers to reference information posted there. Users may download files of job listings or candidate resumes for future reference, if they wish. The online 2012 Employment Service will close to registered users at the end of September 2012.

Child Care

ASA is continuing the tradition of providing an innovative program of activities for children of Annual Meeting registrants. Arrangements have again been made with KiddieCorp to offer a full childcare program during daytime session hours for preregistered children between the ages of 6 months to 12 years.

KiddieCorp is dedicated to providing quality childcare services across the nation for meeting attendees. Staffing is based on a 1:2 ratio for children 6 months to 1 year, 1:3 ratios for children 1-2 years of age and a 1:5 ratio for children 3-12 years of age. The program includes a customized hourly schedule of creative and educational activities, age-appropriate toys and games, popular arts and crafts projects, and child-pleasing movies and cartoon videos.

The Child Care Service is located in Agate A-C on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver. This service is available to preregistrants only. The non-refundable preregistration deposit of $50 per child will be applied to the daily usage fees on-site. Daily use fees per preregistered child are $50 per full day, $30 per half day. For children using the service for shorter periods, the half-day fee will apply to encourage stable populations. Fees include on-site activities and snacks; lunch is not included but meal arrangements can be made through the hotel.

Service hours are 8:00 am – 6:30 pm on Friday-Sunday, August 17-19, and 8:00 am – 4:30 pm on Monday, August 20. Parents/guardians using these services must be registrants for the Annual Meeting.

There is no guarantee that non-preregistered families can be accommodated on-site. Child care providers reserve the right to refuse admittance to non-preregistrants. IF there are any openings, fees for children who were not preregistered will be $75 per day per child. No half-day rates are available for non-preregistered children; no exceptions.

Yoga Sessions

ASA will offer a series of yoga sessions during the Annual Meeting. The sessions are open to all Annual Meeting registrants. The sessions are free of charge, however you must register for the session in advance and present your admission ticket at the session. Each session is limited to 20 participants. Sign up for a yoga session at the on-site registration counters located in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center.

The one-hour yoga sessions will practice synchronizing the breath with a series of standing and seated postures. We will focus on integration, the flow of energy in the body, and expressing a physical pose from the inside out. Open to all levels. No experience required.

What to wear: Comfortable, non-binding clothing such as leggings, loose pants, t-shirts, tank-tops, etc.

What to bring: A towel, water bottles (and water) will be provided. No yoga mats needed.

About the session leader: Gayle Sulik has been practicing yoga for 12 years (Ashtanga and Anusara styles), began formal teacher training in 2008, and (in addition to doing sociology) has taught yoga classes since 2010.

Schedule of Yoga Sessions

Friday, August 17, 6:30-7:30pm

Location: Hyatt Regency Denver, Outdoor Terrace, Fourth Level

Fee: Free of Charge- Space limited to 20 participants and advance registration required.

Saturday, August 18, 12:00-1:00pm

Location: Hyatt Regency Denver, Outdoor Terrace, Fourth Level

Fee: Free of Charge- Space limited to 20 participants and advance registration required.

Sunday, August 19, 6:00-7:00pm

Location: Hyatt Regency Denver, Outdoor Terrace, Fourth Level

Access for All: Accessibility Resources and Services

The ASA offers several services and oversight arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. The ASA Office will coordinate resources during the meeting week for registrants with physical disabilities who are attending the Annual Meeting. Special services, which were arranged in advance, may be verified with ASA staff to ensure that you receive the assistance you need. Should you encounter any problems during the meeting or need any additional information while at the Annual Meeting, please contact Meeting Services staff in the on-site ASA Office and/or visit the Meeting Information Desk in Exhibit Hall A on the upper level of the Colorado Convention Center.

Comfort Zone. Attendees coping with illness, meeting fatigue, or stress may use the small room set aside by ASA as a “safe haven” to escape briefly from the noise and bustle of meeting activities. The designated Comfort Zone is located in Flagstone B on the fourth level of the Hyatt Regency Denver.

Lactation/Nursing Facilities. Families with lactation/nursing needs should stop by the ASA Office on the Mezzanine Level of Exhibit Hall A of the Colorado Convention Center for access to the private facilities.

Unisex/Gender Non-Specified Restrooms. The ASA has designates restroom facilities on the Street Level (near Room 113) of the Colorado Convention Center and the Third Level (near Centennial Foyer) of the Hyatt Regency Denver as “uni-sex/gender-neutral.” Other restroom facilities designated “women” and “men” are also available on these levels.

Plenary Sessions. All ASA Plenary Sessions will be available as live simulcasts. In addition, the webcast will allow users to access real-time transcription of the plenary session delivered through their mobile device via the Annual Meeting mobile app.

The app is available for iOS (iPhone/iPad), Android and Blackberry platforms. For those who don't have one of these platforms, a mobile website/Annual Meeting “splash-page” is available with the same content. Use one of the following methods to download the mobile app:

Use this URL on your mobile device's web browser:
<http://www.asanet.org/asadenver>

Arrangements for sign language interpreters, in-person real-time captioners may be provided for meeting registrants who have requested these services in advance of the meeting.

Sessions. ASA has made arrangements for sign language interpreters, sighted guides, and other communication avenues for meeting registrants who provided information in advance of the meeting.

Other Services. Registrants who did not make advance arrangements for services or equipment are requested to contact staff at the ASA Office on the Mezzanine Level of Exhibit Hall A of the Colorado Convention Center. Every reasonable effort will be made to assist registrants on-site. However, if you have a physical disability and need special services, equipment, or accommodations, and did not notify ASA in advance of your arrival at the meeting site, ASA may not be able to provide appropriate services due to the limited availability of some equipment and services.

For more than twenty years, ASA has provided special services and oversight arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. For an overview, please read the article on "Committee and Executive Office Collaborate to Make Annual Meeting Accessible," published in the April 2007 issue of ASA's newsletter Footnotes.

Press Office

Press and media representatives are invited to check in at the on-site ASA Press Office for program information and interview assistance. The Press Office is located on the Mezzanine Level of Exhibit Hall A of the Colorado Convention Center. Office hours are 5:00-7:00 pm on August 16, 8:00 am-5:00 pm on August 17-19, and 8:00 am-1:00 pm on August 20.

Meeting attendees are also encouraged to drop by the on-site Press Office and provide information on their availability to discuss their work with the media while in Denver.

ASA Office

To support ASA activities at the meeting site, there will be an ASA Office staffed with Executive Office personnel at the Colorado Convention Center. Located on the Mezzanine Level of Exhibit Hall A, this on-site office will be open at 1:30-7:00 pm on August 16, and 8:00 am-6:00 pm on August 17-20.

Hotel Information

The 107th ASA Annual Meeting is located at the Hyatt Regency Denver and the Colorado Convention Center. Blocks of sleeping rooms at special convention rates were arranged at the hotel. For the convenience of meeting attendees, a list of facilities is given below where registrants will be staying for the ASA Annual Meeting, and for meetings of sister associations and societies.

Adjusting to the Denver Climate

The biggest surprise for visitors to Denver is the climate. The arid conditions bring only 8 to 15 inches of annual precipitation, with more than 300 days of sunshine a year. In the summer, Denver enjoys low relative humidity, making for beautiful, sun-filled days and cool, comfortable evenings. The average daily high temperature in August is a mild 86 degrees. The mild weather is due in part to the city's altitude: 5,280 feet above sea level, or exactly a mile high.

Drink Water!

Before your trip to Denver, and while you are here, drinking plenty of water is the number one way to help your body adjust easily to the higher altitude. The low humidity in Colorado keeps the air dry, like the desert, so you need about twice as much water as you would drink at home.

Monitor Your Alcohol Intake

In Denver's rarified air, golf balls go ten percent farther... and so do cocktails. Alcoholic drinks pack more of a wallop than at sea level. It is recommended that you go easy on the alcohol in the mountains and in Denver, as its effects will feel stronger here.

Eat Foods High in Potassium

Foods such as broccoli, bananas, avocado, cantaloupe, celery, greens, bran, chocolate, granola, dates, dried fruit, potatoes and tomatoes will help you replenish electrolytes by balancing salt intake.

Watch Your Physical Activity

The effects of exercise are more intense here. If you normally run 10 miles a day at home, you might try 6 miles in Denver.

Pack for Sun

With less water vapor in the air at this altitude, the sky really is bluer in Colorado. But there's 25 percent less protection from the sun, so sunscreen is a must.

Dress in Layers

Two days before your trip to Denver, check the weather and pack appropriately. Because Denver is closer to the sun, it can feel much warmer than the actual temperature during the daytime, but then become very chilly after sundown. It is best to layer your clothing.

Enjoy Yourself

Don't let anything you hear about the mile-high altitude scare you. The air is just thinner and drier. In fact, many people with respiratory problems move to Denver for the benefits of the dry air. Follow these tips and you will likely not even notice the difference.

Airport & Transportation

Denver International Airport (DIA) is a major airline hub, the fifth busiest airport in the United States. Since the airport opened in 1995, it has consistently won readers' choice awards from publications like Business Traveler Magazine. The airport offers free wi-fi access in public areas and a diverse array of dining and shopping choices.

Please Note: Work has begun at Denver International Airport on a new hotel and a commuter rail line that will connect the airport to downtown Denver by 2016. Construction of these exciting projects will result in some temporary detours for arriving and departing passengers. Most people will notice very little difference. Please just follow the orange detour signs, or go to www.flydenver.com/construction for complete information and updates.

Shared Van/Shuttle Buses. Accessible parking is available in all DIA parking facilities. All shuttle vans and buses erving the Pikes Peak Shuttle Parking and Economy lots are lift equipped. Call (303) 342-4645 for availability and locations.

Elevators

You can access all high-traffic areas of the airport—including ticketing, baggage claim, and all train stations—by elevator. Generally speaking, if you see an escalator, there is an elevator nearby.

Paging for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing

If you anticipate receiving a page or if you wish to leave a standard audible page, use a TTY unit and dial (800) 688-1333 for assistance.

Visual Paging Monitors

Visual paging monitors are located in the terminal building, level 6, on both east and west sides near the flight information display monitors and on level 5 at baggage claim carousels. Visual paging monitors are also located in all three concourses near flight information display monitors.

Unisex Restrooms

All public restrooms can accommodate people with disabilities. If you need assistance, you and the person assisting can use one of 18 unisex/family restrooms located throughout the terminal and concourses. Customer and Special Services staff and Hospitality Ambassadors can help you to find a unisex/family restroom. You also can use a white courtesy telephone (dial 2000) or a pay telephone at no charge (press button for Information and Paging) to obtain locations of the unisex/family restrooms.

Wheelchairs

Your airline can provide you with wheelchair or electric cart service if you need assistance to or from your flight. Service should be requested from the airline in advance or at the ticket counter when you check in.

Ground Transportation - Wheelchair Transportation

The Americans with Disabilities Act requires all ground transportation companies to provide wheelchair-accessible vehicles. Disabled travelers traveling to and from DIA can choose from among several companies that provide wheelchair transportation services. Individuals needing this service should make arrangements with a service provider in advance.

Pet-Relief Area

DIA has one designated pet-relief area located outside Jeppesen Terminal on Level 2 West, not far from Door

200. The area is wheelchair accessible. Because of security restrictions, there are no pet relief-areas available on the concourses.

ASA Business Meeting

The ASA Business Meeting is an opportunity for members of the Association to discuss important issues facing the discipline and profession. Members are encouraged to attend this meeting convened by the ASA President Erik Olin Wright.

Summary reports on the Association and its key activities this year will be given by President Erik Olin Wright, Secretary Catherine White Berheide, and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman. The meeting concludes with the traditional transfer of the gavel, marking the transition of duties from President Erik Olin Wright to incoming President Cecilia Ridgeway.

This open forum is an opportunity for members to share their insights, reactions, and suggestions. Please consult the flyer in your convention tote bag for details on the Business Meeting agenda.

As noted in the May/June issue of Footnotes and the posting of meeting information on the ASA website, members seeking to present formal resolutions should be prepared to provide background materials on the issue to be discussed. Members who missed the July 11 submission deadline may bring their resolutions and supporting background documentation to the ASA Office on the Mezzanine Level of Exhibit Hall A of the Colorado Convention Center by 3:00 pm on Sunday, August 19.

All meeting attendees are invited to join ASA officers, Council members, and staff for continental breakfast and discussion at the ASA Business Meeting on Monday, August 20, 7:00-8:15am, in Centennial A-C on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver.

Equality

Session 4, Thursday August 16, 7:00-9:00pm

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial D-E, Third Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Erik Olin Wright, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Panelists: Philippe van Parijs, University of Louvain
Judith Lorber, City University of New York-Brooklyn College and Graduate Center
Kimberlé Crenshaw, University of California-Los Angeles

At the core of the idea of real utopias is the problem of realizing ideals of social justice, and in one way or another, these ideals are always bound up with questions about equality. Equality is also part of the normative context for one of the central preoccupations of sociology – understanding the causes and consequences of diverse forms of inequality, especially class, gender and race. This first plenary, then, will examine various issues connecting equality and real utopias.

At the opening of the plenary, there will be a 30-minute spoken word performance on social justice and real utopias by students from the First Wave Spoken Word and Hip Hop Arts Learning Community, a cutting edge multicultural artistic program for incoming students at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

“Real Begets Real”—a performance based scholarship using the unfiltered narrative structure of spoken-word in which First Wave Scholars deconstruct social realities that challenge the success of a “real utopia” through the lens of personal experiences. Representing diverse urban communities in the USA, these artists scholars seek to exemplify the possibility of “real utopias” by valuing partnerships, responding to realities and building collaboratively as they aspire to create a new space where individuality, personal and corporate responsibility contribute to a common good.

Democracy

Session 74, Saturday, Friday August 17, 12:30-2:10pm

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial D-E, Third Level

Panelists: Robert W. McChesney, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Hilary Wainwright, Transnational Institute

Bruce Ackerman, Yale University

Many real utopian institutional designs and experiments are built around the problem of deepening democracy: how to organize decision-making in organizations, in the state, and in society in such a way that ordinary people are in a position to genuinely exercise real power. This plenary will concern different aspects of the problem of deepening and radicalizing democracy.

Sustainability

Session 359, Sunday, August 19, 12:30-2:10pm

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial D-E, Third Level

Panelists: Paul Ehrlich, Stanford University

Harriet Friedmann, University of Toronto

Few problems pose a bigger challenge to contemporary capitalist societies than environmental sustainability. Global warming looms as potentially catastrophic, and there are good arguments that capitalism as a political-economic system is not only incapable of effectively dealing with this impending crisis, but is itself one of the core causal processes generating the problem. Yet, there is relatively little public discussion of rigorously argued real-utopian institutional designs for dealing effectively with climate change and other aspects of environmental sustainability. This will be the theme of the third plenary.

Address by Erik Olin Wright and ASA Awards Ceremony

The Presidential Plenary featuring the formal address of ASA President Erik Olin Wright will be held on Saturday, August 18, at 4:30 pm. The ASA Awards Ceremony, conferring the 2012 major ASA awards, will open this session. All registrants are invited to attend this plenary session and the Honorary Reception afterwards to honor President Erik Olin Wright and the award recipients.

Real Utopia Proposal Sessions

This year's program features a special component of highly interactive sessions, titled Real Utopia Proposal Sessions. Each of these sessions will revolve around a proposal for a real utopian design to resolve some domain of problems. Session topics are listed below. The topics, selected by ASA President Erik Olin Wright, explore aspects of the meeting theme in greater depth or focus. The sessions are organized as follows:

- The person who anchors these sessions has prepared an elaborate proposal for institutional designs around a theme posted online at www.realutopias.com/.
- The goal of the proposal is to sketch the central contours of alternatives. The written proposals will be in the 10,000-word range.
- The website allows for comments and dialogue so that these proposals can be part of a discussion prior to the meeting.
- At the session there will be a very brief (15-20 minute) presentation of the proposal and at most one commentary or, perhaps, a contrasting proposal.

 Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial F, Third Level
 Session Organizer and Presider: Erik Olin Wright, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Panelists: Claus Offe, Hertie School of Governance-Germany
Frances Fox Piven, City University of New York

In many different ways, the decades ahead pose deep challenged to progressive intellectuals and political activists; chronic employment deficits and precariousness in capitalist labor markets in economically developed countries; intensified problems of environmental sustainability linked to energy, water, and global warming; porous borders and large scale immigration; globalization of economic flows that undermine the autonomy and capacity of states; demographic challenges of aging populations. Given these and other challenges, the three speakers on this panel will all respond to the title question: "What does it mean to be progressive in the 21st century?"

Thematic Sessions

 The 2012 Program Committee developed a set of invited sessions to explore aspects of this year's meeting theme. These 51 sessions delve into important social and political issues, explore international and comparative viewpoints, and discuss the importance of sociological contributions.

Regional Spotlight: Denver

Since its Wild West beginnings, Denver has attracted all kinds of people. With a population that is 40 percent Hispanic and 10 percent African American, Denver is a dynamic city of diverse cultures, rewarding those who visit with a montage of sights, sounds, smells, and flavors.

The rich ethnic history and diverse cultural heritage of the city are celebrated with a number of events throughout the year, from the nation's largest Cinco de Mayo celebration in the spring to the Longs Peak Scottish Irish Festival in the fall. Summer brings the National Gay Rodeo Finals and PrideFest a celebration of community and culture. The historically rich African-American Five Points neighborhood is home to the Black American West Museum, while the Museo de las Americas hosts some of the world's top contemporary artists from Latin America. A trip to the Mile High City will find no shortage of year-round cultural activity.

Spotlight Tours

One of the best way to see the Denver area through sociological lenses is to take advantage of one or more of this year's local tours. The schedule of tours is provided below, with descriptions and capacity limits. Reservations were mandatory. Those who are already enrolled in tours should have received their tickets in their badge envelopes.

Tours that have already sold out are shown below. If you wish to buy tickets for one of the remaining tours or check on the status of a tour, please stop by ASA On-Site Registration in Exhibit Hall A.

Every effort has been made to ensure the tours are accessible to those with disabilities. Participants on "walking tours" who might require assistance may opt to use a motorized scooter provided by the ASA. If assistance is needed, contact the on-site ASA Office on the Mezzanine Level of Exhibit Hall A of the Colorado Convention Center at least 24 hours in advance of the scheduled tour departure.

Fees are noted with the descriptions below and include all entrance fees. All fees go toward tour handling, entrance fees, handouts (if any), and group transportation costs. Tour fees are non-refundable.

The type of transportation involved is noted with each tour description. Attendees who opt to use an alternate mode of transportation, e.g., taking a cab instead of using the subway, will be completely responsible for the cost of transportation.

Any tours involving motorcoach service will depart from the . Attendees are advised to arrive promptly in the departure areas; there are no refunds for missing the group departures coordinated by the tour leaders.

Keep in mind that the arrival times back are estimates only and may vary somewhat due to traffic conditions.

Regional Spotlight Tour 1. Wheel Utopias – Downtown Denver Highlights by Bicycle

Friday, August 17, 10:00am-12:00pm

Departure Area: Colorado Convention Center, Exhibit Hall A, Upper Level

Fee: $20

Tour Organizers: Paula W. Fomby and Joshua Goode, University of Colorado-Denver

See the best that downtown Denver has to offer on a Wheel Utopias B-Cycle bicycle tour! This 90-minute bike tour will include historic sites and cultural landmarks along downtown Denver's 16th Street Mall before crossing the South Platte River. Pause at the top of 29th Street to appreciate the city's skyline from the Lower Highlands neighborhood. Return to downtown Denver on the city's dedicated bicycle path and visit the historic Auraria campus, home to three vibrant public colleges, a former brewery, the Golda Meir house, and the city's oldest church building. Finally, visit Civic Center Park, where state history, the arts, government, and social movements intersect to lively effect.

Students and faculty from University of Colorado Denver will be your tour guides and support staff. Bicycles provided by B-Cycle, Denver's innovative bike sharing program.

Tour fee includes the bicycle and helmet rentals and tour related materials.

Regional Spotlight Tour 2. ASA Night at the Ballpark

Friday, August 17, 6:00-10:00pm

Departure Area: Colorado Convention Center, Exhibit Hall A, Upper Level

Tour Organizer: Michael S. Rosenbaum, University of Denver

Join your colleagues for a night of baseball. The group will walk Coors Field for the 6:40pm game of the Colorado Rockies versus the Miami Marlins. While en route to Coors Field, tour participants will have an opportunity to see Denver's Lower Downtown (LoDo) and the role that the Rockies have played in its development.

Regional Spotlight Tour 3. Denver Local Food/Urban Agriculture

Saturday, August 18, 9:00am-2:30pm

Departure Area: Colorado Convention Center, Exhibit Hall A, Upper Level

Tour Organizer: Michelle R. Walker, University of Colorado-Boulder

The local food and urban agriculture movement has taken hold in Denver, growing substantially in recent years, with a mission to transform the food system and change how individuals think about what they eat. Denver was recently rated as one of the ten best cities for local food by The Huffington Post.

This regional spotlight tour showcases a few of the many innovative urban agriculture projects currently taking place in Denver, Colorado. It includes stops at two urban farms, where attendees will get a chance to walk among the gardens and hear from farmers and other local food advocates about the mission and logistics involved in these projects. Tour guides will supplement garden visits with additional information provided during the bus ride.

The tour will conclude with a "local food" lunch and discussion about distributing food from agriculture projects, which will take place at a restaurant that showcases locavore cuisine.

This tour is being coordinated with the assistance of Slow Food Denver, a chapter of Slow Food USA (which has over 200 chapters around the U.S.) and Grow Local Colorado, a volunteer organization with multiple civic and community partners. These organizations have been coordinating local food tours over the last year. For more information on these organizations, see <http://www.slowfooddenver.org> and <http://www.growlocalcolorado.org>.

Regional Spotlight Tour 4. Historic Auraria Campus Walking Tour: Walking, Tasting and Performing Immigration Histories

Saturday, August 18, 12:00-3:00pm

Departure Area: Colorado Convention Center, Exhibit Hall A, Upper Level

Tour Organizers: David Joseph Piacenti, Metropolitan College-Denver and Christina Alicia Sue, University of Colorado-Boulder

This walking tour will span the immigrant history of Denver's only downtown, urban campus, the Auraria Campus, home of Metropolitan State College of Denver, the University of Colorado-Denver and the Community College of Denver. The campus is adjacent to the Colorado Convention center.

We will walk from the Convention Center to 1) Auraria campus's 9th Street Mall, a former Chicano/a neighborhood, 2) the former home of Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, 3) the Tivoli Brewery, which was founded by German immigrants, 4) the Emmanuel Gallery, which was an Episcopalian church converted into a Jewish synagogue in 1903, and 4) St. Elizabeth's of Hungary a still-operating German-immigrant founded Catholic parish. After touring campus, participants will enjoy a light meal at St. Cajetan's Church, which served the Spanish-speaking Chicano neighborhood.

The meal will be catered by a recently-arrived immigrant Yucatec-Mayan family from Tizimin, Yucatán, México. After dinner the Romero Theatre Troupe, led by University of Colorado-Denver's own historian Dr. Jim Walsh will perform the immigration-themed A People's History of Colorado.

Research Support Forum

Now entering its 20th year, the annual ASA Research Support Forum features discussion of science policy issues, research funding information and guidance, and updates on data resources throughout the Annual Meeting. The forum is designed to provide invaluable help, access, and consideration of important substantive and policy issues for new researchers and more experienced scholars. From the opening professional workshop on Saturday to the closing academic workshop on Tuesday, attendees can count on plentiful access to funding experts and data sources.

The cornerstone of this year's forum is a special session focusing on the new Census data, SBE program changes, and plans to keep these agencies robust and up-to-date, followed by the informal poster exhibits on data resources and research funding opportunities.

Highlights of all the sessions included in this year's Forum are given below in chronological order. For complete information on all these sessions, please refer to the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule.

Colorado Convention Center, ASA Exhibit Hall A, Upper Level
Session Organizer: Nicole M. Van Vooren, American Sociological Association

This poster/exhibit session provides a unique occasion to meet representatives of major research funding institutions and principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale datasets that are publicly available for use. Each display by a funding institution provides a visual overview of research funding and the application process, materials for distribution, and time for direct individual discussion. Data resource representatives are available to talk about the featured datasets, their analytic potential, and issues relating to access and use, including state-of-the-art Internet services to access datasets. This is an opportunity for meeting attendees to learn about these datasets and their potential for research and teaching. All meeting participants, including students, are encouraged to attend.

Participating institutions and their poster numbers are shown in the full session listing in the body of the Program Schedule. For additional information, please refer to the poster abstracts at the end of the daily schedule.

Special Sessions

The category of "Special Sessions" encompasses many of the suggestions submitted by ASA members for invited panels. These sessions may be on topics that further investigate the meeting theme, contribute to the review of the discipline, or focus attention on other timely and important issues. More than 16 sessions were constituted, including a set of sessions co-sponsored with sister sociological associations/organizations.

A summary of Special Session topics, organizers, and locations is compiled below (alphabetically by session title/topic); please refer to the body of the Program Schedule for complete details.

 Session Organizer: Roger Finke, Pennsylvania State University

Regular Sessions

Regular Sessions are comprised of research papers submitted in response to the 2012 Call for Papers. The 2012 Program Committee appointed organizers for 120 general Regular Session topics and announced that topics were open to submissions from ASA members. Paper submissions were due in mid-January 2012.

Regular Session organizers received anywhere from 0 to 68 submissions for review. A total of 197 formal paper sessions were organized from over 3500 papers submitted to Regular Session topics. Please refer to the Program Schedule for details on each Regular Session.

Be sure to check the ASA website this fall for information on making your paper submission for next year's Annual Meeting. The paper submission deadline will be January 9, 2013.

Open Refereed Roundtables

The 2012 Program Committee continued this open general roundtable component, which was added to the general program thirteen years ago to augment the specialized roundtables sponsored by many sections. Paul-Brian McNerney (University of Illinois-Chicago) was invited to review submissions and organize roundtables using a "mini-session" format: a general topic identified for each table, two to five paper presentations, and a table presider to coordinate presentations and discussion.

Three large roundtable sessions comprised of 25 tables each were created for this year's program. Please note that all roundtables presentations listed on a session are held simultaneously at tables located inside one large meeting room; neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.

Open Refereed Roundtable Session I

Session 333, Sunday, August 19, 10:30am-12:10pm
Colorado Convention Center, Room 205-207, Street Level

Informal Discussion Roundtables

This popular program component is designed to bring together small groups of people interested in discussing specific topics. Informal roundtables offer opportunities for those who share conceptual, methodological, professional, or policy concerns to meet one another and to initiate and expand networks. These discussion tables also are particularly valuable for those who are developing new ideas or formulating issues in new ways and who would like to explore these ideas or issues with colleagues who have similar interests.

An Informal Discussion Roundtable Session is comprised of 15-20 tables, with a different discussion topic assigned to each table. Discussion proceeds simultaneously at all tables listed on each session. At each table the discussion leader will introduce the topic and facilitate discussion among all the participants at the table. No formal papers are to be presented, and neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.

Timothy B. Gongaware (University of Wisconsin-La Crosse) was invited to review the discussion topics and organize sessions. One informal roundtable session was created from the 18 proposals submitted in January by ASA members. Time and location of the discussion roundtables are noted below; please see the full session listing in the body of the Program Schedule for complete details.

Informal Roundtable Discussion Session
Session 223, Saturday, August 18, 12:30-2:10pm
Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial A-C, Street Level

Poster Sessions

This program component features a series of display presentations that allow face-to-face conversation between authors and viewers. By facilitating informal discussions between presenters and “browsers,” Poster Sessions provide a more direct forum for information exchange than do formal paper presentations.

This year attendees are welcome to browse through the Research Poster area throughout the Annual Meeting. This year the poster sessions are conveniently located along with the book exhibits in the Colorado Convention Center, Exhibit Hall A, which permits more exposure for poster displays. Authors will be present to answer questions about the research displayed on their posters only during the formally designated Research Poster session times.

Informational poster presentations provide information on resources, materials, and opportunities. The annual Research Support Forum includes a major poster session also located in the Colorado Convention Center, Exhibit Hall A to highlight research funding opportunities and data resources. As part of the Graduate Education focus, a resource poster area will be open for browsing in the Colorado Convention Center, Exhibit Hall A and there is one designated time when attendees can expect to meet representatives from participating graduate departments of sociology. Both informational poster areas will be accessible throughout the Annual Meeting.

The varied roster of display presentations includes something of interest for every meeting attendee. Be sure to include some time in your schedule to visit this year’s poster displays.

Courses

This educational component provides opportunities for attendees to get in-depth training in special subject areas. Intensive four- to six-hour courses are held pre-convention and led by expert faculty who have prepared a comprehensive curriculum to engage participants on all levels. Registrants will receive certificates documenting their participation and completion of these courses.

Attendance at the course is limited to 50 registrants. Prepaid registration is required; fees are $60. Reservations for the course were accepted in order of receipt in the ASA Executive Office.

Attendees who preregistered should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program packets as ASA Preregistration. Course fees were non-refundable after July 11.

Early Childhood Surveys at the National Center for Education Statistics: They Early Childhood Longitudinal Studies (ECLS) and the National Household Education Surveys Program (NHES)

Course 1, Thursday, August 16, 10:00am-5:30pm

Colorado Convention Center, Room 102, Street Level

Ticket required for admission

Leader: Cameron Brook McPhee, American Institutes for Research
Co-Leader: Daniel Potter, American Institutes for Research

The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) will conduct a 1-day training seminar on three large-scale data collections focusing on early childhood: the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study, Kindergarten Class of 1998-99 (ECLS-K), the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study, Birth Cohort (ECLS-B), and the National Household Education Surveys Program (NHES). The seminar will present overviews of the study designs and technical issues associated with using and analyzing the data, highlights about the data collected from 1991 through 2007 pertaining to children from birth through 8th grade, information on how the surveys complement each other, and computer demonstrations of software that assists users in preparing data for analyses. A brief overview of NCES’s newest early childhood study (of the children in kindergarten in 2010-11) will also be provided. The seminar is for graduate students, faculty, and researchers who have a solid understanding of statistics and limited familiarity with the ECLS and NHES data. Researchers who have previously attended an overview seminar on these studies, or who have attended an in-depth training on one of the studies and are not interested in the other NCES studies, probably will not benefit from this seminar.

Handling Model Uncertainty in Sociological Research

Course 2, Thursday, August 16, 1:30-5:30pm

Colorado Convention Center, Room 104, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Cristobal Young, Stanford University

In the course of statistical analysis, authors estimate a large number of models but only report a handful of the results. Computing power has greatly lowered the cost of running extra models, but there are still strict space limitations for publishing these estimates in top journals. The result is a large and growing asymmetry of information between analyst and reader.

The applied modeling process produces a much wider range of estimates than is suggested by the usual standard errors or confidence intervals. The risk is that many published papers may contain non-robust findings, in which small, sensible changes in model specification produce large changes in results. There is a need for more transparent and rigorous methods for understanding and reporting model uncertainty and the stability of results across models.

This session will provide a comprehensive introduction to the problem of model uncertainty. The session will also showcase a new program that uses combinatorial methods to (1) generate a large number of plausible, slightly different regression models for a given data set, (2) estimate all of them, and (3) report the results as a distribution of estimates. How often is a coefficient of interest statistically significant? How frequently does the coefficient change signs? Participants are encouraged to bring a working data set in Stata format to use as empirical examples in session.

Using a Thematic Approach to Incorporate Service Learning in Teaching and Curriculum: Improving Student Engagement and Career Outcomes

Course 3, Thursday August 16, 10:00am-5:30pm

Colorado Convention Center, Room 106, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Heather Sullivan-Catlin, State University of New York-Potsdam

Service-learning is a pedagogy that involves students in community service activities as part of a course curriculum in order to deepen their understanding of course content and promote achievement of wider educational objectives such as those related to civic engagement, career development and personal growth. This course is for graduate students and faculty who would like to begin using service-learning pedagogy or to deepen their practice. The course will cover the following topics: service-learning course design (with an emphasis on the use of themes for incorporating the service-learning component), student learning outcomes, integrative learning activities and reflection, best practices, campus-community partnerships, evaluation and assessment, and more. The course will combine lecture with active learning elements and a variety of resources will be provided to participants.

Workshops

One of the strengths of the educational component of the Annual Meeting is the breadth and variety of workshops offered. These sessions provide opportunities for attendees to update their knowledge and skills in a variety of professional areas. For 2012, workshop topics focus on careers and professional growth, academic department strategies, research skills and major datasets, teaching challenges, funding opportunities and grant writing skills, and enhanced teaching of courses, publishing advice, and more.

All workshops emphasize interaction between leaders and audience, and attendees are encouraged to bring questions or problems for discussion. Every workshop is open to all meeting registrants.

An overview of workshop topics is listed below. Please see the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule for details.

Hone a skill, push your career to the next level, strengthen your repertoire of teaching strategies, and increase your knowledge: It's all part of the learning curve at the Annual Meeting!

Section Activities

Looking for a way to find colleagues with similar research interests? Section activities offer one convenient avenue for connecting with like-minded scholars. These specialized sessions range in format from formal paper presentations to panels and discussion roundtables. Section-sponsored sessions are open to all meeting registrants.

Sections promote ongoing communication among their members by publishing newsletters, supporting cooperative research ventures, recognizing outstanding work by professionals and students in their specialties, and sponsoring program activities at each Annual Meeting. ASA members with interests in specialized areas of sociological inquiry may join any Section of the Association. Stop by the ASA Membership table in the Colorado Convention Center, Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level to browse through recent section newsletters and pick up section membership information. Of course, if you join a section before September 30, your membership will help support that section's program allocation for next year's Annual Meeting.

The number of sessions allocated to each Section is based on the size of the Section membership. For the 51 sections there are a total of 295 sessions/meetings scheduled. Section activities are summarized on the next page for quick reference.

Meeting days are Friday, August 17; Saturday, August 18; Sunday, August 19; and Monday, August 20.
Check the daily schedule for reception locations.

Section Council Meetings

The total formal allocation of space for each section is comprised of two parts: (a) one “business” slot for holding a one-hour Council meeting followed by a 40-minute Business meeting; and (b) the earned program session allocation. ASA Council does permit Sections to use their Council meeting time (one hour) for other purposes. However, a Section that chooses to use this option forfeits the services of the ASA Office in the arrangement of an alternate Council meeting time and location. The Council meetings listed below are the extent of the information available at press time. Check at the ASA Meeting Information Desk in Exhibit Hall A on the upper level of the Colorado Convention Center for any updates provided by section chairs during the course of the convention.

19th Annual ASA Chair Conference

The Academic Department as a Real Utopia: Clear-headed Approaches to an Idealistic Endeavor

When sociologists agree to take on the role of Department Chair their reasons are generally “positive in nature and often altruistic in character – to have an impact, personal challenge, protect the department, mentor faculty” (Tiemann and Van Valey 2010). But optimism is far from enough. Don Chu, in The Department Chair Primer (2006) says, “Navigating academic units through difficult times requires the sensitivity of an artist, the quantitative skills of an accountant, the vision of a scout on constant reconnaissance, and a moral philosopher’s sense of what is right.”

The ASA Department Chairs Conference will examine the concept of “Real Utopias” in the context of departments of sociology. Conference participants will have the opportunity to discuss the very real and often intractable challenges they face and then consider ideas for innovation, with the potential to generate positive change. The Conference Keynote address will be delivered by the 2012 ASA President, Erik Olin Wright, who observed in his book, Envisioning Real Utopias, that “the actual limits of what is achievable depend in part on the beliefs people hold about what sorts of alternatives are viable.”

In addition to plenary presentations, the conference will include three sessions of concurrent roundtables. Each roundtable will address the general theme as applied to a practical concern, including making program assessment useful, budgeting in a tough financial environment, supporting professional ethics among faculty and students, attracting majors and graduate students, supporting faculty productivity, and responding to incivility in the workplace. Roundtable topics are strategically scheduled to allow Chairs from the full range of academic institutions—from PhD-granting to BA-liberal arts—to find topics in each session that respond to their context

The entire conference will take place Thursday August 16th, 8:00 am -5:30 pm. The conference will be held in Room 103-105 on the Street Level of the Colorado Convention Center

Preregistration and fee payments are required. Chair Conference attendees must preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. Fees for the Chair Conference are $130 for Chairs who are Department Affiliates of the ASA and $160 for chairs from non-affiliate departments. The Chair Conference fee includes all chair conference materials, continental breakfast and lunch.

Directors of Graduate Study

Fostering Meaningful Diversity in Graduate Sociology Programs: Insights from the Report of the ASA Committee on the Status of Racial and Ethnic Minorities in Sociology

In most departments of sociology today, diversity as a theoretical construct is an unquestioned good, but theory and practice are often quite different. The results of a recent survey of graduate students conducted by the ASA Committee on the Status of Racial and Ethnic Minorities in Sociology reveals that diversity in practice remains a highly contentious issue in our graduate programs. For example, graduate students in sociology programs perceive “raced” advantages in other groups. For students of color, diversity impacted both their decisions regarding which program to attend, as well as their overall satisfaction with the program in which they were currently enrolled. Important differences among students of color were also found.

This year’s Director of Graduate Studies Conference will examine current data regarding diversity in sociology graduate programs. Participants will engage in an extended discussion of specific strategies that MA and PhD programs can use to increase diversity, respond to tensions, and develop support systems that strengthen peer relations, faculty mentoring, and academic success and professionalization.

The conference will be led by Denise Segura (University of California-Santa Barbara) and Scott Brooks (University of California-Riverside), Chair and Co-Chair of the Committee on the Status of Racial and Ethnic Minorities in Sociology.

Directors of Graduate Study (DGS) are important leaders in shaping department policies and opportunities for effective graduate programs. To assist sociologists in the DGS role, the ASA Academic and Professional Affairs Program has planned a series of events on Thursday afternoon, August 16.

Fees are $40 for chairs from Department Affiliate departments, and $60 for Chairs from non-affiliate departments. DGS attendees had to preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. The DGS registration fee includes an afternoon beverage break and DGS meeting materials. Only departments that are renewed for the 2011-2012 Academic year are eligible for the Affiliate price. The DGS events begin at 1:30pm in Room 101 on the Street Level of the Colorado Convention Center.

Undergraduate Advisers & Students

Visit the Graduate Programs Poster Area

This dedicated display area features exhibits on graduate training from over 40 graduate programs. Participating institutions will display information and provide handouts describing their programs, special emphases, financial aid and admissions criteria, and opportunities to work with faculty researchers and instructors. Information and displays will be available in the exhibit hall located in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center throughout the Annual Meeting.

Department representatives will be available to answer questions at 2:30-4:10 pm on Friday, August 17. This is an excellent opportunity for undergraduate advisors, undergraduate students, and MA-level students to see displays on graduate programs and meet directly with representatives.

Graduate departments that responded to the invitations issued by the ASA Academic and Affairs Program are listed in the program schedule under Informational Poster Session # 85.

Student Forum

The ASA welcomes undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. All students who join ASA as student members automatically become members of the Student Forum. Special arrangements for students include discounted registration fees, workshops oriented to issues of interest to students, student paper and roundtable sessions, a reception for students, and admission to the book give-away at the end of the meeting.

Student Forum. The Student Forum is pleased to offer a Professional Development Certificate for its members, based on attendance at a number of particular sessions, events, or workshops. Please visit the ASA Meeting Information desk in Lobby A of the Colorado Convention Center for more details, including the necessary forms and instructions. In addition, the business meeting of the Student Forum will be held on Sunday, August 19, at 10:30am – 12:10 pm in Granite A-B on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver.

Orient Yourself to the Meeting. Plan to attend the Welcoming Reception on Thursday night and the Orientation for First Time Attendees on Friday morning to kick off your Annual Meeting experience. Browse thoroughly through the exhibits, posters, and the ASA Bookstore. Don't be shy about asking staff at the ASA Meeting Information Desk for assistance in finding various activities.

Student Reception. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to an open student reception on Friday, August 17, at 6:30-7:30 pm in Centennial A-C on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver.

Graduate Programs in Sociology Displays. At 2:30-4:10 pm on Friday, August 17, representatives from graduate departments will be available in the Graduate Programs in Sociology Resource area in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center to talk with students and undergraduate advisers. See the listing for Session 85 to find out which schools are participating. The resource area will be available for browsing throughout the meeting.

Data Resources and Funding Sessions. Be sure to attend poster session 248 and familiarize yourself with the various funding opportunities and data resources which can advance your work in sociology.

Student Book Give-Away. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting will receive a ticket to the special book give-away sponsored by ASA exhibitors on Monday, August 20, after the exhibit hall has closed.

Student Sessions. The Program Committee allocates up to five session slots each year for student sessions. This year, two paper sessions, one workshop and one roundtable session were organized under Student Forum auspices. For details on these student sessions, locate the listings for sessions 52, 124, 152 and 373 in the Program Schedule.

Whether you are planning to attend graduate school, or are further along and look to employment in sociological practice or the academy, please take a look at the career, professional, and teaching workshops.

Don't let the huge program overwhelm you. Start by looking at the Student Forum sessions noted above and then check the Session Topic Index to identify other sessions in your particular areas of interest.

Film/Video Screenings

Seventeen films have been selected for inclusion in the 2012 film/video screening series, organized by Valerie Jiggetts, ASA Academic and Professional Affairs Program. Room 101, on the Street Level of the Colorado Convention Center, has been set aside for use as a Film/Video Screening room for showing these recent video and film releases throughout the Annual Meeting. The films and videos selected to be shown during the daily schedule have been selected based on their relevance to sociology as well as their potential as a teaching resource for sociology courses. All films selected to be screened are closed captioned.

Films and Videos to be shown include in the daily screening schedule are:

A-Way From Paolo Sarpi. Few of the spaces of Milan are so strongly loaded with cultural and political baggage as "Chinatown" - the ethnic neighborhood on Paolo Sarpi Street - where a handful of roads the global glow of Chinese goods and the daily routines of elderly people and families are merged. The complexity of the "Sarpi Question" is precisely determined by the discussion of social dimensions, space an Ethno-racial economic and political, all at once. 49 minutes. Copyright 2009. Director Lidia K.C. Manzo .
Key Concepts: Immigration, labor, Class, Race

Bag It. Bag It takes the viewer on an eye-opening and light hearted global tour to unravel the science and sociology behind our crazy-for-plastic world. What starts as a film about the ubiquity of plastic bags evolves into a wholesale investigation into plastic and its effect on our oceans, endangered ecosystems, and even our own bodies. 78 minutes. Copyright 2010. Director Suzan Beraza. The Reel Thing Films
Key Concepts: Environment, Health

Body & Soul: Diana & Kathy. Two of the country's most remarkable advocates for people with disabilities model a grand experiment in activism and independent living. 40 minutes. Director Alice Elliott.
Key Concepts: Ability, Social Movements, Community, Family

Freedom Machines. The evolution of new technologies has exponentially altered the potential of people with all types of conditions, but this is still not common knowledge or practice. When access to technology can make the difference between a life on welfare or independence, then we must question what is disabled? 76 Minutes. Copyright 2005. Director Jamie Stobie. New Day Films.
Key Concepts: Ability, Technology

Dish: Women, Waitressing & the Art of Service. Why do women bring your food at local diners, while in high-end establishments waiters are almost always men? DISH, by Maya Gallus, whose acclaimed GIRL INSIDE (2007) won Canada's Gemini Award for documentary directing, answers this question in a delicious, well-crafted deconstruction of waitressing and our collective fascination with an enduring popular icon. Digging beyond the obvious, Gallus, who waited tables in her teens, explores diverse dynamics between food servers and customers, as well as cultural biases and attitudes they convey. 60 minutes. Copyright 2010. Director Maya Gallus. Women Make Movies.
Key Concepts: Gender, Work

The Fat Body (In)Visible. What happens when women decide to love their bodies, no matter what size? This documentary short by fat acceptance activist Margitte Kristjansson features two of her fellow fat acceptance activists, Keena and Jessica, who share their experiences of being judged by society for their decision to not bow to how women are expected to look – including being harassed and discriminated against because of their size. Undeterred, they talk about how the fat acceptance movement has allowed them to become empowered through fashion, explore the intersection of race and fatness, and how they found community support through social media and blogs. 23 minutes. Copyright 2011. Margitte Kristjansson. Women Make Movies.

Key Concepts: Body and Embodiment

Five Friends: Tells the story of one man's effort to transcend the inhibitions and limitations of traditional masculinity and American "bro" culture. Beautifully shot, from the mountains of Southern California to the New England coastline, the film chronicles the intimate bonds 65-year-old Hank Mandel forges with five of his closest male friends, following their lives as they navigate success, failure, interpersonal conflict, marriage, divorce, fatherhood, and death. 72 minutes. Copyright 2011. Director Erik Santiago. Media Education Foundation.

Key Concepts: Masculinities, Gender

How to Start a Revolution: Gene Sharp hardly seems like one of the world's most dangerous men. White-haired and soft-spoken, the 83-year-old professor mostly keeps to himself. But to the world's most brutal dictators, professor Sharp's ideas have proven catastrophic. This film details how an obscure list of nonviolent actions authored by Sharp in 1973 has served as a blueprint for anti-authoritarian revolts from Easter Europe and the Balkans to the Arab Spring uprisings in Egypt and Tunisia. 53 minutes. Director Ruaridh Arrow. Media Education Foundation.

Key Concepts: Social Movements

The Minutemen: Vigilantes at The Border. Aggravated by the influx of undocumented immigrants and fed up with the lack of government involvement, the Minuteman positioned themselves along the U.S. / Mexico border. Armed energetic, and bound by common ideals, they are a diverse, often fragmented group of disillusioned freedom fighters led by a modern day Don Quixote "Lil' Dog". Zealous and often comical, these subjects exist in what many believe to be the realm of vigilantism. 84 minutes. Copyright 2011. Director Corey Wascinski. Filmmakers Library.

Key Concepts: Nationalism, Immigration, Race, Class

My Perestroika. When the USSR broke apart in 1991, a generation of young people faced a new realm of possibilities. An intimate epic about the extraordinary lives of this last Soviet Union generation, My Perestroika tells the stories of five Moscow schoolmates who were brought up behind the Iron Curtain. 87 minutes. Director Robin Hessman. New Day Films.

Key Concepts: Political Sociology, Social Movements, Collective Memory

The Purity Myth: The Virginity Movement's War Against Women.: In this highly anticipated video adaptation of her bestselling book, pioneering feminist blogger Jessica Valenti trains her sights on "the virginity movement". From dad-and-daughter "purity balls," taxpayer-funded abstinence-only curricula, and political attacks on Planned Parenthood (Copy Right 2011 Media Education Foundation).

Key Concepts: Gender, Sexuality, Abstinence, Bodies

Made in India-A Film about Surrogacy: Copyright 2010. Director Rebecca Haimowitz and Vaishali Sinha. In San Antonio, Lisa and Brian Switzer risk their savings with a Medical Tourism company promising them an affordable solution after seven years of infertility. Halfway around the world in Mumbai, 27-year-old Asia Khan, mother of three, contracts with a fertility clinic to be implanted with the Texas couple's embryos. MADE IN INDIA, about real people involved in international surrogacy, follows the Switzers and Asia through every stage of the process. Copyright 2010. Director Rebecca Haimowitz and Vaishali Sinha.

Key Concepts: Body, Gender, Colonialism, Globalization, Commodification

Orchids: My Intersex Adventure: Gen X filmmaker Phoebe Hart always knew she was different growing up – but she didn't know why. This award-winning documentary traces Phoebe's voyage of self-discovery as an intersex person, a group of conditions formerly termed hermaphroditism. Learning only in her teens that she was born with 46XY (male) chromosomes, Hart now seeks to understand her own story and the stories of others affected by this complex and often shameful syndrome. Copyright 2010. Director Phoebe Hart. Women Make Movies.

Key Concepts: Sexuality, Transsex, Gender

Thick Dark Fog: Walter Littlemoon attended a federal Indian boarding school in South Dakota sixty years ago. The mission of many of these schools in 1950 was still to "kill the Indian and save the man." The children were not allowed to be Indians - to speak their language or express their culture or native identity. "The Thick Dark Fog" tells the story of how Walter confronted the "thick dark fog" of his past so that he could renew himself and his community. 57 minutes. Director Randy Vasquez.

Key Concepts: Colonialization, Religion, Native Americans, Genocide

Thy Will Be Done: A transsexual woman's journey through family and faith: 55 minutes. Copyright 2011. Director: Alice Bouvrie. New Day Films. Follows Male-to-Female Transsexual Sara Herwig in her journey to ordination in the Presbyterian Church. The Church's conservative groups do not recognize Sara as female and challenge her fitness and eligibility to be a pastor. 55 minutes. Copyright 2011. Director: Alice Bouvrie. New Day Films.

Key Concepts: Sexuality, Gender, Religion, Family

White Scripts and Black Supermen-Black Masculinities in Comic

Books: In a serious, lively and humorous manner, the film examines the degree to which Black superheroes generally adhered to and were burdened by stereotypes about Black men. However we also witness how some images shifted - oftentimes clumsily - to reflect the changing times. 52 minutes. Copyright 2011. Director Jonathan Gayles. California Newsreel.

Key Concepts: Masculinities, Race, Gender, Popular Culture

When I Came Home. The central focus of the film is a young African-American, Herold Noel, who joined the military to escape the crime and poverty that surrounded him in the housing projects in Brooklyn. When Herold returns from combat in Iraq with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, he finds little to no support from the VA and ends up unemployed and homeless in New York City. 70 minutes. Copyright 2006. Director Dan Lohas. New Day Films.

Key Concepts: Mental Health, Military, Community, Resources

Welcoming Reception

All meeting registrants are invited to the Welcoming Reception on Thursday, August 16, 9:00–10:30 pm, in Centennial Foyer, on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver to celebrate the opening of the 107th Annual Meeting. This social hour kicks off at the conclusion of the Opening Plenary and provides opportunities to renew past acquaintances, chat with old friends, and find a newcomer to befriend. New members and first-time meeting attendees are particularly encouraged to come and have fun!

Orientation for First-Time Attendees

If this is the first time you have attended an ASA Annual Meeting, please plan to attend an orientation session at 10:30 am – 12:10 pm on Friday, August 17, prior to the mid-day Plenary on the first full day of program sessions. This special orientation hour provides the opportunity to meet Association officers and staff and begin networking with professional colleagues. Advice from ASA Officers and experienced attendees will help you chart a course through the myriad activities and substantive attractions.

ASA Secretary Catherine White Berheide and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman host this orientation in Centennial A-C on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver. Pointers on navigating the Annual Meeting will be shared in informal roundtable discussion. First-time attendees who pre-registered should look for a reminder ticket in their badge envelopes as soon as they pick up their program packets and come prepared to ask “What makes it work?”

Student Reception

ASA welcomes the attendance of undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to the Student Reception on Friday, August 17, at 6:30-7:30 pm, in Centennial A-C on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver.

Reception for International Scholars

All meeting participants interested in international scholarly collaborations, or in meeting colleagues from other countries and learning about sociology globally, are invited to attend a reception in honor of our international colleagues on Friday, August 17 at 6:30-7:30 pm in Mineral A on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver.

Departmental Alumni Night (DAN)

The Departmental Alumni Night (DAN), now in its 39th year, is a social event held after the first full day of sessions, where attendees can connect with friends and colleagues to reminisce about graduate school days, create new coalitions, and catch up on the latest news.

This traditional gathering will begin at 9:30 pm on Friday, August 17, in the Centennial Foyer on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver. All meeting attendees are invited to attend this event.

Each graduate department of sociology in the United States and Canada was given the opportunity to sponsor a table to attract alumni and friends. Participating schools are listed below. Tables will also be provided for sociologists in business and industry as well as for international scholars and guests.

Participating departments are:

Case Western Reserve University
Cornell University
Indiana University
University of California-Santa Cruz
University of Hawaii-Manoa
Syracuse University
University of Kentucky
University of Massachusetts- Amherst
University of Minnesota
University of North Texas and Texas Women's University
Washington State University
Yale University

Community College Faculty Breakfast

Colleagues teaching in community colleges are invited to a special bagel breakfast at 7:00 am on Saturday, August 18, in Quartz A on the Third level of the Hyatt Regency Denver. Join colleagues in a series of ice breaker activities and a conversation. Mark your calendar for this early bird event where you can meet other colleagues teaching at community colleges.

In Remembrance

At the beginning of the Presidential Plenary (Saturday, August 18, 4:30-6:30 pm), there will be a Moment of Remembrance to honor those members of the profession, and those close to them, who died during the past year. Names submitted to Footnotes since last year's Annual Meeting are listed below. If you know of others who should be on this list but whose names do not appear below, please contact ASA Meeting Services staff on the Mezzanine Level of Exhibit Hall A of the Colorado Convention Center by 5:00 pm on Friday, August 17.

Honorary Reception

After the conclusion of the 2012 Presidential Address, all meeting attendees are invited to attend the Honorary Reception at 6:30 pm, Saturday, August 18, in the Centennial Foyer on the Third Level of the Hyatt Regency Denver to express appreciation and congratulations to President Erik Olin Wright and the major ASA award recipients.

Since 1984, social science departments and regional societies have joined the American Sociological Association in co-sponsoring the annual Honorary Reception. The Association is pleased to acknowledge the following co-hosts of the Honorary Reception.

Ausburg College
Boston College
Harvard University
Princeton University
Rice University
University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
University of Southern California
University of Vermont

MFP Benefit Reception

Set aside time on Saturday evening, August 18, to join good friends and supporters of the ASA's Minority Fellowship Program (MFP). Plan to relax after dinner, meet current Fellows and MFP alumni, and reaffirm your commitment to the MFP Program.

Saturday, August 18

9:30-11:30 pm

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial G (Third Level)

$25 donor, $50 sponsor, $100 benefactor

Admission is by ticket only. Proceeds from each ticket will go to the Minority Fellowship Program, which supports predoctoral training for students of color.

Those who enrolled in advance should have received their tickets with their name badges. Others may buy tickets at ASA On-Site Registration in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center until 1:00 pm on Saturday, August 18.

Just Desserts!

A Carla B. Howery Teaching Enhancement Grant Program Fundraiser

Looking to escape the pressures of presenting papers, searching book displays, and participating in committee meetings? Come and relax with friends at this benefit event, "Just Desserts." As the name implies, you should bring your sweet tooth along to enjoy special desserts, good coffee, stimulating conversation, and smile that all of this pleasure goes to a good cause.

Saturday, August 18

8:00-9:30 pm

Hyatt Regency Denver, ASA Suite

$25 donor, $50 sponsor, $100 benefactor

Admission is by ticket only. Proceeds from each ticket will go toward supporting the Teaching Enhancement Fund, a small grants program designed to support teaching-related projects that have long lasting and transferable impact.

Those who enrolled in advance should have received their tickets with their name badges. Others may purchase tickets at ASA On-Site Registration in Exhibit Hall A on the Upper Level of the Colorado Convention Center until 5:00 pm on Saturday, August 18.

Utopia Reel: An Evening of Dancing and Music-making

Sunday, August 19

7:30pm-Midnight

Colorado Convention Center, Lobby A

All meeting attendees are invited to attend this special social event that is in keeping with the meeting theme, "Real Utopias." On Sunday evening, August 19, there will be a party with dancing, singing, and music-making.

The all-genre musical jam session will begin at 7:30. Everyone—including children—who play an instrument of whatever sort is encouraged to bring instruments and join the fray. Drums, fiddles, guitars, trumpets, keyboards, piccolos, and of course voices—everything will have a place. Kazoos will be provided. Even if you have never participated in a free-for-all jam session, don't be shy: there is safety in numbers.

We will segue from genre to genre as the spirit moves us: old timey, jazz, gospels, songs of protest, Broadway show-tunes, contemporary pop music. What is played is up to you.

At 8:30 pm there will be a Square Dance Party with a professional caller who is an expert in calling dances for people who don't know how to do them. No experience necessary. Children are welcome to dance as well. Join us to do-si-do and a-la-main-left. Try it; you'll like it!

At around 9:00 pm we will switch from square dances to a DJ playing contemporary dance music. Loudly. And, if there is anyone interested, we will resume the jam session somewhere far enough away from the dancing to not interfere.

Activities of Other Groups

The wide-ranging interests of ASA members generate meetings of special interest groups during each year's Annual Meeting. Space is assigned as available to these groups to hold their meetings and/or sessions in evening time slots when no formal program sessions or other ASA activities are scheduled.

Some groups will also have membership information and publications on display in Lobby A on the Street Level of the Colorado Convention Center.

Courses

1. Course. Early Childhood Surveys at the National Center for Education Statistics: The Early Childhood Longitudinal Studies (ECLS) and the National Household Education Surveys Program (NHES) (10:00am-5:30pm)

Colorado Convention Center, Room 102, Street Level

Ticket required for admission

Leader: Cameron Brook McPhee, American Institutes for Research

The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) will conduct a 1-day training seminar on three large-scale data collections focusing on early childhood: the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study, Kindergarten Class of 1998-99 (ECLS-K), the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study, Birth Cohort (ECLS-B), and the National Household Education Surveys Program (NHES). The seminar will present overviews of the study designs and technical issues associated with using and analyzing the data, highlights about the data collected from 1991 through 2007 pertaining to children from birth through 8th grade, information on how the surveys complement each other, and computer demonstrations of software that assists users in preparing data for analyses. A brief overview of NCES's newest early childhood study (of the children in kindergarten in 2010-11) will also be provided. The seminar is for graduate students, faculty, and researchers who have a solid understanding of statistics and limited familiarity with the ECLS and NHES data. Researchers who have previously attended an overview seminar on these studies, or who have attended an in-depth training on one of the studies and are not interested in the other NCES studies, probably will not benefit from this seminar.

2. Course. Handling Model Uncertainty in Sociological Research (1:30-5:30pm)

Colorado Convention Center, Room 104, Street Level

In the course of statistical analysis, authors estimate a large number of models but only report a handful of the results. Computing power has greatly lowered the cost of running extra models, but there are still strict space limitations for publishing these estimates in top journals. The result is a large and growing asymmetry of information between analyst and reader. The applied modeling process produces a much wider range of estimates than is suggested by the usual standard errors or confidence intervals. The risk is that many published papers may contain non-robust findings, in which small, sensible changes in model specification produce large changes in results. There is a need for more transparent and rigorous methods for understanding and reporting model uncertainty and the stability of results across models. This session will provide a comprehensive introduction to the problem of model uncertainty. The session will also showcase a new program that uses combinatory methods to (1) generate a large number of plausible, slightly different regression models for a given data set, (2) estimate all of them, and (3) report the results as a distribution of estimates. How often is a coefficient of interest statistically significant? How frequently does the coefficient change signs? Participants are encouraged to bring a working data set in Stata format to use as empirical examples in session.

3. Course. Using a Thematic Approach to Incorporate Service Learning in Teaching and Curriculum: Improving Student Engagement and Career Outcomes

(10:00am-5:30pm)

Colorado Convention Center, Room 106, Street Level

Service-learning is a pedagogy that involves students in community service activities as part of a course curriculum in order to deepen their understanding of course content and promote achievement of wider educational objectives such as those related to civic engagement, career development and personal growth. This course is for graduate students and faculty who would like to begin using service-learning pedagogy or to deepen their practice. The course will cover the following topics: service-learning course design (with an emphasis on the use of themes for incorporating the service-learning component), student learning outcomes, integrative learning activities and reflection, best practices, campus-community partnerships, evaluation and assessment, and more. The course will combine lecture with active learning elements and a variety of resources will be provided to participants.

4. Opening Plenary Session. Equality

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial D-E, Third Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Erik Olin Wright, University of Wisconsin

Panel: Philippe van Parijs, University of Louvain

Judith Lorber, City University of New York-Brooklyn College and Graduate Center

Kimberlé Crenshaw, University of California-Los Angeles

At the core of the idea of real utopias is the problem of realizing ideals of social justice, and in one way or another, these ideals are always bound up with questions about equality. Equality is also part of the normative context for one of the central preoccupations of sociology – understanding the causes and consequences of diverse forms of inequality, especially class, gender and race. This first plenary, then, will examine various issues connecting equality and real utopias.

At the opening of the plenary, there will be a 30-minute spoken word performance on social justice and real utopias by students from the First Wave Spoken Word and Hip Hop Arts Learning Community, a cutting edge multicultural artistic program for incoming students at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

"Real Begets Real"—a performance based scholarship using the unfiltered narrative structure of spoken-word in which First Wave Scholars deconstruct social realities that challenge the success of a "real Utopia" through the lens of personal experiences. Representing diverse urban communities in the USA, these artist scholars seek to exemplify the possibility of "real utopias" by valuing partnerships, responding to realities and building collaboratively as they aspire to create a new space where individuality, personal and corporate responsibility contribute to a common good.

5. Real Utopia Proposal Session. A Pluralist Commonwealth and a Community-Sustaining Economy

Session Organizer: Gar Alperovitz, University of Maryland-College Park

Presider: Mario Candeias, Rose-Luxemburg Foundation

Proposal Authors: Gar Alperovitz, and Steve Dobb, University of Maryland-College Park

The United States is entering a period of stagnation, stalemate and decay—an historical context in which traditional options of reform and revolution both have low odds of success. At the same time, we contend that the current period opens a new strategic possibility for step-by-step, institution-building, nonviolent change that may have the potential, over time, of altering and democratizing the basic system of ownership of the economy. We term the process of systemic transformation unfolding over time “evolutionary reconstruction.” The path we describe draws upon literally thousands of experiments in worker ownership, neighborhood ownership, cooperatives, state banks, municipal enterprise, and many other fast developing democratic forms. The longer term vision defines a community-sustaining system that also includes sufficient national and regional planning to manage community job stability, as well as reduced growth trajectories. We term this “next system” a pluralist commonwealth to call attention to its diverse forms of local, state and national democratized ownership. In a nation where one percent of the population owns nearly as much wealth as the bottom 99 percent, we believe a non-statist, community building, institution-changing strategy could open the way to a time of steadily building progressive renewal—just possibly the prehistory of the next great progressive era. The essay outlines some of the key features of a pluralist commonwealth, highlights some of the theoretical institutional design questions that must be answered, and identifies some movement building challenges that must be faced in building a more democratic American political economy. Wiki Surveys: Open and Quantifiable Social Data Collection. Matthew J. Salganik, Princeton University

Utopian Data or Failed Accountability: An Historical Perspective. Edward P. St. John, University of Michigan

What we measure often influences what social actors focus on and what behaviors need to be changed or improved. Measured outcomes provide a focal point for behavior, resulting in both desired and undesired outcomes. Evaluation components play a key role in many if not most discussions of policy reforms, including progressive reforms. This session will explore the social construction of large-scale data systems and examine how these sometimes divert energy and resources in undesirable directions. It will also explore what we would like to see measured so that data systems provided by our large-scale institutions.

10. Professional Development Workshop. Applying Sociology to Careers Outside Academia: Association, Government, and Non-profit Opportunities

Hyatt Regency Denver, Mineral D, Third Level

Session Organizer: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association

Co-Leaders: Barbara M. Altman, Disability Statistics Consultant
Augusto Diana, Department of Health and Human Services
Rachel Ivie, American Institute of Physics
Stacey S. Merola, ICF International

In this workshop, sociologists who have successful careers outside of academia will describe their own career paths and their suggestions for current job-seekers. Some of the questions that will be addressed include: What unique satisfactions can be found in sociological work outside the academy? Where are jobs outside of the academy posted? What specific skills sets are the most valuable outside of academia? What is a KSA and do you really need one? What are the key differences between an applied curriculum vitae and an academic one? What three things should PhD sociologists preparing for an applied job interview keep in mind? Do applied sociologists ever teach? On Friday afternoon from 4:30-6:10pm the same Panel will be participating in the "Applying Sociology to Careers Outside Academia: Job Fair" where participants can meet with them at roundtables to ask the Panel for additional insights and suggestions about how to market their particular sociological skills in the applied workforce. Depending on the number of participants, panels may have time to review CVs and/or cover letters and make suggestions. This is co-sponsored by the Section on Sociological Practice and Public Sociology. Participants are encouraged to attend both the workshop and the job fair that follows it.

40. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Unconditional Basic Income

Session Organizer: Philippe van Parijs, University of Louvain

Presider: William A. Gamson, Boston College

Proposal Author: Philippe van Parijs, University of Louvain

An unconditional basic income is an income paid by a political community to all its members on an individual basis, without means test no work requirement. This simple idea is now inspiring debates, struggles and reforms throughout the world. But does globalization not make it more utopian than ever? Doesn't the threat of selective immigration and emigration make it unsustainable economically? And doesn't the cultural heterogeneity fed by migration make it increasingly unsustainable politically? These are serious challenges for an unconditional basic income as it is for all those components of our welfare states that go beyond social insurance. But the most appropriate strategies for addressing these challenges give the proposal of an unconditional basic income an unprecedented relevance. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

41. Thematic Session. New Ways to Organize: Recent Successes for Direct Care Workers

Hyatt Regency Denver, Capitol 4, Fourth Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Heidi I. Hartmann, Institute for Women's Policy Research

Panel: Leonilla Vega, Direct Care Alliance

Ai-jen Poo, Domestic Workers Alliance

This session will discuss various organizing efforts in the direct care labor market which are working to bring together direct care workers, consumers, and others who have a stake in seeing improvement in the quality of care provided, the quality of working conditions for direct care workers, and recognition of the importance of this work by broader society. Direct care work for children, older people and people with disabilities will all be considered, though the focus will be on elder care. The success of these organizing efforts and their ability to move us towards a more utopian future with greater justice for both who provide care and those who receive it will be discussed.

42. Thematic Session. Race and Racial Justice

Colorado Convention Center, Room 203, Street Level

Session Organizer: Sandra S. Smith, University of California-Berkeley

Presider: Trevor George Gardner, University of California-Berkeley

Panel: Tyrone A. Forman, Emory University

Charles W. Mills, Northwestern University

Stephen Steinberg, City University of New York-Queens College and Graduate Center

For this session, we have convened a panel of race scholars from the fields of law, philosophy, and sociology to explore the question of racial justice—what it is and what institutional transformations are needed to achieve it in a putative “post-racial” society.

43. Thematic Session. Robust Empowerment and Grassroots Activism

Colorado Convention Center, Room 201, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: John P. Gaventa, St. Francis Xavier University

Panelist: John P. Gaventa, St. Francis Xavier University

In 1974, Steven Lukes published his well-known essay Power: a Radical View. His then student John Gaventa applied this view in his book Power and Powerlessness: Quiescence and Rebellion in an Appalachian Valley (1982). Now thirty years on, Gaventa will share his experiences as an academic and an activist to argue that if we are to create ‘real utopias’, we need move from the study of power to a more robust understanding of how unjust power relations can be challenged and changed. In so doing, he will introduce a framework which he and a number of activist colleagues have developed in recent years known as ‘the powercube’ (www.powercube.net). Going beyond Lukes’ original proposal of three dimensions of power, this framework argues that in today’s globalized and multi-polar world, we must understand power as the interaction of the forms, spaces and levels of power, each of which has multiple dimensions. Strategies of ‘robust empowerment’ and social change, to be successful, must challenge all of these simultaneously. Gaventa will also draw upon a recent international research project which has developed over 150 case studies of citizen mobilisation and action in 20 countries (www.drc-citizenship.org), to illustrate the dimensions of the powercube and to provide evidence of how ‘robust empowerment’ can lead to significant social and political change. The session will also demonstrate how the power cube and the case studies of citizen action may be used as effective teaching tools in courses on power, community organising, social movements, globalization and development and democracy. While led by Gaventa, the session will be interactive and include opportunity for participation by others.

44. Thematic Session. Undoing Gender: Is It Possible? Is It Desirable?

Colorado Convention Center, Room 207, Street Level

Session Organizer: Kristen Schilt, University of Chicago

Presider: Dana M. Britton, Kansas State University

Panel: Ann Shola Orloff, Northwestern University

Tey Meadow, Princeton University

Kristen Schilt, University of Chicago

Kathleen Gerson, New York University

Discussant: Dana M. Britton, Kansas State University

The election of Barack Obama to the presidency in 2008 sparked a wave of discussion about whether the United States had arrived at the point of being “post-racial.” Some commentators argued that having a black man popularly elected suggested that race no longer matter. Critics, in contrast, lambasted this suggestion, arguing that race relations and hierarchies remain ever salient. While “post-racial” discourse has faded with the rise of conservative politicians using race-baiting tactics to challenge the Obama administration, the idea of a “post-gender” world has taken hold in sociological gender theory. This panel considers, what would such a post-gender world actually look like? And, is the undoing of gender 1) possible and 2) desirable. These Panel consider this question, drawing on theoretical and empirical analyses.

45. Special Session. Lessons from a Swedish Dystopia: Feminist Perspectives on Stieg Larsson’s Millennium Trilogy (co-sponsored by Sociologists for Women in Society)

Colorado Convention Center, Room 303, Street Level

Session Organizers: Donna King, University of North Carolina-Wilmington and Carrie Lee Smith, Millersville University

Presider: Donna King, University of North Carolina-Wilmington

Tiny, Tattooed and Tough as Nails: Representations of Lisbeth Salander’s Body. Catherine G. Valentine, Nazareth College

Stieg Larsson’s crime fiction trilogy is an international popular phenomenon that has generated much discussion and debate. In his novels, (The Girl With the Dragon Tattoo; The Girl Who Played with Fire; The Girl Who Kicked the Hornet’s Nest) Larsson deconstructs the conventional view of Sweden as utopian, with a strong welfare system, complete gender equality and progressive politics - and features instead a panoply of dystopian structures and behaviors that are particularly harmful to women - including sex trafficking, endemic violence against women, and corrupt, secretive and misogynistic institutions. Yet within his fictional dystopia, Larsson also portrays a remarkable array of feminist actors (men and women) who work individually and collectively to redress these injustices. This session addresses ambiguities in Larsson's dystopian and utopian vision of sexuality, masculinity, body image, and violence against women, and explores imbrications of the fictional and the real in feminist bloggers' responses to Larsson's work.

46. Author Meets Critics Session. Capitalizing on Crisis: The Political Origins of the Rise of Finance (Harvard, 2011) by Greta Krippner

Colorado Convention Center, Room 304, Street Level

Session Organizer: Ronald R. Aminzade, University of Minnesota-St. Paul

Presider: Michael R. Goldman, University of Minnesota-Twin Cities

Critics: Bruce G. Carruthers, Northwestern University

Elisabeth S. Clemens, University of Chicago

Marc Schneiberg, Reed College

47. Regional Spotlight Session. Building Progressive, Diverse, Inclusive Organizations/Leadership in a Conservative Climate

Colorado Convention Center, Room 105, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Lynda Dickson, University of Colorado-Colorado Springs

Panel: Mary Lou Makepeace, Gay and Lesbian Fund of Colorado Springs

Pam Shockley-Zalabak, University of Colorado-Colorado Springs

Richard Skorman, Former Mayoral Candidate

Jeff Scholes, University of Colorado-Colorado Springs

This panel is associated with the April Footnotes article which explores the religious, political, racial and other contradictions apparent in Colorado Springs, Colorado. On the one hand, Colorado Springs has national headquarters for approximately 80 religious organizations, including Focus on the Family and New Life Church. It is also the home of numerous military installations ranging from the army's Fort Carson and the Air Force Academy, to NORAD. The large religious and military presence contributes to the perception of the area as both a haven for evangelical Christians and politically conservative. Rick Santorum's recent success in the Colorado Republican caucus suggests there is some truth to this perception. Yet as is true in any location, there are competing narratives. Voices, groups and organizations that help to provide a more nuanced version of what a "real" utopia consists of. The Footnotes article provides a broad description of these nuances. The purpose of this panel is to hear from specific voices from the community who have had varying degrees of "success" in moving the city from (far) right to (at least) center.

48. Departmental Management and Leadership Workshop. Creating Family-friendly Policies in the Department: Drawing on Empirical Research to Make Effective Changes

Hyatt Regency Denver, Mineral D, Third Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Catherine Richards Solomon, Quinnipiac University

Co-Leaders: Joya Misra, University of Massachusetts

Kris De Welde, Florida Gulf Coast University

Marjukka Ollilainen, Weber State University

Many departments seek to make changes in how they address faculty members' family responsibilities, especially given the increasing number of women faculty who have children. This session will address these concerns by focusing on the role of family-friendly policies in helping departments and universities support faculty. Session co-leaders will briefly present their research and experience implementing these policies. Workshop attendees will reflect on a series of relevant questions developed by the co-leaders and will leave the workshop with a set of goals and a preliminary plan for implementing family-friendly policies in their departments and/or universities.

49. Professional Development Workshop. Applying for a Faculty Position in a Teaching-oriented Institution

Colorado Convention Center, Room 106, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Kathleen Diane Piker-King, Mount Union College

Co-Leaders: Edward L. Kain, Southwestern University

Keith A. Roberts, Hanover College

The workshop would cover the following topics: preparing an effective vita, constructing an effective job application and cover letter, surviving the campus visit, making an impressive teaching presentation, and interviewing with the President and the Academic Chief Officer. The major goal of the workshop is to prepare graduate students to effectively market themselves throughout their job search process from starting to look for a job to getting a job. The workshop materials emphasize that a job search is a long-term developmental process. The workshop is directed to doctoral graduate students who are interested in accepting teaching appointments in teaching-oriented institutions of higher education; however, all doctoral students could benefit from much of the material covered in the workshop. The presenters for the workshop have extensive professional experience in diverse teaching-oriented institutions, and they have acted as search chairs numerous times during their professional careers. The workshop will be interactive and allow participants time to ask questions.

50. Policy and Research Workshop. 2012 Research Opportunities Using the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey (MEPS)

Hyatt Regency Denver, Mineral E, Third Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Jeffrey Rhoades, Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality

The purpose of this Workshop is to facilitate the use of the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey Household Component (MEPS HC) public use data files by the sociological research community. To meet this objective participants are provided with a general overview of the MEPS, a description of available data files, information about on-line data tools, and some examples of the type of research projects the MEPS data can support.

The Nation's health care system has undergone major changes over the last decade; most notable is the recent passage of the Affordability Care Act. The MEPS is a vital national data resource designed to continually provide social science researchers, health service researchers, policymakers, and others with timely, comprehensive information about access to care, health care disparities, health care use and costs in the United States. Newly released MEPS public use files provide social science analysts with opportunities to create unique analytic files for social and policy relevant analyses in such areas of interest as access to care and health disparities. In order to capture the unparalleled scope and detail of the MEPS, analysts need to understand the complexities of MEPS data files and data file linkages. This workshop will provide the knowledge necessary to formulate research plans utilizing the various MEPS files and linkage capabilities.

Many real utopian institutional designs and experiments are built around the problem of deepening democracy: how to organize decision-making in organizations, in the state, and in society in such a way that ordinary people are in a position to genuinely exercise real power. This plenary will concern different aspects of the problem of deepening and radicalizing democracy.

 75. Real Utopia Proposal Session. A Democratic Media System

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial F, Third Level

Session Organizer: Robert W. McChesney, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Presider: Philippe van Parijs, University of Louvain

Proposal Authors: Robert W. McChesney, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

William A. Gamson, Boston College

Heather McIntosh, Boston College

Discussant: William D. Hoynes, Vassar College

Communication and media systems are undergoing dramatic changes, precisely as their importance to society is escalating. On the one hand, new technologies are revolutionizing the nature of communication and discombobulating existing institutional practices. On the other hand, traditional journalism is struggling to survive due to technological and commercial pressures. The capacity to have credible democratic governance hangs in the balance. All nations are to varying degrees in the midst of crucial media policy debates over how best to develop the new technologies and determine what role the market and commercial values should play. Likewise all democratic nations to varying degrees are wrestling with the matter of how to create institutions to generate independent journalism. This session will discuss a proposal for how to address these policy matters. What would be the best possible communication system in view of the existing technologies and economic possibilities? The author will argue that the foundation for a free and democratic society is a communication system, and, in particular, a news media system, largely removed from the capital accumulation process and with mechanisms to provide competition and political independence. The author will demonstrate that this is a realistic utopia, as there are numerous historical and contemporary examples from which to draw. Most important, it is part of a burgeoning international movement for media reform. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

 76. Thematic Session. Creating Workplace Gender Equality

Colorado Convention Center, Room 207, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: William T. Bielby, University of Illinois-Chicago

Panel: Heidi I. Hartmann, Institute for Women's Policy Research

Joan C. Williams, University of California and Hastings College of Law

Shelley J. Correll, Stanford University

As sociologists debate whether the gender revolution in the labor force and other institutional sectors is "uneven and stalled" (England 2010), this session steps back and addresses a larger question – "where do we think that revolution is taking us as it applies to the workplace?" Three decades of scholarship of gender and work is mostly backwards looking, focusing mainly on how the gender system creates workplace disparities. In this session, distinguished gender scholars take a forward look, sharing their visions of where the gender revolution is to take us in creating a workplace free of gender bias.

Sarah A. Soule, Stanford University

Discussant: J. Craig Jenkins, The Ohio State University

The consequences of massive environmental disruption due to global climate change challenges the very idea of real utopias. The ongoing and accelerating disruption of global climate change will render many utopian projects obsolete, and may challenge the very viability of global institutions and practices. Yet, we still cling to naïve notions of sustainability or other utopian visions that ignore the very real limits to the human project imposed by global climate change. The existing efforts utilizing the established political and economic institutions have failed, and the proposed solutions are utterly incommensurate to the scale of the problem. This session will explore the issue of global climate change, and what, if anything remains of utopian projects in light of our environmental situation.

78. Thematic Session. The Port Huron Statement after 50 Years

Session Organizer and Presider: Richard Flacks, University of California-Santa Barbara

Panel: Robert J.S. Ross, Clark University

Tom Hayden, Peace and Justice Resource Center

Maria Varela, Activist

Aldon D. Morris, Northwestern University

The June 1962 Port Huron Statement, was the most important manifesto of the early New Left. It was drafted by Tom Hayden for debate and discussion at a conference of student leaders at Port Huron Michigan. The Statement is most remembered for its advocacy of "participatory democracy"; a term it introduced to public use. Participatory democracy in its various meanings, remains a key concept and has global currency in the quest for 'practical utopia'. Its uses can be found in the 'participatory budget' process in Brazilian cities, in the organizing framework used by public assemblies in the middle east, Europe, Madison and Wall St., and in a wide range of recent work on democratic theory in political science, sociology, philosophy and feminist studies. The Statement also anticipated and helped to fuel a view of the university as a key site for public debate. It argued for the potential relevance of academic research to social change, and for curricular reform that would help students become empowered citizens. The Port Huron Statement can be understood not only as a new left manifesto but as anticipating the possibility of a public sociology. This session will be 'participatory'—hoping to elicit reflection and discussion from the audience.

79. Special Session. Class Stratification and Personality Under Conditions of Apparent Social Stability and of Radical Change: 1956-2006

Carmi Schooler, University of Maryland

In this presentation I attempt a rather sweeping overview of more than half a century of cross-national research that my collaborators and I have done on the relationship of social structure and personality. We have carried out rigorously comparative studies of the United States, Japan, Poland when it was socialist, Poland and Ukraine in their transition to nascent capitalism, and – currently – China during “privatization.” These studies have enabled us to compare capitalist and socialist, Western and non-Western, societies during times of relative social stability. They also have enabled us to assess whether the relationships of social structure and personality continue to obtain during periods of radical social change – by which I mean fundamental change in the social, economic, and political structure of the society, not just a period of dramatic events, nor necessarily rapid change.

Four major large scale longitudinal studies in the German social sciences provide a unique data infrastructure on important topics in modern societies such as ageing, inequality, life forms and education. These projects form a new basis for innovative, cross-national and interdisciplinary research, as they all offer scientific use files to the international scientific community. The Policy and Research Workshop will demonstrate the analytical potential of the longitudinal studies and offer opportunities to get into personal contacts with the P.I.'s of these studies. Exemplary analysis will stimulate own research perspectives of the audience and international cooperation. • the German Socio-Economic Panel (GSOEP) has been providing microdata for social, behavioral, and economic research for over 25 years. • the Survey of Health, Ageing and Retirement in Europe (SHARE) is a cross-national panel among more than 50,000 50+ people in 19 European countries. • the Panel Analysis of Intimate Relations and Family Dynamics (PAIRFAM) is a longitudinal, multi-actor study with 12,000 anchor-respondents plus their partners, parents and children. • the German National Educational Panel Study (NEPS) is a data base on educational processes and decisions, learning opportunities, competence development and returns to education. The multicohort sequence design covers the whole lifespan from birth to retirement and beyond. The moderated panel discussion is expected to enhance international collaboration and to explore synergies with similar studies in the United States and produce added value across such studies. Potential users of the scientific use files of the four studies are invited to the information desk in the exhibition for detailed information, including technical questions of data access.

Committee on Racial and Ethnic Minorities in Sociology)

Hyatt Regency Denver, Mineral B, Third Level

Session Organizers: Jean H. Shin and Elizabeth Floyd, American Sociological Association

Leader: Roberta M. Spalter-Roth, American Sociological Association

Co-Leader: Denise A. Segura, University of California-Santa Barbara

Panel: Rashawn Jabar Ray, University of Maryland-College Park
Olga V. Mayorova, American Sociological Association
Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation

Recent ASA-sponsored research has shed light on the inclusion and exclusion of graduate student and post-PhD sociologists. This workshop will summarize prior research that compares the graduate school and post-graduate experiences of white and minority scholars. A purpose of this workshop is to build a collaborative professional network around these topics. Participants will be asked to discuss the kinds of research they would like to do as potential members of this network, and the leaders and Panel will offer feedback and suggestions. Collectively, this research can enrich the understanding of the transition from graduate school to post-graduate careers.

113. Presidential Panel. What Does it Mean to be Progressive in the Twenty-first Century?

Panel: Claus Offe, Hertie School of Governance-Germany
Frances Fox Piven, City University of New York

In many different ways, the decades ahead pose deep challenges to progressive intellectuals and political activists; chronic employment deficits and precariousness in capitalist labor markets in economically developed countries; intensified problems of environmental sustainability linked to energy, water, and global warming; porous borders and large scale immigration; globalization of economic flows that undermine the autonomy and capacity of states; demographic challenges of aging populations. Given these and other challenges, the three speakers on this panel will all respond to the title question: "What does it mean to be a progressive in the 21st century?"

114. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Reviving Democratic Citizenship

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial G, Third Floor

Session Organizer: Bruce Ackerman, Yale University

Presider: Rob Reich, Stanford University

Proposal Author: Bruce Ackerman, Yale University

Discussant: John Gastil, Pennsylvania State University

Many of our inherited civic institutions are dead or dying. Besides the formal act of voting, the most significant act of citizenship is to show your passport at the border, and thereby gain re-admission to the country. But it is quite possible to live in America today without regularly dealing with others as fellow citizens – fellow workers or professionals, yes; fellow religionists, yes; but fellow citizens, focusing on our common predicament as Americans? The "citizenship agenda" aims to create new sociological contexts for the exercise of meaningful citizenship in ordinary life. This is the unifying theme of a series of books: Voting with Dollars (with Ian Ayres), granting each voter 50 "democracy dollars" to give to his favorite candidate or political party, Deliberation Day (with James Fishkin) proposing a new national holiday before each election at which citizens deliberate on the merits of rival candidates, and The Decline and Fall of the American Republic, proposing a system of electronic news vouchers to rejuvenate professional journalism in the age of the internet. I will be emphasizing the synergistic relationships between these initiatives. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

115. Thematic Session. Design, Architecture, Real Utopia

Damian F. White, Rhode Island School of Design

Tactical Micro Utopias: The Social Change Model of the DESIS Project (Design for Social Innovation and Sustainability).

Intimate Design: Disciplined Bodies as Utopian Architecture.

Fletcher Linder, James Madison University

The fields of architecture and design have long contained strong utopian residues. Committed as they are to pursuing what Jan Michal has referred to as “the dream of functional perfection.” This session will explore how sociologists can find productive and critical ways to engage with the reconstructive or even utopian dimensions of historical and contemporary forms of architecture and design. Under examination will be (i) the relationships between utopian thought and contemporary eco-design and green architecture; (ii) examples and discussions of urban social movements and eco-urban social movements productively engaging with and transforming architecture, design, and social relations, (iii) evaluations of the social value of scenario based design; shareability.net; living labs; community design for informing real utopian thought.

116. Thematic Session. Real Utopian Visions of Health Care

Colorado Convention Center, Room 207, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Suzanne Gordon, Independent Health Care Activist

Panel: Helen Haskell, Mothers Against Medical Error

Scott Reeves, University of California-San Francisco

Robert L. Wears, University of Florida

In order to create “emancipatory projects, institutional designs, possible futures,” in the contemporary health care environment, both in the United States and other industrialized countries, we need to begin with our common sense intuitions about what health care should be. Everyone knows that medical care is about the patient and their family, but in today’s dysfunctional health care system, such notions are only given lip service. The buzz word today is “patient-centered care.” The question is: is the patient at the center of well-coordinated teamwork or the collateral damage produced in the health care version of a civil war. In this panel we will explore the construction of real utopias in health care. To create these utopias we will not only have to look forward but backward. In the current construction of health care, the inexorable march forward involves an interacting set of technologies and status hierarchies – not to mention financial imperatives – that increasingly separate health care professionals from basic skills upon which their professions were once grounded. New measurement and computer technologies as well as medical equipment leads caregivers away from the basic skills that were once the cornerstones of patient care.

117. Thematic Session. Real-Utopian Lessons from Twentieth Century U.S. and Canadian History: Participatory Institution-building by the State and the People

Session Organizer: Jess C. Gilbert, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Presider: Harriet Friedmann, University of Toronto

Striving for Racial Democracy in the New Deal: The Farm Security Administration and the Dream of American Land Reform in Mississippi. Spencer D. Wood, Kansas State University

Real Utopian Lesson from the Agrarian New Deal: A Case of Democratic Planning. Jess C. Gilbert, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Building Countervailing Power: The Role of People’s Educational Spaces in Movements for Real Utopia. John P. Gaventa, St. Francis Xavier University

In Envisioning Real Utopias (pp. 160-67), Erik Wright offers seven principles of “empowered participatory governance”: bottom-up empowered participation, pragmatic orientation, deliberation, devolution and decentralization, recombinant decentralization, state-centered institutionalism, and countervailing power. This session engages these principles with historical cases of participatory, democratizing institution-building. The first paper presents a bold New Deal experiment in racial democracy in Mississippi that formed the foundation for much of the civil rights movement some twenty years later. The program of wealth (land) redistribution coupled with farmer-led institutions yielded a transformative “real utopia” of new possibilities. The second paper concerns another agrarian New Deal effort in collaborative governance: a national network of county planning committees comprising local farmers, adult educators, social scientists, and county administrators of new federal programs—all intent on coordinating and reforming public policy. The third presentation focuses on two non-governmental, community-based institutions that have long histories of linking rural education and transformative social movements: the Highlander Center in Tennessee and the Coady International Institute, which grew from the interwar Antigonish Movement in Nova Scotia. This presenter now directs Coady and led Highlander in the 1980s.

121. Regional Spotlight Session. Wheel Utopias: Bringing Bike Sharing to Denver

Colorado Convention Center, Room 105, Street Level

Session Organizer: Paula W. Fomby, University of Colorado-Denver

Panel: Parry Burnap, Denver Bike Sharing

Steve Sander, City and County of Denver

Andy Duvall, University of Colorado-Denver

In Summer 2008, the city of Denver launched B-Cycle, an innovative bike sharing program, to coincide with the Democratic National Convention. Since then, B-Cycle has grown to include 51 short-term bike rental stations spread throughout the city, with over 100,000 bike rides logged annually. This panel describes the vision of the B-Cycle program; an analysis of neighborhood patterns of ridership; and challenges to the B-Cycle program's efforts to broaden ridership to include low-income urban communities. Panel include Denver B-Cycle's executive director, the director of strategic marketing for the city of Denver, a local expert in GIS analysis applied to urban populations, and a representative from the Denver Housing Authority, where Denver B-Cycle is providing 100 free passes for bicycle rentals to sponsored residents.

122. Professional Development Workshop. Applying Sociology to Careers Outside Academia: Job Fair

Colorado Convention Center, Room 106, Street Level

Co-Leaders: Barbara M. Altman, Disability Statistics Consultant

Augusto Diana, Department of Health and Human Services

Stacey S. Merola, ICF International

During this session, PhD sociologists who have experience working outside of the academy will be available to talk one on one with individuals who are interested in exploring applied careers. Job Fair participants can go table to table and ask the speakers for insights and suggestions about how to market their particular sociological skills in the applied workforce. Depending on the number of participants, speakers may have time to review CV's and/or cover letters and make suggestions. Note that the Job Fair is paired with a Friday morning (8:30-10:10am) panel discussion entitled "Applying Sociology to Careers Outside the Academy: Association, Government, and Non-Profit Opportunities." In the panel discussion the speakers will be describing their own career paths and their suggestions for current job-seekers. Some of the questions that will be addressed include: What unique satisfactions can be found in sociological work outside the academy? Where are jobs outside of the academy posted? What specific skills sets are the most valuable outside of academia? What is a KSA and do you really need one? What are the key differences between an applied curriculum vitae and an academic one? What three things should PhD sociologists preparing for an applied job interview keep in mind? Do applied sociologists ever teach? This is co-sponsored by the Section on Sociological Practice and Public Sociology. Participants are encouraged to attend both the job fair and the workshop that precedes it.

123. Policy and Research Workshop. Educational and Labor Market Analyses of Administrative Data and Funding Opportunities

Colorado Convention Center, Room 112, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Hiroshi Ono, Institute of Education Sciences

Co-Leaders: Thomas Bailey and Shanna Jaggars, Columbia University

Panel: Thomas A. DiPrete, Columbia University

Arne L. Kalleberg, University of North Carolina

John Robert Warren, University of Minnesota

Opportunities to examine the links between educational attainment and labor market outcomes at the individual level can be created by combining administrative data from several sources with other types of data. In this workshop, researchers from the Center for Analysis of Postsecondary Education and Employment (a partnership among researchers from Teachers College, the University of Michigan, Harvard, and UNC) will discuss the Center's research based on merging administrative data (e.g., unemployment insurance, and state education data) with a variety of other data (e.g. administrative longitudinal unit record data from institutions, states, and the National Student Clearinghouse). They will discuss practical and methodological strategies used to collect, merge, and analyze such data. A panel of leading sociologists in the area of sociology of education and social stratification will discuss the development and use of this type of data including: important sociological questions that could be answered by analyzing the datasets, additional variables that if added to the datasets would increase their value for future research, and the sources for such additional data. In addition, a representative from the Institute of Education Sciences (IES) will discuss funding opportunities to support these types of research efforts. The presentations will be followed by a general Q&A session.

141. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Philanthropy and Real Utopias

Session Organizer: Rob Reich, Stanford University
 President: Joseph Raphael Blasi, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers

Proposal Author: Rob Reich, Stanford University

Discussant: Kieran Healy, Duke University

People have been giving away their money, property, and time to others for millennia. What's novel about the contemporary practice of philanthropy is the availability of tax incentives to give money away. Such incentives are built into tax systems in nearly all developed and many developing democracies. More generally, laws govern the creation of foundations and nonprofit organizations and they spell out the rules under which these organizations may operate. Laws set up special tax exemptions for philanthropic and nonprofit organizations, and they frequently permit tax concessions for individual and corporate donations of money and property to qualifying non-governmental organizations. In this sense, philanthropy is not an invention of the state but ought to be viewed today as an artifact of the state; we can be certain that philanthropy would not have the form it currently does in the absence of the various laws that structure it and tax incentives that encourage it. This session specifies and assesses three possible justifications for the existence of tax incentives for charitable giving, identifies a distinctive role for philanthropy in democracies, and argues for a fundamental re-design of the current legal framework governing philanthropy. Read the proposals at www.realutopias.com

142. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Utopias "For Real": Contours of Racial Utopia

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial H, Third Floor

Session Organizer: Eduardo Bonilla-Silva, Duke University
 President: Judith Lorber, City University of New York-Brooklyn College and Graduate Center

Proposal Author: Eduardo Bonilla-Silva, Duke University

Discussants: Tyrone A. Forman, Emory University and Kimberlé Crenshaw, University of California-Los Angeles

Utopia will not be "for real" here or elsewhere unless racial matters are included and addressed in a forthright manner. Accordingly, in this paper I do four things to advance utopias for real. First, I provide a friendly critique of the "real utopias" project as currently conceived. Second, I suggest the urgent need for mental emancipation (a la Bob Marley) from the emotional, intellectual, and spiritual tentacles of white supremacy as the foundation for any utopian process. Third, I outline a number of individual and collective freedom practices needed to move towards utopia. Albeit my discussion is broad, I tackle some practices we need to exercise in academia. Lastly, I advance, with lots of trepidation given the collective nature of the struggle for utopia, the contours of racial utopia. I conclude with a short dream of how I, as an Am-e-Rican, hope America and the world look like in 2050. Read the proposals at www.realutopias.com

143. Thematic Session. Democracy's Blueprints: The Globalization of Participatory Budgeting

Colorado Convention Center, Room 303, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Ernesto Ganuza, Advanced Social Research Institute

Discussant: Ernesto Ganuza, Advanced Social Research Institute

The Orçamento Participativo was created in Porto Alegre in 1989. From then until now the OP has been globalized, so we find experiences in all five continents. The success achieved by the Porto Alegre experience has led governments of countries with cultural and political traditions very different entering the PB in their localities. However, the Brazilian OP has gradually transformed in that journey and it has been implemented according to the local contexts. We wonder what exactly has traveled, as well as the impact and success of the Participatory Budgeting beyond Brazil. To answer these questions we propose a debate on four experiences of four different continents: USA, Europe (Italy), Africa (DR Congo) and China. Thus, we could see the meaning of the globalization of a specific local experience and its different outcomes in political and cultural different contexts.

Utopian visions and institutions frequently face resistance or even open persecution from the established order. Religious utopias are no exception. Despite assurances of freedoms in the United Nations' Universal Declaration of Human Rights and additional assurances in approximately 90 percent of all national constitutions, the freedoms of religious utopias and other minority religions are routinely denied. This session explores the sources and extent of these denials as well as the consequences of denying religious freedoms. In particular, the panel members will look at the consequences for provoking social conflict and for limiting other human rights.

145. Thematic Session. Is Marriage Part of a Utopian Future?

Colorado Convention Center, Room 205, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Pepper J. Schwartz, University of Washington

Panel: Rosanna Hertz, Wellesley College

Stephanie Coontz, Evergreen State College

Scott Coltrane, University of Oregon

Mignon R. Moore, University of California-Los Angeles

This session will be organized around the changing nature of marriage and to what extent it can be the right "tent" for equitable and committed relationships and families in the Utopian future. The debate over who should be married has been lively with many nay sayers and stake holders having directly opposing passionate views. Where should this end up? For same sex couples, for opposite sex couples, for larger configurations of love and loyalty or perhaps in alternative forms not yet realized? Our Panel will no doubt have diverse Utopian visions.

146. Thematic Session. Marxism and/or Real Utopias

Colorado Convention Center, Room 207, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Rhonda F. Levine, Colgate University

Panel: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley

Leo Panitch, York University

David Norman Smith, University of Kansas

Goran Therborn, Uppsala University

This session will discuss both the compatibility of Marxism and the concept and practice of Real Utopias, as well as how Marxism and Real Utopias as theory and practice diverge.

Workers' movements classically embody a central tension that powerfully illuminates the recurrent quest for utopia: they must balance the need to realize immediate objectives with a commitment to social transformation. As a result, workers' movements have historically found themselves on the leading edge of what we now recognize as "real utopian" projects. While striking this balance has proven elusive—and the history of workers' movements is replete with more than its share of failures—these movements nevertheless provide a unique vantage point for reconsidering the dynamics and challenges inherent in building real utopian projects. A distinguished panel of labor scholars will consider and assess the efforts of workers' movements' to actualize utopian visions within a global and cross-national context. Beyond elucidating the local and comparative contexts that have shaped those efforts, the panel will analyze the "real utopian" projects that have emerged from workers' struggles for a better world.

149. Professional Development Workshop. Teaching Sociology in a Community College: A Panel Discussion

Session Organizer and Leader: Rifat A. Salam, City University of New York-Borough of Manhattan Community College

Co-Leaders: Sheldon Applewhite, City University of New York-

Borough of Manhattan Community College

Lisa Handler, Community College of Philadelphia

Amy Elizabeth Traver, City University of New York-

Queensborough Community College

Community colleges play a significant role in higher education in the United States, providing a gateway to many students who might not otherwise have aspired to a college education. Over forty percent of all college students in the United States are enrolled at community colleges. Yet most of the general resources on teaching sociology and indeed most textbooks are geared towards traditional four year college students. Teaching at a community college offers a unique set of challenges and opportunities and sociologists are especially well-positioned to offer students a critical perspective on society and their own experiences. This professional development workshop will include topics such as pedagogy and teaching strategies, understanding the diverse experiences of students, and how to navigate a career at a community college. We will demonstrate ways to better understand and address the complex lives of community college students and their needs. Panel will also discuss the challenges and rewards of a career at a community college, including how to balance research and teaching, and advice for seeking out ways to further your professional development as scholars and/or teachers. There will be a hands-on component dealing with specific teaching challenges and strategies and participants are encouraged to bring in specific issues and challenges for discussion. This workshop/panel is designed for anyone who is currently teaching or thinking about teaching at a community college.

150. Policy and Research Workshop. Social Science Data Infrastructure

Co-Leaders: Patricia E. White and Regina E. Werum, National Science Foundation

Panel: Peter V. Marsden, Harvard University

Janet Gornick, City University of New York-Graduate Center

David van Riper and Sheela Kennedy, University of Minnesota

Pamela Herd, University of Wisconsin-Madison

The Sociology Program at the National Science Foundation (NSF) supports large-scale data resources that are widely used by scholars across the social sciences and excellent tools for scholars interested in interdisciplinary research. In 2009 the Sociology Program renewed support for the General Social Survey (GSS); it also supports the Luxembourg Income Study (LIS) and the International Integrated Public Micro-Data Series (IPUMS-International), and has funded a new data resource, School Attendance Boundary Information System (SABINS); all comprise publicly available social science data that can be used by sociologists to complete comparative research, assess trends in public attitudes, and examine educational outcomes in more precise geographical locations. NSF program officers will discuss funding opportunities available for interdisciplinary research; and along with representatives from major NSF-supported data infrastructure projects will provide information on publicly available tools, instrumentation, shared databases and cyberinfrastructure for disciplinary and interdisciplinary research. The session is interactive; audience participation is encouraged.

151. Teaching Workshop. Connecting Undergraduates to the Empirical Base of Sociology

Colorado Convention Center, Room 105, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: William H. Frey, Brookings Institution

Co-Leaders: Lynette F. Hoelter and John Paul DeWitt, University of Michigan

This workshop will introduce teachers to tools and approaches toward integrating "hands on" data analysis into lower level undergraduate courses. It will feature resources available with the Social Science Data Analysis Network (www.SSDAN.net) from the University of Michigan's Population Studies Center, the Online Learning Center at the Inter-university Consortium of Political and Social Research and www.TeachingwithData.org. These resources make available new data from the Census Bureau's American Community Survey, several ICPSR surveys and other data driven learning activities. Participants will learn about how to use the resources and adopt them in their courses. They will also be given information on how to become part of a network of faculty who will share data, classroom exercises and experiences with quantitative reasoning. Materials will be provided to assist adoption.

178. Real Utopia Proposal Session. A World Beyond Gender

Session Organizers: Judith Lorber, City University of New York-Brooklyn College and Graduate Center; Barbara Jane Risman, University of Illinois-Chicago; and Jessica Holden Sherwood, University of Rhode Island

Proposal Authors: Judith Lorber, City University of New York-Brooklyn College and Graduate Center
Barbara Jane Risman, University of Illinois-Chicago
Jessica Holden Sherwood, University of Rhode Island

Discussant: Michael Kimmel, State University of New York-Stony Brook

The women's movement has waved through societies across the globe for more than a century, and yet inequality between women and men still stubbornly remains. In many ways and in many places, feminist-inspired change has been dramatic. Today, there are women leaders in many venues, but other women are at the bottom of the economic scale. All women are vulnerable to misogyny, rape, and sexual violence. Another continued area of gender inequality is the unequal division of domestic labor that still burdens heterosexual women with children living in committed relationships. How do we create a less gendered and more equal social structure? We argue we must move beyond categorizing people by sex category for any significant purpose beyond actual biological differences. We suggest a vision for such a society and social policies that might implement such a utopian vision. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

 179. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Practical Anarchism in Networked Societies
Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial H, Third Floor
 Session Organizer: Yochai Benkler, Harvard University
 Presider: Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan
 Proposal Author: Yochai Benkler, Harvard University
 Discussant: Eben Moglen, Columbia University
 The networked information economy is typified by radical decentralization of the core capital inputs into the highest-added-value economic activities of the most advanced economies. Computation, communications, storage, and sensing are widely distributed in the population of the wealthier economies, and in gradually growing parts of the middle classes of less wealthy economies; while human insight, knowledge, inventiveness, and creativity have always been individually embodied. As a result, effective decentralized cooperation relying on neither the state nor hierarchical firms has become an increasingly significant and reliable form of self-organized action. Wikipedia we all know. But user-owned wifi networks, free software, and distributed storage/server models are providing examples of self-organized production of basic infrastructure. Decentralized finance suggests shades of Proudhon's bank. The networked fourth estate suggests an increasing role for radically decentralized reporting as an important counterweight to commercial media. The paper explores possibilities and limitations for practical anarchism in networked capitalism. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

 From the Ground Up: Organizing and Sustaining Local Currencies.
Adam Alleman, Denver Metro Community Exchange; Lisa Dicksteen, SkillShare
 In communities across the globe, activists are creating their own local currencies or non-cash exchange networks as an alternative to national currencies. These "do-it-yourself" groups are established with the intention of making goods and services more accessible and building social capital. Some are politically radical and advocated as alternatives to capitalism. This session begins by identifying the major forms of contemporary local currencies and situating such alternatives within the context of localism and the numerous new movements aimed at localization. Next, empirical evidence from three U.S. time banks will be presented in an exploration of participant motivations, exchanges occurring within these networks, and participant outcomes. Finally, Denver-area local currency coordinators will provide details of day-to-day operations and discuss the challenges of organizing and sustaining these systems. Implications about the extent to which these projects can be seen as emancipatory and paving the way for greater change will be discussed.

 181. Thematic Session. Real Utopian Childhoods
Colorado Convention Center, Room 207, Street Level
 Session Organizer and Presider: Karin A. Martin, University of Michigan
 Panel: Allison Pugh, University of Virginia
Karyn Lacy, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor
Emily W. Kane, Bates College
 This session will explore the everyday social lives of children with a particular focus on how economic, racial, and gendered institutions shape children's everyday lives. If we understand children as social actors in their own right, and not beings in the process of becoming, how might this further elaborate our understandings of possible real utopias for childhood?

 182. Thematic Session. Religion and Stratification (co-sponsored with Association for the Sociology of Religion)

 Are Evangelical Protestants Lower Class? An Age-Period-Cohort Period Analysis of White Americans' Social Class. Phillip Schwadel, University of Nebraska-Lincoln
 The intersection of religion and stratification was once central to early sociological thought and practice, with Karl Marx writing about religion as an ideology of exploitation and Max Weber discussing three class based systems of religious meaning. In recent years, with minor exceptions, it represents an almost pure vacuum in scholarship. This session addresses this void by exploring how both religious institutions and personal religiosity impact status attainment.

 New Frontiers in the Work-family Interface? Tanja Van Der Lippe, University of Utrecht
 Family Utopias? Family Complexity and Family Change. Wendy Diane Manning, Bowling Green State University
 Sociologists have made important contributions to our understanding of the impediments to achieving a family life that promotes equality and inclusivity, balances the needs of home and workplace, and sustains meaningful relations over the life course. Although there is general agreement on these utopian goals, our often myopic attention to what is wrong with contemporary families has stymied pro-active thinking: What concrete transformations are underway to bring about meaningful family change? This session emphasizes "translational science." The session invites a cast of distinguished sociologists to build on what is known about families in order to identify public policies, cultural schema, economic conditions, and other factors that can and must change in order for families to change for the better. Necessarily, the Panel analyses will incorporate multi-level insights, cross-national comparisons, and description of trends and emerging developments in multiple domains, ranging from new cultural definitions of family to policy experiments improving work-family integration.

184. Special Session. Importance of Federally Supported Interdisciplinary Research Colorado Convention Center, Room 105, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Bradley Smith, American Sociological Association

Panel: Robert Kaplan, National Institutes of Health Office of Behavioral and Social Science Research
Fred Block, University of California-Davis

This session will examine the policy implications of federally funded research. In particular the session will focus NIH's support for social and behavioral science and the past successes and future vision of the Office of Behavioral and Social Science research (OBSSR). In addition, the Panel will speak about the long-term economic benefits of federally supported research, especially multi-discipline research.

Presider: Lisa M. Martinez, University of Denver

Panel: Lisa Duran, Rights for All People

Jason McKain, Colorado Progressive Coalition

Linda Meric, 9to5, The National Association of Working Women

Debra Brown, Colorado Community Organizers Collaborative

Discussant: Hava Rachel Gordon, University of Denver

How do organizations maintain their grassroots character in the face of the mounting need for resources such as funding and media attention? Invited Panel will share insights about the work they do in Denver communities, and address the problems and pitfalls of operating in a context of limited resources.

187. Departmental Management and Leadership Workshop. Implementing Curricular Changes to Better Prepare Graduate Students for Positions in Applied Settings

Hyatt Regency Denver, Mineral D, Third Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Augusto Diana, Department of Health and Human Services

Panel: Angela A. Aidala, Columbia University

Michael S. Fleischer, Organizational Dynamics Consulting

Harry Perlstadt, Michigan State University

Michael I. Hirsch, Huston Tillotson University

This workshop will bring together sociologists from academia, applied programs and professional associations affiliated with or apart from universities, and the world of sociological practice outside the university. Topics to be covered and Panel who will participate are included below: Angela Aidala, Columbia University, will discuss applied programs affiliated with universities and interdisciplinary programs, which exist at many academic institutions - criminal justice, law, policy and society, socio-medical sciences and health sciences, to name a few - as well as some examples of research centers affiliated with universities. These centers and programs have a focus on applied and policy-oriented training and research, addressing the needs of students who are overwhelmingly oriented to careers outside academia. Mike Fleischer, Organizational Dynamics Consulting, and Harry Perlstadt, Michigan State University, will discuss applied programs housed at universities which seek to build career skills in sociology majors. These programs may seek accreditation from the Commission on the Accreditation of Programs in Applied and Clinical Sociology (CAPACS) to offer some status recognition for their universities and their graduates. Specifics of the accreditation process and information about the types of offerings of these programs provide will be presented. Finally, Augie Diana, National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) and Mike Hirsch, Huston-Tillotson University, will discuss professional associations that foster critical thinking and work opportunities outside academia. Specifically, Panel will present information about the Association for Applied and Clinical Sociology (AACCS) and Sociological Practice and Public Sociology (SPPS) Section of ASA which are in the forefront of such efforts.

188. Professional Development Workshop. ASA Editors Offer Insights and Advice on Writing and Submitting Articles

Session Organizer and Leader: Holly J. McCammon, Vanderbilt University

Panel: David B. Bills, University of Iowa

Karen A. Hegtvedt, Emory University

Tim Futing Liao, University of Illinois

Debra Umberson, University of Texas

ASA editors from a variety of ASA journals will provide insights and advice on publishing in scholarly journals, including preparing manuscripts for submission, selecting a journal, responding to revise and resubmit decisions, and deciding what to do if your paper is rejected. The workshop will provide opportunity for audience members to ask the editors questions about publishing.

214. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Parecon (Participatory Economics)

Session Organizer: Michael Albert, Z-Magazine

Proposal Author: Michael Albert, Z-Magazine

A real utopia will have an economy that accomplishes needed production and consumption, that meets needs and develops potentials consistent with favored values, and that is classless. Participatory economy does the job, advancing self management, solidarity, diversity, and equity and removing all structural bases for class division. This session will summarize parecon's features and explore some implications for contemporary efforts at change. It will also compare parecon to other proposed visions for a better economic future, including market socialism and centrally planned socialism. And finally, it will report on projects around the world aimed at attaining both participatory economics, and a broader participatory society, as well. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

215. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Reimagining the Corporation

Session Organizer and Presider: Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan

Proposal Author: Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan

Discussant: William G. Roy, University of California-Los Angeles

From the merger wave at the turn of the 20th century that created them until the bust-up takeover wave of the 1980s that disassembled them, publicly traded corporations were the dominant social institution of the American economy. They provided long-term employment and social welfare benefits that were provided by states in other industrialized economies, and they shaped the currents of politics and trade in innumerable ways. But the shareholder value movement and the disaggregation of contemporary methods of production and exchange have inadvertently driven the corporation into retreat in the US. The concentration of assets and employment have been in decline for three decades, and there are now half as many public corporations as there were in 1997. Moreover, ferment in both laws and feasible organizing methods suggest that we are on the verge of a substantial re-imagining of the structures organizing the economy. This session contemplates how changes in law, information and communication technologies, and productive technologies open up new possibilities for (sociologically-informed) democratic governance of our post-corporate economy. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

216. Thematic Session. Alternative Approaches to Punishment

Colorado Convention Center, Room 205, Street Level

Session Organizer: Katherine Beckett, University of Washington

Presider: Bruce Western, Harvard University

Panel: Christopher Uggen, University of Minnesota

Bruce Western, Harvard University

Marie Gottschalk, University of Pennsylvania

This panel will explore the dystopian features of the U.S. penal system and consider how a system of punishment oriented toward more utopian ideals might (or might not) come into being. In particular, Panel will reflect on the challenges associated with advocating for penal change, and identify promising strategies for building new alliances and institutions and implementing new measures of success.

Thematic Session. Feminist Futures. Wendy Harcourt, Society for International Development

Biopolitics in Paradise: Food Systems and Capitalist Utopias. Rajeev Patel, University of Natal

Real Utopias Viewed from the Epistemologies of the South.

Boaventura Santos, University of Coimbra-Portugal

This thematic panel considers sources of knowledge production and practice that challenge received concepts of development/globalization, in the spirit of 'real utopias.' It proceeds from the understanding that 'development,' a universalizing self-referential Western concept, mediates global capitalist relations, negating and/or appropriating other epistemes and practical knowledges. The panel will address this dynamic by considering projections of possibility in this moment of declining Western capitalist hegemony. Given the urgency and multiplicity of crises facing the world, post-development models are necessarily multifaceted, essential, and yet arguably unifying in their diversity – given their historicity. Ecological and feminist epistemologies, new conceptions of the commons, food sovereignty and bioregionalism, solidarity communities, the movement of movements in the World Social Forum, and forms of decommodification exemplify and/or inform incipient 'real utopias. Panel will reflect on emerging projects and their interconnections.

Incorporating Climate Change into the Sociological Curriculum. Kari Marie Norgaard, University of Oregon; Scott G. McNall, California State University-Chico

Discussant: Kathleen J. Tierney, University of Colorado-Boulder

In view of the societal significance of human-induced climate change, ASA established the Task Force on Sociology and Global Climate Change to provide sociological analyses of this phenomenon. The Task Force is preparing a multi-authored report with chapters on the human drivers of climate change, societal impacts of climate change, and adaptation to climate change as well as more specific topics such as the role of market actors and structures, consumption and mitigation, civil society, public opinion and attitudes, and climate politics and denial. Additional chapters will focus specifically on the implications of climate change for the discipline of sociology. This session will consist of an overview of the work of the Task Force by its Chair (Dunlap), and presentations on the challenges and opportunities posed by climate change for both sociological/social theory (Clark) and methodology (Jorgenson) as well as on incorporating climate change into the sociological curriculum (Norgaard).

221. Professional Development Workshop. Communicating with the Media and Policymakers

Session Organizer and Leader: Bradley Smith, American Sociological Association

Co-Leader: Dan Fowler, American Sociological Association

As a sociologist, you can speak to the media and to policymakers about important discoveries and issues related to the discipline. This workshop will provide insights to help you communicate better with the media and policymakers. ASA works in Washington to advance the social and behavior sciences and ASA members can make their views known to elected officials. This is a fundamental right and essential to the future of social science funding. Likewise, ASA members can be a resource to the media. Sharing their scientific discoveries and expertise to the press when breaking news hits and studies are released.

222. Teaching Workshop. Emancipatory Pedagogies: From Social Structure and Straight Jackets to Social Action and Praxis

Colorado Convention Center, Room 106, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Lydia Rose, Kent State University-East Liverpool

Panel: Peter L. Callero, Western Oregon University

Peter Kaufman, State University of New York-New Paltz

Stephen A. Sweet, Ithaca College

Monica M. White, Wayne State University

The goal would be three-fold: (1) to provide concrete examples of emancipatory pedagogies that have worked for scholars in the classroom; (2) to provide an opportunity to dialogue about the role of structured, core, curriculum requirements that limit or inhibit the creation and/or implementation of emancipatory pedagogies; and (3) discuss some solutions or practices that have worked in countering roadblocks to implementing emancipatory praxis, social activism, or civil service into the classroom setting.

224. Policy and Research Workshop. Social Interventions and Increasing the Diffusion of ASA's TRAILS Digital Library of Teaching and Learning Materials

Colorado Convention Center, Room 206, Street Level

Session Organizer: Jean H. Shin, American Sociological Association

Co-Leader: Olga V. Mayorova, American Sociological Association

Panelist: Jeffrey Chin, Le Moyne College

Prior research suggests that new technology, such as digital libraries, by themselves do not necessarily result in diffusion. ASA is interested in implementing a number of social interventions to increase the adoption of the TRAILS digital library beyond the existing network of teaching and learning scholars. This workshop will ask participants to evaluate the potential feasibility and impact of a series of social interventions that broaden and increase social participation. These range from giving awards for innovative curriculum design, to matching teaching and learning scholars with graduate students, to offering special TRAILS access to faculty from underserved institutions.

 249. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Corporations with Worker Ownership and Profit Sharing
Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial H, Third Floor
 Session Organizer: Joseph Raphael Blasi, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers
 President: Raymond Russell, University of California-Riverside
 Proposal Author: Joseph Raphael Blasi, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers
 Discussant: Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan

There will be a brief overview of what is wrong with current corporate institutions where ownership of stock and income from capital tend to be highly concentrated mainly in the top 1% of employees in most corporations with an emphasis on several areas of the corporate sector where the distribution of ownership and income from capital is substantially more broad-based. There will be a summary of research indicating that the more broad-based worker ownership and profit sharing sectors represent a workable and efficient way to organize the economy. Lastly, practical legislative and executive branch proposals to facilitate the transformation to more broad-based ownership and profit sharing by citizens of large and small corporations will be presented including changes to the tax system, the banking system, and the system of higher education required to facilitate this transformation. The proposals will be framed with the idea that societies organized as republics require generally broad distribution of property in order to assure that each individual has the independence to participate in democratic discourse.

 250. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Making Direct Democracy Deliberative through Random Assemblies

Session Organizer and President: John Gastil, Pennsylvania State University

Proposal Author: John Gastil, Pennsylvania State University

Discussant: Archon Fung, Harvard University

Too many critics continue to view deliberative democracy as a theoretical proposition, rather than a real body of practice. After decades of practical experiments in modern deliberative democracy, not to mention centuries of refinement of the jury system, there now exist powerful deliberative models. Two of the most important officially-sanctioned efforts come from the northwestern corner of North America—the British Columbia Citizens' Assembly and the Oregon Citizens' Initiative Review. British Columbia showed that a randomly-selected body of 150 citizens can draft first-rate legislation, which then won 57% support in a province-wide referendum election. Oregon showed that a small representative panel of 24 citizens can produce one-page analyses of ballot initiatives that influence the knowledge and judgment of the wider electorate when placed in the official Voters' Guide. Taken together, these cases show the clear potential for infusing direct democratic institutions with a deliberative impulse. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

251. Thematic Session. Building a Better K-12 Education System

Colorado Convention Center, Room 205, Street Level

Session Organizer: Jennifer L. Jennings, New York University

Prsider: Dalton Conley, New York University

Panel: Douglas Lee Lauen, University of North Carolina

Aaron M. Pallas, Columbia University

In the last decade, unprecedented changes have been made in American education policy. According to their supporters, recent education reforms have the potential to reduce disparities in educational opportunities and outcomes by improving the quality of the lowest performing schools, those that poor and minority students are most likely to attend. Others contend that these reforms will reproduce and exacerbate inequalities, or have no effect at all. Building on sociologists' longstanding interest in how schools structure children's life chances, Panel in this session will explore the impact of education policies, broadly construed, on students, teacher, and schools, and how these policies affect disparities in educational opportunities and outcomes among social groups.

252. Thematic Session. Creating Real Utopias for Persons with Disabilities (co-sponsored with the Section on Disability and Society)

Session Organizer and Prsider: Jeffrey A. Houser, University of Northern Colorado

Panelist: Gary L. Albrecht, University of Illinois-Chicago

Introducing the WHO/World Bank's First World Report on Disability.

Katherine Delores Seelman, University of Pittsburgh

Articulating a Right to Technology Access for People with

Cognitive Disabilities. Peter Blanck, Syracuse University

Examining strategies for overcoming social, political, and environmental barriers faced by persons with disabilities. Papers address the desirability, viability, and achievability of "radically different institutions and social relations" (Wright 2009, pg. 1) relevant to persons with disability. Three subthemes include: • How transformative social relations can unleash the potential of persons with disabilities. Specific attention will be given to the World Health Organization's recent World Report on Disability (http://www.who.int/disabilities/world_report/2011/en/index.html), especially its recommendations on how to overcome barriers to health care, rehabilitation, education, employment, and support services, and to create the environments which will enable people with disabilities to flourish. • How social policy, such as the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, has or has not been successful in opening the doors to employment and independence for persons with disabilities. How the implementation of "universal design" standards not only alleviates environmental barriers for persons with disabilities, but also provides the groundwork for broad-scale social transformation.

253. Thematic Session. Real Utopias behind Prison Walls

Colorado Convention Center, Room 207, Street Level

Session Organizer and Prsider: Michael Jacobson, Vera Institute of Justice

Panelist: Kelly Hannah-Moffat, University of Toronto

Open Prisons: An Innovative Perspective from Liberia. Samuel Tarley, Liberia Prisons

Exploring Prison Conditions in Halden Fengsel, Norway's Newest Prison. Are Hoeidal, Halden Fengsel Prison-Norway

Prison Reform in the U.S. Context. Michael Jacobson, Vera Institute of Justice

Ever since the first prisons were constructed they have been the subject of reform. But what are the ideals and goals of prison reform in a global context? Can an 'ideal' prison exist? The concept of utopian prisons embodies different ideologies, conditions and values across cultures and time. In this panel, academics and practitioners will discuss the realities and possibilities of creating utopias in a context of punishment. First, Prof. Liebling will reflect upon her experiences of studying conditions and social dynamics in UK prisons. Next, Samuel Tarley will talk about an 'open prison' model for Liberia, a rehabilitative approach to help inmates maintain community ties and support their families. Are Hoeidal will share his experiences of governing Halden Fengsel in Norway, possibly the most 'utopian' prison ever built. Finally, Michael Jacobson will talk about prison reform in the U.S. context. This international panel will bring together a variety of perspectives, raising important questions about the future of prison reform both globally and in the US.

254. Thematic Session. The Future of Reproduction

Colorado Convention Center, Room 303, Street Level

Session Organizer: Frances Kissling, University of Pennsylvania

Prsider: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor

Panel: Barbara Katz Rothman, City University of New York

Lisa Harris, University of Michigan

Frances Kissling, University of Pennsylvania

It is almost 50 years since the Supreme Court ruled in Griswold that the prohibition of contraception violated a right to marital privacy. The Court later extended the privacy right to include contraception for unmarried couples and access to abortion. Those court decisions, along with the introduction of the pill and other scientific advances, have changed women's lives. They also opened a Pandora's box of opposition to the privatization of reproduction, so much so that the future of women's reproductive freedom is uncertain. Abortion is increasingly the province of poor women, who currently have 42% of abortions in the US, and experience limited access to contraception as well as resources for childbearing and rearing. State law prohibits constitutionally protected second trimester abortions, subjects women to mandatory anti-abortion counseling, requires unnecessary and invasive procedures and pits fetuses against the women who carry them. This panel will analyze these attempts and the cultural and social frames and trends that influence them as well as suggest some future approaches to reproductive health advocacy more protective of women's human rights.

255. Special Session. Public Issues, Social Reporting: A Conversation in Honor of Katha Pollitt, recipient of the 2012 Excellence in the Reporting of Social Issues Award

Colorado Convention Center, Room 103, Street Level

Session Organizers and Presiders: Vicki Smith, University of California-Davis and John Skrentny, University of California-San Diego

Panel: Joshua Gamson and Carole E. Joffe, University of California-San Francisco

Katha Pollitt, The Nation

The annual ASA Award for Excellence in the Reporting of Social Issues honors individuals for their promotion of sociological findings and a broader vision of sociology. The 2012 Award recipient is Katha Pollitt, whose many columns for The Nation have profoundly shaped the public's understanding of social and sociological issues. Pollitt's original and incisive columns cover issues from gender and social justice, to religion, the culture wars, and social inequality. Three influential social scientists and public intellectuals will talk about Pollitt's contributions to the national appreciation of sociological research and Pollitt will then reflect on connections between her writing and our discipline.

259. Departmental Management and Leadership Workshop. Using Assessment Data to Enhance Student Learning Outcomes

Hyatt Regency Denver, Mineral A, Third Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Rebecca G. Adams, University of North Carolina-Greensboro

Co-Leader: Jodi Pettazzoni, University of North Carolina-Greensboro

In broad terms, the goal of this workshop is to provide insight and information about academic program assessment, how academic program assessment can contribute to student learning, and how it can otherwise help advance the discipline. The ultimate goal of a workshop is to help participants gain practical knowledge or skills that can be applied to the development of academic program assessment plans for their department's programs. Attendees are advised to bring copies or an electronic means of accessing any student learning outcome assessment plan that is in place in their department or higher-level unit and any relevant policy or procedural guidelines (e.g., unit, institutional, system, state, or regional accrediting organization guidelines). The workshop leader will start by addressing the following frequently asked questions and others posed by the attendees: what is academic assessment; what are the forces behind the academic assessment movement; what is the Voluntary System of Accountability; why do some sociologists resist the development and implementation of academic assessment plans; what is the difference between grading and assessment; and what are the benefits to be derived from the assessment of student learning? After providing answers to frequently asked questions, the workshop leader will cover three additional topics: How to Develop an Academic Program Assessment Plan, How to Demonstrate Continuous Improvement by Closing the Loop, and How to Make Assessment as Painless as Possible. In discussing how to develop an academic program assessment plan, the presenter will cover: writing a student learning outcome statement using Bloom's taxonomy, measuring academic program student learning outcomes, finding sources of evidence for metrics, and setting targets. Finally, attendees will learn to demonstrate continuous improvement by "closing the loop" on a student learning outcome. Topics covered in the section on how to demonstrate continuous improvement will be: reviewing findings, using results to develop an action plan, implementing an action plan, and documenting continuous improvement. Finally, workshop participants will learn how to make assessment plans as painless as possible by building on work that faculty are already doing, writing meaningful goals, and developing plans that are sustainable.

260. Professional Development Workshop. Educating Employers on What Sociology Majors Offer

Session Organizer and Leader: Kathy Shepherd Stolley, Virginia Wesleyan College

Panel: Karen Albright, University of Colorado

Marv Finkelstein, Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville

Melodye Gaye Lehnerer, College of Southern Nevada

This session addresses the question of how do we, as professional sociologists, engage employers and get them excited about the opportunity to hire sociology majors? In the context of increased emphases on applied and public sociology and the realities of today's economic climate, if we are to prepare our students to go into the non-academic workplace, there must be receptive places for them to go! The session will include time for interaction with the audience, so come and join in the conversation.

261. Policy and Research Workshop. Status of the Job Market for New PhDs

Colorado Convention Center, Room 106, Street Level

Session Organizer: Roberta M. Spalter-Roth, American Sociological Association

Leader: Jerry A. Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania

Panelist: Nicole M. Van Vooren, American Sociological Association

As with other professional associations we are concerned about the future of our discipline and profession. If there are no jobs for new PhDs the discipline will not renew itself and ultimately its perspectives, understandings and modes of analyses will fade or be usurped by other disciplines. The purpose of this workshop is to provide information about the status of the job market to faculty members, to director's of graduate studies, and to recent PhDs or to PhD candidates who are concerned about their futures. We'll present the findings from the 2012 survey of 2011-2012 jobs. We'll provide information about the prime time for hiring, the most advertised specialties, type of departments in which jobs are located, and other disciplines advertising for sociologists. Along with these issues, workshop participants can discuss job search strategies that improve competitiveness; views of applied, policy, and research positions; and what additional information would be useful to candidates.

262. Teaching Workshop. Engaging Diverse Viewpoints: Informing Pedagogy with Research on Deep Learning and Intellectual Complexity

Colorado Convention Center, Room 107, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Theodore C. Wagenaar, Miami University

Co-Leader: Keith A. Roberts, Hanover College

The Association of American Colleges and Universities recently released a report on "Engaging Diverse Viewpoints: What is the Campus Climate for Perspective Taking?" The volume summarizes research on 24,000 undergraduates and 9,000 campus professionals on experiences with learning about taking the perspectives of others. The authors note that although we place great emphasis on students' ability to take on perspectives other than their own, we are not very successful at teaching this skill. We summarize this research and offer discussion questions for follow up. We also pose some teaching strategies for enhancing perspective taking and underscore how sociology is unique in its contributions to students' interest in and ability to take on diverse viewpoints. We ask that you read this brief report prior to the workshop (see tinyurl.com/83pddc2). We also summarize the work that Roberts (2002, 2008, 2011) has done on deep learning. A good deal of research on critical thinking indicates that perspective taking is the prerequisite skill for virtually every type of critical thinking. It is also the prerequisite for doing sociology—undergraduates must learn to see things from a different place on the social landscape than the one they have occupied. This lies at the heart of doing ethnographic work. Moreover, seeing how the macro and meso forces shape lives at the micro level is a form of perspective taking, as is the process of scrutinizing a social process or issue from more than one theoretical perspective. All of this requires an expanded ability to role-take. Moreover, perspective taking is at the core of deep learning (as opposed to surface learning for the short term.) This workshop will lay the foundations for understanding the centrality of expanded perspective-taking at every level in the curriculum. Participants will then be engaged in discovery writing and small groups to crystallize their thinking on perspective taking and deep learning, and will be asked to help develop appropriate teaching and assessment strategies. Summary discussion and analysis will then follow.

285. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Towards a Democratic-Egalitarian System of Public Education

Session Organizers: Michael Fielding and Peter Moss, University of London; Harry Brighouse, University of Wisconsin

Presider: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley

Proposal Authors: Michael Fielding and Peter Moss, University of London

Harry Brighouse, University of Wisconsin

Jaime Ahlberg, University of Florida

Proposal #1. Radical Democratic Education, by Michael Fielding and Peter Moss, University of London-UK.

The essay will critique the institution of public education, offering 'radical democratic education' as an alternative. Section 1 will discuss what is wrong with much contemporary public education and schooling and consider the meaning of and rationale for the proposed alternative. Section 2 will explore our design of radical democratic education and will set out 10 principles that provide its core features, offering concrete examples or cases that ground and extend our advocacy and capture something of its animating intellectual and existential energy. Integral to our argument will be the democratic necessity of a 'common school'. At the heart of Section 3 lie questions, not just of sustainability, but of strategic leverage and emancipatory development. Here we draw heavily on Erik Olin Wright (waystations) and Roberto Mangabeira Unger (democratic experimentalism) and further develop an account of prefigurative practice that has educational resonance and wider generic significance.

Proposal #2. Envisioning Education Justice, by Harry Brighouse, University of Wisconsin.

Developing a real utopian design for education faces two barriers. First, how educational opportunities should be distributed depends partly on whether, and in what ways, the surrounding society is just or not. Second, within different unjust countries, even contemporary wealthy democracies, the educational infrastructures are quite different and face different problems. I shall argue for the urgency of a principle that public educational resources be distributed to the long-run benefit of the least advantaged, and shall make proposals designed for US and the UK, under the assumption that the surrounding societies will not enjoy radical improvements. The proposals address three features of the educational infrastructure: how resources are distributed among schools, how schools should interact with other agencies, and what governance and accountability systems might create a more ideal system. 286. Thematic Session. Alternative Communities for the Aging

Colorado Convention Center, Room 304, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Natalia Sarkisian, Boston College

Intergenerational Caring Communities: From Neighborhoods to Institutions. Meika E. Loe, Colgate University

Who is this Community for? Gender, Race, and Class in the Senior Co-housing Movement. Jade Aguilar, Willamette University

Population aging is a key process affecting countries across the globe, and it will continue reshaping the way human societies are organized in the foreseeable future. Any utopian vision, therefore, should address issues of aging. As societies age, long-term care issues are expected to become more and more pressing. Historically, family care for the elderly and the institutional care in the form of nursing homes have been the two most prevalent models of long-term care for the elderly. Recently, however, movements such as "aging at place" and "intentional communities" for aging have been reshaping the landscape of care alternatives available to aging individuals. This session will discuss utopian visions for alternative communities of aging while considering issues of cost and quality of care, effects of economic inequality, and concerns about the well-being and preferences of older individuals.

287. Thematic Session. Alternatives to Contemporary Agro-Food Systems and Their Transformation

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial H, Third Floor

Session Organizer and Presider: Isidor Wallimann, Syracuse University; Social Economy Association; Social Economy Network Cooperative; and Urban Agriculture Association
 Parallels of Concentrated Food and Concentrated Power: Possible Alternatives and Transformations. Kimberly Johnson, Syracuse University

Who Will Do the Work? The Labor Question in the Transformation of the American Agro-food System. Stuart L. Shafer, Johnson County Community College

Towards a More Socially and Environmentally Sustainable Form of Animal Agriculture. Geoffrey Evans and Chetana Mirle, Humane Society International

The Role of Forests and Agroforestry in Food Production Systems and Their Transformations. Gary Bentrup and Andy Mason, U.S. Forest Service

Discussant: Isidor Wallimann, Syracuse University; Social Economy Association; Social Economy Network Cooperative; and Urban Agriculture Association

This session touches upon all salient aspects of agro-food systems and their transformation: • The transformation of a nutritional pattern heavily based on foods produced by concentrated capital, • the transition toward organic agriculture based on a new agricultural labor force, • the downscaling and transformation of meat production for social and ecological sustainability (along the question of how much meat production is appropriate for the planet and its population), • the transformation of forest management and the relevance and contribution of forests to agriculture and food production systems. As indicated by the title, the problem posed is an interdisciplinary one. Accordingly, each of the contributions selected will be interdisciplinary in nature.

288. Thematic Session. Fair Trade: Institutionalizing Real Utopias in Global Commodity Networks

Colorado Convention Center, Room 201, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Laura T. Reynolds, Colorado State University

Panel: Michael Conroy, Colibri Consulting, Inc.

Rodney North, Equal Exchange

Fair trade efforts pursue a utopian vision of eliminating North South inequalities via the creation of alternative commodity networks which link marginalized producers in the global South with progressive consumers in the global North. These initiatives seek to alleviate poverty and empower producers in the global South by creating more equitable commodity relations and solidarity ties. In the global North, Fair trade seeks to bolster more socially and ecologically responsible practices among businesses and consumers. This panel explores how Fair Trade seeks to embed relational and civic values in economic practices and institutions and how this initiative has engaged alternative businesses, transnational advocacy networks, and political consumers. Fair trade's recent popularity has heightened inherent contradictions between movement and market forces pointing to key lessons in creating real utopias.

289. Author Meets Critics Session. The Cosmopolitan Canopy (WW Norton, 2011) by Elijah Anderson

290. Professional Development Workshop. Telling Sociological Stories, Writing for Contexts and Beyond

Colorado Convention Center, Room 206, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Arlene J. Stein, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers

Co-Leader: Jodi O'Brien, Seattle University

We'll provide some basic pointers to those who would like to write "public sociology" of the sort that Contexts publishes, and also reflect more broadly on ways of bridging the worlds of journalism and sociology. If possible, before the workshop please take a look at Contexts' submission guidelines, available on the web. If you have specific article ideas, and would like to discuss them with us, we will have an opportunity to do that at the end of the workshop.

291. Policy and Research Workshop. New Ethical Challenges in Qualitative Research (sponsored by the Committee on Professional Ethics)

Session Organizer and Leader: Kathleen M. Blee, University of Pittsburgh

Co-Leaders: Ashley Currier, University of Cincinnati

Bernadette Barton, Morehead State University

Rachel L. Einwohner, Purdue University

Gloria Gonzalez-Lopez, University of Texas-Austin

Melissa Lynne Swauger, Indiana University-Pennsylvania

Leila J. Rupp and Verta A. Taylor, University of California-Santa Barbara

This session is co-moderated by the co-editors and contributors to the September 2011 special issue of Qualitative Sociology on Ethics Beyond the IRB: Kathleen Blee, Ashley Currier, Bernadette Barton, Rachel Einwohner, Gloria González-López, Melissa Swauger, Leila Rupp, and Verta Taylor. They will discuss new frontiers in how qualitative scholars consider the vulnerability and risk they create for those they study as well as issues of responsibility and accountability on the part of scholars, especially those that are beyond the purview of current institutional research boards. There will be ample time for discussion and questions about how scholars can develop and use ethical frameworks in qualitative studies.

292. Teaching Workshop. Wikipedia and Academia - Friends At Last? Using Wikipedia as an Innovative Teaching Tool

Colorado Convention Center, Room 112, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Annie L. Lin, Wikimedia Foundation

The Wikimedia Foundation, the non-profit organization that supports Wikipedia, is partnering with university professors in the United States, Canada, India, and Egypt for the Wikipedia Education Program. Professors assign their students to write Wikipedia articles as part of the coursework, supported by various in-person and online help resources. Project evaluation results have shown that Wikipedia as a teaching tool has a huge impact on the scholarship of teaching and learning at the university level - students gain skills in expository writing, research, collaboration, wiki technology, source evaluation, and critical thinking, and are also more motivated to do the assignment because their work is "authentic" and reaches a global audience. In this workshop, we will present the research work from surveys and interviews with participating faculty members, students, and volunteers regarding their experiences using Wikipedia in the classroom. We will also engage workshop participants in brainstorming how Wikipedia can potentially be incorporated into their specific classes, and address common challenges in Wikipedia-editing assignments. This workshop will be interactive and hands-on.

322. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Democratizing Finance

Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial H, Third Floor

- Session Organizer: Fred Block, University of California-Davis
- Presider: Nitsan Chorev, Brown University
- Proposal Author: Fred Block, University of California-Davis
- Discussant: Greta R. Krippner, University of Michigan

The Bush-Obama rescue of major financial institutions in 2008-2009 aptly demonstrated the extraordinarily privileged role of the financial sector in contemporary societies. These institutions are "too big to fail"; their managers and owners receive compensation at unprecedented magnitudes, and their decisions as to how to allocate credit among diverse claimants have huge consequences. As we see in the ongoing battles over government spending around the world, finance is now the antithesis of democracy—at times forcing governments to reverse commitments arrived at through democratic deliberations. But there are powerful structural reasons why a reversal that subordinates finance to democratic politics is both feasible and economically advantageous. To be sure, any reasonable mechanism for allocating credit requires technical skills and expertise, but the criteria of creditworthiness are historically variable and can be socially redefined. This paper will suggest alternative criteria of creditworthiness and sketch an institutional design that would allocate credit in ways consistent with the deepening of democracy. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

 323. Real Utopia Proposal Session. The Public University as a Real Utopia

Session Organizer: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley

Presider: Michael Fielding, University of London

Proposal Author: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley

Discussant: Michael D. Kennedy, Brown University

The University is in crisis in almost all places across the planet. The ideals of academic freedom and university autonomy are under threat from two sets of inter-connected pressures – regulation through audit and marketization through commodification. In the face of these twin forces that often work in concert, we need to reformulate the meaning of the public university that is accountable to publics in civil society and not just to states and markets. I develop a model that recognizes four functions of the university – professional, policy, critical and public – based on two questions: “Knowledge for whom?” and “Knowledge for what?”. I examine the internal contradictions of such a model and then show how it works itself out in different national contexts with a view to providing a vision of what a public university could be. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

Transnational neoliberal capitalism, in its globalized moment of triumphalism, created more wealth in the past few decades, than in all of human history-its derivative market was worth 600 trillion dollars, 6 times the GNP of the world. But as an economic system based on contradiction, it has also led to great adversities, from huge disparities of wealth and retrenchments of social programs to environmental despoliation and climatic change that threatens the viability of the planet. In response to these contradictions, throughout the world a vast number of popular social movements, NGOs and INGOs have emerged to organize, mobilize and resist. Aided by the very same communication/transportation technologies that enable globalization, these movements have become internetworked to foster various alliances throughout the world. These factors have led to the World Social Forum, a time and place where over 150,000 representatives of these movements gather, exchange views and formulate strategies-and most importantly, embrace a utopian vision that “Another world is possible.”

Enhancing Skills for Future Care Planning: Benefits for Caregiving and for Caregetting during the Final Years of Life. Eva Kahana, Case Western Reserve University; Boaz Kahana, Cleveland State University; Jeffrey Steven Kahana, Mount Saint Mary College

This session will provide an overview of some of the main obstacles to equitable and compassionate care for the elderly, focusing on vision for the kind of care-giving system that embodies our ideals. The presentation will outline principles for comprehensive, and compassionate care, and the institutional transformations that would be required to pursue these ideals. The session will consider institutions and practices that incorporate some of these principles.

One of the most compelling advances facilitated by new information and communication technologies (ICTs) in the 21st century is the emergence of peer-to-peer (P2P) communities and collaborative production systems, also known as “open source” productions (or “open content”). P2P systems enable the free and open creation, alteration and distribution of goods, services, and communication via the contributions from vast numbers of geographically distributed and uncoordinated actors (Open Source Initiative 2005). Such technology enables critical masses of users to create open systems for collaboration and participation on a vast scale. Are P2P communities “real” Utopias? That is, do P2P communities create and alternative institutional environment with real emancipatory potential? If so how do they do it? And what are the implications for “real” social actors? This panel will explore the underlying causes and consequences of P2P collaborative systems by examining, for example, the interaction mechanisms that facilitate cooperation and collaboration, the institutional and governance mechanisms that support (or hinder) collaborative production, the extent of democratic participation (real and potential) in P2P systems, and finally the limitations of, and/or inequalities that may exist in, P2P systems.

329. Departmental Management and Leadership Workshop. Improving Student Retention and Completion: Lessons from Research and Evaluation

Session Organizer and Leader: James G. Hougland, University of Kentucky

Panel: Cathy Brawner, Research Triangle Educational Consultants

Michelle Madsen Camacho, University of San Diego

Meghan Marie Harte, Rollins College

Laurie M. Joyner, Rollins College

Catherine Mobley, Clemson University

The workshop uses research findings from three projects to shed light on strategies for improving student retention and completion. The programs include AMSTEMM, an initiative to recruit and retain Appalachian and minority students in STEM disciplines at the University of Kentucky, the MIDFIELD Project on Engineering Students, which examines experiences of students at eleven universities, and an initiative by Rollins College to become a more student-centered institution and to increase its freshman retention rate. Presentations on the three initiatives will highlight efforts to provide social and academic support to students whose backgrounds have introduced obstacles to higher education, influences of race and gender on academic success, the structure of first-year experiences, the role of enrollment management strategies in encouraging retention, and the success of key interventions with troubled students. Results from quantitative and qualitative analyses as well as challenges associated with collecting useful data will be addressed. Participants will be encouraged to share ideas and issues from programs with which they are familiar.

330. Professional Development Workshop. Proactive Survival Strategies for Graduate School

Session Organizer and Leader: Ilana Demantas, University of Kansas

Co-Leaders: Carrie L. Wendel-Hummell, University of Kansas

Laurie Petty, University of Kansas

Jill Ellen Sanderson, Northern Illinois University

Jesse Rose Klein, Florida State University

Are you in Graduate School? Are you thinking of going to Graduate School? Do you advise students who are either in Graduate School or who want to go to Graduate School? If you answered yes to any of the above questions, then this professional workshop is for you! Come and learn about the academy from a graduate student perspective. In this professional workshop on the "survival strategies in Graduate School," five students from various institutions at different stages of their careers will share their personal experience and discuss skills that have helped them achieve a variety of academic milestones such as being admitted to Graduate School, finishing a Thesis Paper, completing Comprehensive Exams and successfully defending their Dissertation Proposal. We will also discuss teaching strategies as a graduate student and the specific dilemmas of combining work and family. The session will end with a Q&A to give the audience an ability to ask questions, share information and learn from each other.

331. Policy and Research Workshop. Modeling Emergence: Computer Simulation in Sociology

Colorado Convention Center, Room 112, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: James A. Kitts, Columbia University

The social world that we observe reflects a web of interdependent processes, with macro-level structures of organizations, communities, and societies both emerging from and constraining the micro-level interactions of individuals. An explosion of recent work has used computer simulation to consider such complex social dynamics. Basic researchers aim to elucidate, extend, integrate, and validate social theory by conducting 'computational experiments' in artificial worlds that operate according to the theory. Policy analysts conduct experiments on artificial worlds to predict outcomes of policy choices in complex and interactive domains. This proliferation of simulation work has generated great interest in computer modeling methods, but few Sociology departments presently offer training in this area. This 90-minute session will allow attendees to understand some of the goals and methods of sociological simulation and point them to resources to begin using these tools in their own work.

332. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Statistics in the Twenty-first Century: Regression for Undergraduates

Colorado Convention Center, Room 206, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Salvatore J. Babones, University of Sydney

Today's standard curriculum in social statistics is largely identical to the one that Hubert M. Blalock set out fifty years ago in his hugely influential Social Statistics. Fifty years on, most of us still cover at least 15 of the first 16 topics of his book. This is remarkable for two reasons. First Blalock's decisions about what topics to include in Social Statistics were driven largely by the challenge of doing calculations by hand. Today, of course, ease of calculation is simply not an issue. Second, and more important, the discipline has changed enormously over the past fifty years. Today's journal articles are packed full of regression, regression, regression. Yet in our courses we leave regression for last – if we get to it at all. In this seminar, participants will learn techniques for incorporating regression into the social statistics curriculum from the middle of the semester through to the end. Statistical models like t-tests (one-sample, independent-samples, paired-samples), ANOVA, and correlation are all forms of regression models. Students can easily use regression procedures to estimate them. That way, when they finally do get to regression it is something they are ready for, not just another statistical trick they have to learn. Also by integrating regression throughout the curriculum the total number of procedures students must master is reduced substantially. Most of the curriculum can be taught with just two: frequencies and regression. The seminar will conclude with a five-minute outline demonstration of a 21st Century undergraduate statistics curriculum using only the frequencies and regression dialog boxes in SPSS.

359. Plenary Session. Sustainability
Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial D-E, Third Level
 Session Organizer and Presider: Erik Olin Wright, University of Wisconsin-Madison
 Panel: Paul Ehrlich, Stanford University
Harriet Friedmann, University of Toronto
 Few problems pose a bigger challenge to contemporary capitalist societies than environmental sustainability. Global warming looms as potentially catastrophic, and there are good arguments that capitalism as a political-economic system is not only incapable of effectively dealing with this impending crisis, but is itself one of the core causal processes generating the problem. Yet, there is relatively little public discussion of rigorously argued real-utopian institutional designs for dealing effectively with climate change and other aspects of environmental sustainability. This will be the theme of the third plenary.

360. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Post-fossil

Conversion and Free Public Transport

Session Organizer: Mario Candeias, Rose-Luxemburg
Foundation

Presider: Magali Sarfatti-Larson, Temple University

Proposal Author: Mario Candeias, Rose-Luxemburg
Foundation

Discussant: Lian Hurst Mann, The Labour Community Strategy Center

The crisis seems to be over. Car sales jump record highs. Car manufacturers achieve to double production and boost exports. And the rising competitors from China and India have the same goals. Notorious overcapacities are not reduced, while competition is increased. Global players like Daimler or VW are successful in this global game of crowding out, but at 'home' all are reducing employment or transforming regular jobs into precarious ones. Of course all manufacturers want to go green now - with the electric car. The idea is a technological solution without changing the business plan or the social mode of individual mobility. Does this really solve the problems? If countries like China or India catch up on a similar level of automobilisation the climate will collapse - even when 10 percent of the cars would be e-cars. Meanwhile megacities like Mumbai, Shanghai or Istanbul experience daily traffic infarct. Nothing is changed concerning the problems and structures of individual mobility, of the high amount of dead and injured in traffic, the fast rising traffic concentration, the sealing of soil, the increasing use of rare and often highly toxic resources like Lithium. So what could be a strategy for a socio-ecological conversion? What are entry projects for alternatives of a postfossil and public mobility? What problems and contradictions do we have to face? This session will presents concepts and struggles for ecological conversion of the car industry, and a just transition to free public transport, combining interstitial, symbiotic and ruptural strategies. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

361. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Productive Democracy

Session Organizer: Joel Rogers, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Presider: Fred Block, University of California-Davis

Proposal Author: Joel Rogers, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Discussant: Claus Offe, Hertie School of Governance-Germany

Democratic egalitarianism need not be defeated by internationalization, environmental catastrophe, present lack of confidence in government, or decay of the social base of traditional social democracy. But it does require different institutions. Productive democracy, an alternative to both neoliberalism and traditional social democracy, would focus on those that encouraged wide contribution to developing the total factor productivity (including human, physical, and natural capital) of well-organized places, with shared local capture of its benefits. These places would compete on the dynamic efficiency of their governing institutions and public goods, and cooperate on joint gains to same. Governing institutions would be designed for resilience (i.e., learning and adaptive capacity) and enlistment of free citizen contribution to this project, which requires sustained and cooperative experiment and problem-solving. Practical material equality would be achieved by cost-reducing public goods, asset equalization ("property owning democracy"), and transfers and insurance tied closely to society-wide productivity. Within places, the social contract between governing institutions and citizens — preparation for social contribution, expectation of its provision — would rest on the traditional radical democratic conviction that, given fair terms, ordinary people are both able and willing to govern themselves and contribute to a society (and global order) fit to live in. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

362. Thematic Session. Assessing the Impact of Social Networking and Mobile Internet Access

Colorado Convention Center, Room 302, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Barry Wellman, University of Toronto

Panel: Barry Wellman, University of Toronto

Keith N. Hampton, University of Pennsylvania

Zeynep Tufekci, University of Maryland-Baltimore County

Joel Levine, Dartmouth College

This panel examines the convergences of three developments:

1) social networking technology; 2) internet access, and 3) mobile accessibility. Wellman refers to this convergence as The Triple Revolution. The session will examine the potential positive and negative consequences of these changes, drawing on survey, interview and ethnographic research. Barry Wellman shows how communities are flourishing as networks; Keith Hampton links online and offline connectivity and civic involvement; Zeynep Tufekci applies these insights to the ongoing Middle Eastern sociopolitical movements; Joel Levine demonstrates the need and usefulness of new relational methods.

363. Thematic Session. Democratizing Global Governance (i.e. UN)

Colorado Convention Center, Room 303, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Christopher Chase-Dunn, University of California-Riverside

The Arab Spring and Global Democracy. Valentine M. Moghadam, Northeastern University

Constructing Counter-hegemonic Politics: Movements, States, and the Art of Linking Levels. Peter B. Evans, University of California-Berkeley

Alternative Postcapitalist Futures. Boaventura Santos, University of Colimbra-Portugal

Presented papers will analyze the conceptual and empirical issues in the study of global governance and historical and contemporary efforts to democratize the global system.

364. Thematic Session. Real Utopian Sociology: Internal Structure, External Connections

Colorado Convention Center, Room 201, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Jerry A. Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania

Panel: James Moody, Duke University

Jerry A. Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania

Discussants: Karin D. Knorr Cetina, University of Chicago

Myron P. Gutmann, National Science Foundation

This session will explore both the internal structure of sociology and its connections to neighboring fields in the social sciences as well as the humanities and natural sciences.

365. Special Session. Real Utopias for Women in STEM: NSF ADVANCE Projects

Colorado Convention Center, Room 109, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Kathrin Zippel, Northeastern University

Panel: Patricia A. Roos, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers

Mary Frank Fox, Georgia Institute of Technology

Frank Dobbin, Harvard University

Universities are a revealing site for organizational changes to reduce gender inequalities in the workplace. Since 2001, NSF ADVANCE has funded Institutional Transformation (IT) projects for the advancement of women in academic science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) at more than 40 different institutions. This panel includes academics who have been researchers and change agents for this institutional advancement and will ask them to step back and reflect on their ideals, experience and insights into the key strategies used toward institutional transformation and the major issues they have encountered. Moreover, researchers who have studied organizational change projects will provide comparative perspectives across IT initiatives and other projects. The panel will not only identify important means, as well as barriers, for institutional transformation for the advancement of women in STEM fields, but also engage with ideals and vision for transformation toward a Real Utopia of gender equality in universities.

366. Author Meets Critics Session. Framed by Gender: How Gender Inequality Persists in the Modern World (Oxford University Press, 2011) by Cecilia Ridgeway

Colorado Convention Center, Room 304, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor

Critics: Linda D. Molm, University of Arizona

Maria Charles, University of California-Santa Barbara

Christine L. Williams, University of Texas-Austin

Author: Cecilia L. Ridgeway, Stanford University

367. Regional Spotlight Session. Murder and Mayhem in the American West: Education in a New Era

Colorado Convention Center, Room 105, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Timothy McGettigan, California State University-Pueblo

Panel: Ian Gomme, University of Southern Colorado

Dan Forsyth, Colorado State University-Pueblo

This session will focus on the challenges that faculty are encountering in an era of increasing hostility to scholarship, academic freedom, and intellectual standards at US universities. As resource-starved universities grow increasingly top-heavy with assessment-mad administrators, the fundamental mission of higher education (i.e., elevating the state and quality of knowledge for current and future generations of eager learners) has become a matter of secondary concern. In an information society, one would expect that universities would, more than ever, endeavor to preserve an emphasis on delivering high-quality education. However, never-ending (real and feigned) budget crises, coupled with a misguided administrative penchant for defining students as "consumers" (as well as students who wish to be infotained), has created an environment in which faculty who demand high standards and academic rigor are often viewed as "old fashioned curmudgeons." If quality, rigor and academic freedom are going to be preserved in higher education, then it will only be because faculty remain determined to draw a line in the sand and fight for such standards to the bitter end.

368. Departmental Management and Leadership Workshop. Teaching Graduate and Undergraduate Research Methods: A Multipronged Departmental Initiative

Hyatt Regency Denver, Mineral B, Third Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Sara N. Shostak, Brandeis University

Co-Leaders: David Cunningham, Brandeis University

Wendy Cadge, Brandeis University

Classes in research methods are some of the most regularly taken courses in sociology departments across the country (American Sociological Association 2001-2002). While these courses vary significantly based on the students, course formats, materials, and departmental requirements, many instructors seek to teach undergraduates the basic ideas and techniques needed to read and understand sociological research. Graduate courses, in contrast, tend to teach students how to conceptualize research questions, gather and analyze data, and move through the research process—in short, to transition from being consumers to producers of sociological knowledge. In this workshop, we consider the challenges of teaching sociological research methods and explore creative responses to these challenges. We will present our recent effort to integrate the undergraduate and graduate research methods curricula in our department. We also will review from innovative initiatives from other colleges and universities. We encourage participants to come to the Workshop ready for a lively exchange of ideas, best practices, and stories of their adventures in teaching research methods.

369. Professional Development Workshop. From Dissertation to Book

Session Organizer and Leader: Gayle A. Sulik, State University of New York-Albany

Co-Leaders: Astrid Eich-Krohm, Southern Connecticut State University

Meika E. Loe, Colgate University

Adina Nack, California Lutheran University

PhDs are often encouraged to transform their dissertations into books. Yet the audience, content, structure, writing, and voice of a dissertation (i.e., thesis) differ dramatically at times from a published book, even one that is based on the dissertation's data and arguments. In writing your dissertation, you figured out something important and explained it in a way that your advisers would understand and validate. For your book, you need to tell the story differently, with fresh insight, clarity, and a new readership in mind. This workshop will help you do that. It focuses on: (1) the crucial differences between the unpublished dissertation and the as-yet-unpublished book manuscript; (2) the intermediate stages in transforming dissertation research into a full-length manuscript; (3) some of the common barriers to this transformation and strategies writers may use to overcome them; and (4) elements of a book prospectus.

370. Policy and Research Workshop. Using the Wisconsin Longitudinal Study for Aging Research: 50 Years of Social Data and Newly Available Genetic Data

Hyatt Regency Denver, Mineral D, Third Level

Session Organizer: Carol Lynn Roan, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Leader: Pamela Herd, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Co-Leader: Jeremy Freese, Northwestern University

The Wisconsin Longitudinal Study is a sample of one in three Wisconsin high school graduates, and a selected sibling, from the class of 1957. WLS is unique among major social scientific resources for the length with which it has followed a large population-based cohort sample and that it includes siblings. Recently available DNA data can be merged with fifty years of social data. The addition of genetic data allows new analyses linking genotypic, biomedical, psychosocial, and life course outcomes in novel ways. Participants in this workshop will learn about the study's content, history, and accessibility with an additional emphasis on the use of the genetic data. The WLS has been supported by the National Institute on Aging and the data are publicly available.

371. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Race, Class, Gender, and Sexuality

Colorado Convention Center, Room 106, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Susan J. Ferguson, Grinnell

College

Over four decades have passed since the publication of Paulo Freire's Pedagogy of the Oppressed ([1970] 1992). Freire's revolutionary pedagogy was based on the belief that every human being, no matter how "ignorant" or submerged in the "culture of silence" they may be, is capable of looking at their world in a dialogical encounter with others (1992:13). Freire wanted to break down the paternalistic student-teacher relationship in order to empower students to learn from each other. In Teaching to Transgress: Education as the Practice of Freedom (1994), bell hooks builds on Freire's ideas of the need to challenge teaching authorities in order to build teaching communities. hooks argues that the goal of teaching is to teach students to transgress against sexual, racial, and social class boundaries in order to achieve the gift of freedom. Thus, teachers are not just teaching about race, gender, and social class differences, but instead, are teaching their students to critically act on their learning to challenge barriers and social inequalities in their own lives. This workshop will build on these ideas and others to examine how to construct a course on Race, Class, and Gender that not only covers the requisite content areas but also helps students to better understand social inequality in our society. Numerous curricular resources will be discussed with time allowed for participant questions.

401. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Real Utopian Foodshed Governance
Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial F, Third Level
 Session Organizer: Harriet Friedmann, University of Toronto
 President: Uriel Leviatan, Western Galilee College
 Proposal Author: Harriet Friedmann, University of Toronto
 Discussant: Neva Hassanein, University of Montana
 Carolyn Steel calls the efforts to (re)link cities with food sitopia – from the ancient Greek words sitos (food) and topos (place). Re-embedding human communities in their habitats (from watersheds to the biosphere) is beyond the ken of agencies (and ideas) organized as agriculture, health, social services, and since the 1970s, environment. Food movement praxis can be understood as territorial and institutional shifts towards foodsheds, and therefore profound reorganizations of governance. This paper takes up Steel's challenge to find "partial and attainable" ways to "scale up" growing recognition of the central role of food in society "...to the point where it affects not just our daily habits, but our socio-economic structures, cross-cultural understanding, and value systems — our very conception of what it means to dwell on Earth." Acting as facilitator of reflection, I will articulate understandings based on conversations organized for this purpose with participants the Southern Ontario Community of Food Practice, whom I acknowledge as co-creators. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

402. Thematic Session. Art's New Promise: Emancipation, Empowerment, Enlightenment, or is it just Economics?

Colorado Convention Center, Room 304, Street Level

Session Organizer and President: Karen Coleman, McMurry University
 Panel: Diane M. Grams, Tulane University
Jan Marontate, Simon Fraser University
Frederick F. Wherry, Columbia University
Patricia Shifferd, Center for the Study of Art and Community

The utopian potential of art has been harnessed today to surprisingly pragmatic ends: to strengthen a common identity in previously fragmented communities and awaken a sense of self-worth in individuals while at the same time bringing business investment and perhaps tourist and shopper dollars to revitalize the economically depressed neighborhoods in which these populations live. This panel will present case studies of several of these community revitalization projects, examining the successes and failures as well as the unintended outcomes of these efforts, which includes, significantly, emerging partnerships with the sustainable community development movement.

403. Thematic Session. High Road Capitalism

Colorado Convention Center, Room 201, Street Level

Session Organizer: Andrew Schrank, University of New Mexico
Presiders: Andrew Schrank, University of New Mexico and Josh Whitford, Columbia University

Panel: Annette Bernhardt, National Employment Law Project
Michael Piore, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Lane Kenworthy, University of Arizona

Real utopias need material foundations. What might those foundations and their institutional supports look like at a societal level? This panel brings together a number of scholars and activists who are working on policies and strategies that are designed to block the proverbial low road (e.g., by means of regulation, litigation, organization, and the like) and/or pave a higher road (e.g., by means of education, innovation, and training) that insulates workers, families, and their environments from mistreatment and abuse. In so doing, it helps to identify "accessible way stations" on the road to a more just society.

404. Thematic Session. Virtual Utopias and Dystopias (co-sponsored with Section on Communication and Information Technologies)

Colorado Convention Center, Room 302, Street Level

Session Organizers: Aneesh Aneesh, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and Ronald E. Anderson, University of Minnesota

Presider: Aneesh Aneesh, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Panel: Saskia Sassen, Columbia University

Fred Turner, Stanford University

Barry Wellman, University of Toronto

Talmadge Wright, Loyola University-Chicago

Ronald E. Anderson, University of Minnesota

Modes of collective existence have multiplied over the years. In addition to physical togetherness, social life increasingly consists of virtual interactions. This session focuses on three specific modes of virtual interaction: community (e.g., Facebook), fantasy (e.g., Second Life), and exposé (e.g., Wikileaks), all mediated by distributed networks of information and communication technologies. These virtual networks have both utopian and dystopian elements. This panel session explores the theme of virtual utopias and dystopias in the transformation of existing institutions. The session will be organized in a question-response format beginning with brief statements by participants on the theme. Panel will be asked to address such questions as: What has been learned from attempts to build virtual utopias? What virtual communities have sought utopian themes like equality, peace, social cohesion, ethics and compassion, and with what result? How do we assess virtual dystopias and their relationship with social change? How can we envision the future so that virtual utopias flourish with beneficial effects on non-virtual institutions?

405. Professional Development Workshop. Retirement: Sociologists' Experiences in Starting What's Next

Colorado Convention Center, Room 105, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Laura Kramer, Montclair State University

Panel: Martha E. Gimenez, University of Colorado

Linda Grant, University of Georgia

Edward L. Kain, Southwestern University

A panel of present and future retirees will reflect on the range of meanings of being "retired" and the variety of issues often encountered. These include (but are not limited to) economic challenges, negotiation of new kinds of relationships with colleagues, and the evolution of personal and professional identities and activities. Panel will share observations based on their own anticipations, preparations for and experiences of retirement, and particular useful resources. Workshop participants will be invited to explore their own expectations (hopes and concerns) and to contribute their own experiences and observations.

406. Policy and Research Workshop. Interdisciplinary NSF Funding Opportunities

Colorado Convention Center, Room 109, Street Level

Session Organizer: Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation

Panel: Katherine Meyer, The Ohio State University

Regina E. Werum, National Science Foundation

This session targets graduate students, faculty, and researchers who are interested in submitting proposals that take an interdisciplinary approach and/or are aimed at an interdisciplinary audience and might be suitable to a variety of programs grounded in the Social, Behavioral and Economic (SES) Directorate at NSF. This includes, but is not limited to, Science, Technology and Society (STS), Science of Organizations (SoO), Methodology, Measurement and Statistics (MMS), Law and Social Science (LSS), and Science of Innovation Science of Science and Innovation Policy (SciSIP) programs. Representatives from the National Science Foundation (NSF), its research review committees and grantees will discuss the various interdisciplinary funding opportunities at NSF, elements of a competitive proposal, and the proposal submission and review process. The format will be interactive, allowing for audience questions and participation.

407. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sociology through Utopias

Colorado Convention Center, Room 107, Street Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Howard Kurtz, Oklahoma City University

This workshop will address teaching introductory sociology through utopian thought. The instructor has taught introductory sociology for 35 years. During the workshop he will describe how to set up and conduct such a class and provide feedback and advice on teaching using utopian ideas. Theoretical rationale The idea that conceptual thought, language, and logic can be influenced by the sociological milieu out of which they arise was applied to everyday life in the 1960s by Peter L. Berger <file:///C:/wiki/Peter_L_Berger>. I was honored to be the university host to the Peter Berger for three days in 1995. Peter taught that 'Society is an objective reality and also a subjective reality'. His analysis of society as subjective reality describes the process by which an individual's conception of reality is produced by his or her interaction with social structures. Berger and others add to our understanding the element in sociological thinking that compels us to see the particular in the general and the general in the particular and to view both with a sense of skepticism. The sociologist is required time and again, by the logic of sociology to question and challenge social systems and what may be "taken for granted." in order to reveal the level of reality that lies behind our behavior. We employ skepticism in developing students understanding of the artificial nature of the realities we all create. I teach that we must all individually search for what grounds each of us in our choice of personal and social values and that social realities are arbitrary. Utopia is then an imperfect and arbitrary concept that we must attempt to define within the context of our own perceptions and misperceptions PARTICIPANT LIST: Dr. Howard A. Kurtz Dr. Kurtz is a full professor of Sociology and Justice Studies at Oklahoma City University.

7:00 am Meetings

ASA Business Meeting – Hyatt Regency Denver, Centennial A-C, Third Level

The ASA Business Meeting is an opportunity for members of the Association to discuss important issues facing the discipline and profession. Members are encouraged to attend this meeting convened by the ASA President, Erik Olin Wright.

Summary reports on the Association and its key activities this year will be given by President Erik Olin Wright, Secretary Catherine White Berheide, and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman. The meeting concludes with the traditional transfer of the gavel, marking the transition of duties from President Erik Olin Wright to incoming President Cecilia Ridgeway.

This open forum is an opportunity for members to share their insights, reactions, and suggestions. Please consult the flyer in your convention tote bag for details on the Business Meeting agenda.

As noted in the May/June issue of Footnotes and the posting of meeting information on the ASA website, members seeking to present formal resolutions should be prepared to provide background materials on the issue to be discussed. Members who missed the July 11 submission deadline may bring their resolutions and supporting background documentation to the ASA Office on the Mezzanine Level of Exhibit Hall A of the Colorado Convention Center by 3:00 pm on Sunday, August 19

429. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Designs and Dilemmas of Participatory Budgeting

Session Organizer: Gianpaolo Baiocchi, Brown University

Presider: Archon Fung, Harvard University

Proposal Author: Gianpaolo Baiocchi, Brown University

Discussant: Michael D. Kennedy, Brown University

This paper considers the travel, translation, and adoption of Participatory Budgeting (PB) as a policy instrument first originating among social movements linked to Brazil's Workers' Party in the late 1980s and then traveling along various routes to arrive in the most varied places by the late 2000s. This paper discusses institutional dilemmas (such as those related to scale and those related to interfaces with non-deliberative institutions) faced by adopters as well as recurring controversies (such as the discussion over the legitimate representatives of 'the people') in the process of its adoption. It argues that PB has the potential to both politicize as well as depoliticize claims for inclusion as well as to promote or hinder redistribution. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

430. Thematic Session. Improving America: Lessons from the Civilized World

Colorado Convention Center, Room 201, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Salvatore J. Babones, University of Sydney

Panel: Berch Berberoglu, University of Nevada-Reno

Hiroshi Ono, Texas A&M University

Robert J.S. Ross, Clark University

Anders M. Hayden, Dalhousie University

Discussant: Salvatore J. Babones, University of Sydney

This session will be used to present a cast that America has much to learn from social policies that are already in place throughout the civilized world. Simply raising the American social model to the level that prevails in the rest of the developed world would result in near-utopian changes in living standards and quality of life for the vast majority of Americans. The effect would be greater than the effects that might be achieved by more utopian proposals like basic income grants, bifurcated markets, and more participatory forms of governance. What's more, the US was a welfare state leader until the 1970s...it's not utopian to imagine that I could be a leader again. Each speaker will highlight a different aspect of the social model that the US could have—today—within its current national income levels if only had the desire.

431. Thematic Session. Sustainable Cities - A Critical Approach

Colorado Convention Center, Room 303, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Michael R. Goldman, University of Minnesota-Twin Cities

Panel: Asef Bayat, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Ananya Roy, University of California-Berkeley
Abdou Maliq Simone, University of London-Goldsmiths College

So seductive is this notion of sustainable cities that today dozens of official documents circulate exclaiming the pathway; most notable calculations and financed policies come from our universities, the World Bank, Pricewaterhousecoopers, and India's and China's equivalent of the Chamber of Commerce. What has been the effect of these 'sustainable cities' strategies, and what efforts are being made to wrest control of such ideas and make them meaningful to non-elites struggling for justice amidst rapidly changing urbanization processes? This panel will try to explicate some of the progressive urban trends occurring in the global South, in order to suggest areas of research and action relevant to making urbanism a more socially and ecologically just set of practices.

 Sociologies of Ruin and Negative Dialectics. George Steinmetz, University of Michigan

Imagine, as sociologists are wont to do, a two-by-two table with the words "Real and Unreal" on one axis, and "Utopia and Dystopia" on the other. As a counterpoint to the ASA's 2012 conference theme of Real Utopias (Cell 1), this panel explores Cells 2-4 (real and unreal dystopias and unreal utopias). Sociology is often seen as a product of and response to crisis, and many in our field have studied and theorized the real dystopias produced by capitalism, modernity, empire, and other forms of domination. Fictional utopias and dystopias, as well as cults and tropes of dystopia and apocalypse, are sources of insights into social life and social change. Finally, sociologists from Georg Simmel and Walter Benjamin to present day practitioners have considered the meaning and function of ruins, while Theodor Adorno imagined a negative dialectic as an alternative to positive dialectics of social progress. What are the relationships among these approaches, and the analyses of real utopias that are the topic of ASA 2012?

433. ASA/NSF Postdoctoral Fellowship Program Special Session. Causes and Consequences of the Great Recession: Micro Impacts

436. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Introductory Sociology for the First Time

Session Organizer and Leader: Nancy A. Greenwood, Indiana University-Kokomo

Co-Leader: Jay R. Howard, Butler University

The goal of this workshop is to assist new instructors who are teaching introductory sociology for the first time. We will provide resources from the scholarship of teaching and learning about the possible content and pedagogies for this class. We will look at introductory sociology and how it functions as a course in the undergraduate general education core and as an introduction to the major. We will also discuss best practices for course design, choosing course goals, textbook selection, syllabus construction, assessment of learning outcomes, as well as class management techniques. We will offer useful checklists and a bibliography of resources. Participants should bring questions or issues they want to discuss to the workshop.

465. Real Utopia Proposal Session. Work-family Reconciliation Policies and Gender Equality

Session Organizer: Janet Gornick, City University of New York-Graduate Center

Presider: Peter Moss, University of London

Proposal Author: Janet Gornick, City University of New York-Graduate Center

Discussant: Harry Brighouse, University of Wisconsin

In this essay, we draw on feminist welfare state scholarship to outline an institutional arrangement that would support an earner-carer society — that is, a social arrangement in which women and men engage symmetrically in paid work and unpaid caregiving and where young children have ample time with their parents. We present a blueprint for work-family reconciliation policies in three areas — paid family-leave provisions, working-time regulations, and early childhood education and care — and we identify key policy design principles. We describe and assess these work-family reconciliation policies as they operate in six European countries widely considered to be policy exemplars: Denmark, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, and France. We close with an analysis of potential barriers to achievability. Read the proposals at (www.realutopias.com)

466. Thematic Session. Contemporary LGBT Sexualities and Social Justice

Colorado Convention Center, Room 304, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Mignon R. Moore, University of California-Los Angeles

Panel: Stephen Hicks, University of Salford

Nancy Polikoff, American University

Roderick A. Ferguson, University of Minnesota

Over the past decade, lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) sexuality has often been at the center of political debates about social policy, including the recognition and status of same-sex couples, and the well-being of children of lesbian or gay parents. This session examines the tensions between the dream of a particular sense of equality across sexual identity categories, the limitations of existing federal policies, and societal/religious traditions that perpetuate cultural norms. The Panel investigate and critique the normative dimensions of sexuality and the law, identify the struggles in the creation of alternative social understandings of kinship, and challenge the parameters around which racialized and other types of frameworks structure what is considered normative. They will share their prospects for social transformation in society, as well as their suggestions for a comprehensive reconfiguration of ideologies directing the national LGBT movement.

"Big, important questions rarely have short, simple answers" (Collins 2009: 102). And the space to ask and explore questions – space "where the answers we give matter less than the questions we ask" (Collins 2009: 102) – has the potential to become emancipatory space. A sociological imagination in classrooms (Sociology classrooms or otherwise) can hold particular potential for the development of such questions. Exploring those questions with our students can also help us understand how our students experience the classroom, as well as how those experiences relate to institutional designs in which those classrooms are situated and the broader social processes shaping those designs. Sociological understanding can help us, as educators, look at the ways of knowing students encounter in the classroom. It can also help us to understand learning as a social process. This panel will offer a forum for dialogue about critical pedagogy as a practice and about how sociological questions may inform and enhance that practice. This session would encourage conversation about how sociological inquiry regarding knowledge, ways of knowing, pedagogy, and the classroom (regardless of whether that classroom is institutionally situated within Sociology) can be directed toward the creation of emancipatory spaces, where education does not simply enable students to fit in to systems of oppression but also encourages the development of critical consciousness and critical inquiry.

Discussant: Diane Vaughan, Columbia University

This panel will examine varieties of organization failure, defined broadly as how things go wrong, unanticipated negative consequences, or more specifically, "an event, activity, or circumstance, occurring in and/or produced by a formal organization, that deviates from both formal design goals and normative standards or expectations, either in fact of its occurrence or in its consequences, and produces a negative outcome."

470. Departmental Management and Leadership Workshop. Preparing for Program Review

Session Organizer and Leader: Kerry J. Strand, Hood College

Co-Leader: Theodore C. Wagenaar, Miami University

This workshop helps departments and programs prepare for a program review. By the end of the workshop, participants will: 1) have been introduced to several documents that can help them think about the assumptions and principles of program evaluation, including national guidelines for the undergraduate major found in Liberal Learning and the Sociology Major Updated (2004), 2) be familiar with resources from the ASA that can assist with the program review process, 3) have information on pre-visit activities, including what types of information an external reviewer will need before the visit, 4) know what activities to include during the visit, and 5) review how the report from an external reviewer (or site visit team) can be used to strengthen the department program. The workshop includes a question/answer session.

471. Teaching Workshop. Getting Published in TRAILS: Teaching Resources and Innovations Library for Sociology

Colorado Convention Center, Room 112, Street Level

Session Organizer: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association

Co-Leaders: Nancy A. Greenwood, Indiana University-Kokomo

Carol A. Jenkins, Glendale Community College

Session Organizer: Uriel Leviatan, Western Gallile College

Presider: William A. Gamson, Boston College

Proposal Author: Uriel Leviatan, Western Gallile College

Discussant: Zelda Gamson, University of Massachusetts

For many decades the kibbutzim in Israel aspired to embody principles of a Utopian community: members live in such community out of their free will with knowledge of other life options and the possibility to leave whenever they wish; all members of the community satisfy in a sustainable way (for the present, the near future, and for the distant future) all their needs; they maximize the expression of their human potential and live in a community of equality among the members according to their unique human needs and potentials, in solidarity, in collaboration and fraternity, and in cooperation; and the community actively uses its resources in spreading these values and characteristics into the larger society. However, starting at the end of the 90's, the kibbutzim experienced a deep economic and ideological crisis. Two major outcomes: (1) a large wave of emigration-leaving kibbutzim for other ways of life – by members, particularly the young; and (2) abandonment by most kibbutzim (and their members – those who stayed) of the basic principles of conduct, that stemmed from the kibbutz values described earlier. In this session we will explore the causal processes that undermined the kibbutz model and draw lessons for the sustainability of real utopian intentional communities.

Education. Jessica Fields, San Francisco State University

Discussant: Virginia E. Rutter, Framingham State University

Researchers routinely approach some sexual experiences as if they are "bad" for sexuality, signaling loss, stigma, and restriction. Among these experiences are aging, sexually transmitted disease, and sex education.

In this session, scholars explore how these experiences can become positive ones, both for the people inhabiting them and for those who, from the outside, can learn from experiences that might otherwise seem alienating and dangerous. In these presentations, conditions that may seem to signal the end of sexual possibility will be turned on their head. Panel will challenge the conventionally sexual dystopic, offer a "real utopia" perspective, and engage one another's proposals in a dialogue.

Discussant: Charles Kurzman, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill

Islamic utopias are often caricatured as a return to the 7th century, and Islamic movements sometimes encourage this image as a sign of their religious purity. However, social scientists have challenged this characterization for a generation, focusing on modern elements of Islamic utopian thought such as the embrace of technology, the egalitarian vision of social justice, and the emphasis on mass education, among other factors. This panel will explore debates among Islamic movements on this subject, and the record of utopianism in the actual politics of Muslim-majority countries. Themes include Islamic utopian visions regarding veiling, transnational solidarity, governance, and ecology.

The Central City conference directly led to the forming of both the American Association for the Public Opinion Research (AAPOR) and AAPOR and WAPOR are organizing this session on the origins and development survey research in the United States and around the world.

Khaya Delaine Clark, Emory University

Nicole M. Van Vooren, American Sociological Association

The American Sociological Association's Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD) provides small awards up to $7,000 for groundbreaking research initiatives and related activities such as conferences. FAD is made possible through a grant to ASA from the National Science Foundation that is matched and administered by the ASA. The NSF program officer (Patricia White) will talk about the Foundation's goals for the program and the FAD Principal Investigator (Roberta Spalter-Roth) will give an overview of the program and the grant winners. Four recent award recipients and the FAD PI will discuss the following issues: What are the chances of winning? What kinds of proposals get funded? What makes research "cutting edge" and significant for sociology as a field? How do you emphasize the scientific, social and educational impact of the proposal? How do you deal with suggestions and criticisms if you are going to revise and resubmit? The purpose of this workshop is to encourage applications, especially from scholars in the early stages of their careers and who are not necessarily in "top 10" departments. Panel will speak from their experiences and workshop participants will be encouraged to discuss proposal ideas.

505. Teaching Workshop. Creating a Course on Grant Writing for Non-profits: Adding to Undergraduates' Sociological Toolkit

Session Organizer and Leader: Kathleen Diane Piker-King, Mount Union College

Co-Leader: Susan Denning, University of Mount Union

If you are interested in increasing the marketability of your undergraduate majors, then this workshop will be of interest to you. College students and their parents are increasingly interested in majors that result in tangible skills sets that will translate into jobs upon graduation. Offering a grants and planning course coupled with the traditional research methods and statistics courses is a viable way to show potential Sociology majors the value of majoring in Sociology. This workshop will show how to introduce a grant writing and planning course into the Sociology curriculum. The workshop will cover such topics as course content, goals, readings, assignments, and guest speakers. The design of the course is unique because it combines both grant writing and grant awarding within the context of actual work with community partners from the surrounding area.

535. Real Utopia Proposal Session. From Transparent State to a Transparent Society

Session Organizer: Archon Fung, Harvard University
 President: Gianpaolo Baiocchi, Brown University
 Proposal Author: Archon Fung, Harvard University
 Discussant: Joel Rogers, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Large organizations in society — especially corporations but also governments and civic organizations — should be more transparent than they currently are. A transparent society is one in which large organizations reveal much more information about their decisions, operations, actions, and outputs. Such organizational transparency would complement traditional legal and regulatory state efforts to regulate the externalities that such large organizations produce. The first contribution of a more thorough-going transparency is to better enable individuals to protect themselves against risks that they incur when they interact with large organizations by, for example, receiving a mortgage, buying a car, going to a hospital, or eating sprouts. Transparency would enable individuals to better assess the risks they face and make choices accordingly. Second, and more significantly, such transparency would enable a kind of social regulation that would normative, political, and financial pressure on organizations that appear to violate standards of social responsibility. Imagine, for example, widespread identification and vilification of the banks with the lowest mortgage work-out and highest foreclosure rates, the food manufacturers and restaurants with the worst hygienic practices, and health insurance companies with the highest claim denial rates.

While consumer culture has long been marketed as the ultimate utopia, scholars have long been dubious of its utopian claims. Increasingly, grassroots challenges to consumer culture are emanating from both the sustainability and therapeutic movements, and they are successfully vying for people's attention and energy. In this session we consider cutting-edge consumption practices that are developing outside of and largely in opposition to market-based lifestyles. Presenters will discuss three cases. The first is the Haute Vallée de L'Aude region in France, which has developed a counter-hegemonic lifestyle of time-wealth, self-provisioning of consumer goods, barter and mutual aid. The second is the recent growth of what has been termed collaborative consumption, that is, internet-enabled alternatives such as sharing, bartering, time-banking and secondary exchange. The third case considers the central emotional, or therapeutic dimensions of consumer culture and the consumer practices that have developed in response to the market-driven utopias of happiness. A theme that runs through the three cases is the need to replace the dominant consumer-topia with authentic, sustainable, and imaginative alternatives to consumer cultures.

537. Thematic Session. Religion and Utopia: A Contradiction in Terms?

Colorado Convention Center, Room 302, Street Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Orit Avishai, Fordham University

Panel: Rachel A. Rinaldo, University of Virginia

Robert V. Robinson, Indiana University

Craig Calhoun, Social Science Research Council

Discussant: Orit Avishai, Fordham University

This year's theme, we envision Real Utopias not as fantasy worlds in which individuals and communities are emancipated from unjust and inequitable institutional arrangements but as viable, achievable, and possible futures. What is the role of religion in these futures? Utopia, as it is commonly understood in the context of emancipatory social science and progressive and radical movements, is a secular concept predicated on the liberation from coercive and limiting institutional arrangements. While religious traditions often share progressive and radical critiques of existing social arrangements and institutions, their visions of the good life and of human flourishing—and hence their Utopian alternatives—often stand in stark opposition to secular Utopian visions. Do Real Utopias, then, preclude religion? And if so, given the centrality of religion, including politicized and conservative religious movements in the United States and around the world, are Real Utopias possible?

538. Thematic Session. Worker-owned Cooperatives: Transformative Possibilities and Constraints

Colorado Convention Center, Room 304, Street Level

Session Organizers: Ramon Flecha and Marta Soler, University

University of Barcelona

Caja Laboral Popular (Cooperative Bank): Institutionalizing
the Mondragon Cooperatives Network. Iñaki Santa Cruz, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona

The Cleveland Evergreen Project: Success and Challenges. *James
Anderson*, Evergreen Laundry

The success of the Mondragon Corporation suggests that worker-owned cooperatives may provide a model for transformation within capitalism. While efficiency is associated with traditional capitalist companies, worker-owned cooperatives are typically perceived as sacrificing competitiveness and expansion for the sake of equity and democracy. By means of three case studies, this session will explore how successful worker-owned cooperatives may move beyond this dilemma. Two studies focus on Mondragon, the foremost business group in the Basque region of Spain, and the seventh largest business group in Spain, and a third study on Evergreen, an attempt to replicate Mondragon in the American context. The case studies will address the transformative possibilities of successful worker-owned cooperatives, the constraints faced by cooperatives, and the institutional innovations that have facilitated their expansion (e.g. institutionalized cooperative networks, anchor institutions). The papers will also explore the transferability of these institutional innovations to other contexts.

539. Special Session. Changing Japanese Society and the Possibility for New Dynamics under Globalization and the Resilience Process after March 11 Disaster

Discussants: Mary C. Brinton, Harvard University and *Jeffrey
Broadbent*, University of Minnesota

How can we expand the cultural and social diversity of Japanese society, especially focusing on the resilience process after the disaster on March 11, 2011? A lack of some kind of "patch-work heritage" has been considered Japanese society's weakness for many years. However the expansion of sociocultural diversity is a great challenge for Japanese society in this age of globalization and the resilience process. From sociological points of view and comparative eyes with the United States and other East Asian societies, how can we find the new possibility of diversity and dynamics among various fields of society, social stratification, job opportunities for youth and foreign immigrants, family and gender relationship, urban city, social movements, civil society organizations and energy policy.

540. Policy and Research Workshop. Attaining Funding for Dissertation Fieldwork Abroad: Trends and Tips

541. Teaching Workshop. Writing Intensive Courses in Sociology

Session Organizer and Leader: Diane Pike, Augsburg College

Co-Leaders: Anne Frances Eisenberg, State University of New York-Geneseo

Darlaine C. Gardetto, St. Louis Community College

Jan Buhmann, Illinois College

The centrality of critical thinking and effective writing skills to the development of the sociological imagination means that careful attention to writing intensive courses is essential in most of our programs. The purpose of this workshop is to help good sociology teachers be good teachers of writing sociology. Through discussion, sharing of expertise, and writing assignment activities, we will focus on writing intensive course goals, processes and strategies, dealing with institutional writing criteria, and issues of writing at the appropriate course level.

Informational Poster Session 248Research Funding Opportunities and Data Resources*Organizers: Nicole Van Vooren, American Sociological Association*Saturday, August 18, 2012, 1:00 – 4:00 pm*Colorado Convention Center, ASA Exhibit Hall, Exhibit Hall A, Upper Level

This poster/exhibit session provides a unique occasion to meet representatives of major research funding institutions and principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale datasets that are publicly available for use. Each display by a funding institution provides a visual overview of research funding and the application process, materials for distribution, and time for direct individual discussion. Data resource representatives are available to talk about the featured datasets, their analytic potential, and issues relating to access and use, including state-of-the-art Internet services to access datasets. This is an opportunity for meeting attendees to learn about these datasets and their potential for research and teaching. All meeting participants, including students, are encouraged to attend.

1. Fellowship Support for Sociologists American Sociological Association

Presenter(s): Roberta Spalter-Roth, Nicole Van Vooren, Olga Mayorova; 1430 K St. NW Suite 600, Washington, DC, 20005; phone: 202-383-9005; fax: 202-638-0882; email: research@asanet.org; webpage: www.asanet.org

The American Sociological Association (ASA) provides funding to its members through several small awards and fellowship programs. These include the Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline small awards program, Teaching Endowment grants, and the Spivack fellowship program for applied and policy research.

The ASA and the National Science Foundation jointly support the Fund for the Advancement for the Discipline (FAD). The goal of FAD is to nurture the development of scientific knowledge by funding ground breaking research initiatives and other scientific research activities. FAD provides support (up to $7,000) for substantive and methodological breakthroughs that can advance knowledge and lead to the acquisition of additional research funds. Awards are limited to individuals with PhD degrees or the equivalent.

ASA provides awards (up to $2,000) through its Howerly Teaching Enhancement Grants Program to support projects that extend the quality of teaching in the United States and Canada. Individuals, departments, and a program or committee of a state or regional association are eligible to apply.

Through its Sydney S. Spivack Program in Applied Social Research and Social Policy, ASA supports a Congressional Fellowship and Community Action Research Fellowships. The ASA Congressional Fellowship provides PhD level sociologists with in-depth experience as a staff member of a Congressional Committee or in a Congressional Office or agency. The Community Action Research Fellowships provide support up to $2,500 for sociological work with community organizations, local public interest groups, or community action projects.

2. Minority Affairs Program American Sociological Association

Presenter(s): Jean Shin, Beth Floyd; 1430 K St. NW Suite 600, Washington, DC 20005; phone: 202-383-9005; fax: 202-638-0882; email: minority.affairs@asanet.org; webpage: www.asanet.org

The ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) has existed since 1974 and has supported nearly 500 sociologists of color during this time span. MFP is supported by significant annual contributions from Sociologists for Women in Society, Alpha Kappa Delta, and the Midwest Sociological Society, along with the Association of Black Sociologists, the Southwestern Sociological Association, and numerous individual ASA members. Applicants can be new or continuing graduate students of sociology, who are enrolled in a program that grants the Ph.D. Applications may be for study in any sub-area or specialty in sociology. Applicants must be members of an underrepresented racial/ethnic minority group in the U.S. (e.g. Blacks/African-Americans, Hispanics/Latinos, Asians or Pacific Islanders, or American Indians/Alaska Natives). Applicants must also be U.S. citizens, non-citizen nationals of the U.S., or have been lawfully admitted to the U.S. for permanent residence. Application deadline is January 31st; notifications are made by April 30th. Fellowship is awarded for 12 months. Tuition and fees are arranged with the home department. Fellows are selected each year by the MFP Advisory Panel, a rotating, appointed group of senior scholars in sociology.

3. Sociology Program National Science Foundation

Presenter(s): Patricia White, Regina Werum, Katherine Meyer; 4201 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, VA 22230; phone: 703-292-8762; fax: 703-292-9195; email: pwhite@nsf.gov; webpage: www.nsf.gov/funding/pgm_summ.jsp?pims_id=5369&org=SES&from=home

The Sociology Program at the National Science Foundation (NSF) supports basic research on all forms of human social organization -- societies, institutions, groups and demography -- and processes of individual and institutional change. The Program encourages theoretically focused empirical investigations aimed at improving the explanation of fundamental social processes. Included is research on organizations and organizational behavior, population dynamics, social movements, social groups, labor force participation, stratification and mobility, family, social networks, socialization, gender roles, and the sociology of science and technology. The Program supports both original data collections and secondary data analysis that use the full range of quantitative and qualitative methodological tools. Theoretically grounded projects that offer methodological innovations and improvements for data collection and analysis are also welcomed. The Sociology Program also funds doctoral dissertation research to defray direct costs associated with conducting research, for example, dataset acquisition, additional statistical or methodological training, meeting with scholars associated with original datasets, and fieldwork away from the student's home campus.

The Program resides in NSF's Division of Social and Economic Sciences. The Division supports disciplinary and interdisciplinary research, data collection, and studies to improve measurements and methods. Its goal is to develop basic scientific knowledge of social, behavioral and economic systems, organizations and institutions, and human interaction and decision-making. It also provides support for research conferences, doctoral dissertation project, international group travel, and the development data resources and infrastructure.

4. Division of Viral Hepatitis Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Presenter(s): Deborah Holtzman, Karin Mack; 1600 Clifton Road, NE, Mailstop G-37, Atlanta, GA 30333; phone: 404-718-8555; fax: 404-718-8588; email: dxh4@cdc.gov; webpage: www.cdc.gov

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), based in Atlanta, Georgia, is the nation's lead public health agency. Its mission is to prevent and control disease, injury, and disability and to prepare for emerging health threats. CDC seeks to accomplish its mission in partnership, both domestically and globally, by monitoring health, detecting and investigating health problems, conducting research to enhance prevention, developing and advocating sound public health policies, implementing prevention strategies, promoting healthy behaviors, fostering safe and healthful environments, and providing leadership and training. The agency maintains a full research and practice agenda that includes the prevention of infectious diseases, chronic diseases, injuries, workplace hazards, birth defects, and disabilities, in addition to protection from environmental hazards such as lead and other toxic substances. CDC employs scientists from a variety of disciplines including those from the social and behavioral sciences. Each of these disciplines brings a unique perspective to the conduct of public health research and practice which significantly contributes to CDC's mission overall. Information will be available regarding job opportunities, postgraduate training, the Epidemic Intelligence Service (EIS), and funding opportunities.

5-8. National Institute of Child Health and Human Development National Institutes of Health

Presenter(s): Rebecca L. Clark, Michael Spittel, Augie Diana, Mercedes Rubio; 6100 Executive Boulevard, Room 8B07H, Bethesda, MD 20892-7510; phone: (301) 496-1174; fax: (301) 496-0962; email: rclark@mail.nih.gov; webpage: <http://www.nichd.nih.gov/about/org/cpr/dbs/index.cfm>

FUNDING FOR SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH AND TRAINING AT THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

The National Institutes of Health are a major supporter of the social and behavioral sciences, providing an estimated $3 billion in fiscal year 2007. In addition to funding both large and small research projects, NIH also funds fellowships for graduate students, post-doctoral researchers, and senior fellows, career development grants for recent Ph.D.s and more established researchers, supplements to existing research projects to promote diversity in science, center grants, and special grants to support scientific research at educational institutions that have not been major recipients of NIH funds. Substantive areas of interest are broad, and include research in the well-being of human beings across the life course; population studies/demography; the role of education, human capital, and socioeconomic status on health and well-being; physical and mental disability; substance abuse etiology, prevention, and treatment; HIV/AIDS; mental health; health disparities; nursing research; and other research on the role that behavioral and social factors play in health, health care, and well-being.

9. Division of Health Interview Statistics National Center for Health Statistics

Presenter(s): James M. Dahlhamer; 3311 Toledo Road, Hyattsville, MD 20782; phone: 301-458-4403; fax: 301-458-4035; email: nhis@cdc.gov; webpage: <http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/nhis.htm>

The National Health Interview Survey (NHIS) is a cross-sectional, multipurpose household health survey conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Conducted continuously since 1957, the NHIS is the principal source of information on the health of the civilian, non-institutionalized household population of the United States. The data are used to monitor major health trends, plan and evaluate federal health policies, track progress toward achieving national health objectives, and conduct public health and other research. The questionnaire contains core questions that remain essentially unchanged over time, plus additional items added as supplements each year to provide more in-depth coverage of core subjects and/or information on new and emerging health issues. Core questions cover major topics such as health conditions and status, health care access and utilization, limitation of activity, immunizations, health behaviors, health insurance, income resources, and sociodemographic information. Past and planned supplements include questions on children's mental health, chronic health conditions, cancer, complementary and alternative medicine, food security, and Healthy People 2010 and 2020 program objectives. Currently, the NHIS is field testing an audio computer-assisted self-interviewing (ACASI) module for collecting data on sexual identity, height and weight, mental health, sleep, alcohol consumption, and others. Public use data from the NHIS are released annually via the internet.

10. Social Explorer, Inc.

Presenter(s): Andrew A Beveridge, , , ; 50 Merriam Ave, Bronxville, NY 10708; phone: 914-337-6237; fax: 914-337-8210; email: andy@socialexplorer.com; webpage: www.socialexplorer.com

Social Explorer is a powerful online demographic research and visualization tool. It allows users to explore local and national census data from 1790 to the present. Based on decades of demographic and programming expertise, Social Explorer enables users to conduct research related to the social sciences, history, business and more with ease. (PARA) Last year over 200,000 Social Explorer users created more than 6 million maps and 200,000 reports. Social Explorer is used at most of the top 20 universities, as ranked by US News, and is in use on the campuses most of the 34 university-based population centers. It has been a go-to resource for the New York Times, with Social Explorer and its president Andrew Beveridge, Professor of Sociology at Queens College and the Graduate Center, having been cited in over 300 articles.

Whether you are a GIS master or have never used a mapping program before, Social Explorer will guide you to the data resources you need in just a few simple clicks. And when you're ready to show off your maps and reports, Social Explorer's slide show tool and Power Point downloads make it easy to impress.

Social Explorer was named an "Outstanding Reference Source" by the Reference and User Services Association (RUSA), a division of the American Library Association. Social Explorer is the only online-only research tool featured among this year's awardees.

Social Explorer and the University of Illinois at Chicago have been awarded a collaborative grant from the National Science Foundation for "Creating and Disseminating Tools to Teach with Demographic Data Maps and Materials," a project to improve undergraduate science skills.

Social Explorer comes in three editions: A Free Edition, which has a limited set of variables, maps and features; A Student Edition, which is similar to the free edition, and is licensed to Pearson Publishing for use in over two dozen Sociology texts, including the best sellers by Henslin and Macionis, and a Professional Edition with 12 times the data and more features, which is licensed to colleges, universities and other institutions. The Professional Edition is distributed by Oxford University Press On-line.

11. General Social Survey NORC/University of Chicago

Presenter(s): Tom W Smith, Jibum Kim; 1155 East 60th St., Chicago, IL 60637; phone: 773-256-6288; email: smitht@norc.uchicago.edu; webpage: <http://www3.norc.org/GSS+Website>

The National Data Program for the Social Sciences (NDPSS) is a vital component of the social-science infrastructure. The NDPSS has been described as a "national resource" a "core database" in both sociology and political science, a "gold standard," the "best data available," "the premier academic sociology survey," "the most comprehensive national monitoring of public opinion," and "the highest-quality omnibus survey done in the United States." The two major components of the NDPSS are the General Social Survey (GSS) and the International Social Survey Program. The GSS is currently conducting its 29th round since starting in 1972 and has interviewed over 55,000 respondents. The ISSP has done a cross-national survey each year since 1985 and now cover 48 countries. It has interviewed over a million respondents around the world.

12. The Pennsylvania State University - Department of Sociology The Association of Religion Data Archives

Presenter(s): Roger Finke, Jennifer M. McClure, Stephen M. Merino, Nathaniel D. Porter; 211 Oswald Tower, University Park, PA 16802; phone: 814-865-6258; fax: 814-863-7216; email: support@thearda.com; webpage: <http://www.thearda.com>

The Association of Religion Data Archives (ARDA) provides free access to the highest quality data on religion. The ARDA allows you to interactively explore American and international data using online features for generating national profiles, maps, church membership overviews, GIS mapping, QuickStats, QuickLists, denominational heritage trees, tables, charts, and other summary reports. Over 600 data files are available for online preview (including multiple years of the General Social Survey) and virtually all can be downloaded free of charge. The ARDA continues to add new features. Two of the most recent features are QuickStats for Congregations and a Bibliographic Database. In addition, the recently expanded Learning Center contains many new Learning Modules for classroom use as well as YouTube videos of different congregations, a Dictionary of Religious and Statistical terms, and other research tools. Housed in the Social Science Research Institute at the Pennsylvania State University, the ARDA is funded by the Lilly Endowment, and the John Templeton Foundation.

13. Integrated Health Interview Series Minnesota Population Center, University of Minnesota

Presenter(s): Cathy Fitch; 50 Willey Hall, 225 19th Ave. South, Minneapolis, MN 55455; phone: 612-624-5818; fax: 612-626-8375; email: ihis@pop.umn.edu; webpage: www.ihis.us

Integrated Health Interview Series (IHIS): Free Data and Documentation on a Half Century of U.S. Health Status, Health Care, and Health Behavior

The Integrated Health Interview Series (IHIS) simplifies cross-temporal analysis of population health data collected in the U.S. National Health Interview Survey (NHIS), the main source of information on the health of the U.S. population. IHIS is a Web-based system that provides integrated data and documentation covering over 12,000 sociodemographic and health-related variables from the 1960s to the present. IHIS allows researchers to create tailor-made data extracts containing the variables and years relevant to their own projects or to tabulate data online. Extensive online documentation highlights comparability issues and specifies variable availability and universes, appropriate weights, codes and frequencies, and question wording. Funded by NICHD, IHIS helps researchers make consistent comparisons across 5 decades of dramatic changes in health status, health behavior, and healthcare. IHIS data on more than 4 million persons are available for free over the Internet (at www.ihis.us) to researchers, educators, and the general public.

14. Minnesota Population Center, University of Minnesota IPUMS-CPS

Presenter(s): Julia Drew, Sarah Flood, Rob Warren, ; 225 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455; phone: 612.624.5818; fax: 612.626.8375; email: ipums@umn.edu; webpage: <http://cps.ipums.org/>

The Integrated Public Use Microdata Series of the Current Population Survey (IPUMS-CPS) is a harmonized set of individual-level data and documentation from 1962 to the present. The CPS is a monthly U.S. household survey conducted jointly by the U.S. Census Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The CPS is the primary source of information on the labor force characteristics of the civilian non-institutional U.S. population. The U.S. government uses CPS data to calculate poverty and unemployment rates. IPUMS-CPS covers topics such as race and ethnicity, education, income, occupation and industry, migration, disability, and veteran status.

In collaboration with Unicon Research Corporation, a leading disseminator of CPS data, IPUMS-CPS will expand dramatically in coming years. The IPUMS-CPS database currently contains Annual Social and Economic Supplement (ASEC) data collected in March for each year and non-March Basic Monthly Survey data from 1994-2008. We will continue to add additional Basic Monthly Survey data and Supplement data through 2016. In addition to allowing convenient access to all CPS data, IPUMS-CPS will also make the analysis of longitudinal CPS data radically easier by delivering linked files, constructing appropriate weights, and providing comprehensive documentation.

15. Minnesota Population Center, University of Minnesota

Presenter(s): Catherine Fitch, Katie Genadek, Sarah Flood, ; 225 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455; phone: 612.624.5818; fax: 612.626.8375; email: ipums@umn.edu; webpage: <http://ipums.org/>

The Minnesota Population Center (MPC) is an interdisciplinary research and training center at the University of Minnesota. MPC is the world's leading developer of harmonized historical and international census and survey data. More than 60,000 researchers worldwide have registered to use MPC-produced datasets. Our datasets include: IPUMS-USA, IPUMS-CPA, IPUMS-International, IHIS, ATUS-X, and NHGIS.

MPC data are available for free online at <http://ipums.org/>. We offer harmonized data that are coded consistently across time and place, without loss of information. Our data extract system allows researchers to specify years, variables, and places relevant to their own research. In addition to allowing researchers to access only the data they want in an easy to use format, we provide comprehensive online documentation that describes each variable, notes comparability issues, provides question wording, and displays codes and frequencies. We also have user support staff dedicated to helping users as needed with the extract system, data, and documentation.

16. Minnesota Population Center, University of Minnesota ATUS-X

Presenter(s): Sarah Flood, Sandra Hofferth; 225 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455; phone: 612.624.5818; email: atusdata@umn.edu; webpage: atusdata.org

The American Time Use Survey (ATUS) is an ongoing time diary survey funded by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics and fielded by the United States Census Bureau. Data collection began with some 20,000 interviews in 2003 and 14,000 responses have been collected each subsequent year. ATUS respondents are a nationally representative sample of persons aged 15 and older drawn from households who have concluded their participation in the Current Population Survey (CPS), the monthly labor force survey in the United States. For each activity during the day covered by the ATUS interview, respondents are asked what they were doing, where they were, and who was with them.

The ATUS Data Extract Builder (ATUS-X) is a web-based data dissemination system developed collaboratively by the University of Maryland Population Research Center and the University of Minnesota Population Center. The ATUS public use data are contained in multiple data files, some referring to the person, some to the household, and others to the individual activity. The ATUS-X eliminates the need to write programs to manipulate these separate files to produce a file that is suitable for analysis. It also simplifies the creation of time use variables broken out along multiple dimensions (e.g., time spent watching television at home in the company of one's spouse).

The ATUS-X system available at www.atusdata.org allows researchers to select study populations for data extracts; to create measures of time in user-defined activity aggregations, broken out as desired by time of day, by location, by whether the respondent was engaged in caring for children during the activity or was engaged in eating or drinking during the activity, and by the presence or absence of specified others; and, to request either a rectangular or a hierarchical data extract. Data for survey years 2003 through 2010 are available now and new data will be added as they are released. Customized downloadable datasets come with SAS, SPSS, and Stata command files, which include variable and value labels for ease of use. ATUS-X also provides researchers with accessible and comprehensive online documentation.

Presenter(s): Laura Wronski; 2 Massachusetts Avenue NE, Washington, DC 20212; phone: 202-691-7846; fax: 202-691-6426; email: wronski.laura@bls.gov; webpage: www.bls.gov/tus

The poster presented will provide data users with information on the American Time Use Survey (ATUS) and the ATUS Well-being and Leave modules. The ATUS provides nationally representative estimates of how, where, and with whom Americans age 15 and over spend their time. It is the only federal survey providing data on the full range of nonmarket activities, from childcare to volunteering. ATUS data files are used by researchers to study a broad range of issues; these data files include information collected from over 105,000 interviews conducted from 2003 to 2010. The ATUS Well-being Module, which was fielded in 2010 and is being fielded again in 2012, uses the ATUS time diary to capture how people felt during various activities; this information can be used to better understand the quality of life in the United States and to develop a measure of society's well-being. The ATUS Leave Module, which was fielded in 2011, collected information about workers' access to and use of paid and unpaid leave. This information can be used to evaluate how well the workplace supports the needs of working men and women, and how leave and leave policy affect workers' decisions about use of leave and time use. ATUS and module data files can be linked to data files from the Current Population Survey (CPS). This expands the context in which time-use data can be analyzed.

18. Wisconsin Longitudinal Study Department of Sociology University of Wisconsin - Madison

Presenter(s): Pamela Herd, Huey-Chi Vicky Chang; 1180 Observatory Drive, Madison, WI 53706; phone: 608 262-2858; fax: 608 262-8400; email: wls@ssc.wisc.edu; webpage: <http://www.ssc.wisc.edu/wlsresearch/>

The WLS is a long-term study of a random sample of 10,317 men and women who graduated from Wisconsin high schools in 1957 and of their randomly selected brothers and sisters. The WLS sample is broadly representative of white, non-Hispanic American men and women who have completed at least a high school education. Almost 85 percent of surviving graduates continue to participate in the WLS. Public data, documentation, and publications are available online. Survey data were collected from the original respondents or their parents in 1957, 1964, 1975, 1992, and 2003, and from a selected sibling in 1977, 1993, and 2004. Survey data was collected from the spouses of the graduates in 2004 and the spouses of the siblings in 2005. Data from a new wave, based on in-person interviews of both graduate and sibling respondents will be available in early 2013. Together these data provide a full record of social background, youthful aspirations, schooling, military service, family formation, labor market experiences, and social participation of the original respondents. The survey data from earlier years have been supplemented by mental ability tests (of primary respondents and 2000 of their siblings), measures of school performance, and characteristics of communities of residence, schools and colleges, employers, and industries. The WLS records for primary respondents are also linked to those of three same-sex high school friends within the study population.

Visitors to the poster session can talk to project leaders about the study, the WLS pilot grant program, the current round of data collection and the availability of genetic data.

19. Carolina Population Center University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Presenter(s): Kathleen Mullan Harris; CB# 8120, University Square, 123 West Franklin Street, Chapel Hill, NC 27516-2524; phone: (919) 966-5560; fax: (919) 966-6638; email: kathie_harris@unc.edu; webpage: <http://www.cpc.unc.edu/projects/addhealth>

The National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent Health (Add Health) is a study of a nationally representative sample of more than 20,000 individuals that began with in-school questionnaires administered to adolescents in grades 7-12 in the United States in 1994-1995. Since then, the Add Health cohort has been followed into young adulthood with four waves of in-home interviews, the most recent in 2008, when the sample was aged 24-32 years. Add Health combines longitudinal survey data on respondents' social, economic, psychological and physical well-being with contextual data on their family, neighborhood, community, school, friendships, peer groups, and romantic relationships, providing unique opportunities to study how social environments and behaviors in adolescence are linked to health and achievement outcomes in young adulthood. The expanded collection of biological data at Wave IV (2008), including anthropometric, cardiovascular, metabolic, immune function and genetic measures, provides new opportunities to examine the social, behavioral, and biological linkages in health trajectories as the Add Health cohort ages through adulthood. In this poster presentation, we provide an overview of the Add Health study design and sampling structure; discuss the various public-use and restricted-use contractual data sets available for study; and present new findings from the Wave IV data. We present descriptive data on the health status of Add Health adults aged 24-32 years, including measures based on biomarkers collected at Wave IV. Using longitudinal data, we trace health trajectories from adolescence into adulthood for key indicators such as obesity, smoking, and physical activity and show their relationship with health outcomes in adulthood measured by new biological data from Wave IV. Add Health has been funded since 1994 by a program project grant from the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, with co-funding from 23 other federal agencies and foundations. For more information, please visit the Add Health web site: <http://www.cpc.unc.edu/projects/addhealth>.

Children of the National Longitudinal Survey of Youth

The Children of the NLSY79 data set profiles the development, achievement, and ability of the children born to mothers in the National Longitudinal Surveys of Youth/79 Cohort. Started in 1986 and repeated biennially, the Child surveys are sponsored by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics with support from NICHD. The current public data release contains Child data collected over a span of 25 years, supplemented by maternal histories that date back to when the mothers were age 14-21. The ongoing Child surveys use mother report, direct assessment, and child self-report to gauge the children's health, abilities, problems, activities, attitudes, school progress, and home environment. Starting in 1994, children 15 and older are no longer assessed but interviewed as Young Adults on schooling, employment, training, family experiences, health, and attitudes. The Child/Young Adult sample ranges in age from birth to early forties and contains significant numbers of minority and economically disadvantaged respondents. More than 7,000 children and young adults were interviewed in 2010. Many constructed variables are provided in the Child-YA data file, which can be merged with any item from the longitudinal record of the NLSY79 mothers. The NLSY79 main Youth file contains histories of employment, education, income, training, health, marriage, fertility, household composition, and residence. Information is also available from the mother's interviews about her childcare practices, substance use, illegal activities, aptitude, aspirations, and attitudes. The current public release, available at no cost at <http://www.nlsinfo.org/web-investigator/>, represents 13 rounds of NLSY79 Child and Young Adult survey data as well as the complete histories of their mothers. A searchable, annotated listing of NLS research can be accessed at: <http://www.nlsbibliography.org/>. Details on the NLSY79 Child and Young Adult surveys can be found online at: <http://www.bls.gov/nls/nlsy79ch.htm>.

21. New Immigrant Survey Princeton University - Office of Population Research

Presenter(s): Monica Espinoza Higgins; 187 Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ 08544; phone: 609-258-0081; fax: 609-258-1039; email: espinoza@princeton.edu; webpage: <http://nis.princeton.edu>

The New Immigrant Survey (NIS) is a multi-cohort prospective-retrospective panel survey of new legal immigrants to the United States based on probability samples of administrative records from the U.S. Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services. Two rounds of interviewing have now been completed. A survey pilot project (NIS-P) was carried out in 1996 to test sampling procedures, questionnaire design, and tracking procedures to inform the implementation of the full NIS.

The first full cohort (NIS-2003-1) was sampled during May through November of 2003, yielding data on 8,573 Adult Sample respondents, 810 sponsor-parent ("child proxy") of the Sampled Child, 4,915 spouses, and 1,072 children aged 8-12. The baseline survey was conducted from June 2003 to June 2004. The geographic sampling design takes advantage of the natural clustering of immigrants. It includes all top 85 Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) and all top 38 counties, plus a random sample of MSAs and counties. A follow-up interview with 2003 cohort was conducted from June 2007 to October 2009 (NIS-2003-2). Round 2 instruments were designed to track changes from the baseline and also included new questions. As with the Round 1 questionnaire, questions that were used in social-demographic-migration surveys around the world as well as the major U.S. longitudinal surveys were reviewed in order to achieve comparability. Public release of NIS-2003-2 is expected end of 2012.

The NIS is a new plan for nationally representative, longitudinal studies of immigrants and their children that promises to provide new kinds of data that will help answer many of the important questions about immigration and concomitantly shed light on basic aspects of human development. The main objective is to provide a public-use database on new legal immigrants to the United States and their children that will be useful for addressing scientific and policy questions about migration behavior and the impacts of migration. The NIS content includes the following information: demographic, health and insurance, migration history, living conditions, transfers, employment history, income, assets, social networks, religion, housing environment, and child assessment tests. Interviews were conducted in the respondents' language of choice.

22. Mexican Migration Project and Latin American Migration Project Princeton University / Office of Population Research

Presenter(s): Karen A Pren; 237 Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ 08544; phone: 609-258-8155; fax: 609-258-1039; email: mmp@opr.princeton.edu & lamp@opr.princeton.edu; webpage: <http://mmp.opr.princeton.edu/> & <http://lamp.opr.princeton.edu/>

Founded in 1982, the Mexican Migration Project (MMP) has annually administered ethnosurveys to randomly sampled households in various communities in Mexico since 1987. In 1998, the Latin American Migration Project was born. For both projects, each community yields approximately 200 surveyed households in the home country, as well as 10 to 20 households of community members living in the U.S. Responses are converted to electronic format and compiled to form five unique data sets. PERS file contains socioeconomic information for each household member, including basic measures of domestic and international migration. MIG file contains detailed for each household head regarding detailed border-crossing, measures of migration experience of family of origin, extended family and friends, and the social and economic characteristics of last international trip. HOUSE file contains measures of household composition and amenities, as well as data about businesses, land, property, vehicles, and livestock. LIFE and SPOUSE files are detailed life histories of the household head and spouse; each record represents a person-year detailing information about labor force, family/household formation, and cumulative international experience. In addition, we offer the community file with measures of infrastructure, social resources, public services, labor force participation, and education. Currently, available to the public, the MMP contains 134 communities, while the LAMP include multiple communities surveyed in Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, Haiti, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Colombia, Peru, Paraguay, and recently surveyed Ecuador.

ASA Minority Fellowship Program Fellows

The following current and former MFP Fellows are participating in this year's Annual Meeting Program. ASA and the 2012 Program Committee are pleased to highlight professional activities of these fellows. The ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), in operation since 1974, has been a significant factor in recruiting minorities into Sociology. Fellows continue to make important contributions to the growth of the discipline. The Association takes great satisfaction in acknowledging this form of professional activity.

ASA Honors Program Students

The following undergraduate sociology students were accepted into the ASA Honors Program for 2012. This program requires nearly a week of participation in professional events held concurrently with the Annual Meeting. Students receive full credit for participation only after completion of the program on August 20th.

ASA and the 2012 Program Committee are pleased to highlight these students' introduction to the profession of sociology. The Honors Program has a 38-year history of involving sociology students in the ASA Annual Meeting. This year's students are wearing gold ribbons showing their Honors Program affiliation. Please welcome them to their first national meeting!

Policing Cyber Hate, Cyber Threats and Cyber Terrorism

Edited by Imran Awan and Brian Blakemore

"Contemporary threats to national security are increasingly non-physical. Those who seek to destroy our free and democratic way of life have infiltrated cyber space and they present a clear and present danger. This new title is required reading for all in authority who are charged with the responsibility of countering the cyber threat and is an important contribution to understanding this phenomenon."

Tracing Technologies

Prisoners' Views in the Era of CSI

Helena Machado and Barbara Prainsack

"Tracing Technologies offers a remarkably knowledgeable and clear account on the societal dimensions and implications of forensic and police uses of DNA analysis by two leading scholars in the field. It is the first empirical study to investigate prisoners' views on forensic technologies in the era of CSI, providing fascinating insights in a so far under-explored field of research."

Violent Protest, Contentious Politics, and the Neoliberal State

Edited by Seraphim Seferiades and Hank Johnston

THE MOBILIZATION SERIES ON SOCIAL MOVEMENTS, PROTEST, AND CULTURE

"A diverse, incisive set of essays all focused on a single theme: how collective violence arises from and impacts social change. We learn from each, but the lessons of the whole are much greater than the sum of its parts. The field of collective action moves up a large notch."

—Bert Useem, Purdue University

THE FILMS OF RICHARD BROADMAN

Regarded as an independent among independents, Richard Broadman (1946-2000) specialized in a unique brand of documentary that chronicles the American urban social experience through oral history.

MISSION HILL
OF BOSTON
b&w, 60 min, 1978

A classic 1978 film, which remains unique in presenting one neighborhood's social history set against the larger forces that reshaped a major American city. A must for courses in urban studies.

DOWN THE PROJECT:
THE CRISIS OF PUBLIC HOUSING
b&w, 60 min, 1982

In two 30-minute sections, this film presents a concise social history of a housing movement and its opponents, then examines the dilemmas of the developments these forces produced.

BROWNSVILLE
BLACK AND WHITE
color, 83 min, 2002

Explores the complex history of Brooklyn's Brownsville neighborhood as it transformed from a poor but racially harmonious area to a community made up almost entirely of people of color.

LOVE STORIES:
& ROMANCE
color, 85 min, 1987

Arranged in three sections for easy classroom use, Love Stories presents a history of America's shifting attitudes on gender roles in romance, marriage, child-rearing, and the workforce.

PSID

A national study of socioeconomics and health over lifetimes and across generations

- 37 waves of data collected on a nationally representative sample of nearly 9,000 U.S. families, allowing the study of the full life-course, including: Gen Yers and Gen Xers, Baby Boomers, Retirees
- Demographic, economic, sociological, and psychological data including fertility, marriage, birth histories, adult and childhood health conditions, poverty indicators, income, wealth, expenditures, food security, housing, mortgage distress and foreclosures
- Health and aging data, including retirement transitions, onset and duration of chronic health conditions, activities of daily living, instrumental activities of daily living, mortality, health care expenditures, pensions and wealth accumulation
- Freely accessible, web-based Data Center provides customized datasets in a variety of formats including SAS, Stata, SPSS, Excel, and Text
- Create Intergenerational datasets by linking multiple waves of PSID Data (e.g., multiple generations of family members including elderly)

Child Development Supplement and Transition into Adulthood Study

- Three waves of data on 3,500 children aged 0-12 from PSID families who were first interviewed in 1997, reinterviewed in 2002 at ages 5-18, and again in 2007 at ages 10-18
- Re-interview in 2005, 2007, 2009, 2011, and planned for 2013 and 2015 for CDS young adults aged 18 years and older during Transition into Adulthood Study
- Measures of child/adolescent cognitive, social and behavioral development, as well as details on extra-curricular activities, sports and community groups
- Rich information about family process and home environment
- Unique comprehensive national time-use information on children and youth of all ages
- Data from all waves of CDS and Transition into Adulthood 2005 - 2009, now available at the PSID website

Down to Earth Sociology

Introductory Readings, Fourteenth Edition
By James M. Henklin

This fourteenth edition of the most popular anthology in the field includes new articles on our changing world while retaining its classic must-read essays. The forty-six elections here, including work by Peter Berger, Herbert Gans, Erving Goffman, Donna Eder, Zella Luria, C. Wright Mills, Deborah Tannen, Barrie Thorne, Sidney Katz, Philip Zimbardo, and others, will continue to open new windows onto the social realities that shape our world.

Who's Afraid of Post-Blackness?

By Touré

"One of the most acutely observed accounts of what it is like to be young, black, and middle-class in America. Touré inventively draws on a range of evidence . . . for a performance carried through with unsparing honesty, in a distinctive voice that is often humorous, occasionally wary and defensive, but always intensely engaging."

—Orlando Patterson, The New York Times Book Review

Terrorists in Love

True Life Stories of Islamic Radicals

By Ken Ballen

"Ken Ballen's exhaustive research, scores of interviews, and gripping writing make Terrorists in Love a uniquely valuable — and sometimes chilling — behind-the-scenes account of the extreme beliefs that often fuel the actions of jihadist militants."

—Lee H. Hamilton, former Congressman and co-chair of the 9/11 commission

The New Kids

Big Dreams and Brave Journeys at a High School for Immigrant Teens

By Brooke Hauser

"This wonderful book connects us to the complexity, intensity, and liveliness of refugee and immigrant teenagers. Hauser is masterful at storytelling. The New Kids is a must read for anyone interested in teaching, teens, or our new America. It does what the best writing does: it increases our moral imaginations."

—Mary Pipher, author of Reviving Ophelia: Saving the Selves of Adolescent Girls

The Search for the World's Most Extraordinary Language Learners

By Michael Erard

"A fine addition to our favorite books about language. . . Captivating and illuminating, Babel No More is as much an absorbing piece of investigative voyeurism into superhuman feats as it is an intelligent invitation to visit the outer limits of our own cerebral potential."

—The Atlantic Monthly
